The soil may be polluted by decaying organic matter, whether animal or vegetable. Excremental matter of every kind causes pollution in a sanitary sense. What is poison to the animal system is food to the vegetable organism. All forms of decaying organic matter should be used to feed vegetables and not to kill men. Garbage, slops, kitchen waste, etc., should be put to their proper use, and not suffered to pollute the soil near our dwellings. Slaughter houses need looking after, and every other means of especially polluting air, water or soil.

SPECIAL SOURCES OF DANGER.

The school is the most efficient means of spreading diseases of childhood and all forms of contagious disease. Scarlet fever and diphtheria in schools; danger from children attending funerals when a contagious disease caused death.

The Sunday school or any other gathering of children may be equally active in spreading communicable diseases. Necessity of isolating the sick and those who have been exposed in order to protect the well, and to avoid breaking up schools for the time.

Danger from fire in crowded rooms, etc.—Go into your school-room and look about, and then ask yourself, what would be the result if this room were full of children and there was a sudden alarm of fire? How could they all get out safe and uninjured? Do the doors open inward? If so, imagine a cry of fire and a crowd of scared children pressing against the closed door, yet seeking egress! Look at your public halls and churches in the same way.

Is there a pond where boys go in swimming? Have them all learn to swim, or at least to tread water so as to keep the mouth and nostrils above water. Let the teacher show them how to take a drowning boy out of the water without danger of drowning others, and then show them how to treat and resuscitate one apparently drowned. Teach the boys how to do the whole thing, and encourage them to go through the entire manual of resuscitation. Go down to your railroad depot and look at the death's trap in the railroad angle of rails at the switching point. Get your foot fast in the angle and then imagine a train bearing down on you at the rate of 30 miles an hour! See how easily a wedge of wood might fill that angle and prevent all possibility of accident, and see that the wedge is put in place and kept there.

I have thus glanced at a few of the possible number of things which may require a sanitary inspection in your village. Let each householder look over his own premises and set right whatever is wrong, and thus prevent, so far as human foresight can discern, all possible sources of sickness and danger; and let the health officer complete the work so well begun.

In this onslaught on physical evil I trust Tecumseh will vindicate the chieftains name by tomahawking the skulking destroyers of life, health and happiness. Yours faithfully,

R. C. KEDZIE,
Pres't Mich. State Board of Health.

A Wonderful Discovery.

For the speedy cure of Consumption and all diseases that lead to it, such as stubborn Coughs, neglected Colds Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Asthma, pain in the side and chest, dry hacking cough, tickling in the throat, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, and all chronic or lingering diseases of the throat and lungs. Dr. King's New Discovery has no equal and has established for itself a world-wide reputation. Many leading physicians recommend and use it in their practice. The formula from which it is prepared is highly recommended by all medical journals. The clergy and the press have complimented it in the most glowing terms. Go to your druggist and get a trial bottle free of cost, or regular size for $1.00. For sale by M. Wright & Son, Tecumseh, Mich.

It is not difficult to take the part of an absent one especially at a feast.

Montreal Heard From.

R. L. Mosely, of Montreal, Canada, certified Sept. 27, 1879, that he had suffered terribly from dyspepsia, and was completely cured by taking Warner's Safe Bitters. He says: "My appetite is good, and I suffer no inconvenience from eating hearty meals." These Bitters are also a specific for all skin diseases.

A fellow can't dig clams without moving a mussel.

Feels Young Again.

"My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy, inactive condition of the whole system, headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicines did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old.—We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family."—A lady, Providence, R. I.

One Box or Six Bottles.

If you are suffering from a combination of liver or kidney diseases, and constipation, do not fail to use the celebrated Kidney-Wort. It is a dry compound as easily prepared as a cup of coffee, and in one package is as much medicine as can be bought in six dollar bottles of other kinds.

KING OF THE BLOOD.

The Most Thorough Purifier of the Blood Yet Discovered.

Cures all Humors, from a Common Eruption to the Worst Scrofula.

It purifies the Blood.
It invigorates the Liver.
It regulates the Bowels.
It strengthens the Stomach.
It gives vivacity in place of lassitude; cheerfulness in place of gloom, and robust vigor in place of debility.

Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Disordered Liver, Constipation, Nervous Affections, General Debility, in short all the numerous diseases and discomforts caused by impure blood are speedily conquered by this powerful corrector, the chief and sovereign of all ancient or modern medical discoveries—KING OF THE BLOOD.

ITS NAME IS ITS BEST DESCRIPTION as it is a royal dispenser of the blessings of health and vanquishes the foes that lurk in the blood.

It banishes PIMPLES, SALT RHEUM, SCALY ERUPTIONS, ULCERS, SCALD HEAD, FEVER SORES, and all SCROFULOUS DISORDERS.

It checks CONSUMPTION in its early stages. It has frequently cured it when advanced.

It disperses TUMORS and CANCERS without the Surgeon's knife.

It cures DROPSY, general or partial.

It cures FEMALE WEAKNESS and DISEASE.

It reduces in a safe and effectual manner all swellings, external or internal.

It eradicates the effects of Venerial Disease and Mineral Poisons, and establishes a sound constitution.

Many certificates, much further information and full directions for using, will be found in the pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," in which each bottle is enclosed.

Price $1 per bottle containing 12 ounces, or 40 to 50 doses. Sold by dealers in medicine.

If your druggist does not happen to have it on hand, request him to order a supply of it for you, as it will be cheaper than for you to order direct of us, and less trouble.

A WORKINGMAN."

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING BUREAU.

To Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Newspaper Advertising Bureau, 10 Spruce St., New York, the press and the public are indebted for most of the statistics of American Newspapers. When this firm commenced business in 1865, there was not accessible to the public, anything which approximated a complete Newspaper List. It was the custom of the advertising agencies to keep their's secret, believing that they thereby made it necessary for advertisers to consult them. In 1869, Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co. issued the first American Newspaper Directory. In the preface of that work occurred this paragraph:

"We have always believed, and labored in the belief, that, as Advertising Agents, it was and should be in our power to be of material service to both advertiser and publisher, and we know no better way to convince them of the value of our services than by issuing this book, thus enabling them to communicate without our aid; this we do in the belief that we shall thereby the sooner persuade them of the utility of employing and encouraging our Agency."

The result showed the position to be well taken. Within twelve months their firm was in receipt of a patronage larger than had ever before been accorded to an Advertising Agency.

It is a fact, frequently commented upon, that there is no other business interest of the country, the statistics of which are so thoroughly set forth and made public, as that of making Newspapers: and for this the American Newspaper Directory has the entire credit.

In 1876, at the World's Fair at Philadelphia, Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co. erected a building in which were received, filed and exhibited, late copies of every American periodical published: numbering at that time eight thousand one hundred and twenty-nine. Of this enterprise, the London Times correspondent, in the opening paragraph of his letter of July 10th of that year, writes as follows:

"I have frequently had occasion to notice the big way in which the Americans do things, and I do not know that it would be easy to find an apter illustration of it than furnished by the Newspaper Building in the Exhibition grounds."

Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co. point with satisfaction to the two years in which they incurred the greatest expense for extending to the public broad sources of information concerning the business in which they are engaged (1869, 1876), as the two in which, notwithstanding the extraordinary outlay, did actually produce for them a net income in excess of any other year's of their business career.

One of the strongest holds which this Advertising Bureau has upon the newspapers, is obtained by their system of making prompt payments for work done. Newspaper men who have commended this feature, when visiting the office in New York, have been invited to the cashier's desk and shown a conspicuous printed notice posted there, which reads:

"All bills received before twelve o'clock must be examined and paid to-day."

The Advertising Agent avers to his patron, the advertiser, that he will procure for him the lowest possible rates. His profit comes from a commission from the publisher. To take the advertisement at a reduction from usual rates, and pay the agent for securing it, is not always pleasant for the newspaper men, but the reflection "we shall surely get the money the day we send the bill," has often decided him to accept an offer far below the price he ought to have received. From those newspapers which have one price for everybody, and require everybody to pay that price, it is unnecessary to say that Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co. obtain no advantages beyond the established commission, nor do they desire any. What they want, and must have for their patrons, is the lowest price, and when they have that they are satisfied. They are quite well aware that the best papers are, as a general rule, the cheapest.

Facts vs. Theory.

In regard to the method of coloring butter. The theory is that cows when well fed and cared for will make yellow butter; the fact is that not one in ten will, except in times of flush pasture.

This is just the reason that the very best Dairymen in this country use Wells, Richardson & Co's Perfected Butter Color. We warrant it to add at least five cents per pound to the value of white butter, a return of one dollar for every cent it costs.

Indorsed by the Brooklyn Board of Health, and by the best chemists in the United States.

It is STRONGER than any Yeast Powder in the world.

It NEVER FAILS to make light bread when used as directed.

It is COMMENDED by every housekeeper who has given it a fair trial.

It is an entirely NEW INVENTION, without any of the bad qualities of soda or saleratus, yeast or other baking powders.

It has in itself a tendency to sustain and nourish the system.

Good food makes good health; and health is improved or impaired in proportion as the food we eat is nutritious or otherwise.

LEWIS' BAKING POWDER always makes good food.

One can of this is worth two of any other baking compound.

It makes bread whiter and richer.

More than half the complaints of bad flour arise from the use of common baking powders, which often make the best of flour turn out dark bread.

The most delicate persons can eat food prepared with it without injury.

Nearly every other baking powder is adulterated and is absolutely injurious.

This is made from Refined Grape Cream of Tartar, and is ABSOLUTELY PURE.

It makes the BEST, lightest, and most nutritious

ENTERED AT THE POST OFFICE AT TECUMSEH, MICHIGAN, AS SECOND CLASS MATTER.

TECUMSEH, MICH., MAR. 25, 1880.

A COUNTER BOOM.

Neighbor Smith had a private conference at his office in Tecumseh last evening, at which neighbor Brown and neighbor Jones were present by special invitation. The conference was called for the purpose of devising ways and means to counteract the effects of the Toledo & Milwaukee railroad boom, which is now acquiring such momentum in this latitude.—Neighbor Smith was called to the chair, neighbor Brown was chosen secretary, and neighbor Jones filled the responsible position of audience.

Smith is one of our leading citizens. He has been blessed with worldly success, has a goodly bank account at his command, and is the manager of one of our heaviest retail stores. Upon taking the chair he thanked the audience for the honor conferred upon him and then proceeded to state the object of the meeting.

"Brethren," said Smith, and his voice trembled with emotion, "these be troublous times. Young America is on the rampage. He has cut loose from the good old ways, and is bent on overturning the foundations of business. This Toledo & Milwaukee monster must be scotched at once, or ruin stares us in the face. What does this community want of more than one railroad? Haven't we lived and prospered with the Jackson Branch for more than thirty years? Isn't this town bigger now than any town contiguous to it? I have now a handsame retail trade, based on the present size of this town and the wants of this community. Supposing this new fangled railroad goes through? What's the result? Why, the result is that business will increase, my trade will double up and I shall be obliged to hire an extra clerk. One more clerk at $10 per week will add $520 per year to my expenses. That would wipe outta pile of profits. But the evil wouldn't stop here. Inside of three years I should be compelled to build a larger store, and my brethren, stores cost money. Young America spreads out. He puts in blackwalnut counters, silver-plated show cases and plate glass windows. And a man can't sell any more goods in such a new fangled palace than he could twenty years ago over a white wood table and behind a window of eight by ten glass. Now, supposing the population of Tecumseh should double up in three years? What's the result? Why, the result is, I should be utterly unable to accommodate my customers. And supposing the population of Ridgeway and Franklin should double up?—What's the result? Why, the result is that the highlanders of the west and the lowlanders of the east, not having to wade through the western clay and the eastern muck, would pour in upon us over the railroad like an army of locusts from Egypt. From such a visitation, Good Lord, deliver us. These, my brethren, are my sentiments, and now I should like to hear from the rest of the congregation."

Neighbor Smith wiped the perspiration from the nape of his neck with a red silk handkerchief, and resumed his cane-seat chair, amid a perfect storm of applause.

The chairman then called on neighbor Brown for his views. Brown lives on Fifth avenue in a fine residence, is retired from active business, takes life easy and loans his money at ten per cent. Neighbor Brown majestically rose, kicked his rat and tan dog under the table, took a mammoth of Bagley's best fine-cut, carefully adjusted his gold-bowed spectacles and said:

"Mr. Chairman: I have been a resident of this burg over forty years, and have a good many pennies in my day and have always noticed that the biggest turnerout, and in the puddle in the long run the biggest toad in the puddle who lets his neighbors and when is the time to invest in public enterprises and when to bank his own money. This awful 10 per cent. loans business must be checked. I see epidemic must be in canopy and like to know what committee, some of our Health C. measures they have taken to arrest its progress. It is a striking fact that almost every able-bodied community is arrest its progress. There are a few public spirited souls who stand ready to hold out, and only know when the community is down. Why, fellow citizens, the railroad will be bust legitimate higher than a kite. Of course it will increase retail trade, it will make real estate more valuable, it will double up our population. But this is just what I don't want. If business goes booming my ten per cent mortgage on the hotel will be paid off; my loan on Simpkins' brick store will be liquidated; Opera House stock will go kiting upward so I can't freeze out the small fish and buy up their shares at 25 cents on the dollar; farmer Robinson will be able to squeeze thro' and lift that little three thousand dollar claim I hold against him. Why, fellow citizens, it's astonishing how utterly selfish some people are in such matters. If the landlord can double his profits in one year, if Simpkins can sell down $500 extra, if farmer Robinson can sell his crops for $200 more, they don't care a continental how much it injures a poor innocent citizen who has spent a life time working for the benefit of the community by placing loans at ten per cent." At this point Brown was so affected that he deemed it prudent to sit down and rest. Seeing a chair on either side, he inferred there must be a chair behind him, but there wasn't. And Brown didn't discover his mistake until he struck the black and tan dog. The concussion was frightful. The tumult that followed resembled a scene in the House of Representatives during a debate on the election laws. Order, however, was finally restored, the remains were carefully placed in the wood-box, and Brown won't buy any more sausage for the next three weeks.

Neighbor Jones was then called for. Jones lives just outside the corporation limits, has a magnificent farm all paid for, and although he can't vote at village elections, he justly regards himself as a main spoke in the Tecumseh wheel. Jones is a very cautious man, and as Brown's catastrophe was fresh in his mind, he concluded to make his speech in his chair.

After blowing his nose vigorously, he began: "The fact is, gentlemen, I'm out o' all manner o' patience with this tarnal nonsense. What do we want another railroad for? The railroad we've got is a nuisance. It runs right thro' Main street and scares more hosses than Vanderbilt's neck's worth. Now, look a here. They say wheat'll go up if this railroad goes through. I don't want it to go up. If wheat goes up, everybody will go to raisin' it and then it'll go down again, won't it? They say it will raise the price o' my farm. I don't want my farm raised. If it raises the farm it'll raise the taxes too, won't it? And the taxes is eatin' a feller out o' house and home now. They say they will put a depot on my farm. I don't want no depot. The cars will be shriekin' and screamin' all night long and a feller can't half sleep. I might possibly get along myself, but my wife's raisin' children now and she's got to have rest. They say I can sell off village lots and get rich. I don't want to sell off village lots. How am I goin' to raise wheat and pertaters and hogs and apple sass, if my beautiful farm is all whittled up into village lots? Why gentlemen the more I think o' this 'tarnel nonsense, the madder I git. Something has got to be did. Now I don't propose to fool away my time slobberin' about the locusts of Egypt like neighbor Smith, nor makin' sausages like neighbor Brown, but I'm bound to find a remedy. And this is my plan. Let's fence the vandals out.

This village is a mile and a quarter square; that's just 400 rods on one side or sixteen hundred clear around it. Now, let's figure the cost of a good tight board fence on this 'ere line. Good cedar posts cost 16 cents each, but tamarack ones will be just as good. We can git water elm stringers, and good bass wood lumber for twelve dollars a thousand. It'll take three posts to a rod, and one hundred feet of stringers to three rods. A fence twelve feet high would take two hundred feet of lumber to a rod. Then the fence ought to be whitewashed on the outside, and it'll take about one gallon o' whitewash to a rod. Now, look a here. These are the figures:

4800 tamarack posts at 10 cents	$ 480 00
60,000 feet of water elm stringers at $12	720 00
320,000 feet of basswood boards at $12	3,840 00
4,800 post holes at 10 cents	480 00
1,600 rods of fence carpenter work on same at 50 cents	800 00
1,600 pounds of nails at 8 cents	128 00
1,600 gallons of whitewash at 10 cents	160 00
Putting on the same at 10 cents per rod	160 00
Gates and other extras, estimated at	100 00
Total	$6,860 00

Now, look a here, if we can start a boom on this enterprise we can push it through in ten days. I'll head a paper with $500, and I'll double my subscription if necessary."

This speech carried the audience by storm. The plan was unanimously adopted, and Jones was chosen as a committee to solicit donations.

The meeting then adjourned subject to the call of the chairman.

The Franklin Sheep Breeders' Association held their annual meeting last Saturday evening, electing the following officers:

President—F. E. Bradley.
Secretary—Henry Wilson.
Treasurer—Brunson Knapp.
Ex. Com.—A. Morseman, F. E. Bradley, William Osborn, Andrew Wilson, Ab. Simmonds.

It was decided to hold the regular annual festival on Wednesday, May th, 1880.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES.

Should Call a Halt.

Adrian Times:—Mr. Blaine ought to call a halt. If matters go on this way he will have a great many more votes in the Chicago convention than there are delegates to that convention.

The Chinese Must Go.

New York Sun.—Instead of the Chinese must go, the cry now in certain quarters is the Chinese must not come. Two or three bills restricting Chinese immigration are before Congress, and Mr. Wright has submitted a resolution requesting Mr. Hayes to inform the Chinese Government of this nation's desire to annul our emigration business with China. About the time that this resolution was introduced a car load of Chinamen were landed in New York city.

No Danger of a Lapse.

Cincinnati Enquirer.—In 1872 Judge David Davis wrote to the Chairman of a National Reform Convention, "The Chief Magistracy of the Republic should neither be sought or declined by an American citizen." As long as we have able-bodied statesmen making conciliatory remarks of this kind, there is no danger of a lapse of the Republic on account of a vacancy at the helm.

A Sad Oversight.

Cincinnati Enquirer.—It was really very considerate on the part of Mr. Tilden's friends to organize an army of two hundred thousand men for him to lead, and yet never tell him of its existence or its mission. It's more than likely that Uncle Sammy would have been President to-day if he had only known all the preparations that were going on to make him so. But, then, he never was an observing man.

Kissing Girl Babies.

Philadelphia Times.—A leading Democratic candidate for the nomination for Governor of Missouri is down with the measles. He kissed a Kansas City girl baby whose father expects to be a delegate to the convention. If politicians must keep up this old-fashioned practice of kissing girl babies they had much better wait until they have grown beyond the measles stage of life; girl babies are ever so much nicer to kiss after they have got to be sixteen or seventeen.

Close It Up For a While.

Detroit Free Press.—Probably no great harm would be done if the Government Printing Office were closed for a while. It turns out a mass of matter of no conceivable use to anybody except as paper stock to the paper-makers, and very little to them.—Speeches on deceased members, upon whom nobody when alive wasted a second thought, to say nothing of the first word, and documents and reports inconceivably dull, and not worth putting into type, make the Government Printing Office a drain upon the treasury unwarranted by any service which the public needs.

Coming to the Front.

Akron Tribune.—The Democratic press of Ohio is coming nimbly to the front in support of Senator Thurman as the Democratic candidate for the Presidency. The fact is recognized that Mr. Thurman has been an able, efficient and faithful public servant.—Through his long official life he has led a consistent course, and has gained a just reputation for honesty and sincerity of purpose. His services to both his country and his party are recognized, and the people of the State are proud of him as a man and a statesman. The hearty support he is receiving from the press and the people to-day is only a just tribute to one who has been faithful, and whose public life is without a blot.

Will Have a Grand Reception.

Chicago News.—The probabilities are that Mr. Parnell will have a wonderful reception when he lands in Ireland, He has won it. His agitation in this country has brought to Ireland a more substantial relief than has been given by the nation of which she forms a part. His gentlemanly attitude and his calm presentation of facts while here aroused hundreds of enemies who undertook to suppress him by counter-plans of charities. The result has been that the "Green Isle" has the benefits of two setts of gifts, those from the toadies of foreign aristocrats and those from people genuinely generous. Mr. Parnell deserves well for the use he has made of his enemies.

The Hancock Boom.

New York Tribune.—If the Pennsylvania Democrats are able to send a Hancock delegation to the Cincinnati Convention, the General will at once become a formidable candidate. He has a great deal of strength in the South, and if it appears that his own State is solid behind him, he will be likely to gather recruits from all other quarters. With Grant thrust upon the Republicans of Pennsylvania against their so forcibly expressed wish, the Democrats of that State are convinced that they would have a chance of carrying it with a "favorite son" as a candidate. Hence they come to the front with General Hancock.

Fire at Blissfield.

At two o'clock Tuesday morning fire was discovered in the northwest corner of Bliss & Son's factory, on the west side of the river in Blissfield. The alarm was sounded, and the fire department were promptly on hand, but the flames already enveloped the building, and the block was entirely destroyed. Bliss & Son lose $2,500; no insurance. Hibbert & Terwilliger lose all their tools and stock in the blacksmith and wagon shop, as well as the building. The house and building adjoining the blacksmith shop, owned by the Mead estate, was also entirely destroyed. Joseph Brockway, occupying the house, loses everything; no insurance.

After the fire was discovered, and before the little steamer had got to work, the fire had made such rapid headway, that W. D. McCann's store on the opposite side of the street had caught fire, and it seemed certain that the entire row of buildings on the north side of the street would be destroyed. The scene at the time was one of great excitement. Men climbed on the roof of McCann's store, and held the fire in check until the steamer began to play. Soon all danger in this direction was over.

Those present at the fire are loud in their praise of the work done by the fire department. The prompt use of the steamer saved undoubtedly many thousands of dollars.—Adrian Times.

M. P. BROWN, of Tecumseh, has rented rooms in Clinton, and will soon open a Photograph Gallery. But his friends must not infer from this that he is going to leave Tecumseh. Not at all. He will occupy his rooms here the same as heretofore, and will be at Clinton on Friday of each week to accommodate his customers there.

SILVER WEDDING.

Last Thursday evening witnessed a pleasant gathering at the residence of Minor Davidson, on his farm east of the village. Mr. Davidson and his estimable wife had traveled down the pathway of life together for twenty five years, and on that evening their friends assembled at the old homestead to help them celebrate the event. A large and brilliant company assembled, and it was certainly one of the most successful and enjoyable social events that has taken place here during the present season. The guests in attendance were admirably entertained, the refreshments were superb and very handsomely served, and every one present both old and young seemed to enjoy themselves. The manner of serving the refreshments was somewhat of an innovation upon prevailing fashion but one which the guests seemed to appreciate. After supper, a few happy remarks of congratulation were made by Rev. A. J. Bigelow and others, and the company departed for their homes, all wishing that it might be their good fortune to visit the Davidson mansion again on some future occasion. The gifts on exhibition were numerous and elegant, a list of which is given below.

Silver Tea Set,—Mr. & Mrs. J. Davidson, B. F. DePuy, S. W. Bordine, E. W. Rappleye, John Margeson, ". Davidson, B. F. Stienhoff, Matt Aten, J. W. Benedict, John W. Baker, J. G. Roberts, William H. Mather, William H. Aten, Mrs. Eliza Sanford, Mr. J. W. DePuy, Mr. & Mrs. C. W. Culbertson and Daughter.

Silver Ice Pitcher,—Mr. & Mrs. Albert Waring, C. A. Wright, Michael Smeltzer, P. R. Adams, P. W. Adams, M. E. Conklin, George Adamson, Thos. Adamson, J. H. Waring, C. A. Slayton, D. L. Rogers and Daughter.

Fruit Dish,—Mr. & Mrs. Samuel Rappleye. Fruit Knife,—Mr. & Mrs. A. B. Wood. Cream Spoon,—Mr. & Mrs. H. B. Eaton. Card Receiver,—Mr. & Mrs. Asel Russel. Pickle Castor,—Mr. and Mrs. Lester Osgood, William Osgood. Boquet Holder,—Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Doty, D. McNair, Alvah Waring. Butter Knife and Sugar Spoon,—Mr. and Mrs. C. Descher. Silver Cup,—Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Rankin. Nut Cracker,—Mr. Dudley Macham. Celery Glass,—Mr. & Mrs. John Britton, William Britton. Graphoscope,—Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Sweet, Elmer Ellis. Shakespeare's Works,—Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Waldron. George Griswold, Frank Rector. Silver Coffee Urn,—Eunice Davidson.

Narrow Escape from Drowning.

Last Monday afternoon there was considerable stir for a short time around the Globe Mill race, caused by the falling of a child into the race and almost drowning before she was rescued. It seems that Gertie Vanduser, a 3-year old child of Richard Vanduser, living in the large house on the East side of the race, with some other children was playing near the race, when Gertie and another girl stepped on some board or log lying in the water. The log commenced to roll and the girls grasped hold of each other and kept from slipping for a time, but the playmate of Gertie seeing that they both would fall in, through her fright, let go of her to save herself.—Gertie immediately fell in the water and the current, which is unusually swift there, whirled her out into the stream out of reach. Being only 3 years old she was at the mercy of the current. The playmates seeing her, and being unable to offer any assistance, at once commenced to scream, which soon brought Mr. VanDuser to the scene. He immediately jumped into the race and reached his struggling little daughter just in time to save her from an early death, as her lungs were then nearly filled with water, and a few moments more would have placed her beyond all recovery. She was taken to the house and rolled about so as to throw the water from her lungs, while Dr. Mason was sent for. He soon arrived and quickly freed her lungs from water, and by the aid of stimulants revived her; the that next morning when he went to visit her she was all right and out at play.

THE ladies' entertainment at the Opera House last Friday evening was an exceptionally good one. The principal portion of the program was sustained by Miss Helen Hartwell, and she added new laurels to the high reputation she had already acquired as a reader and elocutionist. All her selections were well rendered, altho' "The Last Hymn" might properly be mentioned as the gem of the evening. Mr. M. B. Rice and Mrs. Mumford, of Adrian, who so kindly responded to to the call, "Come over and help us,', are too well known here to require any special mention. The "Agricultural Wife," by Mr. Wood, was highly appreciated, and "Wax Work" was sung with good effect. Miss Burlingame's well rendered "GoodNight" dismissed the audience to pleasant dreams.

LOVERS of house plants should call on Mrs. Spaulding, 3 doors North of the Episcopal Church, and examine the fine collection she now has on hand. Having had a hot house erected, and being the agent for two large establishments, she intends to keep on hand plants of all kinds, and sell them at very low rates.

A GOOD street sprinkler wanted in this village forthwith.

THE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

The State Teachers' Institute for Lenawee County will begin its sessions at the Opera House in this village on Monday next at 2 o'clock P.M.

Instruction will be given in the various branches of common school studies and in the theory and practice of teaching and governing schools. The State has provided for Institutes in the several counties as the readiest and most efficient means of furnishing to the great body of the teachers of the State opportunities for fitting themselves for the duties of their calling. It is hoped that all teachers and those proposing to become teachers, will respond to this action of the State by availing themselves of the advantages offered by these Institutes. The semi-annual meeting of the Lenawee County Teachers' Association will be held Wednesday afternoon, March 31. Tuition will be absolutely free.

LECTURERS.

Prof. E. G. Walker, Adrian College.
Supt. J. C. Jones, East Saginaw.
Rev. T. P. Prudden, Lansing.
Prof. D. S. Stephens, Adrian College.
Prof. Z. S. Harrison, Kalamazoo.
Prof. W. W. Wendell, Clinton.
Dr. L. G. North, Tecumseh.
Supt. Z. C. Spencer, Tecumseh.
Local Committee and Conductor.

The hotels will furnish members of the Institute with board for $1.00 per day. Single meals 25 cents. Teachers may obtain accommodations at private houses at reduced rates.

RAILROAD NOTES.

The forward movement of Adrian to secure the Toledo & Milwaukee road has waked up the people along this line to a sense of the situation and some effective work has been done during the past week. The Adrian committee are very reticent on the subject but enough has leaked out to show that they are making a quiet but very bold and aggressive move to fasten the this road.

The news from Detroit indicates that the bottom is likely to drop out of the Butler project. Last Saturday's Post and Tribune says:

The canvassing committees have worked with dispatch and energy this week and have added the princely sum of $1,420 to the amount heretofore subscribed, but unfortunately Messrs. Scotten & Lovett have seen fit to withdraw their subscription of $2,000, so that the fund is really $580 less than it was a week ago. This sort of thing is really a disgrace to the city. A member of the committee stated on Saturday that no one, who had not experienced the annoyance, could begin to appreciate the amount of piteous entreaty and persistent solicitation necessary to extract a few paltry hundreds from men of vast fortunes. Many who counted their wealth by hundreds of thousands condescended to acknowledge the great benefits the Butler road would confer, but obstinately refused to subscribe a dollar. The only way in which to carry out the project now seems to be to call a public meeting and make a final united effort.

Adrian, having given up the Butler road is now making a strong push for the Toledo & Milwaukee, and just here lies the danger to the Tecumseh line.

The canvassers are at work every day this week in Tecumseh and our list is daily growing. The residents of the village who are able to help us are now nearly all represented; only a few isolated cases remain and we confidently expect that they will all come in before Saturday night. A canvass has been made among the Raisin farmers east of the river, and $1,500 was obtained in that quarter. Mr. Smeltzer and Alva Raymond are entitled to most of the credit for this work. The canvass has been progressing since Monday among the west Raisin farmers and the committee expect to obtain as much aid and probably more in that quarter. The farmers of Tecumseh are being visited this week also and they must make up their minds to "come over and help us." The farmers of Tecumseh and Raisin are an enterprising body of men and we do not believe there is a man among them who will refuse to give his fair share to assist this enterprise.

Franklin and Ridgeway are also coming to the front. A meeting will be held in the former town this afternoon, and in Ridgeway to-morrow afternoon, when it is confidently expected that those towns will lay their plans to push the campaign to a successful completion at once. But our people must understand that there is no time to lose. We are in greater danger to-day of losing this road then at any time hitherto, and nothing but a vigorous and united effort at once will enable us to succeed.

GOOD WILL TOWARDS MEN.

Prompted by a feeling of good will towards men and knowing as I do the torment, pain and anxiety that the many are suffering from and in a similar manner that I was, and have been for the past sixteen years up to the time that Dr. Hess came to Tecumseh last summer, I feel it incumbent upon myself to make known to my fellow men this statement. I had for 16 years suffered as much from that horrible, painful and loathsome disease termed Hemorrhoids or Piles as any other man perhaps living, and as many who may read this statement know. Until my system was nearly drained of blood and from such loss become exhausted. In fact my sufferings were of such a nature and so long standing, that I had already donned the appearance that is characteristic of such torture. I had tried and tried in vain for somebody or something to relieve me, having given up the idea of being cured.

On the first day of last August, I consulted Dr. Hess as regards my case and with his assistance I took treatment, and to-day it affords me pleasure to make this statement as I consider his treatment and my care remarkable, and hope this statement may be the instrument to influence others to avail themselves, and improve the opportunity of his treatment while he is here. I have waited this long from making this acknowledgement that I might be certain of my cure being a success and permanent Dr. Hess no doubt is without a rival in the treatment of Cancers as his patients are numerous, and testimonials sufficient to fill columns. In fact his treatment of all Chronic and lung diseases is surprising.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

THE NEW RULES AND THE PRESS.

The Ben Hill Scandal—The Public Printing—Condition of the Navy.

From our Regular Correspondent.

Washington, March 20, 1880.

Since the new rules of the House have been in operation it has come to be known that one of them is in the interest of a certain class of lobbyists. Formerly leading representatives of the press were accorded privileges of the floor, but now they are limited to the smoking room back of the hall, while ex-Congressmen are permitted to walk about the floor and buttonhole members in the interest of whatever jobs they may have on hand.—This gives the press about half a chance against these professionals and their schemes. It is very well known here at least, that ex-Members of Congress are among the most adroit and successful lobbyists. A great many of them after their terms expire remain here and engage in the business of advocating all sorts of schemes and claims, to their own profit. In the last days of a session when some subsidy or other job is to be pushed thro' they crowd the floor and fill the sofas which stand against the walls, each one having certain Congressmen to influence and prod. The press has a part of one of the galleries set apart for it, where debates and the like may be reported, but to secure any real information for the public this gallery is useless. To obtain a knowledge of what is going on in the House, good, bad or indifferent, it is necessary to have some means of communication with the members. To the most important branch of the lobby this is granted; to the press it is rigorously refused. When in former days the lobby and the press were put on equal terms by the practice of the House, the correspondents of newspapers, who are both honest and alert, were able, in numberless instances, to get at and expose and defeat the many schemes of the lobby. But in the new era of economy and reform, so-called, Congress has, with curious care, both crippled the press and protected and encouraged the lobby.

The Senate is threatened with a scandal dirtier than the Ackleh fraud in the House. Mrs. Lockwood, a female lawyer, publishes a card accusing Senator Hill of disgraceful irregularities, and the publication of this letter will perhaps induce Mr. Hill to call for another investigation, inasmuch as part of the accusation is that he has made appointments in the Senate for reasons which, if substantiated, would certainly be an insult to the Senate.—The origin of this difficulty between Mrs. Lockwood and Senator Hill was the suit filed by her against the Senator in behalf of a young woman charging him with bastardy. But the young woman turns out to have been a pretty bad one, and herself published a statement that the suit was begun without her consent. This cast the burden of the affair upon Mrs. Lockwood, and the Senator proposes to prosecute her. I know nothing of the merits of the case. Senator Hill may be no better in this particular than some other Congressmen I could name but as for Mrs. Lockwood there is a decided opinion that she is making herself to free in looking up cases of this sort to get into. She has no legal knowledge or ability whatever and it is not impossible that she may as a result of this conduct be disbarred.

In the matter of Public business there is little to write about at present. Deficiency bills have chiefly occupied the attention of Congress this week.—The Government Printing Office has been pretty much at a stand still for want of funds. The printing for the extra session used up about half the appropriation for the year, and Congress has not seemed in any hurry to renew the supply. Mr. Defrees was about to stop printing the Record when the matter was taken hold of in earnest. Congressmen could not stand it to have stopped the printing of their "feeble remarks" from day to day. The effort to change the system of public printing, or to make the Public Printer an officer elected by the House instead of an appointee of the President will probably fail. There are several schemes to get the printing establishment into private hands but none of them can succeed.

Apropos of our Navy, I noticed during a rambling debate on the Fortification bill in the Senate the other day some interesting statements were made by Mr. McPherson in relation to four iron clads now partly built. A board of survey had declared that if one of these should be completed in accordance with the plans followed thus far, her armor would sink her deck two feet under water. It had been discovered that, if 37 per cent. of the armor provided for another should be withheld, her deck would even then sink four and a half inches under water. Not one of these iron clads would float if completed in any manner which would render its armor a sufficient means of defense. They had been constructed thus far upon the contractors' own plans, and at the contractors' own price, and millions had been expended upon them.

DIDN'T KEEP A HOTEL.

One of the latest eccentricities of the telephone is reported by the Amsterdam (N. Y.) Recorder:

The editor of the Fort Plain Register has his office and residence connected by telephone. Yesterday Mr. Skidd, of Little Falls, an old friend, called on the editor, and expected to remain for dinner. The editor hurried to the telephone and shouted to the wife,—

"Mr. Skidd will be up with me to dinner. Lay an extra plate."

"Now," said the editor, "Mr. Skidd you may converse with her." As the gentleman was about to approach the instrument, these words were plainly heard:—

"You tell Mr. Skidd we don't keep a hotel on wash-day."

Mr. Skidd excused himself for a few moments, and was next seen eating fried clams in the Rainbow saloon on the corner.

TESTIMONY

Of the Hon. Jos. E. Gray, Judge of the Superior Court, Chicago, Ill.

CHICAGO, Dec. 14, 1878.

DR. S. D. HOWE:

DEAR SIR:—Permit me to add my grateful testimony to the army of witnesses to the virtue of your justly celebrated Arabian remedies. For a long time my wife was seriously afflicted with hacking cough, oppressed breathing, soreness of the chest, and constant acute pain in the lower portion of the right lung and under the shoulder blade. Her sufferings were intense, and she became extremely nervous and prostrated. Her disease was pronounced consumption by the physicians of Chicago and other cities, whose prescriptions had been taken without benefit. When you visited Chicago in June, 1878, we called on you, having very little hope of deriving help from your treatment. We were inspired with hope by the skillful manner in which your thorough examination was conducted, and the satisfactory explanation with which you closed your diagnosis. My wife determined to take your medicines in accordance with your plan and practical directions. She began to use the Arabian Milk Cure and Arabian Tonic; their beneficial effect at once became manifest—the cough loosened and soon ceased, respiration became easy, the soreness of the chest was relieved and all pain removed, she began to gain in flesh and improve in strength and appearance. I fully believe that your medicines and skillful advice have saved the life of my wife. She unites with me in this grateful tribute to the merit of your remedies.

Very respectfully yours,
JOSEPH E. GRAY.

LEGAL NOTICES.

MORTGAGE SALE.

ON the 11th day of March, A. D. 1869, Jonas Weaver and Caroline M. Weaver by an indenture of mortgage made and executed by them on said 11th day of March, to Henry H. Rawson certain lands owned by said Caroline M. Weaver, which mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Lenawee county, Michigan on the 20 day of November, A. D. 1869, in liber 57 of mortgages on pages 678 and 679, and which mortgage was duly assigned by said Henry H. Rawson to Jonas Weaver on the 6th day of November, A. D. 1879, which assignment was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of said county of Lenawee on the 24th day of January, A. D. 1880, in liber 85 of mortgages on page 423. There is claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date of this notice the sum of forty-four and 22-100 dollars and the sum of twenty-five dollars as an attorney fee which is also contained for in said mortgage, should any proceeding be taken to foreclose the said mortgage, no proceedings have been taken either in law or equity to recover the amount due on said mortgage or any part thereof. Default having been made in the terms of payment of said mortgage by means of which the power of sale in said mortgage has become absolute, notice is therefore hereby given that by virtue of said power of sale said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in said mortgage or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount due together with all legal costs and charges and said attorney fee of twenty-five dollars; said sale will be to the highest bidder and will be made on the thirtieth day of May, 1880, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at the front door of Dean's Opera House on Toledo street in the city of Adrian in said county of Lenawee, (that being the place of holding the Circuit Court for said county,) The premises described in said mortgage and to be sold as aforesaid are described as situate in the township of Rollin in said county of Lenawee, and known as the west half of the south west quarter of section twenty-nine, except twenty acres off the north and therefore, in township six south of range one east.

Dated February 21st, 1880.

THE FARMERS' PAGE.

NORTHERN LENAWEE FARMERS' CLUB.

[illegible] Club will hold its meetings regularly on the first and third Thursdays of each month, at the Reform Club Hall in Tecumseh, at 2 o'clock, until further notice. All are heartily welcomed and cordially invited to attend. Communications thankfully received. Correspondence solicited from other Clubs, especially where co-operative action can accomplish desirable results. All letters should be addressed to R. L. Kinsman, Sec., Tecumseh, Mich.)

THURSDAY, MARCH 18, 1880.

The Club to-day is thinly attended, but an improvement upon the previous meeting, there being present some of our best workers, and upon the whole the meeting was spirited, interesting and profitable.

First in order was Preliminary business, which was introduced by President Benedict with some remarks pertaining to the good of the Club. When he joined the Club and accepted the Presidency he enlisted for one year, promising to be punctual and faithful in attendance at each meeting unless sickness or some unavoidable circumstance prevented. The year had about expired and he had failed in attendance only in one instance. He tho't that the importance of building up and sustaining such a Club, as would compare favorably with the surrounding beautiful farms and farming country, such a one as the times and surroundings demanded, and that would be the pride of all agriculturists, was far from being realized by a very large majority of farmers. He often became discouraged and felt that unless there could be a better and more general attendance, and more interest manifested by the mass of farmers, that we had better consider the propriety of trying to sustain the Club for another year. Perhaps the difficulty was with the officers, if so, the time was near at hand when that difficulty could be easily overcome by electing others more competent. He was in hopes all would express their views upon this subject; he would add, however, that he had been benefitted at each meeting, and felt that those who had attended had likewise been benefitted.

Mr. Wells agreed with the President as to the interest manifested by the majority of farmers; he thought the president and secretary had done all that could be done on their part to sustain the Club, but the vice presidents or the executive committee had been negligent of their duties in a measure. They had not labored with that will and energy that they should have don.

In order to do justice to Mr. Wells I will say that he has been quite punctual in attendance, and active in promoting the interests of the Club.

Mr. Lowe believed that the president and secretary had done their whole duty, but that the vice presidents had been negligent; he had done as well as he had; he had labored at home with his neighbors and friends for the advancements of its interests. Some had promised to attend, but something always prevented. One neighbor had attended one meeting, and was very much interested, and enjoyed reading the proceedings. He would like to see the seats all filled, and suggested bringing our wives and families, and introducing some literary exercises into the program as one means of increasing the attendance.

Mr. Billmire, of Raisin, said that he was not a member, but thought that he should be if the Club continued.—He had not learned, until lately, the time of its meeting, but enjoyed the last meeting very much. He suggested Saturday as a better time to meet, as they could get their mail that day for the whole week, and if they came before that time they would not get a part of it.

In the estimation of R. R. Hall the change would be a good one. If they came to town Thursday they could not afford to come again Saturday.—He suggested subjects capable of a difference of opinion, and having them published in advance, such as would create an interest and a desire to be present. He thought Mr. Lowe, the vice president from Ridgeway, was a good one and faithful to duty.

As the time for the annual meeting was near at hand, when the election of officers for the ensuing year would take place, the executive committee suggested that we take as the subject for the next meeting:

Preparatory measures for the annual meeting, and the propriety of continuing the Club another year, which was adopted by the meeting.

Do not forget the time or mistake the date of this preparatory meeting, as it is one of vital importance to the success of the Club. It is Thursday, April 1st, or "All Fools' Day," at 2 o'clock, sharp. The season is progressing, and we are reminded that spring work will be crowding upon us; but the past year has been a successful one, and prosperous times are again dawning upon farmers, and can they not afford one day before entering upon another summer's campaign for an enjoyable time, and a mental and social feast, as a time of thanksgiving for the past and a preparation for the future. We know that every one is interested in the success of agriculture, and therefore all are cordially invited to attend. Let no one hesitate because he is not a member, or is a stranger to the Club, or has not received a complimentary ticket, for if you meet together even once a year, you will become acquainted and will not forget each other beyond recognition. Our interests are one, let our sympathies and feelings be one.

Miscellaneous Questions and Answers were introduced by R. R. Hall, asking the following questions:

1st. Is it profitable to raise potatoes for market, or if there is no market will it pay to raise them to feed to stock.

2d. Should he plant them early or late? On what kind of soil? deep or shallow? Should the seed be large or small, cut or whole, and what distance apart each way?

He thought of planting three or four acres. He thought Early Rose the best variety to plant; would plant early varieties early, and late varieties late. He planted 3 feet apart as a 3 tooth cultivator would just reach each row, and used the finest and best potatoes he could get for seed. He found that by continually planting small potatoes he had nearly run them out.—He used a tank and force pump to destroy the bugs, and thought that by a proper selection of seed, and care and culture that we could increase the yield very much.

Mr. Wells.—As to the first question "is there any money in it?" and the second, "what soil?". First, the price varies too much to warrant the expense, and as for food for stock he did not think they paid cost. Second, his soil was too heavy to raise them successfully upon a large scale.

Mr. Lowe could not give much advice. Mr. Hall was near Tecumseh and he was seven miles away, which made a difference in the profits. He planted in drills by turning furrows with a plow three feet apart, and dropped the seed one foot apart in the row, and liked medium sized potatoes to plant, cutting them to three eyes in a hill, and planted both early and late potatoes early in the season, on account of the bugs; thought even a late potatoe gave less trouble with the bugs if planted early. He covered them with a plow, turning the furrow back four inches deep, and after a time burrowed the ground down level again, as he liked level culture best in case of dry weather, and liked two or three plants to a hill as he got more good sized potatoes.

Mr. Hall.—Does a late potatoe yield better by planting early?

Mr. Lowe.—I know of no general rule by which we could avoid a drouth, or just hit upon a wet spell at the right time, any more than I can tell what time in the moon to plant. If potatoes are cooked and a plenty of meal cooked with them they make good feed for hogs.

Mr. Bilmire had not tried to raise potatoes only for his own use since the bugs had become a nuisance. He knew of a western farmer who planted 300 acres, through tenants, instructing them to plant three eyes in a hill. He had planted cut seed with a few eyes in a hill and raised from fifty to four hundred bushels to the acre. He had seen a table containing the estimated nutritive value of the following articles for food. Corn was 95, rye 93, peas 93, barley straw 25, wheat straw 14, yellow turnips 25, potatoes 25 per cent, and a bushel of potatoes was worth about as much as one and one-half pounds of good hay.

Practical Farming was then introduced, and Mr. Cyrus Wells being called upon by the President, responded in a pleasing manner, with some very instructing and useful remarks, from which I take the following brief extracts:

GENTLEMEN:—This subject has been under consideration a long time, and as it is already late I will not tire your patience by any extended remarks, but will briefly pass over some of the various headings.

Farming involves profit and loss as surely as any other branch of business, and that it is the best and most practical farming that pays the best. All theories are not practical, although they at first look plausible and well upon paper, yet when reduced to practice they are failures. The patent office at Washington is jammed full from bottom to top, with various patents. I am in favor of patents, but when a majority of them are reduced to practice they are failures. I am in favor of agricultural papers, but many of their teachings are written, by men of science and theory, but without practice, and are failures.

After exhausting every source of knowledge, then the more we go by our own judgments the better farmers we are.

Systematize labor and time. Many go at things by chance, and sometimes blunder into success. Order should govern all the farmer's operations.—Dropping tools all over the farm is not practical, it will not pay. Each tool should have its own place, and each harness its own peg, then the man knows where to leave them and where to find them, and this is practical.

Systematize a rotation of crops.—Constant cropping one field because it is more convenient exhausts the soil and is ruinous and not practical. Keeping the land right up to the standard, by clovering and a judicious rotation of crops, is practical.

Proper Drainage. How many farmers there are when you ask them how many acres they have say eighty, when they have but forty acres that they can work. If he is rich, he can afford to let that lay idle, but a poor man cannot. What is strictly practical is making every foot of land count.

Keeping farm accounts. Know where your money goes to. Pay as you go, even if you have to borrow the money to do so, and save 20 per cent, by paying cash.

Have a work shop. Keep in it a set of tools, bolts and rivets, ready to do your own repairing. Make your own gates and whiffletrees, and utilize hired help and rainy days.

House Implements. I can point to a harvester that has stood out doors exposed to the weather since last used. We want good tools, and it is not practical to use poor ones or borrow.—Put tools in order when you put them away, and then find them all ready for service when you want to use them. If they need repairs put them in the shop for rainy days. It pays to use good tools.

Good Seed is the most important part of profitable farming; watch closely and you will find that you often fail or get a poor crop by using poor seed. You cannot afford to use poor seed, whatever the price may be for good. Better sell off a part of the farm and procure good seed than continually to be using poor seed.

Care for Stock. It pays to keep everything well. Keep good stock and give them good care. You tell me that a native cow will give as much milk as a thoroughbred; it is not so, the thoroughbred is better in every point.

Thorough work will result in better crops, and at the same time improve your land and premises, and give better and more lasting returns. Give your man a good three horse team, and keep them well, and he will do one-third more work. I do not practice all these, but it is my theory.

Mr. Billmire.—What kind of stock pays best?

Mr. Wells.—I like a variety of crops and also a variety of stock. Sometimes sheep pay best, and sometimes hogs or cattle. I would not stock a grain farm as heavily as a grass farm. Cows pay well, and we at least have a good living; and that we will have.—Steers are profitable on some farms.

There was considerable discussion which followed upon this subject, which on account of time and space we omit.

On motion the meeting adjourned for two weeks, to the Reform Club Hall, over A. B. Cotton's store, at 2 o'clock P. M.

DR. A. SHRASIT'S MAGNETIC OINTMENT

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

ALL SORES, CUTS, BRUISES, SPRAINS, BURNS, SORE THROAT, LAMENESS, RHEUMATISM, PILES, INFLAMATION of LUNGS and BOWELS, BRONCHITIS, CROUP, SALT RHEUM, CHILBLAINS, AFFECTIONS of the SPINE, ERYSIPELAS, NERVOUS IRRITATION, and all disorders attended with INFLAMATION.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve, and ligament is searched out and made sensible of its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external disease.

Over 40 Years

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have not space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should feel perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

AROUND THE COUNTY.

RIDGEWAY.

State making in order.

Henry and Eugene Wilson spent vacation at home.

Lou. Priest has leased ground and is building a shop on the vacant corner.

Wm. Taylor, of this township, died on Saturday morning of pneumonia. The funeral took place at the M. E. Church on Sunday afternoon.

The town board held a "long lingering session" this week.

A number of Ridgeway folks have been attending the Institute this week.

D. W. Loree reports 30 acres plowed for oats on his prairie farm.

John Larkin returned to Ridgeway last Tuesday. He has been living in Canada.

The following is the disposition of teachers for spring term.—No.1, Clem. Lester; No. 2, Fannie Boyd; No. 3, Ida Schreder; No. 4, Jennie Sweet; No. 5,——; No. 6, Hattie Helm; No. 7, Stella Jones.

Program of Philomathic Society for Friday evening, April 8th.

Declamations—'Lafe' Rappleye, S. Arner.

Reading—Miss V. Hall.

Recitations—Adah Loree, Myra Wood.

Essay—Rev. A. B. Wood.

Question—"Resolved, That the U.S. would be justified in opposing the construction of the Inter-Oceanic canal by the French government."

Affirmative—G. P. Waring, R. H. Nelson, A. E. Palmer.

Negative—A. B. Clark, D. W. Loree, W. H. Arner.

A chap stole a whip from Ed. Auton's buggy last Friday while Ed was making a call on Silas Beals. The theft was soon discovered and then commenced a lively chase. The thief was overhauled about two miles South of Ridgeway and the whip recovered.—The thief got off without a good pounding.

A few cases of diphtheria are reported, but the disease seems to have assumed a milder form. The two last cases are Martin Palmer and Mrs. Asel Russell.

FRANKLIN.

The railroad meeting on Thursday last, at Tuttle's hall, was not as largely attended as was hoped. But the presence of Messrs. Stacy and Baxter, from Tecumseh, seemed to infuse new life into the project. An executive committee, consisting of Messrs. Frank Osborn, Hannibal Osborn and Andrew Wilson, was appointed, and a fund of $50 pledged to defray the expense of a thorough canvass of the township, and strong hopes are entertained of raising the required amount.

Mr. Hiram Learnard has taken Benjamin Reynolds' large farm to work for a term of years, and is moving thereto this week. They will be greatly missed from the "Corners" where they have so long resided, and their numerous friends wish them abundant success.

The maple sugar festival at the Congregational church, on Friday last was rather slimly attended on account of the storm, but a very pleasant time was enjoyed by those present. In fact it proved a decidedly sweet affair.

Mr. I. O. Hardy and wife have both been very sick, and fears were entertained that neither would survive.—But we are happy to learn that both are improving.

A very pleasant affair occurred at the residence of Mr. & Mrs. Frank Stout a few days since, the occasion being the 58th anniversary of their marriage. A considerable number of relatives and friends were present, and numerous presents bestowed. May they celebrate many more such reunions, although now far advanced in life.

Last Thursday, Mr. Geo. W. Knapp, leader of our band, invited its members to his father's house, where between sweet music and warm sugar a very pleasant time was enjoyed.

Business with our merchants seems good at present, especially the "wholesale trade" in dish.

Many of our farmers have commenced their spring work in earnest.—Wheat looks well and a fruitful season is anticipated. S. A.

JOHN R. CLARK'S lecture "To and Fro" in London is taking immensely. Grand Rapids, Ovid, and Ionia demand its repetition as soon as possible. Next month Mr. Clark will make a campaign through western New York and Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Jacob Willison, Marion, O., says her child was not expected to live, owing to a severe attack of Croup, she tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which gave immediate relief.

CLINTON.

Caucus Friday afternoon. Hypocritical smiles have greeted us for the past week at every corner, but next Monday tells the story.

New firm in town. Fairbridge & Hause have bought the stock of furniture, undertaking, etc. of D. St. John and will continue the business at the old stand for the present. Messrs. B. & H. are young men of this place, who are well known, and by careful attention to business are sure to succeed.—Success to the new firm.

Mr. Charles Miller, a well-known and highly respected german, of Bridgewater died last week. Mr. Miller was an old resident of that township and universally esteemed.

Smith Wilbur, Esq., of Ann Arbor, an attorney and ex-county surveyor has located here to engage in the law practice. Mr. Wilber has an extensive acquaintance throughout Washtenaw county, where he is well and favorably known, and comes into our midst bringing satisfactory evidences of his ability and reliability and as a gentleman of fine legal attainments.

The "News" office looms up majestically, making a fine appearance on the corner of Chicago and Jackson streets.

The new meat market is in full blast. It is a fine building for that purpose.

Maria Westfall died on the 18th inst., aged 65 years.

Rev. Mr. Wilson moved into the new parsonage on Friday of last week.

Caroline Corey who has been spending the winter in Clinton, returned to Paw Paw last week.

Miss Imogene Dell is spending a few days with Miss Fannie Freese.

Last Friday being the last day of the winter term of school an exhibition was held at the Town Hall which was well attended.

Rev. J. W. Payne gave a temperance lecture at the Town Hall last Sunday.

The bicycle has come and now Geo. Freese is happy.

SPRINGVILLE.

A very fine rain here Saturday.

Three caucuses in town this week.

Miss Emma Daniels has taken the Springville school for the summer term.

The personal property of the estate of John Ayers deceased, was sold at public auction last Friday. The property was all bought by the heirs, amounting to about $2,500.

The Democratic caucus which was called at Springville Friday March 26, was rather slim, only two of the party represented; the caucus adjourned to Friday Apr. 2d., at the time of the National caucus.

Again Will Shultis' team has spilt him out. This time there were unfortunately three ladies riding with him and they were all badly hurt.

Since the excitement caused by the R. R. project here in this town, business begins to show itself. Quite a number of our farmers are preparing for building, the coming summer. W. H. Smith of Springville is erecting a large Hotel in the burg, which he expects to have ready for use in about a month.

The township board settled with the treasurer, Tuesday, March 30; the taxes in the township have been all collected; nothing returned this year. Money's in treasurers hands March 30.

SOUTH MACON.

"Another misdeed." The old Post Office building on the Ridge cannot be had for election purposes this spring. The owner, Rev. W. Q. Burnette of Detroit, having dispatched the township board to that effect. The building was engaged of the present occupant, Joseph Bailey. But Mr. Burnette having recently purchased the premises, proposes to dictate as to extraordinary events. The Board in looking around the third time, have not been able to procure a building centrally located, but found that the Lake Ridge Hotel, or the School house in District No. 8 could be procured in this dilemma, and considering the objections and preferences, have selected the latter. So that the election will be held at the School House in District No. 8, near Eastlick's mill. This beats the 15 puzzle.

WE have stopped building railroads on paper this week and gone into the Teachers' Institute business.

Mr. C. Clendale, Marion O., used Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for Bunions. He says at first start he thought it was like the rest of the advertised humbugs, but was agreeably disappointed and now would not be without some in the house for any money.

ALL new residents of the village and township must register this week or they cannot vote next Monday.

In Memory of Alicia Remington.

She was taken away from our fold,
Of brothers and sisters so kind,
And beckoned away by the angels one day,
To sweet rest in the peaceful clime.

So young, was the thought, as we gathered Around her that beautiful day;
So young to be taken from this world,
Never more to brighten our way.

But oh, how they will miss her,
Father and mother so dear,
But they know she is more happy
Than during her pilgrimage here.

But now as that family gathers
At home, as in days of yore,
They know she is gone, the dear loving one,
Not lost but gone just before.

But we know she is free from all sorrow,
Her grief and afflictions are o'er;
We know she's a bright shining angel
Faraway on that beautiful shore.

As we look in the dark, dim vista,
Of numberless days to come,
We know not the day nor the hour,
When we shall be welcomed home.

But oh, how sweet will the meeting be,
When Alicia at last we find
In the portals of love with joy above,
To meet to part no more.

H. A.

Ridgeway, March 24, 1880.

In Memory of Little Vernie Pocklington.

BY MRS. D. CORYELL.

Little Vernie has gone to the land of the blest,
Where sorrow is forever unknown;
But oh, how hard to say it is best,
To say farewell, our loved, our own.

But God plucked the fair flower to transplant it above,
Where the storms of earth could not come;
Then think of little Vernie in care of God's love,
All sheltered and safe in his home.

Think not dear parents that your jewel can be lost
But to you it will be restored;
Little Vernie is with the sanctified host,
To be forever with the Lord.

Then, dear parents, will you meet little Vernie above,
When the sorrows of life are o'er;
Surely God tenderly invites you by his love,
To come and his presence adore.

Life is uncertain, as with Vernie it has proved;
Then be prepared to meet your God—
God's son he has given because you he has loved,
You, although chastened with his rod.

The New Trotting Circuit.

Adrian Times: The Stewards of the Michigan Grand Central Trotting circuit have fixed the meetings thereof. W. L. Church and T. J. Navin were present from the Adrian association. There was some feeling between this city and Grand Rapids, each claiming the last week in May, but the matter was finally amicably settled, Grand Rapids taking the last week in June. The famous trotters St. Julien and Hopeful have been secured to go thro' the circuit. The dates and purses offered by each association in the circuit are as follows:

Adrian—May 25 to 28	$10,000
Detroit—June 1 to 4	10,000
Pontiac—June 8 to 11	8,000
Flint—June 15 to 18	8,000
Ionia—June 22 to 25	6,000
Grand Rapids—June 29 to July 2	8,000
Fort Wayne—July 5 to 8	7,000
Total purses in circuit	$57,000

A Correction.

RIDGEWAY, March 29, 1880.

EDITOR HERALD:—In reading the remarks of our town superintendent of schools, I notice that he states that the school in district number 9 closed unexpectedly. I beg leave to inform him that he is mistaken. Miss McNeil taught the full term for which she was hired—three months—and one week over, to the entire satisfaction of the district. Instead of the card of honor being offered to the school at the beginning of the term, it was not offered until within two or three weeks of the close. The number of pupils registered was 51; average attendance 43¾.

Glad Tidings to the Traveling Public.

The writer was, and presume others will be most agreeably surprised to learn that the Merchant's Hotel, Tecumseh, Mich., has changed hands, and thoroughly renovated from top to bottom, papered, painted, carpeted and refurnished, (or is to be) by the enterprising and gentlemanly Landlord, W. H. Sink, formerly of the Pioneer Hotel. Some excellent changes have been made with reference to commercial men as well as the traveling public generally. A trial will satisfy the most fastidious, as it did the writer.

Success to such enterprise.

THE FAMILY CIRCLE.

13—15—14.

He sat and gazed, with a placid mien
And a cheerful and confident smile,
At the little square box with the "gem fifteen,"
And he said he'd bet his pile

That he could figger it out right thar
So he jumbled the blocks about,
And then he exclaimed: "It's simple, I swar,
And I reckon I'll work it out."

So he tackled it sharp for an hour or more,
And his hands he ran through his hair,
As he jumped right up and fearfully swore,
(And his eye had a maniac's glare)

That he'd—the dastard of the dash-lighted soul
That invented this game was here,
He'd smash his dash, dash, dashed skull,
And chaw off an end of his ear!

But after another hot hour had flown
The beast drope down 'gan to roll,
And he raved in a way that, the people all say
Struck terror to each watching soul

For—thirteen—fifteen—fourteen—alas
Were all that he got for his pains,
So he frantically swallowed of poison a glass
And with a bullet he bored out his brains.

LETTER FROM FLORIDA.

Hunting and Fishing on the St. Lucie and Banana—An Interesting Letter.

TITUSVILLE, March 14, 1880.

Dear ones at home:—It is now nearly six weeks since I left home, and I often looked back and wondered, if you were all well. I could only hope you were as I could not get letters from you in this out of the way isolated country. We returned here last Friday evening, after a thirty days trip on the river, all of which time I have enjoyed the best of health. I went to the office and they reported all our mail sent to St. Lucie, ninety miles below. I was a good deal disappointed in not getting some mail, but in the course of an hour the mail from the north came in, bringing a letter from Anna and mother. I was glad to hear from home but sorry to hear of mother's illness. But as you report convalescence, I presume there would not be any use of my hurrying home on that account.

We have had a very pleasant trip, going over the same ground we did last year and much more, as we have traversed the Indian and Banana rivers from one end to the other and stopping at all the places of interest, as well as going quite a way up the St. Lucie river. On the latter, we went principally in search of deer, turkeys, aligators, etc., all of which we saw and captured except the deer. We only went out after deer one day or a part of a day, but it was so hot I was entirely used up and resolved not to try it again. I sat down to rest and it was so hot I found it cooler to be on the move. I said to myself, if this is winter what shall the summer be? Where I was hunting was on a very level pine plane with occasional bunches of palmetto scrub, and I thought what a poor place to hunt deer where they can see you a mile and still you could not see them ten rods. And it was but a few minutes before three nice deer jumped out of a bunch of palmetto scrub not more than fifteen rods off that I had partially passed. They made a speedy retreat, and I gave them a farewell shot with my Winchester and in a moment they were gone. Mr. Stebbins remained at the boat and the Captain took a different direction. He started one deer and shot a nice turkey, a rattle snake and a squirrel, and on my return I shot a coon and lugged him home or to the boat, as I did not know of the Captain getting the turkey and I knew we were in want of some fresh meat. But when I found we had a turkey I threw the coon in the river for the 'gators. On my return to the boat I came down on the other side of a swamp that I could not cross until I got to the river. As I approached the river I discovered an aligator's head out of water; I let him have and he turned up his toes, but he soon righted up again. I called for the small boat, and after firing several more shots we got a line around him and towed him to the large boat. He measured nine feet. It seems as if some of the 'gators are as hard to kill as the Kill Karney cats. They will twist and squirm after their head has been off an hour.

From here we went up the river a few miles and camped or cast anchor for the night, as we were at home on the boat night and day. It was in a shoal place and seemed to be headquarters for all the frogs on the St. Lucie river. I think they must have been having a revival, as they kept up a continuous croaking. And the musquitoes too were very numerous, and seemed determined to get inside our sand-fly nettings and get a taste of northern blood; and they succeeded pretty well as quite a number found their way inside and annoyed us some. The air was much warmer than on the Indian river. Mercury 90° in the day time and 85° at night. The thermometer varies much less here than it does at home. It has been blowing for nearly two weeks from the south and the temperature is nearly the same here as it is in the West Indies, as the gulf stream runs very near the coast, in many places from two to three miles. I was talking with a gentleman from Ohio last evening about 9 o'clock. He said it seemed like frost the air was so cool. We had had quite a high wind all day from the south. I told him we would look at the thermometer and found it stood at 80°. We concluded we would miss the frost. After getting through with St. Lucie we came down and anchored near the mouth. While the Captain was getting dinner, Mr. Stebbins and I went on shore for wood, and in a little clearing I discovered a nice turkey. I returned for my gun, but he was gone on my return. I determined to try for one in the morning, so I got up before the sun, a rather unusual occurrence, and I stayed in the bushes a spell and heard them about, but the bushes were so thick I could not get about much. At last a nice one flew up in a tree and I soon dropped it. I was in the bushes after my turkey when they set up a brisk firing down at the large boat. I soon heard a splash and a cry for the small boat. I found myself surrounded by a thicket, chinked with three cornered cactus. I finally made out to get out and found the Captain had put a ball into the head of a twelve foot 'gator. He showed the marks of some fierce battles. One jaw had been torn off in front so that he had lost some teeth, and one hind leg had been bitten badly. He was estimated by the natives to be forty or fifty years old. We cut off the jaws of all we kill to save the teeth. We also killed one ten feet long near St. Lucie postoffice, and had quite a time getting him, as he did not give up very easy. The one we killed near St. Lucie river we three could not pull on shore, so we got him in shoal water and cut off his head and some scales from his back, and as we left the buzzards were looking him over preparing to make an attack. We have caught lots of small sharks three or four feet long and some longer, but did not get any large ones at Jubiter. We got hold of one that took the boat about lively, but it broke the line and took the hook. We have caught bass that weighed 30 pounds, and many that weighed from 12 to 25 pounds. The last day we fished was on the river opposite here, in the afternoon before we came in. Mr. Stebbins caught one that weighed 30 lbs., and I one that weighed 12 and one 20 lbs. They are a gamey fish to pull in. I lost my hook trying to pull in a large one. We visited Pelican Island on our way up, and it was a sight indeed. I should think there was five or six acres in it, and most of the trees dead. It was just night when we got there. We anchored and went on the island. There were thousands of pelicans on the trees and ground and we could have shot lots of them had we chose to. We looked over the island for eggs and young ones. We found no perfect eggs but quite a number of young ones toddling about like goslings, so we could pick them up. In the morning we shot four and next day put up three of them. We also put up two at Jubilee, and I got a beautiful specimen of a white pelican, so I now have four to bring home. I think I can set up quite a pelican rookery. The specimens are all different. It is a desolate country for any one to live in, but many of the people seem quite contented. Many live in houses sided and roofed with nothing but palmetto leaves. Some have floors and some have not. They live on hog and hominy, fish and venison, and don't seem to care what the rest of the world is doing. There are only two or three nice orange groves on the Indian and Banana rivers, but lots of ordinary ones. There are some fine banana groves and some day they may come to account. It seems healthy in the winter, but I guess there is a good market for quinine in the summer. It is Sunday to-day, and as there was no church, I thought I might as well write a little. There is a little church building here, but they give three reasons for not having church to-day. They do not know where the key is, and there is no minister, and the hogs sleep under the church so the flees are so thick in the church the minister can't stick to his text. The last one that preached there picked two hundred and fifty off him after church. The town is very quiet to-day. Last night fifteen or twenty negroes, with the aid of whisky, gave the people a serenade for three or four hours at midnight. The mercury is 84° at 2 P.M., so you see how little the temperature varies. It is 10° cooler than it was last year, so it is not near as pleasant for those that wish to hunt in the woods. The night before we came in I slept all night with the curtains up and nothing but a sheet over me.

The orange trees down the river are mostly in bloom. We manage to get all the oranges we want to eat, and hope to get a box in Jacksonville to send home. We leave here Tuesday morning and may stop at Sanford and at Palatka, and go up the Oclawaha, then over to St. Augustine for a few days, and try and get home before the middle of April. You can read Mr. Stebbins' letters and see how we are getting along. I will write often and keep you posted as to our whereabouts. It seems nice to have a little rest before going over to the St. Johns.

SANITARY SCIENCE.

HEALTH OF OUR VILLAGE.

Dr. Trall defines health to be "normal vital action,—the normal play of all the vital functions; and this means that state or condition in which each organ or part performed its own duty." If it is thus rendered essential to the health of the body that "each organ and part performs its own duty" it holds equally true when applied to the community, that each individual must perform his own duty in the maintenance of all sanitary measures if that community would continue in "the normal play of all the vital functions." A community as well as an individual may for a time transgress the laws of health with apparent impunity, but retribution will ultimately come and unmitigated by the delay.

Much of the sickness in every locality—and more especially in villages—is preventable and traceable with as much certainty to a particular cause as the fountain from the stream. It is part of the arrangement of Providence that every man should labor in some way or other; that either with his brain or with his arm he should bring out all the capabilities that are in him; that in short he should prove himself a man, There is no escape from this law. We must work or accept the alternative—die! The same binding obligations rest upon us in regard to the laws of health, we must obey them or suffer the oft times fatal consequence.

The plea of ignorance of these laws which is sometimes urged—like the modern defense of insanity,—is in this age of progress most inexcussible. Yet to keep well when well is an attainment acquired but by few. It must be, it is, the duty of every citizen to acquaint himself with the means by which he may secure for himself and family this greatest of all earthly blessings. If by this series of short articles on sanitary matters the inhabitants of our village will learn some of the conditions to which health may be secured and preserved, and some of the prolific causes of disease--foster and advance the one, destroy and remove the other, then I believe such knowledge will become a power for good in this community. Shall we by our neglect of the plain suggestions of reason in this most important matter ride roughshod over the maxims of philosophy, the teachings of science and the laws of nature.

EVILS OF COLD IN THE HEAD.

In a paper read by Dr. D. B. St. John Roosa at the recent meeting of the Medical Society of the State of New York, he stated that the most frequent origin of chronic diseases of the lachrymal passages, of the conjunctiva, and of the middle ear, is in a neglected "cold in the head." It is generally conceeded that no person in perfect health, except under extraordinary circumstance, take cold, and yet the majority of mankind have, at some time, suffered from cold in the head. The popular idea that a cold in the head is an insignificant affair is founded on the fact that most of the people recover to such an extent that they are able to go about afterward and engage in their ordinary avocations without special notice, at the time, of the consequences of the disease, which may even then be settled upon them. He believed that very many of the maladies which prevented men and women from reaching the allotted period of three score years and ten have their origin in these colds; and that many serious affections which act as an impediment to the success of their victim are dated from a cold in the head.

He described the suffering incident to an acute attack of cold in the head, and of the impossibility of having repeated attacks without producing serious local change, not only local change, but a permanent impairment of nutrition. The first great precaution to be taken by each individual is to keep himself in a good general condition, and to do that he must studiously avoid all that tends to disorder the skin and the functions of all the organs of the body. Children must be clothed in flannel all the year round, and must be made to know that the staples of diet are milk, bread, meat, vegetables and fruit, and that tea, coffee, and pastry of all kinds are to be used only as the greatest of luxuries, and therefore in small quantities and at long intervals. The community can only become healthy as individuals become healthy, and all the reforms necessary to make Memphis and Grenada places in which yellow fever never comes may be adopted; but if the control cannot be obtained of the bodies of, and the modes of living of the individuals in those and all other places, evils not so suddenly fatal, but none the less in the end dangerous, and all the time injurious to their well being, will certainly exist.

Trapshooting is prohibited in Rhode Island. Perhaps because the birds fall outside the boundary of the state.

DOMESTIC ECONOMY.

CO-OPERATIVE HOUSEKEEPING.

Mr. Thomas Wood writes to the American Cultivator as follows: I do not despair yet of seeing some patent boiler that will traverse the streets and wash dishes for the year by contract, perhaps also a patent sweeper and duster to make its periodical visits to our homes. I am serious in these remarks. The enormous difference between the economy of a good, prudent and interested housekeeper and the ordinary servants or help obtainable, makes it a matter of individual and national interest to devise a system which shall bring the waste and expense within the complete control of the owner of the house and table.—Now this is quite impossible where servants are kept. I have heard gentlemen of moderate families and means in the cities say they think their bills are double with a hired girl the amount which they reach under their wives' management. Many will say the wages of a girl is less than their waste, when the kitchen is left to her. Another nation of people might be fed by our farmers if our system of housekeeping could avoid this waste.

The tendencies of the times are towards associations and divisions of labor. The spinning wheel and loom have left the household, and mammoth factories clothe us cheaper and better than could be possible in the old way. Every year brings improvements in fabrics suited for clothing the human body, but facilities in the art of feeding it are little better now than they were a hundred years ago. Yet there is encouragement in the fact that a thousand foolish notions have been swept away before the light of science and march of improvement. A very little science will teach any one that oats will not become barley, nor barley oats, nor wheat chess; nor need we consult the man with the witch-hazel rod to know where to locate a well, nor a charmer to draw out rheumatism from our shoulders; nor will we look to the moon to see where to plant the peas to avoid the bug, or to the almanac to see if it is the right time to plant potatoes, or to kill our pork to keep it from shrinking. Poor farming will always make pork shrink.

Now as we are advancing in these little though not unimportant matters it is to be hoped we will soon make such advances as will relieve the indoors part of the farmer's calling; in plain terms, relieve our wives from incessant toil, I don't mean by putting into the kitchen scores of good-for-nothing helps to bother the wife's brains, but to relieve the kitchen of much of the drudgery. If farmers and villagers would resolve to co-operate in this direction trades would start up in every town. Bread would be bro't to our doors, clothes taken, washed and returned, while many other things pertaining to housework could and would be done cheaper and better than at present.

A DELICIOUS PUDDING.

Among other delicious preparations concocted by Mrs. Dods, was a pudding. To make it, she used one-half a quart can of peaches, four tablespoonsful of bread crumbs, two eggs, one gill of milk, one teaspoonfull lemon juice, and two ounces of sugar. Alternate layers of peaches and bread crumbs were placed on a flat dish, and the milk was brought to a boiling point and poured over the yolks of the eggs. The latter were stirred well together, and the lemon juice was added, and the whole poured over the peaches and bread crumbs. Then it was put in the oven to bake, and in the meantime she whipped to a stiff froth the whites of two eggs. At the lapse of ten minutes the pudding was taken from the oven, and the whites of the eggs were piled on top of it and sprinkled over with sugar. Then the whole was returned to the oven to firm the eggs and prevent them from falling.

APPLE SNOW.

Apples, eggs, lemon peel. Take ten good sized apples, peel, core, and cut into quarters; put into a saucepan with the rind of one lemon, and water sufficient to keep them from burning—about half a pint. When the apples are tender, take out the lemon peel, and beat the apples to a pulp; let them cool, and stir in the whites of ten eggs, beaten to a strong froth. Add half a pound of powdered sugar, and continue beating until the mixture is quite stiff. Put on a glass dish and serve either with custard made with the yolks of the eggs, or with cream.

One of the greatest trials for a housewife is that of getting a good gloss upon starched clothing or articles. A correspondent of the Rural New Yorker, says she mixes a tablespoonful of ordinary kerosene oil with about two quarts of starch, and the gloss is equal to that of any laundried article.

Salt and ashes mixed in the drink of hogs has a great tendency to ward off disease. A solution of copperas also is often useful to purge them from worms.

KING OF THE BLOOD.

The Most Thorough Purifier of the Blood Yet Discovered.

Cures all Humors, from a Common Eruption to the Worst Scrofula.

It purifies the Blood.
It invigorates the Liver.
It regulates the Bowels.
It strengthens the Stomach.
It gives vivacity in place of lassitude; cheerfulness in place of gloom, and robust vigor in place of debility.

Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Disordered Liver, Constipation, Nervous Affections, General Debility, in short all the numerous diseases and discomforts caused by impure blood are speedily conquered by this powerful corrector, the chief and sovereign of all ancient or modern medical discoveries—KING OF THE BLOOD.

ITS NAME IS ITS BEST DESCRIPTION as it is a royal dispenser of the blessings of health and vanquishes the foes that lurk in the blood.

It banishes PIMPLES, SALT RHEUM, SCALY ERUPTIONS, ULCERS, SCALD HEAD, FEVER SORES, and all SCROFULOUS DISORDERS.

It checks CONSUMPTION in its early stages. It has frequently cured it when advanced.

It disperses TUMORS and CANCERS without the Surgeon's knife.

It cures DROPSY, general or partial.

It cures FEMALE WEAKNESS and DISEASE.

It reduces in a safe and effectual manner all swellings, external or internal.

It eradicates the effects of Venerial Disease and Mineral Poisons, and establishes a sound constitution.

Many certificates, much further information and full directions for using, will be found in the pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," in which each bottle is enclosed.

Price $1 per bottle containing 12 ounces, or 40 to 50 doses. Sold by dealers in medicine.

If your druggist does not happen to have it on hand, request him to order a supply of it for you, as it will be cheaper than for you to order direct of us, and less trouble.

R. Calkins, M. D., of Rochester, N. Poverty and Suffering.

"I was dragged down with debt, poverty and suffering for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, which did them no good.—I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well and none of us have seen a sick day since, and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost—I know it.

THE EVENING NEWS EXCURSION.

The fourth annual excursion to the White Mountains, gotten up by the Detroit Evening News, will start this year from Detroit on the morning of Wednesday, July 7th next. This excursion will not only be more elaborate than any of its predecessors, but the price has also been reduced to $20 for the round trip from Detroit to Portland and return.

The route embraces six special features, any one of which would be a sufficient attraction in itself. 1st. A half day will be spent among the Thousand Islands of the St. Lawrence. 2d. The famous Rapids of the St. Lawrence will not be apt to be soon forgotten or to suffer by comparison. 3d. Quebec, with its fortifications and history. 4th. The White Mountains (for particulars see guide book). 5th. The Sea shore, and 6th, but not least, Niagara Falls.

July is the best time of year in which to visit the mountains and the hotels are not apt to be as crowded in July as they will be a month later.

The time of starting has also been arranged to accommodate teachers who desire to attend the last two (most interesting) days of the National Teachers' Institute at Saratoga, and which can be reached by stopping over at Montreal and taking a short "run" south across Lake Champlain and Lake George.

The price of Tickets for the round trip of nearly 2,000 miles will be $20, which is $5 less than last year. Holders of these tickets are entitled to strictly first-class accommodations upon any regular train during the lifetime of the ticket; all will be expected to start together July 7, but may return separately and at their leisure. Tickets will only be sold by W. H. Brearley, office Detroit Evening News, and at the Detroit offices of the Grand Trunk railroad.

While the tickets are good but for 14 days, anyone and everyone can get them extended to 45 days, before they purchase them and without extra charge, by complying with the conditions that are fully described in the new guide book for 1880, which will be out some time in April, and will be sent in the order of application upon receipt of five three cent stamps.

A few Tecumseh people went on this excursion last year, and we presume more will avail themselves of the privilege this season.

Free of Cost.

DR. KING'S NEW DISCOVERY for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, etc., is given away in trial bottles free of cost to the afflicted. If you have a severe cough, cold, difficulty of breathing, hoarseness or any affection of the throat or lungs by all means give this wonderful remedy a trial. As you value your existence you cannot afford to let this opportunity pass. We cannot afford, and would not give the remedy away unless we knew it would accomplish what we claim for it. Thousands of hopeless cases have already been completely cured by it. There is no medicine in the world that will cure one-half the cases that Dr. King's New Discovery will cure. For sale by M. Wright & Son, Tecumseh.

Thousands of soldiers and heirs are entitled to Pensions with payment from date of discharge or death, if applied for before Jan. 1, 1880. Wound, accidental injury or disease entitles to a Pension. Bounty and back pay collected. Increase of Pension secured. This firm established in 1866. Address, enclosing stamp, EDSON BROS., U. S. Claim Attorneys, 711 G Street, Washington, D. C.

Feels Young Again.

"My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy, inactive condition of the whole system, headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicines did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old.—We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family."—A lady, Providence, R. I.

Montreal Heard From.

R. L. Mosely, of Montreal, Canada, certified Sept. 27, 1879, that he had suffered terribly from dyspepsia, and was completely cured by taking Warner's Safe Bitters. He says: "My appetite is good, and I suffer no inconvenience from eating hearty meals." These Bitters are also a specific for all skin diseases.

THE READY FAMILY SOAP MAKER:

LEWIS' LYE

98 PER CENT. PURE.
(Patented.)
FINELY POWDERED.
HIGHLY PERFUMED.

The strongest and purest Lye made. Will make 12 pounds of the best Marseilles Hard Soap in 20 minutes without boiling.
The best water-softener made.
The best disinfectant.
The following are some of the advantages obtained by using Lewis' 98 Per Cent. Powdered Lye:

First. It is packed in an iron can with any or removable lid, easily taken off and leaving the contents exposed, thereby saving the trouble, annoyance, and danger (from flying particles), so with other Lyes, which, being sold in tin cans, must be broken with a hammer to get the Lye out.
Second. It being a fine powder, you can remove the lid and pour out all the contents, being always ready for use.
Third. A teaspoonful or more can be used, as in water-softening, scrubbing, etc. and the lid returned to the can, and thereby save the balance of contents. With other Lyes all must be dissolved at once and used in a short time, or the strength is gone.
Fourth. Absolute purity. Free from all adulterations.
Fifth. The best Soap can be made in from ten to twenty minutes with this Lye.
Sixth. No failure is possible in making Soap with this Lye when the simple directions given are followed.
Seventh. One can of this Powdered Lye is equal to twenty pounds of Sal Soda or Washing Soda.
Eighth. One can of this Lye will saponify one pound more of grease than any other Concentrated Lye, Ball Potash, or Saponifier.
Ninth. This Lye is 8 per cent. stronger than any other Lye or Potash.
Tenth. One to two teaspoonfuls will soften a tub of the hardest water.
Eleventh. One teaspoonful will thoroughly cleanse Sinks, Drains, or Closets.
Invaluable for killing Roaches, Mice, Rats, etc. The best article for washing Trees.

TUTT'S PILLS Cure KIDNEY Complaint.
TUTT'S PILLS CURE TORPID LIVER.
TUTT'S PILLS [illegible] PERITE.

DR. TUTT has succeeded in combining in these pills the heretofore antagonistic qualities of a STRENGTHING, PURGATIVE, and a PURIFYING TONIC.
Their first apparent effect is to increase the appetite by causing the food to properly assimilate. Thus the system is nourished, and by their tonic action on the digestive organs, regular and healthy evacuations are produced.
The rapidity with which PERSONS TAKE ON FLESH while under the influence of these pills, indicates their adaptability to nourish the body, hence their efficacy in curing nervous debility, melancholy, dyspepsia, wasting of the muscles, sluggishness of the liver, chronic constipation, and imparting health & strength to the system. Sold everywhere. Price 25 cents. Office 39 Murray Street, NEW YORK.

KIDNEY-WORT

PERMANENTLY CURES
KIDNEY DISEASES, LIVER COMPLAINTS, Constipation and Piles.

DR. R. H. CLARK, South Hero, Vt., says, "In cases of KIDNEY TROUBLES it has acted like a charm. It has cured many very bad cases of PILES, and has never failed to act efficiently."
NELSON FAIRCHILD, of St. Albans, Vt., says, "It is of priceless value. After sixteen years of great suffering from Piles and Costiveness it completely cured me."
C. S. HOGABON, of Berkshire, says, "one package has done wonders for me in completely curing a severe Liver and Kidney Complaint."

IT HAS WONDERFUL POWER. WHY?

BECAUSE IT ACTS ON THE LIVER, THE BOWELS AND KIDNEYS AT THE SAME TIME.
Because it cleanses the system of the poisonous humors that develope in Kidney and Urinary diseases, Biliousness, Jaundice, Constipation, Piles, or in Rheumatism, Neuralgia and Female disorders.
KIDNEY-WORT is a dry vegetable compound and can be sent by mail prepaid.

THE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

A LARGE ATTENDANCE OF TEACHERS AND AN INTERESTING MEETING.

Synopsis of the Lectures Delivered — Report of the Monday's, Tuesday's and Wednesday's Sessions.

The Teachers' Institute for the county of Lenawee, at Tecumseh, opened Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Opera House had been fitted up on purpose for the Institute. The chairs in the middle of the floor had been removed, and desks taken from the High School arranged in suitable rows, for the teachers who flocked in with their pencils and note books to take notes on the proceedings.

By the time the Institute was called to order, Supt. Spencer presiding, the auditorium of the Opera House was well filled with both male and female teachers from different parts of the State. The first half hour was spent in preliminary work, in enrolling all those present intending to attend the Institute.

It started under very favorable circumstances; the teachers all manifesting considerable interest in the work, and filling up the space provided for them, thus showing that the number of those present was fully equal to the number the conductor of the Institute expected.

The Superintendents and Professors appointed as lecturers were

Prof. E. G. Walker, Adrian College.
Supt. J. C. Jones, East Saginaw.
Rev. T. P. Pradden, Lansing.
Prof. D. S. Stephens, Adrian Col.
Prof. Z. S. Harrison, Kalamazoo.
Prof. W. W. Wendell, Clinton.
Dr. L. G. North, Tecumseh.
Supt. Z. C. Spencer, Tecumseh, Local Com. and Conductor.

Supt. Spencer opened the lectures with a talk on "Public Instruction."

He stated the duties of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction which consist of publishing the school reports, visiting each school in the State, personally or otherwise, proportioning the school fund, increasing the educational power of the state, etc. He said the object of the Institute was to afford a means by which the teachers throughout the State could obtain a knowledge of the experience of the best professors and instructors in the State, and their opinions on matters pertaining to the profession.

Teachers at these Institutes have a great advantage for the correction of their errors in school government.—Here they may become acquainted and exchange ideas. Another object is to inspire teachers with a love for books that will be serviceable to them in teaching.

The Institute is carried on by the funds obtained from the fees for teachers certificates.

Prof. Walker then addressed the institute on Primary Arithmetic. He, together with Prof. Spencer, clearly showed themselves to be advocates of the new school of education, and entered freely into the spirit of it.

He started with the assertion that there are two grades of instruction:—The grade where processes are employed and the grade where principles are used. Children necessarily in primary departments are taught, for the greater part, processes. A child learns by means of perception, then memory, then reason.

In teaching arithmetic in the primary departments, something to count with is of the greatest importance, as blocks of wood. The instruction in numbers should be in counting objects. Let the pupil start with naming one object, then two, three, etc. Let him count the objects in the school-room, and give sentences employing the different numerals. Then he should represent the numbers in writing by perpendicular lines. The teacher should see that the work is as neat as possible, not allowing any negligence, which is woefully noticeable in country schools. After they have become acquainted with this system of marks, show them that the Arabic system is a saving of time and space.

The Professor laid considerable stress on "numerical stories," i.e. stories which mention a number of persons or other objects. A great benefit being derived from them by asking the pupils to count the number of objects mentioned. Addition and substraction of numbers, represented by a single figure, should be taught from actual experience with objects. Here the Professor dropped the subject until the next day.

After a recess of fifteen minutes Prof. Wendell, of Clinton, took the floor and gave some general facts pertaining to the Civil Government of the U. S., which every teacher should teach to his scholars. He recommended that five minutes should be given to it each day. He gave a short account of the growth of government, and the different forms now existing. Then he took up the government of the U. S. and confined his remarks to the features of our form of government. We take some of the points which he urged the teachers to take note of. Our government has passed through three forms: colonial, the form under the articles of confederation, and the present form. It has three branches of power: legislative, executive and judiciary. Legislative branch is divided into House of Representatives and the Senate. The speaker described then the duties of the President and the cabinet. Then he passed to the judiciary department.—He divided it into the Supreme Court, the Circuit Court and the District Court. He described the Habeas Corpus Act, the ex-Post Facto law, the Bill of Attainder, etc. which it is necessary for all children to know.

Supt. Spencer, of Tecumseh, followed, speaking on the History of Education.

He exhorted the teachers, if they wished to become members of the profession of teaching, to commence the reading of the history of education. For in this we find the laws underlying the rules and methods of the profession. In this way a teacher can place herself beyond the sphere of an empiric. The empirical teacher can not be excused as a member of another profession for experimenting, as the mind is too valuable to be the material for the experiments of an empiric. We should study its workings and thus understand the principles governing our methods of instruction. In this way we may learn to strive after the ideal.

It is the duty of teachers to impress upon the public that they are members of a profession. Then they may meet with better success.

A teacher, in order to be successful, must have professional skill besides methods and knowledge. This professional skill can be obtained at normal schools and at the University of Michigan. In Ontario every teacher must undergo six months instruction in "how to teach?" and the reports show that the schools have advanced 50 per cent under this system. He recommended the following books: Alexander Barnes' "Science of Ed." Herbert Spencer's book on Ed., which advocates the new school. Kennedy's "School and Family," one of the best books. Hallman's "History of Pedagogy." Quick's "Educational Reformers."

These books cost from 75 cents to two dollars. E. E. Steiger, of New York, publishes a lot of tracts and essays, 25 of which he will send for 50 cents.

In China, Confucius, 250 B. C., was the first teacher. His idea was to impart what is already known, i. e., to teach what has been handed down and not to incite investigation. Their system in writing was to copy upon transparent paper placed over the signs to be written. Just merely blind imitation, so in reading and the other branches. The Japanese differed very little from them.

The Greek education aimed at the harmonious culture of the body and soul. From it has been derived the foundation of our present system. Every teacher should become acquainted with the methods of Pythagoras, the Spartan; and of Socrates, of the Socratic school. Socrates established the true method; it was based on the asking of questions and thus drawing out of the pupil his knowledge. The Roman education was more practical than the Greek, it aimed at the real.

Lord Bacon was the founder of the inductive method of teaching, which is in vogue to-day. Following him was Coeminius, Rosseau, Froevel, Herbert Spencer and others. So at the present we have two schools of education; the old method which taught things already known, and the new which incites experiments and investigation. Neither of these are perfect, and the true method is an amalgamation of the two.

The Institute was here dismissed for supper.

MONDAY EVENING.

In the evening a large audience greeted Prof. Walker, who was announced to deliver a lecture on Edgar A. Poe. The audience consisted largely of citizens of Tecumseh, showing that they had an interest in the Institute.

The program was opened by a solo by Miss Anna Brewer.

Prof. Walker was then introduced. He delivered a very pleasant lecture, showing himself to be a great admirer of Poe. He thought that Poe did not write for his own time, but was one of those unfortunate ones who gain present censure and future praise. He recounted the sad, painful life of Poe. How he became discontented with his many attempts at obtaining an education. How he was twice married. How he became restless. How his brightened hopes were blasted by the loss of his expected property. How he went to the home of his aunt to seek temporary pleasures. How he turned to journalism and displayed his eminent literary ability. How the old phantom of despair came over him again, and pushed him out into the world again, held down by poverty and regret for his deceased wife to give up his mind to his peculiar weird compositions.

The Prof. assigned to Poe the praise of being "America's greatest genius," defending him from the charge of being an habitual drunkard. He classed him with Keats, as regards his style, but he introduced peculiarities into his compositions which placed him really alone. Mr. Walker then discussed the merits of his poems. He recited several of his poems with good effect, especially "The Raven." He described his poems in such a way that he revealed that he was well acquainted with his subject.

The exercises of the evening were closed by a solo by Mrs. C. H. McConnell.

TUESDAY MORNING.

The Institute was opened in the morning by devotional exercises by Rev. Mr. Conley, and singing.

The first lecture was on "School Organization," by Prof. Walker. He opened with the statement: "There are two things which the oftener and the more steadfastly we consider, fill the mind with an ever new rising admiration of reverence, the starry heavens above the moral law within." No other person save the teacher is willing to enter into his work without a certain former knowledge of what he has got to do. This is where the tripping stone of teachers is. The teacher should have such knowledge that he may avoid unnecessary difficulties at the opening of the school; quick judgment and prompt planing are two necessary qualities. What steps should the teacher take preparatory to his term's work? He should visit both the district and former teacher; learn what record of previous work has been kept; what regulations have been made by the board; if none, attend to the matter; what is needed in and about the school house; be early at school; let the opening exercises be short; assign work at once.

Prof. Walker then dropped the subject until next day.

Prof. Spencer then spoke on "Elementary Sounds."

He gave the objects of elementary sounds as follows: To train the organs of hearing to accuracy; to train the organs of speech to flexibility. Three things are necessary; to have an exact knowledge of elementary sounds, to know their exact places, to apply this knowledge in conversation, reading, etc., constantly. Sounds are classified into vocals, sub-vocals, aspirates. To produce these, the organs of reproduction are the glottis, teeth, tongue, pallate, lips, and vocal ligiments. The diacritical marks are the macron, dots, circumflex, wave, dot and breve. These marks belong to the vowel. For the consonants: the bar above, through and below; cedilla, dot, suspended bar. These marks are of the greatest value in learning to read, in mastering sounds, in consulting the dictionary and in private study. There are 44 elementary sounds, 20 vocals, 15 sub-vocals, 9 aspirates. These should be learned from Webster, and the whole school, primary and high school, should be made perfectly familiar with them.

At this point Prof. Walker took up his subject "Arithmetic," at writing and reading numbers. For this the teacher should have bundles of sticks in bunches of ten, a hundred, etc. In addition, subtraction, multiplication and division, the relations of figures to each other should be shown to the pupils by using the common signs of operation. First in exercises illustrating only one of these. Then examples combining all. Be sure to let the pupils do the work and allow them the proper length of time which is necessary to neatness. Continue this work until no time is required for thinking concerning the results. In this work make frequent use of "numerical stories."

Recess was here announced, after which the exercises were resumed by a lecture on "Primary Reading," by Supt. Spencer.

He said that reading was the most important exercise in our schools, and yet sadly neglected. It is of prime importance that a person should become a good reader at least by the time he has attained the age of 12, because at this time many children give up their school education. How is it to be taught? The old method was by the alphabet system which is condemned for being way behind the times, but yet still in practice in some schools. The word method which is based upon psychological laws. The steps of mental development are the obscure unit of perception, analysis, synthesis and a clear understanding. Hence teaching should be in agreement with these laws. For this reason in geography, a child is first given the globe and by analysis and synthesis it obtains a clear knowledge. The alphabet method proceeds with synthesis at the start which is in direct opposition to the laws of the workings of the mind. The word method presents to the child at first, the unit, which is during the progress analyzed into parts and then by synthesis leads to a clear perception of the object. The phonic method is based on sounds. It is too difficult for general adoption. Each of these systems has its faults, so the best method is a combination of these systems. Hence to teach reading proceed in this manner—first, teach the child about 100 words by the word method. Then introduce the phonic method. By this show the pupil what sounds the letters represent. Have them spell phonically. In this work you can introduce the diacritical marks, in doing this use the marks that represent the short sounds first.

Dr. North at this point delivered his lecture on "School Hygiene."

He first gave some theoretical reasons for a school teacher to pay attention to the health of the pupils. He said a child sitting in a room of bad temperature can not perform the usual amount of work on account of the unhealthy effect of the temperature on the mind. The pupil who is allowed to lean over his desk at study is liable to injure the muscles of the back and the spinal column. For these two reasons, with many more, the teacher should pay especial attention to school hygiene. Mental development must have a corresponding physical development. At the present time, on account of the lack of attention given to school hygiene, the mental development has attained the extreme height that the present physical development will permit. Before beginning to teach, a teacher should look over the premises and school buildings where he is about to teach. Compel the school board to make provisions for counteracting all the evils which may exist. Insist on cleanliness, examine all the registers, etc.; see that the room is swept clean, have the well cleaned out after standing during a vacation. Fill up all pools of water on the premises; use disinfectants, as lime, ashes, etc., where they are needed. If there are windows on all sides of the school room, have the light shut out on one side at least. The light should never come from the front. The ceiling should be white, as it is a good reflector. The Dr. then passed to near-sightedness or imperfect refraction. In the High School departments only 74 per ct. have normal eyes. Then he gave some very lucid explanations of the cause for persons drawing the object of sight nearer to the eye, by means of figures on the blackboard. Then he urged teachers to speak to the parents of all near-sighted scholars, insisting on some treatment. This peculiarity of the eye is hereditary, and if no preventives intervene, the whole race will become near-sighted. Anything that produces congestion in the head brings on near-sightedness. Bad seats in the school-room are also hurtful. The rule for determining the near-sighted students is as follows: Take ordinary reading matter, and if the student in order to read it, holds the paper nearer than 12 inches to the eye, he is near-sighted. Always have room cool and feet warm; plenty of light; see that the sun does not shine directly upon the object; that the page is held perpendicularly; that the page is not less than 15 inches from the eye. The atmosphere of the school-room is a subject for great consideration. Two principles of ventilation: the removal of the air by letting on pure air. This is the best if it can be carried out, but really too expensive. The other method is to pass air into the room through registers in the floor. The warm air immediately rises to the top of the room, but also the carbonic acid gas passing from our lungs rises, which has been shown by experiments. So this method is faulty. A good way for country schools is to have a "jacket" around the stove which is connected with the outside. Then the draft carries out the impure air. Avoid allowing a draft striking pupils; let the windows down from the top. Moisten the atmosphere by having a dish of water on the stove, which will diffuse moisture through the atmosphere. In high schools where there are many stories, don't permit young ladies to climb any more stair steps than absolutely possible, for here is the cause of many life-long diseases.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON.

At two o'clock the pencils and note books came out again, and Supt. Spencer took the floor on "Helps in Teaching," from whose remarks we glean the following ideas:

All our helps may be classed under two heads—nature and art. The teacher has to do with the mind, therefore he should understand the mind the same as a physician. Some teachers do employ the laws of psychology without being conscious of it. This comes from intuition. Teachers should know in what order the development of mental faculties proceeds; the rapidity of this development; what tendencies to distortion, the mental faculties are liable to, the relations of knowledge to the mental faculties. Also the best methods of

RIP VAN WINKLE.

The Toledo Rip Van Winkle company will appear at the Opera House, on Thursday evening of next week. The entertainment will be for the benefit of the Tecumseh Guard, which fact should insure a good house.

Among many press notices we select the following, showing the character of this company:

Mr. Andrews, who personifies "Rip" is decidedly natural; while little Anna Gruber as "Meenie," "Rip's" daughter, is a little star. This entire company gave evidence of being gentlemen and ladies of refinement, and their playing as a whole was excellent. They have made many friends, who will be pleased to meet them again in Bryan.—Bryan Press.

A crowded house is in attendance at the Rip Van Winkle Matinee, and the entertainment is being enjoyed, for Mr. Andrews, as Rip, and Miss Nelson, as Gretchen, are fairly eclipsing themselves.—Toledo Bee.

Mr. Andrews' rendition of his part evinced careful study and a thoroughly correct conception of the character of the "Vagabond of the Kaatskills." The waking scene in the fourth act was really a magnificent piece of acting, and compared very favorably with the personations of Jefferson and McWade. In the last scene, his meeting with his daughter, who did not recognize him, and the old man's despair thereat, was very fine and the audience showed their thorough appreciation by hearty applause. Miss Gertie Nelson, as Gretchen, was very good, and showed considerable ability, receiving a call before the curtain at the close of the second act.—Toledo Blade, Dec. 22, 1879.

MR. JOHN COLLINS of Elkhart, Ind. has taken a situation in W. J. Kies' clothing store. Mr. Collins is a man of good experience in the clothing business and will add greatly to Mr. Kies' facilities for doing business.

OUR Institute report has been entirely gotten up by W. D. Robbins, who is a special member of the HERALD staff this week, having been engaged for that purpose. The report in this issue covers the entire meeting up to and including yesterday's session.

MR. A. K. WALDRON has been putting up a new windmill at his house. He has made connections with both the house and barn, and thus has water constantly supplying a tank in the house and a reservoir near the barn. The arrangement works like a charm, and he is very much pleased with it.

LAVERN WHEELER has been taking a lot of new stereoscopic views, most of which are bird's-eye views about the village, taken from the tower of the Opera House. The collection is something new and is a very fine one. He also has a fine view of the new Presbyterian organ.

BISHOP HARRIS of the Eastern diocese of Michigan, conducted services at St. Peter's church last Wednesday. The bishop is comparatively a young man but he is evidently a man of ripe scholarship and an eloquent pulpit orator. He made a most favorable impression here, not only among his own people, but also among many others who had the pleasure of hearing him.

THE Organ Concert at the Baptist church last week was a very fine entertainment. The instrumental selections on the organ were superb and the vocal part of the program by home talent was of more than ordinary merit. The concert yielded a handsome sum over and above expenses. Our Baptist friends are well pleased with their new organ, and they certainly have good reason to be for it is a splendid instrument.

THE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

Continued.

presenting things to the mind. Another great help to a teacher is to be a good student. A teacher must have a desire to learn and be an earnest student. The teacher should have abundant knowledge so that he may not be embarrassed by questions in the class. The teacher must be progressive, must have an ideal that he can never attain; for attaining an ideal is failure, for progression then stops. Avoid empiricism, thereby avoid waste of time, of material. Professional study is necessary, which is furnished in the Normal schools. The rational method should be used, not the instinctive method. Aim at self improvement by reading in your methods. The Jesuits' school had a perfect system; instruction was oral; one teacher would conduct a class through the whole course. They fostered emulation; all pupils were in pairs, whose duty it was to correct each other on all occasions. All classes were divided into two camps, called Rome and Carthage, for the purpose of inciting emulation; they held concertations; they avoided corporal punishment. The Jesuits made their explanations very slowly, so as to make a deeper impression on the pupil's mind. They explained on the day before the lessons for the succeeding day. Another aid for teachers is to remember that nature's method is the archetype for all method. A child six years old knows more than he will ever learn afterwards; he has more permanent ideas; he has fixed habits, and according to men of high standing, a child will be through life as he is at seven years of age. So proceed from the known to the unknown. Let all your methods be methods of investigation. Mr. Quick says: "Before a pupil will throw his energy into his study he must find that study interesting in itself or in its results." In order to interest scholars, have an animated style and an abundance of teachers. He was energetic without bustle or excitement and quiet without a suspicion of dullness or apathy; by frequently changing the employment of his class and requiring smartness in everything that was done, he kept them on the alert.

Then Prof. Walker took the stand to give the Institute some hints on "Spelling."

The first essential thing is the attention of all, pronounce distinctly, but avoid strained pronunciation.—Don't speak in an elevated tone of voice. Give short lessons. Begin the spelling with the words the pupil uses, spelling orally and writing. Continue this instruction through the whole school course. Pronounce words from the reading books, spelling books and other books, also misspelled words wherever found. Dictate sentences, minding the use of capitals and punctuation, also spell by sound distinctly. Use and instruct how to use the dictionary. Teach few rules. The Prof. here made a practical illustration of how he would conduct a spelling class by having all the teachers spell a certain lot of words.

The important subject of drawing then came up, upon which Supt. Spencer spoke.

This should be an element in education as it enters so largely into the employment of persons to-day. Up to a few years ago our designers were imported from France, but since Smith was hired to introduce drawing into the schools of Massachusetts, it has been introduced into the best schools in the U. S. There are two aims in drawing: accuracy of movement, then rapidity. Here the Forbiger system leads. First, take straight and curve lines; explain to them the meaning of these lines. Here the Supt. had to stop on account of the limit of time.

A recess was taken. When called, the Institute prepared to listen to some remarks on "Morals and Manners," by Prof. Walker.

"Whatever you would have appear in the nation's life you must put into the schools." "Men die but society goes on forever." He took these thoughts for his text. Warning them against selfishness, he advised teachers to be possessors of good morals and manners, for their own success in life as well as to insure justice in the government of their schools and an example for the school. A pupil will soon form an idea whether a teacher is just or not; and if a school thinks a teacher is unjust, it is impossible for the teacher to succeed. A teacher should be self-possessed, patient, friendly, both to pupils and to parents. A teacher should also be sociable, cheerful and generous; be refined in your manners; don't be affected and stupid. Be considerate of the wants of all your pupils. In short, have a high aim. What shall we inculcate in pupils? Teach your pupils to know and feel right and justice. To do this consider this thought, "a human heart is a fortress that can be taken better by indirect means than by direct, while special times may be used yet it is best to seize fit occasions." "Sensible Etiquette of the best Society, Customs, Manners, Morals and Home Culture" was recommended as a book of reference.

The question box was then opened and the questions answered. One answer might receive especial notice: Never inflict corporal punishment in presence of the school.

TUESDAY EVENING.

The increase of the audience of Tuesday over Monday was quite perceptible in the evening, as well as during the day. The number of enrollments on the second day reached over one hundred, and still every reason to expect that they would be many more on succeeding days.

The exercises Tuesday evening were opened by a quartette "Hail Smiling Morn." Mrs. Munford and Bidwell, and Messrs. Strong and Conkling.—The lecturer of the evening, Prof. Stevens, of Adrian, was then introduced. His subject was "The Need of the Hour." The gist of the lecture was as follows: Nature has not provided for the perfection of man as for a grain of wheat; but she has furnished him with a mind by which he can devise his own means for perfection. To do this is the supreme end of every human life, but we vaguely understand it. Many of us are willing, like the grain of wheat, to receive our support from what nature has provided, but unwilling to assume energy enough to find support in other things.

Too low questions fill the mind of the people to-day; we think too much of what we shall wear, what we shall eat. Our minds should be engaged with such questions as, how shall we act? how shall we live a moral life?—Education is not to obtain a living but to make a man in its fullest sense.—We do not live in order that we may eat and clothe ourselves but eat and clothe ourselves in order that we may live an upright life.

Man is here to develop himself, and the greater part of him is in his moral character and being. Society acknowledges a man, who subserves desire to duty, who hates evil, and loves good, whose heart beats in sympathy for all afflicted fellow men as an ideal. We support schools, academies, colleges, universities for the filling the mind of youth with knowledge, while the culture of their notions, the moral culture of their souls is left absolutely alone to prepare itself for the battles of life. In short we have mind education but no heart education, which is far more important, for without it you turn out sharp witted rascals. The church cannot do it as they have no trained teachers, no extended time, so it devolves upon the school and home.

We should have a body of doctrines for the formation of moral character, we should have trained teachers. Our system of education is lopped-sided, it develops only one side of a man and the poorer side at that. Science may have benefited man but it never stayed the assassin's knife, it never opened the miser's heart.

In order to perpetuate our form of government we must develop our moral natures. The result of our system of education shows itself in the "busted" savings banks, the fall of ministers from grace, the frauds of public men. It teaches men to take advantage of all unfair means. The living of men beyond their incomes, the financial panics, are the immediate results of this one-sided culture. A lack of sympathy between different classes of citizens results from this.—The rich prey upon the poor; the poor combine against the rich; hence the result of communism. The fate of our nation depends upon our education.—No nation can be upreared upon the basis of selfishness. Communism is not the only result of this.

The only check for these evils is to look to the development of the sentiments as to the present education of the mind. The elements which such an ideal sho'd possess are to be able to discriminate between good and bad; to sacrifice self for the good of others, to have reverence for and a belief in God. How is this ideal to be attained? It is only in the home and school; but here we find no extended methodical discipline. Every parent should seek to introduce into the mind of the child an ideal of justice combined with human love. Next to the parent the teachers in the school should seek to develop the moral culture of the pupils. The teacher should acquaint himself with the laws which govern human sympathy and love, and methods for assuaging human passions.

Exercises closed by a quartette "The Maiden and the Blackbird."

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

The day's work was opened by the usual morning devotional exercises by Rev. Mr. Bigelow, and singing.

Prof. Walker took the platform first in the morning and resumed the topic of "School Organization" at the point where he left it Tuesday. The greater part of the advice was as follows:—In taking the names let the older pupils write their names and the younger ones give their names. Do not stand at the table while taking them but pass around to the desks of the pupils. Assign the work for the afternoon so that the pupils can have something to do in the forenoon, Tell them the order of recitations, as nearly as possible so that they can arrange their duties. (It must be remembered that these directions are for teachers on opening the school at the first of the term.)

Now, supposing the school is all enrolled and program of recitations made out. Then, if in a country school, seek to consolidate the classes. If your pupils have different text books on the same subject take recourse to the school board and let them prescribe the text book. If they will not, then go to the parents. If you want to introduce a certain text book, write to the agent for that book, with the permission of the board, and tell him you will introduce his books if he will send a sufficient number free of charge. Nine times out of ten this will be successful. Another method to consolidate is to alternate your classes, if you have too many for one day. Aim to have as close a classification as possible, i. e., let the pupils study the relative work in all the text books for his special grade.—If your program is faulty don't change it at once, but wait until you have determined on some scheme which will remove all the trouble.

In making out a program assign time to the student for the study of his work, as well as for the time of recitation. Give each pupil a program of of his work. Leave as a record a list of pupils in each class, a copy of your program, a statement of the work done by each class during the term, suggestions as helps to the next teacher. These aids will be of great value to the succeeding teacher. In assigning sittings do as you please about it. Don't make many rules.

Supt. Spencer succeeded Prof. Walker, taking up the subject of "Elementary Sounds."

For the training of pupils in this work he gave the teachers the elementary sounds found in the dictionary, and the divisions of them. The teacher should proceed in this way for the teaching of the phonic method. Have the sounds given in concert and then singly, by the class, have the representations of the sounds explain the marks, classify the sounds, ask the pupils for a list of words containing the sounds, lastly correct these words of the pupils. Pursue this order of procedure with all the sounds.

In having the class give the sounds of vowels in words first have them pronounce the word, then the word with the last consoants dropped, then with both preceding and succeeding consonants.

Recipe for making copying pads for use in schools.—1½ oz. white glue, by weight; 3 oz. water, by measure; let it simmer 1½ hours in a water bath; add 6 oz. of glycerine; stir it well and pour it into a dish 6x10 and ½ inch deep.

For the ink dissolve "B. B." analine in alcohol to the required thickness.

Prof. Walker was now called up to speak on "Arithmetic."

He commenced on fractions, and gave the following hints: Aim to have the pupil understand the relation of the numerator and denominator. Teach that the fraction is a thing in itself as well as a part of a thing. The denominator is the name of the fraction and the numerator indicates the number we have. Illustrate to the pupils the process of changes in the numerator and denominator. Explain fully the method of reducing from higher to lower terms and vice versa. Continued fractions, the true remainder, and such things should be dropped out in instructing the young pupils in arithmetic.

After the recess at this point, Supt. Spencer took up his unfinished subject of "Primary Reading."

The method which embraces the other methods is generally known as the "combination method." This is the method of teaching the system: Teach about 100 words by sight; commence talking about the letters within ten days; analyze the words into their sounds, this is phonic spelling. Into their letters; this is spelling. Within from 6 to 10 weeks; gradually increase the phonic and decrease the word method. Where teachers mistake is, they present the unit but forget to analyze. Do not put off analyzing for a long time, then there will be no trouble in conducting the word method.—What are the objects of primary reading? It is certainly not to get information but to get the "tool," a vocabulary. Then you can get information by advanced reading. The object to be able to become entertaining readers is a subordinate object. How do we learn new words? When we look at a word the mind takes it in as a whole at the same time recognizing all its parts. This goes to show that the mind rapidly analyzes at first sight. Have daily copying from readers, two or three lines at least in this way they learn to use capitals and punctuation, and in higher grades the diacritical marks. The pupil when reading should face the class; in this way he gains confidence. As a rule teachers should have no book, in order to induce the scholar to read in such a manner that the teacher may, in the farthest corner of the room without a book, understand the pupil perfectly. Have the pupils read sentences backwards; have breathing exercises; have pupils stand erect. Never tell the pupil to do what he can do. To teach the phonic method, have them bring in words on their slates, and have them make out the sounds without aid. Have an abundance of juvenile books. With these children will learn to read by themselves. The books should have pictures, as these excite an interest in children and they become anxious to learn.

Time was up, and Mr. Spencer stopped for a class exercise by a class from the Tecumseh primary school, under the supervision of Miss Mary Frazer. The exercise consisted of reading a short selection and spelling the words, giving the respective elementary sounds of the letters, also repeating in concert the elementary sounds under their proper divisions. Combinations of letters that represented no word in the English language were placed upon the board, and the different diacritical marks were placed over the letters. The class, all under 10 years of age, could pronounce the words immediately, thus showing that the phonic method, as used in the Tecumseh schools, is a success.

DIED.

TAYLOR.—At his family residence in Macon, on the 27th inst., of pneumonia, William Taylor, aged 58 yrs, 8 months and 17 days.

CHATTERTON—In Tecumseh, on the 27th ult., Mrs. Harriet Grow Chatterton, relict of the late Bates Chatterton, Esq., aged seventy-four years and eight days.

Mrs. Chatterton was born in Vermont. In early life she removed with her father to the town of Victor, Ontario Co., New York. Here she was married and continued to reside till 1832, when she came with her husband to this State and settled in the town of Tecumseh. Here she consecrated herself anew to her family, to her forest home, and all the accidents, the good and ill of a pioneer life. Aware of her position and true to her purpose, she toiled on for some thirty-five years. By this time, years, and patient industry and the smile of heaven had given to the family a fair and well deserved competency. Husband and wife now wanted rest. They procured a home in town and removed to our village. Her husband soon died and she became a widow. With a daughter for her home companion, and in pleasant social intercourse with her many friends, she passed the time till suddenly and peacefully she was called up and away to the 'sweet home' of all the saints. We add but a word:

Mrs. Chatterton was a native of Vermont, descended from a family of intelligence and repute. They were connected with the Congregational church, their religion leaning to the Puritan type. By nature amiable and intelligent, and regulated by the purest of all religious faiths she developed a life of uncommon beauty and usefulness, the sudden close of which is widely and deeply regretted. Her life, and the place of rest will ever be sweet to her bereaved family, to an afflicted church, and to an appreciative people touched with grief.

OBITUARY.

On the 20th of February, there passed away from earth, Anna, wife of Edward Learnard, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew wilson, of the town of Franklin, aged 24 years. The deceased was greatly beloved in the community where she lived. Her cheerfulness and kindliness of disposition drew toward her a large circle of acquaintances; and her funeral was attended in the Congregational church by an immense concourse of people, testifying by their presence and sympathies their sense of the loss sustained, and their appreciation of the character of the departed. The complaint under which Mrs. Learnard sank (hip disease) caused her terrible suffering at times. She bore it, however, with christian patience; and, as her end drew near, she increasingly manifested a spirit of resignation to the Divine will, and departed with firm reliance in Christ. She leaves behind two children and a deeply afflicted husband upon whom this stroke falls with great severity, and who, in this visitation of providence, has the deepest sympathy of the neighborhood. OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

ADJOURNMENT OF CONGRESS.

Federal Election Laws—The United States Census—Pension Legislation.

From our Regular Correspondent.

Washington, March 27th, 1880.

It appears to be generally understood now that the anticipated early adjournment of Congress can not take place. Speaker Randall has up to within a few days held to the opinion that an end of the session could be reached before the time of either of the National Conventions, or as early as the 20th of May, but I think he, with every one else, has now abandoned the idea. The chances for it have grown beautifully less with each passing day. It is now almost the 1st of April, and as yet none of the more important appropriation bills, such as the legislative and sundry civil bills, have even been considered by the Appropriation Committee. It would puzzle a student of the proceedings of legislative bodies to tell just what the Forty-Sixth Congress has done during the four months, nearly, that it has been in session. While talking about adjournments it may be interesting to look back over the record of Presidential years in the past, from which it will be seen that the 1st of August is about an average, though it is to be hoped we shall not be stuck that bad this year. The following are the dates: 1833, July 16; 1836, July 4; 1840, July 21; 1844, June 17; 1848, August 14; 1852 August 31; 1856, August 18; 1860, June 25; 1864, July 4; 1868, July 27; 1872, June 10; 1876, August 15.

The rather sudden turn taken in the proceedings relative to the Federal election laws may possibly result in letting the Democrats down easily in that matter. A debate similar to that of the extra session was threatened, and in view of the decision of the Supreme Court touching the Constitutionality of these laws, the position of the Democrats in their efforts to annull them was a little uncomfortable, but the Springer-Garfield Amendment, making the execution of these laws strictly non-partisan, by placing the appointment of Marshals with the courts and dividing them equally between the parties, is accepted as an unexpected and happy issue out of these difficulties. There is a feeling among Republicans that General Garfield made a mistake in advocating this proposition and thus throwing away the great advantage held by his party. I am not sure that he does not himself so regard it now, as he voted no on the final adoption of the amendment. It was a rather curious circumstance to see a member voting against his own proposition, but that is what General Garfield did. It is generally believed that the President will sign the bill as passed.

It is drawing near to the time for the Census takers to commence operations—June 1st—yet the appointment of Supervisors is not completed.—There seems to be a good deal of difficulty in fixing them up to suit both the President and the Senate. Much curiosity and speculation as to our population is being indulged, and private statisticians are at work to see how near they can come by calculation and estimate to the actual figures. The figures show a rapid increase of gain over the previous decade, and it is claimed and acknowledged that the Southern and Western States have gained more rapidly in the past nine than in the previous ten years. Therefore, the estimate of the statistician above quoted seems to be far too low. According to the best information procurable, and the most careful calculation, the census will show the population in 1880 to be fully 47,000,000, or a gain of nearly 9,600,000 over the population 10 years before. The general estimate has been between 47,000,000 and 48,000,000, and there is small doubt that this will prove correct. It might be gratifying to the national pride to turn 50,000,000; but pride and arithmetic have nothing in common.

Proposed Pension legislation is attracting a great deal of attention now. The accumulated thousands of unadjusted cases before the Pension Bureau demands some relief, or some avenue of adjustment, though I do not think there is any disposition to legislate to further increase the ground of claims for pension. These are liberal enough, notwithstanding, numerous propositions of individual members to extend them. Judge Geddes of the House Pension Committee has prepared a bill the object of which is to provide a court for the adjudication of disallowed or rejected cases. There are about four thousand of these now before Congress—cases rejected for some cause or other by the Department, and come to Congress for relief, many of which possess merit that could be established by judicial inquiry. Some such tribunal is now unlikely to be established.

"I don't want a plaster," said a sick man to a druggist, "can't you give me something to cure me?" His symptoms were a lame back and disordered urine, and were a sure indication of kidney disease. The druggist told him to use Kidney-Wort and in a short time it effected a complete cure. Have you these symptoms? Then get a box to-day—before you become incurable. It is the cure; safe and sure.

HOW HE'D DO IT.

Several men were gathered at the door of a blacksmith shop, on Cass avenue, the other morning, when a school-boy, not over nine years of age, came along, with tears in his eyes, and one of the group asked:

"What's the matter, boy—fall down?"

"N-no, but I've got a hard 'rithmetic lesson, and I expect to get l-licked!" was the answer.

"Let me see; I used to be a king-bee on fractions."

The man took the book, turned to the page, and read:

"Rule 1—Find the least common multiple of the denominators of the fractions for the least common denominator. Divide this least common denominator by each denominator, and multiply both terms of the fractions by the quotient obtained by each denominator."

He read the rule aloud, and asked if any one could understand it. All shook their heads, and he continued:

"Well, now, I think I should go to work and discover the least uncommon agitator. I would then evolve a parallel according to the intrinsic deviator, and punctuate the thermometer."

"So would I!" answered every man in chorus, and one of them added: "I've worked 'em out that way a thousand times!"

Not one of the men, all of whom were in business and had made money, could even understand the working of the rule, much less work examples by it, and yet it was expected that a nine-year old boy should go to the blackboard and do every sum off-hand.—Detroit Free Press.

The North American Review

for April has for its leading article a paper entitled "McClellan's Last Service to the Republic," which covers the whole period of McClellan's military career, from the flank movement to the James to the battle of Antietam. It is intended to vindicate the General against the charge that he was overcautious and unnecessarily slow in his movements, and contains many statements of an interesting character. Sir Francis Hincks contributes a paper on the "Relations of Canada with the United States." The author's principal object is to show that the recently enacted Canadian Tariff is not an act of retaliation against the United States for their refusal to establish reciprocal free trade between the two countries in products that are natural to both. Canada, he says, is desirous of renewing the reciprocity treaty, and is ready to concede all reasonable demands. The Rev. David Swing writes about "The Failure of the Southern Pulpit." The discussion of the Third Term question, begun in the February number of the Review, is continued in the present number by the Hon. George S. Boutwell. Charles Stewart Parnell sets forth the reforms in the laws of land tenure which are advocated by himself and his political associates, under the heading "The Irish Land Question." The Book Notices are by Mr. Edward Cary. For sale by booksellers and newsdealers generally.

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly.

The April number of this admirable magazine comes to us very richly freighted; the contents are invariably brilliant in the literary and artistic departments, but in the present one are even more so than usual. "The New Irish Movement," by N. Robinson, gives a clear insight as to the political upheavals which have led to "Obstruction" and the agitation for a "Peasant Proprietory." The article is profusely illustrated. "Sketches of Highland Character" treats of Sheep Farming and Drovers. "Gentleman George," by Alfred H. Guernsey, is an article of great interest, especially in reference to the times of George the Fourth of England, the trial of Queen Caroline, etc., etc. The price of a single copy is only 25 cents; the annual subscription, $3; six months, $1.50. Address Frank Leslie's Publishing House, 53, 55 and 57 Park Place, New York.

Prize Butter at the N. Y. Fair.

There was a very find display of extra choice butter at the great International Dairy Fair. The packages that took the prizes were splendid samples of what gilt-edge butter ought to be, perfect in quality and color. Many of them were colored to a perfect June tint with Wells, Richardson & Co's Perfected Butter Color, the use of which was universally recommended both by the makers and the butter buyers. Sold by A. Anderson, Tecumseh.

Kidney-Wort is nature's remedy for Kidney and Liver diseases, Piles and Constipation.

From a Distinguished Physician.

Prof. Green, a distinguished allopathic physician, wrote to the Medical Record to the effect that after all other means had failed, he sent for the Kidney Cure (Safe Kidney and Liver Cure), and to his astonishment cured a serious case of Bright's Disease by administering it, and afterwards found it equally beneficial in other cases.

LEGAL NOTICES.

MORTGAGE SALE.

ON the 11th day of March, A. D. 1869, Jonas Weaver and Caroline M. Weaver by an indenture of mortgage made and executed by them on said 11th day of March, to Henry H. Rawson certain lands owned by said Caroline M. Weaver, which mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Lenawee county, Michigan, on the 26 day of November, A. D. 1869, in liber 87 of mortgages on pages 675 and 676, and which mortgage was duly assigned by said Henry H. Rawson to Jonas Weaver on the 6th day of November, A. D. 1879, which assignment was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of said county of Lenawee on the 25th day of November, A. D. 1880, in liber 99 of mortgages on page 422. There is claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date of this notice the sum of forty-four and 22-100 dollars and the sum of twenty-five dollars as an attorney fee which is also covenanted for in said mortgage, should any proceeding be taken to foreclose the said mortgage, no proceedings have been taken either in law or equity to recover the debt now on said mortgage or any part thereof. Default having been made in the terms of payment of said mortgage by reason of which the power of sale in said mortgage has become operative, notice is therefore hereby given that by virtue of said power of sale said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in said mortgage or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount due together with all legal costs and charges and said attorney fee of twenty-five dollars; said sale will be to the highest bidder and will be made on the thirtieth day of May, 1880, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at the front door of Dean's Opera House on Toledo street in the city of Adrian in said county of Lenawee, (that being the place of holding the Circuit Court for said county,) The premises described in said mortgage and to be sold as aforesaid are described as situate in the township of Rollin in said county of Lenawee, and known as the west half of the south west quarter of section twenty-nine, except twenty acres off the north end thereof, in township six south of range one east.

Dated February 21st, 1880.

GUARDIAN SALE.

ESTATE of Chester Tomer, Minor.—By virtue of a license made by the Judge of Probate Court for Lenawee County, on the 15th day of February, A.D. 1880, empowering me as the guardian of said minor, to sell the interest of said minor in the undivided half of that parcel of land situate in the township of Rom., Lenawee county and State of Michigan, known and described as follows: Beginning at a stake on the west line of section number three (3), township six (6) south of range two (2) east, six (6) chains and eighty links north of the south west corner of the north west quarter of the north west quarter of said section; thence east parallel with the south line of said subdivision of said section nineteen chains and eighty-five links to the east line thereof; thence on said line north six (6) chains and eighty links; thence parallel with the first described line west nineteen chains and eighty-five links to the west line of said section; thence on said line south six (6) chains and eighty links to the place of beginning; containing thirteen and one-half acres, I hereby give notice that I will sell said premises at auction to the highest bidder at the south west corner of said premises, on the 3d day of April, A.D. 1880, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day.

Dated February 18, 1880.

WILLIAM RUNDELL,
feb19 Guardian of Chester Tomer, Minor.

MORTGAGE SALE.

DEFAULT of payment having been made of a mortgage made by Benjamin L. Baxter and Adaline Frances Baxter his wife, to Jerome B. Weller and Simeon G. Weller, dated July seventh, 1877, and recorded in the Register of Deeds office for Lenawee county, Michigan, on the 24th day of August, 1877, at 9 o'clock A.M., in liber 86 of mortgages, on pages 431 and 432, on which mortgage there remains now due and owing at the date hereof the sum of three hundred and eighty and 65-100 dollars, and no proceedings at law or equity having been taken for the collection thereof, notice therefore is hereby given that by virtue of the powers and provisions in said mortgage contained for the purpose of realizing the the moneys above mentioned and interest thereon to accrue, costs of foreclosure and sale including attorney fee according to the terms of said mortgage, we shall, on the twelfth day of April, A.D. 1880, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, sell at public vendue to the highest bidder, at the front door of Dean's Opera House in the city of Adrian, Lenawee, county, Michigan, (that being the place for holding the Circuit Court for said county) all that certain tract or parcel of land situate in the town of Ridgeway, county of Lenawee, and State of Michigan, known and described as the south west quarter of the north west quarter of section No. twenty-four (24), in township No. six (6) south, of range No. five (5) east, forty acres of land more or less.

THE FARMERS' PAGE.

FARMERS' CLUB.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

A regular meeting of the Farmers' Club of Manchester and Franklin townships was convened at the home of F. E. Bradley, of Franklin, on the 17th ult.

Nearly all the members were present. The meeting was cheered upon by a goodly number of the farmers' wives, and hence was not a barren wilderness.

After an hour's social chat, dinner was announced, and all were seated in the dining room and sumptuously entertained. Soon after dinner the club took a look at the stock belonging to our host. A lot of 22 fine-wooled ewe lambs attracted considerable attention. They are very uniform in size; wool fine and good length; will shear an average of 12 pounds. We were next shown a lot of yearling rams, very superior and valued from $25 to $50 each. His weathers and breeding ewes are all very fine and would do credit to any farmer. Breeding thoroughbred Merino is a specialty with Mr. B., yet his stock of hogs, cows, steers, etc., will compare favorably with the best.

Returning to the house, the President called the meeting to order. Remarks were made by C. Davis upon "spring work"—said there was danger of commencing too soon, as the work might have to be done over. Thought March a good time for top-dressing. Clover may be sown this month and grass seed with clover. A field roller is a good thing if rightly used.

Mr. E. Woodard would sow clover the last thing in the spring so as to get the benefit of spring rains.

Mr. Geo. Kishpaugh favored March for sowing grass seed.

Peter Kishpaugh had sown from February to April, and never had a failure. Thought sowing plaster on wheat makes it late and causes it to rust.

Mr. Wilson had used plaster on corn but failed to see any benefit; thought its fertilizing properties might remain for years in the soil; said its use was to act as an absorbent of floating ammonia, which it yields up again to the growing plant.

Mr. English believed in the use of plaster in the spring of the year, on a green crop as it then does the most good.

The club voted thanks for the hospitalities of their host, and then adjourned for four weeks to meet at the house of Mr. Wm. English, at 1 o'clock P. M. S. H. H., Sec'y.

AN ASPARAGUS BED.

He who lives in the country and has no asparagus bed has at least one sin of omission on his conscience, for which he can never give an adequate excuse. Some are under the delusion that an asparagus bed is an abstruse garden problem and an expensive luxury. Far from it. The plant can be obtained of any seedman at slight cost. I have one large bed that yields almost a daily supply from the middle of April till late in June, and I shall make another bed next spring in this simple way: As early as the ground is dry enough—the sooner the better—I shall choose some warm, early, but deep soil, enrich it well, and then on one side of the plot open a furrow or trench eight inches deep. Down this furrow I shall scatter a heavy coat of rotten compost and then run a plow or pointed hoe through it again.

By this process the earth and compost are mingled and the furrow rendered about six inches deep. Along its side, one foot apart, I will place one-year-old plants, spreading out the roots and taking care to keep the crown, or top of the plant, five inches below the surface when level; then half fill the furrow over the plants, and when the young shoots are well up, fill the furrow even. I shall make the furrows two feet apart, and after planting as much space as I wish, the bed is made for the next fifty years. In my father's garden there was a good bed over fifty years old. The young shoots should not be cut for the first two years, and only sparingly the third year, on the same principle that we do not put young colts at work. The asparagus is a marine plant, and dustings of salt sufficient to kill the weeds will promote its growth.—Harper's Magazine.

Mr. John Schleyer, the proprietor of the Chilton, Wis., Volksbote, a progressive German weekly, gratified us with the following:

With pleasure I add my testimonial to the many already given in favor of St. Jacobs Oil, which I had occasion to test personally. I suffered extreme pains in the back of my neck, which were almost unbearable. Having heard of St. Jacobs Oil I dispatched one of my men to the nearest drug store, procured a bottle, and commenced to apply it at once. The pain subsided, and on the next morning I was all right again.

A Penn. tannery which uses the yolks of thousands of eggs in tanning kid, has put in operation a steam egg-beater having a capacity of 20,000 eggs.

AGRICULTURAL INVENTIONS.

Henry R. Burdge, of Cape Girardeau, Mo., has patented an improved sulky cultivator, so constructed as to loosen and mellow the soil and cut off the roots of grass and weeds without turning the soil over. It may be readily adjusted to work deeper or shallower in the ground, and will work at a uniform depth in uneven ground.

Mr. Gustaf Holcomb, of Stillwater, Minn., has patented an improved threshing machine. This invention relates specifically to the improvements in the grain and straw carrying mechanism of the threshing machines. It cannot be clearly described without engravings.

Mr. Thomas B. Ashford, of Clinton, N. C., has patented an improved grazing post for stock, which will prevent twisting of the halter, and which can be easily secured and adjusted. It consists of a balanced lever, to which the halter is attached, pivoted to the top of the post, provided with a screw at the lower end for screwing it into the earth, and braced by a number of hook bars, which are driven into the earth to give it greater rigidity.

Mr. Adam C. Hendrick, of Duffield Station, W. Va., has patented an improvement in fertilizer attachments for seed drills. It is adapted to operate independently, but will in general be made an attachment of a seed drill. The improvement pertains to a rotating flanged wheel for discharging the fertilizer, and an adjustable gate cooperating therewith, for regulating the quantity of fertilizer discharged.

An improved device for planting corn in perfect check row, so that the rows shall be straight each way, and at the same time distributing a limited amount of fertilizer to each hill as it is planted, has been patented by Mr. Henry F. Graetzel, of St. Joseph, Md.

Mr. Thomas Delaney, of Waterloo, N. Y., has patented an improved plant protector. The object of the invention is to provide an efficient device for preventing heavy rains from washing the soil from about the roots of the plants, while it gives the water free access to the plants, and also permits the air to circulate about them.

Mr. Willis D. Green, of Mount Vernon, Ill., has patented an attachment for grain drills, by which, as it follows the delivery spout, the earth is pressed about the ground, packing it more closely at the sides than at the top, and pressing the soil down, forming channels, which will be gradually filled by the falling in of the sides, thus hilling the stalks of grain as they come up.

Mr. William A. James, of St. Louis, Mo., has patented an improved sulky plow provided with novel means for readily adjusting the various parts. The invention cannot be fully described without engravings.

Mr. David A. Swanson, of Rio Grande, O., has patented a combined hand corn planter and fertilizer distributor which is so constructed that the corn and fertilizer will be deposited at the same time and at the same depth or at different depths, as required.

Mr. Chapin C. Brooks, of Lancaster, N. H., has patented a reversible or side hill plow so constructed as to turn a furrow in either direction upon level or hilly lands.

CO-OPERATIVE FARMING.

Col. Allen Greene, of Vienna, La., proposes going into co-operative farming. His scheme is quite novel. He puts in his property, valued at $50,000, and invites laborers to take stock, to be represented by their labor, 10 per cent. of which is to be paid for ten years, dividing pro rata the net proceeds of profits annually, and at the end of ten years, divide the whole property, or sell it and divide the proceeds equally among the stockholders. He invites the Northern laborers to share in the enterprise. In his prospectus he says: "This is nothing more nor less than a joint stock company—of farm laborers—the same as a company to build a railroad, manufacture goods, or work a silver mine at Leadville; only this difference: I furnish all the capital and receive 10 per cent. annually, not for the use of the property, but for the property itself, and it is your property at the end of ten years, having received all its benefits except 10 per cent. annually as the purchase price. You will elect your own president and directors, book-keeper, treasurer and other officers, each stockholder having a vote or votes in proportion to the number of shares of stock he may own." He proposes to organize as soon as thirty laborers shall arrive, and hold the remainder of the stock subject to be taken by others. This is an outgrowth of the negro exodus.—Boston Post.

"VIBRATOR"

Threshing Machinery and Portable and Traction Engines.

THE STANDARD of excellence throughout the Grain-Raising World.

MATCHLESS for Grain-Saving, Time-Saving, Perfect Cleaning, Rapid and Thorough Work.

INCOMPARABLE in Quality of Material, Perfection of Parts, Thorough Workmanship, Elegant Finish, and Beauty of Model.

MARVELOUS for vastly superior work in all kinds of Grain, and universally known as the only successful Thresher in Flax, Timothy, Clover, and all other Seeds.

ASTONISHINGLY DURABLE and wonderfully simple, going less than one half the usual years and bills.

PORTABLE, TRACTION, and STRAW-BURNING STEAM-ENGINES, with special features of Power, Durability, Safety, Economy, and Beauty entirely unknown in other makes. Steam-Power Outfits and Steam-Power Separators a specialty. Four sizes of Separators, from 6 to 12 horse-power; also 2 styles Improved Mounted Horse-Powers.

32 Years of Prosperous and Continuous Business by this house, without change of name, location, or management, furnishes a strong guarantee for superior goods and honorable dealing.

CAUTION! The wonderful success and popularity of our Vibrator Machinery has driven other machines to the wall; hence various makers are now attempting to build and palm off inferior and mongrel imitations of our famous goods.

BE NOT DECEIVED

by such experimental and worthless machinery. If you buy at all, get the "ORIGINAL," and the "GENUINE" from us.

New Twine Binder.

WALTER A. WOOD'S

M. E. CONKLIN, Agent,

TECUMSEH, MICH.

The new Twine Binder has been well tested in different kinds and conditions of grain and in different localities and has proved most efficient and durable.

THE WOOD MACHINES

Are Superior to all others in every respect, which the manufacturers and Agents stand ready to prove both by actual test and by the fact that more than ten times the number of this make of Machines are in use now in the County than of all others put together. Although they are put up in the most durable and satisfactory manner, yet they are sold at Prices to compete with second-class Machines. All we ask is for farmers to examine before purchasing elsewhere.
M. E. CONKLIN, Agent.

Literary Revolution and Universal Knowledge.

An Encyclopædia in 20 vols., over 16,000 pages; 10 per cent more matter than any Encyclopædia ever before published in this country, and sold, handsomely and well bound, in cloth for $10, in half morocco for $15, and printed on fine heavy paper, wide margins, bound in half Russia, gilt top, for $20—an enterprise so extraordinary that its success, beyond all precedent in book publishing, may be fairly claimed to inaugurate a Literary Revolution.

THE LIBRARY OF UNIVERSAL KNOWLEDGE is a reprint entire of the last (1879) Edinburgh edition of "Chambers's Encyclopædia," with about 40 per cent of new matter added, upon topics of special interest to American readers, thus making it equal in character to any similar work, better than any other suited to the wants of the great majority of those who consult works of reference, and altogether the latest Encyclopædia in the field.

Specimen Volumes in either style will be sent for examination with privilege of return on receipt of proportionate price per volume.

Special Discounts to all early subscribers, and extra discounts to clubs. Full particulars with descriptive catalogue of many other standard works equally low in price, sent free.

Leading principles of the American Book Exchange:

I. Publish only books of real value.
II. Work upon the basis of present cost of making books, about one half what it was a few years ago.
III. Sell to buyers direct, and save them the 50 to 60 per cent commission commonly allowed to dealers.
IV. The cost of books when made 10,000 at a time is but a fraction of the cost when made 500 at a time—adopt the low price and sell the large quantity.
V. Use good type, paper, etc., do careful printing, and strong, neat binding, but avoid all "padding," fat and heavily-leaded type, spongy paper and gaudy binding, which are so commonly resorted to to make books appear large and fine, and which greatly add to their cost, but do not add to their value.
VI. To make $1 and a friend is better than to make $5 and an enemy.

DR. A. TRASK'S MAGNETIC OINTMENT

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

All SORES, CUTS, BRUISES, SPRAINS, BURNS, SORE THROAT, LAMENESS, RHEUMATISM, PILES, INFLAMATION of LUNGS and BOWELS, BRONCHITIS, CROUP, SALT RHEUM, CHILBLAINS, AFFECTIONS of the SPINE, ERYSIPELAS, NERVOUS IRRITATION, and all disorders attendant with INFLAMATION.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve, and ligament is searched out and made sensible of its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external disease.

Over 40 Years

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have not space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should feel perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

Miss Jennie Smith is on the sick list.

Mr. J. R. Stirling, of Detroit, who opened a law office here some four weeks ago, has taken down his shingle and returned to Detroit.

D. H. Silvers has discontinued his shoe store and transferred a part of his stock back to his clothing store here, and taken the balance to his store at Manchester.

O. E. Carpenter has finally sold out his blacksmithing business in earnest and given possession. Staib & Co. is the name of the new firm.

Chas. S. Burroughs, of Rochester, Mich., spent last Sunday here visiting friends. He reports business brisk at that place.

The election on Monday was withal a very quiet one. At the Republican caucus held last Saturday evening, a coalition ticket was formed, but did not live to enter the race on Monday. It is reported that the ticket which was finally adopted as the standard of faith was decided upon at a caucus held Sunday night, but such could hardly have been the case all things considered, although it looked mighty squally at one time in the direction of that very barn. The National Democratic ticket was elected throughout by the following majorities:

Supervisor—James W. Bradner, 38.
Clerk—John E. McCollum, 61.
Treasurer—Frank L. Silvers, 77.
Justice of the Peace—Franklin Estabrook, 11.
Highway Commissioner—Philip S. DePuy, 44.

School Inspector—Byron O. Randall, 55.
Drain Commissioner—Philip Kehoe, 56.
Constables—Walter H. Smith, 52; Daniel O'Riley, 55; Joseph C. Burroughs, 49; George Haggart, 57.

The vote on the amendment stood 52 for, and 190 against.

Married April 1st, at the Baptist church by the rector, Rev. J. W. Payne, Mr. Jefferson C. Fisk and Miss Nettie English.

The Rich sisters have moved from the Pope Hotel to the old parsonage. Mr. Henry Chase has also changed his residence from the Belden House to the same place.

C. Limpricht has gone into the Reynolds building, corner of Jackson and Chicago streets.

Mrs. Dea. Downs is quite indisposed.

Kimball, of the firm of Randall & Kimball, has been confined to his house since last October.

Mr. J. S. Kies has set out a plat of ground to dwarf pears.

An addition to the factory is being built of brick, 32 feet 8 inches by 42 feet 8 inches. It is for a picking room, and stands some 8 feet from the main building on the south.

The middle bridge west of town is to be removed and the space filled with earth. The action of the water has cast up a bar of sand and gravel, which shuts out the water except in very high stages, so it becomes unnecessary to maintain the bridge there longer.

A new arrival at the home of Thos. and Jane Marrion. It's a candidate for long dresses ultimately.

James Fitzgerald, who has been in Toledo for several years, is moving back to Clinton. Too much sickness in that Ohio burg.

RAISIN VALLEY.

The spring term opened last Tuesday at the Seminary with an unusually large attendance, the number being about twice as great as for the same term last year. Although the students had had but one week's vacation they all seemed glad to get back. This spring will certainly be an exceedingly pleasant and prosperous one.

Wm. Charles was present at our prayer meeting on last Thursday evening.

Miss Celia Jones resumes her duties as teacher in the Comfort district after a short vacation. Celia is a good teacher and the district is well pleased with her work.

The M.E. Sabbath School organized last Sunday with Cyrus Crandall for superintendent; Robt. Glenn, assistant superintendent; Gertrude Roath, secretary; James Webb, librarian; Levi Roath, treasurer; A. H. Briggs, chorister, and Miss Belle Chaffee, organist.

Valentine Slee has moved to Blissfield where work in his line will be in better demand.

The Temperance Standard was read at the Club meeting Tuesday evening by Miss Ella Underwood.

New sidewalks are in order now.

FRANKLIN.

Two sudden deaths occurred in this community last week. The first was that of Mrs. Thos. Wilson, who had been suffering from a cancer for some time, but no immediate danger anticipated, but on Wednesday she grew rapidly worse and died in the evening, aged 34 years. Deceased was highly esteemed by all who knew her, and the family have the sympathy of the community. The funeral was held at the residence on Friday conducted by Rev. Vincent, and the remains taken to Tecumseh for interment.

Also on Friday morning at the residence of Mr. P. F. Beebe, "Uncle Cyrus Whelan" who retired on the previous evening in usual good health, but not rising at the usual time that morning, Mr. Beebe went to his room and found him dying. He died apparently from old age, being in his eightieth year. The funeral took place at Mr. Beebe's residence on Saturday conducted by Rev. Shepard of Tecumseh, and was largely attended.

Our township election passed off very quietly, and a comparatively light vote was cast. There were but two tickets in the field, National and Republican. The Democrats in the main supporting the former, electing entire ticket except supt. of schools, as follows:

Supervisor — Benj. F. Reynolds, 69 maj.
Clerk—Edward Learnard, 16.
Justice—Jas. H. Hunter, 66.
High. Com.—J. B. Dowling, 36.
Treasurer—Smith German, 32.
Supt. of Schools—I. T. DeLapp, R. 68.
School Insp.—John Osborn, 36.
Dr. C[illegible]—[illegible]lan, 2.
Constables—Riley T. Rutrick, 24; Wilson Burroughs, 23; Frank Learnard, 26; Wm. J. Pawson, 26.

Constitutional amendment relative to Governor's salary, Yes, 15; No. 204. From which we infer there are but few candidates in this town for that undesirable office.

Mr. Allen Burroughs, a former resident of this township, and now of Morenci, is visiting his many friends in this vicinity. Glad to see him.

A very enjoyable surprise party took place at Mr. Wm. Kelley's, on Mr. Jehiel Bramble's farm, on Wednesday evening last, where about thirty young people invited themselves, and were very hospitably entertained until a late hour, and departed well pleased with the whole affair. S.A.

SPRINGVILLE.

No singing school here this week,—the teacher is on a visit.

The late rains have given the grass a good start the last few days.

Dr. Vaughan started Monday for York state, having received a telegram that his brother was very sick.

Thomas H. Mosher will start for Mt. Clemens next Monday for the improvement of his health.

The sheep breeders of the township will hold their annual sheep shearing festival at Charles Greenleaf's on Tuesday, May 11.

F. I. Kinney says he has a young ram, not a year old, that weighs 128½ pounds.

The young men of the place will meet at Ayres' store, Wednesday evening to try and organize a band.—We wish them success.

S. and W. White last week sold ten head of 3 year old steers averaging 1278 pounds, and 75 head of sheep averaging 110 pounds. A pretty good sale.

The result of the township meeting held in this place last Monday was rather a surprise to a great many.—The National and Republican parties splitting up and giving the Democrats a boost. The Democrats elect supervisor, clerk, treasurer, and highway commissioner by small majorities, except supervisor, 56 majority. The Nationals elect supt. of school, school inspector, drain commissioner, justice of the peace and three constables; the Republicans elect one constable.

The amendment relative to the Governor's salary—Yes, 18; No, 194.

RIDGEWAY.

Wm. Hopkins, of St. Johns, spent Tuesday and Wednesday with friends here.

A new boy at Wm. Snedecor's. No cigars have been set up yet.

"Henery Talor" is moving near the Free Methodist parsonage.

The village school began again on Tuesday, Clem Lester, teacher.

Miss Ella Cadmus has been engaged as teacher in Dist. No. 5.

Two deaths have occurred since our last. Mrs. Rachael Palmer, aged 42 years, and Lantie Emmans, the latter being the second in the same family from diphtheria.

Those on the sick list this week are Mrs. C. A. Sharp, who is down with the measles, Georgie Clark with a slight attack of diphtheria. The child of Lewis Priest is very low, there being but little hopes of its recovery.

Result of Mondays election. Democratic tickets 143, Republican tickets 132. We give the names of the candidates and the number of votes each received:

For Supervisor,
John Britton, R. 132.
Conrod L. Lowe, D. 142.
For Township Clerk,
Thomas H. Temple, R. 145.
William H. Arner, D. 122.
For Township Treasurer,
Leonadus S. Palmer, R. 121.
Samuel Underwood, D. 149.
For Justice of the Peace,
John C. Palmer, R. 117.
William H. Arner, D. 151.
For Supt. of Schools,
Guernsey P. Waring, R. 144.
William E. Bowen, D. 127.
For School Inspector,
William R. Wilson, R. 123.
George L. Oliver, D. 142.
For Com. of Highways,
Chester A. Linn, R. 127.
John G. Witt, D. 147.
For Drain Commissioner,
Jay J. Lowe, R. 125.
Charles Underwood, D. 142.
For Constables,
Parmer A. Hamilton, R. 132.
Alpheus Linn, R. 127.
Nathaniel M. Hindes, R. 120.
Samuel Gibson, R. 137.
William Prindle, D. 96.
George H. Arner, D. 140.
Horace L. Smith, D. 146.
George H. Witt, D. 141.

There will be a meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society at Mrs. B. F. DePuy's, on next week Wednesday afternoon.

LENAWEE JUNCTION.

Miss Frank Smith commenced he school at Little Hope, in Raisin, last Monday.

Mr. Al. Hoxie, who had been very dangerously sick with typhoid pneumonia is recovering.

Our school commenced last Monday with 45 scholars in attendance. Miss Howen, teacher.

The maple sugar festival at the M.E. church was postponed from Friday to Tuesday night owing to the storm.—There was a fair attendance and a good time.

There are rumors of a wedding in the near future at this place.

Most of the students returned to their duties at Adrian College, on Tuesday.

Politics, as is usually the case in this town, was considerably mixed this spring. The Republican, Prohibition and Union ticket, selections from the two first being the third ticket. Miss Frank Smith, an independent candidate for superin'dent of schools, came within three votes of being elected.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

The new Board of Supervisors will stand substantially as last year, there being a few changes both ways. Macon, Ridgeway and Adrian send Democratic Supervisors in place of Republicans last year, while Deerfield, Seneca and Dover, which are properly Democratic towns, return Republican Supervisors. Below is the list as received up to the time of going to press:

Adrian City.
1st ward—L. A. C. Wagener, O.
2d ward—Edwin Crane, O.
3d ward—Heman Loomis, R.
4th ward—Jesse H. Warren, R.
Adrian—Lewis C. Baker, O.
Blissfield—M. H. Coggswell, R.
Clinton—J. W. Bradner, O.
Cambridge—J. O. Maxwell, O.
Deerfield—Alexander Lamson, R.
Dover—J. H. Shepherd, R.
Fairfield—T. A. Bates, R.
Franklin—Ben. Reynolds, O.
Hudson—Ira Swaney, R.
Macon—A. Harrington, O.
Madison—C. C. Bradish, R.
Medina—J. T. Colegrove, R.
Ogden—Thomas McComb, R.
Palmyra—W. H. Colvin, R.
Raisin—Horace Holdridge, O.
Riga—Adam Dreher, R.
Ridgeway—Coonrod L. Lowe, O.
Rollin—John U. Harkness, R.
Rome—Cornelius Knapp, R.
Seneca—William R. Gates, R.
Tecumseh—Peter S. McKinnon, R.
Woodstock—A. M. Sickley, O.

We publish this week the balance of our report of the Teachers' Institute. The meeting was more interesting and was more largely attended than was anticipated. Much of the success of the Institute was due to the careful and thorough preliminary work and the efficient management of Prof. Spencer. He is admirably fitted for a position of this kind.

Clinton News: Mr. J. S. Kies has planted a row of shade trees on each side of the street along his farm on East Chicago street. There are a number of our citizens who would be wise to follow his example. Who'll be the next?

The election in the township of Macon resulted in the choice of a Democratic supervisor and justice, and the balance of the Republican ticket.

GLEANINGS FROM THE COUNTY PRESS.

A Soldier's Union Party has been organized in Blissfield.

Deerfield Record: A bad accident and smash up happened in Blinn & Weidmann's stave mill, last Wednesday forenoon. The main shaft to the larger engine broke off, letting the piston rod fly loose and break up things in general, both of the cylinder heads being blown out. The supply of steam was immediately cut off by O. J. Robert, thus putting a stop to further damage.

Morenci Observer: Already the family of the man Smith, who was taken to Ionia last week for the Burnett assault, have come to want and had to apply for aid last Monday to the township authorities. Whether they will remain here or be sent to the county house has not yet been determined. The family consists of the wife and four small children.

Hudson Gazette: Our famous Bean Creek, or Tiffin River, has become a subject of legislative action in Ohio, a resolution having passed the legislature requesting the cession, by the general government, of its reserved rights in and to said stream, in order that the State may straighten, clean out, and otherwise improve it.

Adrian Press: Whitney & Bonner will soon issue the second volume of the History and Biographical Record of Lenawee County. All who are desirous of having their family history written up and published in book form, to be handed down to future generations, can do so by addressing a letter or postal card, locating their places of residence, as near as possible, to Whitney & Bonner, Adrian, Mich., who will visit every part of Lenawee county for that purpose. The price of writing the history, including the book, will be $5 a page. Prompt attention to the above will secure a place in this valuable book.

A Terrible Affliction.

Hudson Post: Last Friday, Effie, a little daughter of Charles Hamlin, of this township, fell, while playing out of doors, into a swill barrel and was drowned. The swill barrel was set in the ground, and was about two-thirds full, and it seems the child had fallen in while picking up some stove wood that was lying close by. She had probably been in the barrel about twenty minutes, and life was extinct when she was found. Effie was four years old last October, a bright child, and the pride and joy of her parents. About five months ago Mr. Hamlin's people lost their youngest son under very distressing circumstances, and now the sudden death of Effie makes their affliction more than doubly severe. The funeral services were held from the Baptist church, at Medina, last Sunday.

A Good Joke.

An amusing incident occurred during the sessions of the Teachers' Institute here last week, which is very neatly put in the Adrian Times:

During the Teachers' Institute at Tecumseh, one day last week, occurred an amusing incident in which a gentleman of this city, who is a professor in a college not far from here, was one of the principal actors. Prof. W—, as we shall call this gentleman, went to the train to receive some professors, and one or two well-known temperance lecturers, and escorted the party up town. Arrived as he supposed at the hotel, Prof. W— threw open the door, and graciously announced, "Here we are, gentlemen!" The good brethren stood aghast as they found themselves fronting a saloon counter, and the polite bar-tender smilingly inquiring, "What will you 'ave gintlemen?" Prof. W— saw his mistake, alas! too late. He had opened the wrong door—the hotel was a little further up the street. It was a clear case of good intentions and bad execution, but it took the young professor a good while to explain matters.

A Brilliant Publication.

Frank Leslie's Sunday Magazine for May is a remarkable number of this always entertaining, instructive and edifying periodical; and is highly creditable to the talent, carefulness and industry of the editor. The 128 quarto pages present a vast variety of delightful reading, interesting to all classes and calculated to gratify all tastes. There are good, solid articles, replete with information; essays; serial and short stories; adventures; sketches; poems; biographies, obituaries, etc.—all deserving of warm commendation—and scattered throughout are brilliant literary gems. The illustrations number probably one hundred and exhibit the best style of wood engraving. The price of a single copy is only 25 cents; the annual subscription is $3. Address, Frank Leslie's Publishing House, 53, 55 & 57 Park Place, New York.

THE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

THE COUNTY TEACHERS' MEETING OF LENAWEE COUNTY.

Continuation of the Session of the Institute Thursday and Friday.

The proceedings of the Institute were postponed, as announced Wednesday noon until Thursday morning for the purpose of holding a session of the Teachers' Association of Lenawee County.

The meeting was of nearly the same nature as the Institute except a little more pertinent to Lenawee county.—The greater part of the teachers of Lenawee county was present, most of them attending the Institute during the week.

Miss Cottrell was called on for her essay concerning "Discipline."

We believe that it is the teachers' duty to cultivate in the public mind the idea that the teacher is striving for the pupils own good. System must be maintained in a school if order is obtained. The pupil should be taught that a quiet atmosphere should pervade the school room. Energy marks the highest skill of the teacher's part in keeping the pupils interested in their work. A thorough understanding on all subjects must be had by the teacher in order to be a good disciplinarian.

Indolence in young persons is in direct opposition to the public nature when interested. Time should be the principle element in control. Care should be taken to discriminate between offenses through mistake and those voluntarily committed. Gentleness will beget gentleness in pupils, and it should be a leading element in the teacher's method of control.—Scolding by a teacher will never aid in securing a good discipline in a school. Due praise is the key of obtaining obedience. All impatience must be suppressed. A good word is sometimes an aid, but in general few words should be the motto. Good-will is another element in obtaining control; it will help to a self possession. We should endeavor to feel well and to have the pupils feel well. The highest type of a disciplinarian is a wise monitor and must lead the pupils through their work without seeming so to do. If the teacher makes the child try to do right, if he has sympathy the child may be safely brought to the consciousness of the teacher's authority.

Elements of power are thoroughness; few commands, but issued when demanded and never turned aside from. Keep in mind that certainty of punishment is more effective than one whose face is full of cheer.' There must be a certain power over another's mind, without which a teacher with all other circumstances favorable fail. If we always seek better ways we cannot be accounted failures; some good must result.

Discussion was called for; Prof. H. C. Pratt first spoke. He indosed the essay in high terms. Furthermore he said:

Whether we have a right to resort to corporal punishment, or not, he was emphatically opposed to it; he being an exponent of moral influence.—There is a tact by which any pupil can be subdued without corporal punishment.

Prof. A. E. Curtis, of Adrian, followed. He said that he thought there were some pupils who could not be influenced by moral suasion until they had been convinced of the teacher's authority, perhaps by the rod. He called up the reporting system in discipline, in order to obtain the opinions of others. For his own part he seemed to think it was a failure.

The Prof. thought it was an essential thing to a teacher's success to make preparation for the day's lessons.

The time for discussion having expired the meeting was favored with a song.

Prof. Wendell followed with his essay on "Essay Writing in the Public Schools." If it were asked why chemistry or algebra are taught in our schools, it would be answered that they reveal facts important to an education. Then if such is the answer why not introduce essay writing? We find it in our colleges, but not thought of in our common schools. The discipline, the power of collecting thought, the habit of filling the mind with knowledge coming from essay writing are necessary to every educated man. The day of eloquence has passed. The press has superceded it. Wendell Phillips says, "No man doubts or can doubt its omnipotence." Demosthenes, Cicero and Peter the Hermit are examples of its influence. There are 250,000,000 to 300,000,000 daily perusers of papers.

With these facts [illegible] see that some steps ought to be taken for preparing children for essay writing. Their education is incomplete without it. This method may be employed in the primary room; read to the young pupils some interesting story afterwards; have them tell it, the teacher correcting their sentences. In the next higher grade have the pupils relate their experience on the preceding Saturday. Then in the next grade where the pupils have learned to write, have them write their experience on some holiday. The parents should furnish their children with periodicals. The teacher should always be ready to correct, give information and subjects. Essay writing is an auxiliary to logical thought and to the correct use of grammar.

Prof. Curtis thought it was a good plan to have some day called "Author's Day," on which the pupils should read essays pertaining to the author of the day.

The Institute then had the pleasure of listening to a recitation by Prof. Walker and a solo by Miss Ella Mixer, of Adrian: "If I were a voice."

Prof. Walker was then called up on "Character Building." The atmosphere of the school is constantly filled with gusts and whirlwinds of discussion. The breeze concerning character building in the schools has grown from a zephyr to a whirlwind. The highest product of civilization is man, broad in intellect, stable in character, versatile in resources. The elements of manhood are necessary to all. These elements are to be obtained not by the family alone, nor by the church alone, not by the school alone, but by all combined. Sometimes an ignorant and audacious man says the schools turn out only infidels. But the teacher behind her bulwark of unselfishness replies: "Send your pupils to school with right principles and in no case will they receive injury." This is true, but at the same time a teacher on account of her position so intimate with young minds susceptible of impression ought to train the morals. Some of the conditions and plans for training the morals are as follows: The character of the teacher should be as near perfect as possible, for his modes of belief are indelibly stamped on the child's mind. There should be a strong current of sympathy between the teacher and the pupils. The character of a true friend beyond all the work of the teacher must be seen. The teacher should be a student of individual character. All persons do not demand the same kind of moral food any more than they do physical food. The attractiveness of the school room should receive especial notice. By this they will learn to appreciate culture and beauty. The teacher should demand prompt attention and good recitations, for these conduce greatly to self respect. Far above the good to the teacher and school is the good to the pupil of work conscientiously done. Perfect recitations are the foundation of true womanhood and manhood, for the conscience and intellect are indissolubly bound. The moral character of a pupil may be strengthened by the citation of noble examples. Every youth has a glow of ambition and a desire for greatness. The teacher should cultivate in the pupils a desire for good literature. To accomplish this the teacher must herself have an unquenchable desire for good literature. The school should not incite a disgust for mechanical pursuits. This should not be so.—Finally, in this age of shams it is the province of the teacher to build a foundation upon which no sham can rest. To do this, he must talk little, act much. Pretend to nothing but be a giant in the right. Instant in season and out of season, strong in purpose and earnest in action.

Mrs. Jane M. Geddes led the discussion. She thought little attention had been given to moral culture in the high schools. She argued that it was of more importance to teach honesty and piety than philosophy and algebra. The motive power of the school room should be moral culture. Good should be inculcated in pupils also.

Mr. Perley Bills endorsed the preceding remarks.

The meeting then held a business session and adjourned.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE SESSION.

THURSDAY MORNING.

The Institute resumed work again after an intermission of one half day.

After devotional exercises Professor Spencer opened the lectures for the day. He spoke on penmanship.

There are seven principles in penmanship; children about seven years in learning them. Penmanship must be made a study, based upon thought, the same as any other subject, if it is to be made beneficial. Teachers sometimes dislike to teach penmanship; the probable reason is because they do not understand it. Have some system; use printed copies. Penmanship must be taught by imitation and thought.

The positions of the body are the right, left and front. He preferred the right position, next the front, then the left.

The movements are finger, forearm combined, and whole arm movements.

Every pupil in school should have a slate ruled with lines three-sixteenths of an inch apart, in sets of four lines, three-eighths of an inch apart. Teach the scholars the names of the lines,—the first is the base; second, head line; third, intermediate and top line. We write on the base line. There are two slants, the main and connective. Letters have height, weight and width. Teach them the difference between an angle and a curve. The curve should be short as possible. It is not necessary to be a good penman to teach it.

Principles of penmanship are—main slant, right curve, left curve, h stem, capital O, capital fold, capital stem. Teach the scholars these principles so that they can analyze letters. Each letter has a certain space, and when the pupils have learned the space of each letter, and has his slate ruled, he will know immediately how to make the letter.

The hand should rest upon third and fourth fingers; the wrist should be nearly flat. Have them write only three or four lines a day. Let them criticise each other. He would teach the pupils the technical terms that pertain to penmanship.—see that they understand them perfectly.

Prof. Bellows, of the State Normal School, followed, speaking on arithmetic.

He first mentioned fractions. In order to teach any complex subject you must know how to divide it, just as in penmanship. A proper dissection of fractions is of the utmost importance. This rule should be held in mind by teachers in all subjects.

Fractions are divided into two grand divisions—common and decimal. Under common fractions consider the introductory, then reduction, then addition and subtraction together, then multiplication and division, which should be taught together.

There are two notions of the fraction. It is a representation of one or more equal parts of a unit. This is the primary notion which we would develop in the mind of the child. For an illustration take an apple, or a line on a blackboard. This notion should not be continued beyond the primary work. The other notion is that the fraction is the expression of the quotient. Teach this notion to pupils beyond the primary grade.

Keep always so the lowest terms will be those which the pupils sees to be new. Refer everything as much as possible to what has preceded.

He explained the modes of reduction in a very critical and concise manner.

Prof. Walker then came forward on the "Quincy Method."

This method derived its name from the town of Quincy, Mass. It came into use thus: It was found that the Quincy schools were not progressing as they should, so the school board, some four or five years ago, decided to correct this. They hired a man by the name of Parker to take charge of the schools, and gave him power to introduce any system which he desired. Parker said that he revived old methods, and did not devise anything new. Some of the good results of this system,—it has reduced the number of cases of tardiness and absences. The Quincy method teaches that filling the hands with something to do is the way to do away with trouble. All lessons are in part language lessons.

History is taught in such a manner that it will incite the pupils to reading. The method is to take some event and gather around this all the other facts pertaining to it, from what all the students have found by investigation.

One of the first duties of a teacher is to make the school-room pleasant. The surroundings of children have a great influence upon them. The greater part of the teacher's task is not in text-books but in such things as fitting up the school-room.

The Quincy method calls our attention to the necessity of knowing the history of pedagogy. Here is where Adams failed in his criticism. Also there is a distinct profession of the superintendents, and their duty is to ——to manage; this superintendency must be untrammeled; the necessity of good judgment and liberality on the part of school boards; necessity of trained teachers, enthusiastic in their work; the teacher must be the index of the school; there are principles in teaching, a science of education; to reap satisfactory results our work must conform to them; the activity of the child's body and mind can be directed by the judicious teacher to its proper development, making school work a pleasure. Tardiness, absence and truancy can be best prevented by the attractiveness of school life. Many will attempt to copy these methods, and will do either good or poor work as they become conscientious students of the principles of education.

Recess was then announced.

After recess Prof. Pease talked on vocal music.

The Professor is an instructor in music in the State Normal School, and thoroughly understands the methods of his profession. He was emphatically in favor of each high school having a course in music. He gave the following reasons for it:

Teaching music makes good readers. It developes love of the beautiful, and hence has a tendency to increase the morals of the pupil. It aids to maintain good order.

It trains children to take part in the every day duties of life.

These are the reasons why music should be taught in public schools.

The regular course for teaching music is as follows:

First, is to get them to use their voices in some manner, either in speaking or in musical notes. Let teacher give the example. If a teacher can't sing, take an instrument. If you have no instrument, the teacher should sing, or obtain another teacher who can, or some other person in the community. The exercises should commence with the first three tones of the scale—1, 2 3—3, 2, 1. A number of exercises should be given founded on the first three tones. The second exercise should introduce the fourth note. With these four tones a number of exercises, varying the order of the tones. First, give the example, and then call for the numbers. At first there should be no "skips" in the order of the tones. Exercises introducing the fifth and sixth tones of the scale should follow in the same manner. The tones should also be sung by the syllables. In a district school always commence in key of c. In primary schools, on account of the young age of the pupils, pitch in the key of f.

Things to be attended to in connection with these: First, proper use of the voice; don't let the children sing too loud or weak; the proper position; head thrown up, shoulders back, part of the time standing.

The next half hour was spent in answering the questions which had been placed in the question box during the day. Prof. Bellows submitted to this rather embarassing position, and did it in a very satisfactory manner. We give a few of the answers:

Ans. Never use a ruler in inflicting corporal punishment; use a strap, rattan or switch.

Ans. The way to restrict whispering is to keep the pupils engaged. He had been in the custom of devoting a minute or two at intervals during the day.

Ans. In dividing one fraction by another he inverted the divisor so as to prevent multiplying crossways.

Ans. He had no objection to giving rewards or tokens to young pupils; but would not recommend it in case of the advanced students.

Ans. He would not teach alligation.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

Nooning over and singing books being laid aside, Supt. Spencer took up the topic of "School Government."

A theory of discipline considers first the causes of disorder, then the remedies. It is a wise teacher that knows the origin of all disorder. Nature works always in harmony, but the human will causes disorder on this earth. The teacher must learn to control the human will. The factors of a school are the school district, the parents, the children and the teacher. Our object is to secure harmony in these four factors. Each of these factors have rights and duties. The district has the right of a good school, it has also the duty to provide suitable buildings. The parents have the right of demanding proper treatment to their children. The rights of children are affection, to have their minds fully developed, to have the best instruction. These should be held in mind by every teacher. The systematic forces such as promptness, class movements and a close conformity to the program are great aids to discipline. we must produce tendencies to do away with disorder and then produce harmony, if we wish good discipline. To call out a class use the voice, not a bell, and see that every pupil obeys your signal. Physical discomfort causes disorder. It is necessary that a teacher should be a perfect teacher, not too prompt or too slow. The cause of disorder may come also from out the school room, as from the home. The teacher should look into this and remedy it. The teacher should consider the motives of obedience. The best is the sense of duty. But children are not provident and you can not work upon them so well with the sense of duty. But bring it out in an indirect manner by gaining the love and sympathy of the scholars. Prompt obedience should be insisted upon, for then there will be no thought of rebellion. Never give rules until the occasion requires them. Whatever the rules are let them be natural and always enforced. The manner of punishment should be different, a smile or a shake of the head is sufficient sometimes, for the sensitive natures of some scholars. The punishment should be exclusion from the work of the school room; for small children an expression of disapproval. The last resort should be corporal punishment, but it is well beforehand to have the consent of the parents.

Prof. Bellows at this point took up the subject of "Algebra."

He spoke at first concerning the signs. In teaching any topic in algebra the pupil should be familiarized with the operation; it is necessary to him in order that he may understand the explanation of the process. Then give them a description of the operation. This is the greatest benefit of algebra when used as a language lesson. Finally give the reasons why it is done in a certain way. A teacher should discriminate between a description and a logical explanation. The latter is far more important. The matter of the sign of the sum should be referred to the principle that the sum

Literary Revolution and Universal Knowledge.

An Encyclopædia in 20 vols., over 16,000 pages; 10 per cent more matter than any Encyclopædia ever before published in this country, and sold, handsomely and well bound, in cloth for $10, in half morocco for $15, and printed on fine heavy paper, wide margins, bound in half Russia, gilt top, for $20—an enterprise so extraordinary that its success, beyond all precedent in book publishing, may be fairly claimed to inaugurate a Literary Revolution.

THE LIBRARY OF UNIVERSAL KNOWLEDGE is a reprint entire of the last (1879) Edinburgh edition of "Chambers's Encyclopædia," with about 40 per cent of new matter added, upon topics of special interest to American readers, thus making it equal in character to any similar work, better than any other suited to the wants of the great majority of those who consult works of reference, and altogether the latest Encyclopædia in the field.

Specimen Volumes in either style will be sent for examination with privilege of return on receipt of proportionate price per volume.

Special Discounts to all early subscribers, and extra discounts to clubs. Full particulars with descriptive catalogue of many other standard works equally low in price, sent free.

Leading principles of the American Book Exchange:

I. Publish only books of real value.
II. Work upon the basis of present cost of making books, about one half what it was a few years ago.
III. Sell to buyers direct, and save them the 50 to 60 per cent commission commonly allowed to dealers.
IV. The cost of books when made 10,000 at a time is but a fraction of the cost when made 500 at a time—adopt the low price and sell the large quantity.
V. Use good type, paper, etc., do careful printing, and strong, neat binding, but avoid all "padding," fat and heavy-leaded type, spongy paper and gaudy binding, which are so commonly resorted to to make books appear large and fine, and which greatly add to their cost, but do not add to their value.
VI. To make $1 and a friend is better than to make $5 and an enemy.

is the same as the numbers added. Probably the greatest perplexity to beginners in algebra is to understand why we subtract in order to obtain the sum of a negative and a positive quantity. Lead the pupil to think that we call it "addition" in looking at it in the light of the nature of the question, but not in its numerical operations. His lecture was full of illustrative examples and presented the subject in a clear light.

Next came "Advanced Reading," by Prof. Walker. He thought advanced reading was analagous with elocution. Elocution requires distinct articulation, full and free respiration, the possession of a full clear musical tone, graceful action, and cultivated taste and judgment. There are in every sentence that we say six things that we use: form, quality, stress, pitch, movement and force.

Prof. Bellows, after the intermission, took up "Periods of Development." He drew a chart showing the different stages of school life with their corresponding attributes. He based his lecture upon this and showed that different methods and manners of teaching should be employed in the different stages.

Prof. Pease, Professor of Music in the State Normal school, took up "Vocal Music" where he left it. After drilling the pupils by counting, then write the numbers on the board and let the pupils give the tones, also let those who lack in interest in the work do the pointing, or those pupils who can't sing naturally. After exercises in numbers then exercises on the staff. Write the cleft at first, its explanation. Accustom the pupils to the degrees and names of the degrees of the staff. Quarter and half notes only should be used in the first exercises. Simply give the names of the notes; not necessary to explain their length at first. It is better to introduce the change of the key or transposition early in the instruction. This will [illegible] trouble. The exercises must not increase in difficulty until the few notes which they have at first are fixed deeply in their minds.—Change the notes on the staff in order to vary the exercise so that your may be sure that the pupils are not singing by rote but by note. Be careful to give the correct pitch from the tuning fork or instrument. Next give the class a writing exercise. Let them use all the signs they have learned. After the children have learned to draw the staff, and quarter and half notes, the pupils are then prepared to write a dictated exercise. The end to be attained in music is to be able to sing a piece when you see it written, or to write it when you have heard it. At this stage teach the pupils to write the notes from their sound. So far everything relates to melody but not to time. Time should be taken up at this point. The pupil should understand rythm. the teacher should begin with accent and after that the pupils will be at time together by instinct. Have the pupils count while the teachers beat time. Then let the pupils repeat the word "la," at first one la to a beat, then two in both kinds of measure, double and triple.

Summary—First teach proper use of voice; position while singing; give attention to lung power; easy exercises taught by imitation, sung by numerals and syllables without skips; the same or similar exercises written in numbers on the teachers and pupils alternate in pointing the same or similar exercises; write by notes on staff; writing exercises by pupils; time exercises in which we introduce accent and beating time; continuation of exercises on the staff; introducing notes and skips. Songs should be interspersed with exercises throughout the course.

At the hearty request of many present, Prof. Pease sang "A Home Picture," and an encore "Come Tell Me Ye Winter Winds."

THE WATERTOWN FIRE INSURANCE CO.

During the year 1879 the Watertown Fire Insurance Company increased its assets from $764,816 to $778,305, and diminished its liabilities from $482,338 to $467,679. The surplus of the company over all liabilities has, therefore, leaped from $82,478 to $110,626, a gain during the year of $28,148. The premium receipts were $484,693, and the total income $518,323, while the total disbursements amounted to $499,367. The excellent results of the business operations of the company during a disastrous year to insurance interests such as 1879 was, and the gradual increase of its assets and surplus from year to year, demonstrates indisputably that the theory often advanced that size and strength are synonymous does not always hold, and indicates clearly that a company of $200,000 capital may compete successfully in the insurance arena; provided it is officered by skillful and judicious men, who exercise due care in accepting risks and in employing faithful and intelligent agents and solicitors.

A Grand Rapids man makes the following suggestion on catching rats:—"After catching a rat in a trap, thoroughly smoke the trap with burning paper or straw, and you can continue to catch. It is the smell of the trap after a rat has been caught which frightens them. The smoke destroys the smell. I have kept my premises free from rats for years with a spring box trap. Always smoke it after catching one."

It is narrated that a would-be joker in a mixed company remarked:—"Now, my friends, I think Japan is the best place to live in in the world; I understand that there are neither Jews nor pigs there." A diminutive specimen, but with an unmistakable Hebrew cast of countenance, replied: "Well, mine friend, I tell you vat it is. Let's you and me go there and exhibit ourselves. We could make our fortune. I could represent the Jews and you could take the rest of the role to perfection."

LEWIS' CONDENSED BAKING POWDER

STRICTLY PURE!

We will give $1000.00 for any Alum or other adulteration found in this POWDER.

Indorsed by the Brooklyn Board of Health, and by the best Chemists in the United States.

It is STRONGER than any Yeast Powder in the world.

It NEVER FAILS to make light bread when used as directed.

It is COMMENDED by every housekeeper who has given it a fair trial.

It is an entirely NEW INVENTION, without any of the bad qualities of soda or saleratus, yeast or other baking powders.

It has in itself a tendency to sustain and nourish the system.

Good food makes good health; and health is improved or impaired in proportion as the food we eat is nutritious or otherwise.

LEWIS' BAKING POWDER always makes good food.

One can of this is worth two of any other baking compound.

It makes bread whiter and richer.

More than half the complaints of bad flour arise from the use of common baking powders, which often make the best of flour turn out dark bread.

The most delicate persons can eat food prepared with it without injury.

Nearly every other baking powder is adulterated and is absolutely injurious.

This is made from Refined Grape Cream of Tartar, and is PERFECTLY PURE.

It makes the BEST, lightest, and most nutritious

BREAD, BISCUIT, CAKE, CRULLERS, BUCKWHEAT, INDIAN, AND FLANNEL CAKES.

A single trial will prove the superiority of this Powder.

TUTT'S PILLS [illegible]

DR. TUTT has succeeded in combining in these pills the heretofore antagonistic qualities of a STRENGTHENING, PURGATIVE, and a PURIFYING TONIC.

Their first apparent effect is to increase the appetite by causing the food to properly assimilate. Thus the system is nourished, and by their tonic action on the digestive organs, regular and healthy evacuations are produced.

The rapidity with which PERSONS TAKE ON FLESH while under the influence of these pills, indicates their adaptability to nourish the body, hence their efficacy in curing nervous debility, melancholy, dyspepsia, wasting of the muscles, sluggishness of the liver, chronic constipation, and imparting health & strength to the system. TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

FRIDAY MORNING.

The last day of the Institute witnessed as full an attendance as ever; but a noticeable haggard look was on the countenance of very many of the "schoolmams." Their hair was dishelved, their eyes wild in their darts. The task had been too much for them; the part of scholar is too arduous for them; in short, it is easier to preach than to practice.

After the usual morning opening exercises Mr. Walker gave a talk on "Advanced Reading." The Professor gave a very instructive lecture, condensing the subject of elocution and its attributes into a synopsis. He afterwards explained the synopsis by having the Institute go through various breathing exercises and gestures while standing. Amid the creak of new shoes and the glare of eyeglasses the Institute took their seats, and Prof. Bellows took up the "Art of Questioning." Questioning has two functions—to aid the scholar and to judge the ability of the pupil.

The manner and form of questioning. The questions should be adapted to the age and development of the learner, to the nature of the subject. The three stages of development are childhood, youth and early maturity. Furthermore, you should conform to the laws of mental association of ideas.

There are three requisites on the part of the teacher for profitable questioning—a thorough knowledge of the subject and its relations; a clear conception of the important points of the subject, and of its difficulties; a knowledge of the condition and the peculiarities of the learner. It is highly important to know the natures of the pupils in order to question them successfully.

Practical suggestions for questioning. All questions should be clear and definite, both in thought and language, so as to avoid questions that can be answered in two or more ways. Teaching questions may be suggestive; testing questions should neither involve or suggest the answer. Teaching questions should be taught slowly. Testing questions may be put rapidly. Teaching questions may be answered in concert. Testing questions should be answered by individuals. The question is the carpenter's tool to the teacher—it is used in two ways, to teach and to test. Definite and complete answers should be required. They should be a part of the language lessons.

General law in respect to attention in questioning. Secure the attention of young pupils by an animated manner, and by addressing curiosity and expectation; of older pupils by brevity and clearness of language and logical connection of matter.

"Grammar" was the topic by Supt. Spencer that next came up. Some teachers condemn text-books in the school room on grammar; others support their use. I suppose if all our teachers were thoroughly posted on grammar they could be done away with; but owing now to the lack of the thorough knowledge they were necessary for guides. Grammar should be taught to pupils when they first enter the school, at six years of age, every minute of the day as far as possible in connection with all subjects. We should have an eye to the language that is used by the pupils in all recitations, as in this way much knowledge of grammar may be given. In teaching grammar ask certain questions which you think will draw out an ungrammatical answer, then correct the scholar. Take the pupils by surprise sometimes; and in other recitations pay no attention to the correctness of the answers as concerns the subject, but give all regard to the grammar used. Would not use a text-book first, but short stories; would have conversations with the children on any subject. In this way a person can learn to speak accurately by habit; but for a certain knowledge a set of grammatical rules is necessary. More depends upon home conversation and culture than upon the instruction in the school room whether a child use correct language or not. This is shown through the fact that scholars, when they leave the grammar room, can give all the rules of the grammar, parse any word, etc., but do not speak correctly.

Teachers in the primary grades are the most important factors; they must correct all mispronunciation and mistakes in the pupil's language, no matter where it is. Good books and homes are the chief elements.

When we take a pupil of about twelve years of age, begin analysis by the diagramming system. This system is economy of time, it appeals to the eye. After analysis comes parsing. Some condemn parsing, but it is perfectly natural that there should be difference of opinion; but if makes a pupil conversant with the rules better than any other method. Nothing will help us so much in applying the rules of syntax to a sentence in the formative condition as parsing. Some teachers have the pupils learn long lists of prepositions, and nouns of certain gender, and rules, but can't parse a word. Do away with the learning of exceptional cases, if you can teach a pupil to parse by it, not making it mechanical. Always give reasons for correcting mistakes. Remember the needs of students—that they come to school only a little while in the country.

The teachers at this point were given fifteen minutes for general visiting. Afterwards Prof. Bellows continued talking on "Decimal Fractions." He gave some valuable hints to the Institute on teaching the meaning of decimal fractions. The places in writing decimal fractions should be committed to memory, and that they are written the same as whole numbers, should be borne in mind.

Prof. H. D. Harrower, of Chicago, took the stand on U. S. History. He thought that the topical method of teaching history was the best for country and ungraded schools, for in this way would be obtained more satisfactory results, as it would require the pupils to have the same text-books. Always use outline maps. If you have no maps draw them on the board. Do not forget the purpose of a map which appeals to the eye and not to the ear.

The following topics might be taken for teaching geography by the topical methods:

The Aborigines, their customs, habits, manner of living, language, etc., should, by their nature, be the first topic. Then comes discoveries, traditional, then other discoveries, as of Columbus and Vespucius. This would finish this topic of the discovery of the United States. Voyages of explorations to America under the auspices of the Spaniards, French, Dutch, English, etc.

Settlement and colonization would naturally be the next topic. Take Virginia and Massachusetts as the two starting places, as they stand out as finger-boards, as it were. Then extend the topic to the other states, with the various details pertaining to them.

Revolutionary war follows. Take this by campaigns. You have now brought the country to a unit, so the civil history would now be proper, studying it by the administration.

So far we have only considered the growth of the original states, hence the next topic should be the history of the outward growth of the territories, such as the annexation of Texas, California, etc.

The wars—Indian, foreign and civil wars should be studied now.

With this outline explained, a teacher of a country school, with the average amount of material in the district, could make the study of history most profitable.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON.

Prof. Bellows commenced the lectures for the afternoon on the "Relation of Teacher and Parent."

The four points upon which that subject rests are as follows: It has its foundation in the relation between the parent and child. The relation between teacher and parent is determined to a certain extent in the grounds as the teacher represents the parent to the child. The teacher is not in loco parentis in matters of clothing, food, etc. But is respect to the responsibilities that are lodged in the teacher, he should have an identical interest in the child as the parent. The parent should educate his child and bear the expense. The natural love of the parent toward the child. The teacher is placed upon a higher plane than the parent in respect to duty toward the child. The parent acts through love; the teacher more through justice and right. What are the bounds and with what spirit should a teacher act? The teacher should act through a benevolent spirit. The teacher sees with a clearer eye than the parent what the country demands of the pupil; and I believe we should try and educate the pupil up to the demands of the State. Reading, writing, etc., sink to insignificance by the side of the consideration of what the State demands: to make them men and women and fit citizens. Almost the crowning duty of the teacher in the relation of the teacher to the child is to train the pupil's moral character. The teacher should be able to look straight through a child and be fully acquainted with the course he is pursuing, which the parent is not so capable of doing. He was glad to say that the young women of to-day were receiving education preparing them for the State. The rights of teachers extend co-equal with those of the parent over the children on their way to and from school. That is, it should be a spirit of love and interest that should guide the teacher in this respect.

Teachers ought to pay more attention to the practical studies, i. e., not in the narrow sense but including all the wants of the pupils. The teacher should know the circumstances of each child and adapt his instruction as far as possible to the needs of that child, and in this way be more practical. In regard to punishment, the teacher has the same right as the parent, but both should be guided by good judgment, avoiding all undue severity. I don't think that the rod ought to be banished from the school, because it is the only thing that can subdue extreme wantonness of misbehavior.

The question box was then opened and questions came out such as no one except an innocent, charming little pedagogue with crimps in her hair and glasses on her nose could have queried. The very nails in the box that held them blushed till they scorched the wood. The sides of the box gave audible signs of relief as they gave up their contents to the unsuspecting opener. The eyes of the one reading them turned green, his hands became trembling reeds, his voice faltered, but when the thought of where he was and who surrounded him, beamed upon his mind, he regained his equilibrium and read—read; well, we will give the very, very modest ones: "Should the teacher allow the pupils to kiss each other while playing games?" "To what degree of intimacy with the pupils should the teacher attain?"

Well, readers we will spare you from what we suffered. We started out with a bold determination to let you know what battles are ever disturbing the hearts of those little ones; but no, it will not do.

The Institute, after a farewell song, closed its session, and it closed with the satisfaction of knowing that its success was greater than had been expected. Every one went away with many new and useful ideas that will aid them in their work and help to bring the occupation of the teacher up to its proper level—a profession. The weather was favorable and the attendance large. The appointed lecturers were all present except Profs. Jones and Harrison, whose places were filled by Profs. Pease and Bellows. Their work was faithfully and creditably performed, and the State Superintendent of Public Instruction may rest assured that the Institute will be the cause of much improvement.

Tecumseh will always have an open door for all such enterprises whenever the State sees fit to favor it with them.

The lectures on Wednesday and Thursday evenings were first-class, and merited the good audiences that they drew. These evening lectures were one of the most attractive features of the Institute and afforded a good treat to the citizens of Tecumseh as well as to the Institute.

Ehrichs' Fashion Quarterly.

There are certain books which so completely fill their places, and seem so necessary to the general coherence of things, that it is only by speculating on what would happen if they were suddenly withdrawn from circulation, that we can arrive at a true measure of their usefulness. A brilliant novel surprises and delights the world; but the issue of an almanac or cook-book excites no special interest. Yet mankind used to get along tolerably well without the modern school of fiction, and doubtless might do so still. But sweep the almanacs and cook-books out of existence, and imagination recoils from contemplating the resultant chaos. Dinnerless and dateless the world would relapse into barbarism, and Christmas and Christmas feasts for a double reason be alike unknown.

Published by Ehrich Bros., Eighth Avenue, New York, at fifty cents a year, or 15 cents a single copy.

Low Prices for Butter.

The New York Tribune in its market report, explained why some butter is sold for such low prices. In speaking of butter it said "Light colored goods are very hard to dispose of and several lots were thought well sold at 8 to 10 cents." If butter makers would get the top price, they should use the Perfected Butter Color, made by Wells Richardson & Co., Burlington, Vt. It gives a pure dandelion color and never turns red, or rancid, but tends to improve and preserve the butter. Sold by A. Anderson, Tecumseh.

Feels Young Again.

"My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy, inactive condition of the whole system, headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicines did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old.—We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family."—A lady, Providence, R. MONEY TO LOAN.

At the Law Office of MERRITT & WOODEN.

Tecumseh, March 1st, 1880.

THE Reverend gentlemen who have been in town this week were loud in praise of our village, its many beautiful homes and well kept appearance generally. Frequent remarks were made on the noticeable absence of tumble down rookeries and abandoned business projects. Our business men don't do things that way, and we are glad that our energy and enterprise command respect from outsiders.

A Card.

MR. EDITOR:—Permit me through the medium of your paper to tender my heartfelt thanks to my friends and neighbors for their great kindness and their many favors bestowed upon me and my beloved wife in her last sickness and death. My prayer shall always be for you; that God may reward and abundantly bless you for your kindness to us, for truly have I felt that "a friend in need was a friend indeed." E. R. HASCALL.

Tecumseh, April 5, 1880.

The Clergy in Convention.

On last Tuesday evening the Presbytery of Monroe met in the Presbyterian church here, and after listening to a timely and clean cut sermon by Rev. William Foupkes, of Quincy, the assembly organized for business, which was transacted with commendable dispatch, closing up Wednesday night. The ladies who have organized within the bounds of the Presbytery and under its auspices, for missionary work, were also here some thirty strong. Altogether, we conclude, that the Presbytery is rather a nice thing and made up of intelligent people, all of whom are off as we go to press this morning; but next week we will give a full report of proceedings, including a synopsis of Rev. Frank T. Bayley's address on missions.

A Pertinent Inquiry.

EDITOR HERALD:—I wish to inquire if it is generally known that an act of the legislature (No. 226) providing for the public safety in churches, halls, theatres, school buildings, etc., is wholly ignored by all the churches in this village, and that not one of the churches has a certificate of safety from the proper officers. Any person can take it upon himself and prosecute each church for not complying with the requirements of the act, and compel the hanging of doors to open outward. It is well known that churches are not more exempt from danger of fire or lightning stroke than theatres, school buildings and other property. If the matter is not attended to, there may be some complaints entered in the justice court that will compel attention. CITIZEN.

CONGRESSIONAL CONVENTION.

The third annual Convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of the Second Congressional District, will be held in the city of Monroe, April 14 and 15, 1880, commencing at 9 A.M.

The Convention is called to awaken and deepen a spirit of work in the cause generally.

Good speakers will address the mass meetings of Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

Each Union in the District is requested to send three voting delegates. All are invited.

TECUMSEH, MICH. APR. 8, 1880.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

RIP VAN WINKLE this evening for the benefit of the Guards.

AND now Met Conklin is ready for another tussel with Tom Boyd's dam.

DR. R. B. HOUSE contributes a valuable letter to our Sanitary Department this week.

THE election shower having blown over, we can now settle down to railroad business again.

THE Tecumseh Guard will hold their drill on Thursday, instead of Wednesday evening of next week.

THE spring term of our public schools began last Monday with a good attendance for this season of the year.

TECUMSEH entertained the teachers last week, and this week we are trying the same thing with the Presbyterian clergymen.

O. C. MAYNARD, special of the Northwestern Mutual Life, made us a call this morning. He will remain in town several days.

A farewell party for the benefit of Prof. Kellogg will be given at Goodyear Hall in Manchester on Friday evening April 16th inst.

DR. HOUSE has taken his revenge on Col. Fitzsimmons for the coroner business. Now let the Doctor look out. It is the Colonel's turn next.

THERE is a great demand here this spring for houses to rent. We presume twenty new houses ready for occupancy could be rented within a week.

MR. WILL DEMYER, of Jackson, has come to Tecumseh intending to stay. Will has many friends here, and we wish him success as long as he may remain with us.

JUDGE STACY is putting on considerable style these days. He got up last Tuesday morning and ordered the mayor of Adrian to go out and hitch up his horse for him.

OUR new Sanitary Department is attracting much attention. The Health Committee solicit communications and queries on this subject for insertion in this column.

THE Raisin election resulted in the success of the entire Union ticket composed of a fusion of Democrats and Nationals. Horace Holdredge, for Supervisor, having forty-two majority.

THE Times says the movement for a professional base ball club in Adrian has collapsed. They have probably concluded that a new railroad will be of more benefit to the city than a base ball club.

WILLIAM CHARLES, a minister of the Society of Friends, will speak on the subject of temperance next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, in the new Reform Club Room, Bidwell's Hall.—All are invited.

WE suppose that Frank Davidson is one of the worst "cut up" men in this section. He had set his heart on that "Drain Commissionership," and the Colonel laid him out. Call in and sympathize with us, Frank. We need sympathy.

WE understand that our friend Col. Fitzsimmons is making extensive preparations to go into the drain business. He is at work this week on the skirmish line in search of a place where he can buy a shovel on tick. As soon as this is accomplished he expects to begin active operations.

Now, if the drain business should increase to such an extent as to require the appointment of a deputy, we hope the Colonel will appoint Frank Davidson to that lucrative position. We understand that Frank purchased a shovel last Saturday, expecting the election would turn in his favor.

A Detroit committee visited Adrian yesterday to have a conference with reference to the Butler road. The report of the meeting will be given in to-day's Times. It is quite likely that we shall now be able to know something definite about the Butler project.

NEWT. SATTERTHWAITE returned from his Florida trip last week, feeling much invigorated by the journey. He went up the St. John's river as far as Enterprise, and stopped at the principal ports of interest along the river, going also to St. Augustine. He was gone from home just one month.

WILLIS MERRITT kept a special ballot box at the election last Monday, where men could express their Presidential preferences. Two hundred and eight votes were cast, divided as follows: David Davis, 7; Blaine, 122; Bayard, 10; Garfield, 2; Washburn, 2; Seymour, 2; Hancock, 1; Tilden, 12; Edmunds, 2; Grant, 48; W. T. Sherman, 3; Jno. Sherman, 2.

THE Tecumseh Reform Club are to give an opening entertainment at their new hall (old Masonic hall, Bidwell's block) on the evening of Monday, April 19th. A good program is being prepared for the occasion, and it is hoped that they may be honored with a general turn out of all who are favorable to the cause of temperance. The program will appear in next week's paper.

AMONG the many fine essays and lectures delivered at the Institute, none surpassed in vigor of thought and brilliancy of composition, the essay of Miss Cottrell on "School Discipline." It was well worthy of being placed in more permanent form.

REV. JOSEPH COOK of Boston will lecture in Adrian on Monday evening, April 19, subject, "Does Death End All?" Mr. Cook is one of the ablest and most eloquent lecturers now on the American platform. He goes to Europe this summer for an indefinite period and this may be the last opportunity for people in this section to hear him, as the expense of getting him here is so great that the venture is a rather hazardous one.

Following is the Program of the Tecumseh High School Lyceum for April 12, 1880.

Ins. Music—Florence Shepard.
Recitation—Mary Knight.
Select Reading—Annie Robbins.
Declamation—Charles Patterson.
Song—Leila Doty.
Question—"Resolved, That competition is injurious to the community."
Affirmative—Martin Wilson, Will Aten, Jennie Nyland.
Negative—John Whelan, Jennie Anthony, Harry Dunn.
Ins. Music—Frank Richart.
Critic—Clement Bramble.

The Irish Question.

There seems to be two sides to the Irish relief question after all. In a letter received by Elliott Gray this week from a prominent business house in Sligo, Ireland, is this language:

"I wonder there are such a lot of Irish fools in America to believe what Parnell tells them. There is not half the distress he says there is. It is only making a lot of lazy men in the country, for as long as they can get relief they will not work. You cannot get men to work any cheaper than when times were good."

Reform Club Election.

At the regular meeting of the Tecumseh Reform Club held at their hall on Monday evening, March 29, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term:

President—James Moir.
1st Vice Pres.—J. D. Sholes.
2d " " —J. Cleveland.
3d " " —John Kelley.
Rec. Sec.—J. T. Daglish.
Treas.—E. D. Strang.
Fin. Sec.—Miss Ella Sholes.
Steward—E. Williamson.
1st Marshall—Wm. Kyle.
2d " —Miss Hattie Prentice.
Sergeant at Arms—C. K. Spafford.

Reform Club Standing Committees.

Ex. Com.—E. Williamson, P. W. Adams, G. C. Foster, John Kelly, Chas. L. Albaugh.

Finance. Com.—J. D. Sholes, Wm. Kyle, C. K. Spafford.

Committee on Halls and Decoration—J. T. Daglish, Miss Ella Sholes, C. K. Spafford, Mrs. J. H. Osborn.

Committee on Public Meetings.—J. Cleveland, S. McClure, E. D. Strang.

The Adrian Election.

The city election in Adrian last Monday resulted in the choice of a Democratic mayor, recorder, treasurer and justice, and a Republican marshal and street commissioner. The candidates for mayor, recorder and marshal had the support of the young men's organization, and it was that influence which elected them. Of course we naturally feel somewhat elated over the election of James A. Stacy to the honorable position of mayor. It is an unusual compliment to bestow upon a young man, and in this case it was a compliment which was unsought by himself. We hope and have faith to believe that he will fill the position with credit, that he will perform his official duties with an eye single to the public welfare, and that he will remember the gallant band of young men, without distinction of party, to whom he owes his election.

THE RAILROAD STATUS.

The railroad outlook is not as favorable just at present as its friends hoped for, but we are still at work and are sanguine of ultimate success. It is useless, however, to disguise the fact that we are in great danger to-day from Adrian. The Adrian papers are generally very reticent and the members of their committee say, "Oh, no, we are doing nothing here." Yet it is known that a prominent business man of that city went to Coldwater on a mysterious errand last week. The Times of Monday morning in discussing the mayoralty question says:

"Tecumseh at this very time is trying to secure a new railroad to cut off our trade. Mr. Stacy is in sympathy with that village. Every property interest his family possesses is there.—Mr. Stacy stands up for his own home at Tecumseh."

With the mayoralty question in Adrian we have nothing to do, but we reprint this extract to show that Adrian, at this very time, is energetically at work against us. And the Times has inadvertently let the cat out of the bag. It is only another of many straws which have been flying through the air during the past two weeks to show that Tecumseh is in serious danger of losing the T. & M. railroad, and that Adrian is quietly but energetically "laying the wires" to secure it. Will the citizens of Franklin, Tecumseh and Ridgeway come forward now and do their duty? If so, we can yet secure this road. But the committees must lose no time in idleness. They must be up and doing.

THE TOWNSHIP ELECTION.

The election on Monday last was a very quiet one and the total vote was small, being only 571. A casual observer would have supposed that the election was running itself, but there was some quiet and some very effective work done by both sides.

Below we give the exact votes given for each regular candidate, and also the scattering votes. As there was no opposing candidate to Charles A. Slayton he received his entire party strength and also had 31 votes on Democratic tickets. The number of Prohibition ballots cast was 48. Republican party vote, 283. Democratic party vote, 240. Republican plurality over the Democratic vote was 43.—There was a vast amount of splitting on both sides. There were 18 straight Prohibition tickets, 108 straight Democratic and 149 straight Republican.—Total 275. Less than half the ballots polled were unsplit. Although there was a sharp contest in several of the candidates the big fight was on Justice. Charles Burridge's triumphant election, with a party majority against him, was a flattering tribute to personal worth, political honesty, and religious rectitude. He has been a faithful public officer in times past, and has made the best Justice of the Peace Tecumseh has ever had since the days of S. C. Boughton and Chas. Hewitt.

The other officers elect are all good men and we can heartily congratulate them on their success. And we can also condole with the defeated candidates with a tearful eye and a clear conscience, as we happen to be in this category ourselves. The entire Prohibition ticket, except the Highway Commissioner, was composed of candidates on the other two tickets.

HOME FROM FLORIDA.

Mr. N. M. Sutton returned from his extended Florida trip last Saturday, having been gone from home over two months. He bought an excursion ticket to Jacksonville and return, the route chose being to Cincinnati and Louisville, thence to Nashville, Montgomery, Thomasville, Ga., and Jacksonville. After a day at the latter place he took the boat up the St. Johns and proceeded at once to Enterprise, which is located near the head of navigation. He then proceeded by a horse railroad seven miles long across to Titusville on the Indian river, and spent thirty days upon that river in a sail boat. At the south end of the Indian river he went west across the country to the St. Lucie river, where the best hunting grounds are found. A graphic discription of his hunting experience on the St. Lucie is given in last week's HERALD.

Retracing his steps he proceeded north again via. the Indian and Banana rivers, visiting Pelican Island on the way; then across to the St. Johns and down that river to Tocoi, thence fourteen miles over to St. Augustine. Here he remained eleven days, and made a study of that quaint old town. Thence he returned to Jacksonville and from there home by the same rail route he went down upon. Mr. F. R. Stebbins of Adrian accompanied him during the entire trip, and both gentleman were highly pleased with their journey. Down on the Indian River in March the thermometer averaged about 90° every day. On the way home through Southern Georgia and Alabama he passed thousands of acres of growing cotton and corn, which are now finely started.

Adrian Times: One of the saddest things connected with the recent diphtheria epidemic in Macon, is the obituary poetry now appearing in the Tecumseh Herald.

REV. J. CHESTER, D. D., of Cincinnati, will occupy the pulpit of the Presbyterian church next Sunday morning, and assist the pastor in the communion service at the close of the sermon. In the evening Rev. T. D. Marsh, State Superintendent of Missions, will speak on Home Missions in Michigan, particularly in connection with the Presbyterian church.

A WORD TO THE PEOPLE.

DIED.

HASCALL—In Tecumseh, March 29, of Inflammation of the Lungs, Mrs. Adah Hascall, wife of Rev. E. R. Hascall, in the 58th year of her age. She was a great sufferer during the last eight days before death ended her sufferings, and we have no doubt of her entering into an eternal rest on high. From the first of her last sickness she seemed impressed that her end was nigh, and seemed desirous for the end to come. She was the last but one, her husband, of a family of six, and he is now left to finish life's journey alone.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

At a regular meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Tecumseh, Mich., the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, God has in His wise and mysterious providence suddenly taken from our midst our beloved sister and co-laborer in the temperance work, Therefore,

Resolved, That in her death the W. C. T. U. has lost an earnest, devoted, and self denying christian.

Resolved, That while we bow submissively to the Divine will and feel that the loss to our Union is almost irreparable, yet we rejoice that she was permitted to labor with, and encourage the hearts of her sisters of the Union so long.

Resolved, That to her family we would extend our kind and loving sympathy, and we pray God that he may send his spirit to heal wounded hearts, and draw us all nearer him.

Resolved, That these resolutions be placed upon the records of our Union, that they be published in the Tecumseh HERALD, and a copy sent to the family of the deceased.

In Memory of Alicia and J. L. Bennington.

Alicia, thou wast mild and lovely,
Lovely as a summer breeze,
And charming as the ray of evening,
As it plays among the trees.

But Sister Alicia, thou hast left us,
And by loss we deeply feel,
For thou with smiles no more will greet us,
Now thy race on earth is sealed—
The mortal race now is sealed.

O, "Licia," how oft we thought to meet thee
And happy days and years yet to spend
But how transient was the life to be,
How soon on earth it had an end.

Dear "Licia," be thy silent slumber
Peaceful in the grave so low,
For thou no more will join our number,
We no more thy songs shall know.

"Licia," can we hope again to meet thee?
Yes, when this transient life is fled.
O then in heaven we hope to greet thee,
For there no parting tears are shed.

So farewell, dear daughter and lovely sister,
Congenial friend and loved by all,
O, dear Alicia, how much we loved thee,
Our aching hearts fast fondly tell.

Farewell lovely brother and dear little son,
How quickly thy race on earth was run,
While watching and praying with tears in our eyes,
Our hopes and fears alternate would rise.

Yet surely and swiftly the monster did hasten,
And took dear "Lenny" from our embrace,
Oh how sad and terrible the news that spread,
That "Licia" and "Lenny" both are dead.

Oh, dearest "Lenny" must we now part with thee,
Thy form and thy face no more to see.
While both were sick and "Licia" about passing away,
We still hoped and prayed that poor "Lenny" might stay.

But the Lord knew best, for he is wiser than we,
So farewell till in glory thy spirit we see.
O "Licia" and "Lenny" most lovely and dear,
Your voices on earth no more shall we hear.

But may the Lord grant we may meet you again,
Where the pure in heart eternally reign.
O parents and brothers and sisters and friends,
Look well to life's journey, for soon yours will end.

A FRIEND AND MOURNER.

IN MEMORIAM.

In Tecumseh, March 25th, Mrs. S. J., wife of Enoch Strang, in the 44th year of her age.

The deceased was born in the town of Raisin in 1836, where her early life was spent. June 17th, 1858, she was united in marriage to Mr. Strang, who with one child survives to mourn her loss. An affectionate and faithful wife, a tender and devoted mother and daughter. With her death the light of home has gone; and with our warmest sympathies we can only commend her afflicted family to the loving care of one whose hand alone can heal the wound. Mrs. Strang was a minister of the Society of Friends, and well did she adorn her profession. In her death the Society suffer a heavy loss, yet they feel that it is her gain, and while they deeply mourn they try to follow the teachings which so often fell from her lips; and in sweet submission say, "Thy will be done." For some years Tecumseh has been her home, where she has won a large place in the hearts of all with whom she came in contact, by her unvarying kindness, her consistent christian character and unswerving fidelity to duty. The W. C. T. U., with which she has been intimately connected ever since its organization, being its President for a number of years, is afflicted indeed in her death, feeling that one in whom all could safely trust, and whose counsels and prayers were indeed a tower of strength, has been removed. Yet while our hearts are stricken we would learn to trust where we cannot trace, try to emulate the virtues of our departed sister, gird on anew the armor which she so nobly wore, and labor on cheered by the hope of a blissful reunion in the bright home above.

Adieu, sweet friend, thine earthly race is run,
The cross laid down, thy heavenly crown is won;
The valley dark thy gentle feet have trod
Alone, yet fearless, to thy home with God.
How blest thy lot, we linger here below,
And dimly see, and yet we cannot know
How full the joy to ransomed spirits given,
How great the bliss, how sweet the peace of heaven.

Here sickness comes and Death's unpitying hand
No pain, no grief invade that better land;
Here are sore partings, hearts are wrung with pain,
For thee no death nor parting come again.

We tossed and weary, sorrowful, afraid,
Thou safe from harm, rejoicing, undismayed;
Ours is the tempest, thine eternal rest;
Our home life's billow, thine our Saviour's breast.

A few more days, perchance a few more years,
Of mixed grief and pleasure, smiles and tears,
Then done with earth and all these earthly ties,
We'll clasp thy hand, sweet sister, in the skies.
Then not "farewell," dear friend, 'tis but "good night."
Death's darkness hides thee from our mortal sight;
But when the night our Father's hand hath given,
We'll say "good morning" to thee up in heaven.

OBITUARY.

The following notice is clipped from the Ypsilanti Commercial. The deceased formerly lived in this vicinity and had many friends and acquaintances among our old residents who will hear of his death with sadness.

GRAGG—On thursday morning, Mar. 9, 1880, of heart disease, Miller Gragg, aged 63 years.

Mr. Gragg was born in Richmond, N. Y., and moved to Michigan in 1854. He had for many years been a consistent member of the Christian Church, a good neighbor and an honest man. A large circle of relatives and friends will mourn his loss and fondly cherish his memory.

Our old friend has gone to his heavenly home
Leaving kind hearts grieved and sore;
His race is run, and his work is done,
He will plow his fields no more.

We shake hands no more before the church door
In the light of the Sabbath morning;
He has gone away, to eternal day,
New friendships in store forming.

For the world above, where all is love,
Our dear friend has gone to join our one
Redeemed family, and gathered in,
Where no sorrow will ever come.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.

CONGRESS POKING ALONG.

An Indian War Probable—Inaction on the Tariff Question.

Washington, April 3, 1880.

Congress still pokes along, apparently more anxious to introduce bills than to dispose of the thousands already on hand. Neither house has accomplished much business during the last week, the deficiency bills and contested election cases still occupying most of the time. The most exciting topic just now is the attempt of the Senate Elections Committee to turn out Kellogg, of Louisiana. Kellogg credits Ben. Hill with the principal effort in this case, which he says is wholly personal, and a scene between them on the floor of the Senate the other day was highly interesting.—There were some whisperings of a probable duel, but it hasn't come off yet.

If the Senate Committee on Indian Affairs has its way there is considerable probability of a new Indian war. The committee has decided that the annuity money now past due to the White River Utes shall not be paid to them until they have brought in the guilty members of their band. The agreement or offer of the Utes, submitted by Secretary Schurz to Congress, provides that the Utes will do their best to secure and surrender the criminals, and they are willing that the United States authorities shall come among them and use all efforts to capture the guilty men, the Utes promising their assistance. Ouray, it is understood, claims that this is all that would be asked of a white community and all that can be expected of the Indians, and that as they have agreed to surrender their lands and to settle on homesteads, and to do all in in their power to assist in the capture of the fugitive criminals, they can do no more, and ought now to receive the money which has been withheld.—Those who know the Utes say that the agreement submitted by their chiefs and head men will be accepted by the tribe, but that if Congress attempts to change it so as to fix greater responsibility on the Indians, it may be difficult to secure their acceptance, and the result may be suspicious of the motives of the whites, and possibly a new outbreak, which would cost several millions of dollars to put down.

The inaction of the Ways and Means Committee of the House is complained of by that section of the House which would like to at least see propositions for lowering the scale of duties discussed at this session. It is said that the Ways and Means Committee, to whom all bills of this kind are in the order of business referred, simply bury everything, and this is true. It is, under the rules of the House, within their discretion to do this and thus prevent discussion, and this is the precise object of a majority of its members. Messrs. Tucker, of Virginia; Morrison, of Illinois; Hills, of Texas, and Carlisle, of Kentucky, are four men out of thirteen who strongly desire to bring the tariff into debate before the House. They are all Democrats. Of the remaining Democrats Mr. Gibson, of Lousiana, wants protection for sugar; Mr. Phelps, of Connecticut, like ex-Senator Barnum, of the same State, the Chairman of the National Democratic Committee, wants protection for manufactures of his State, and Mr. Felton is understood to take little interest in the question. Of the Republicans Mr. Garfield was formerly counted a revenue reformer, but he apparently now feels inclined to follow his party, and the remainder of his side on the committee are all pronounced protectionists. Mr. Wood, the chairman, has ideas of his own for which he has never been able to gain the support of either side. It is no secret that the committee is a sort of happy family, the members of which do not tear each other to pieces, simply because that would be imprudent.

A recent lecture delivered here by Mrs. M. Cora Bland entitled "Women Who Think," attracted a good deal of interest among congressmen and other public men, and a committee is circulating a request to have it repeated. Washington has been peculiarly favored in the lecture line this season tho' it is not, as one would suppose, the most successful field for lectures. We have had Professor Denton in a course on Geology, Professor Proctor on Astronomy, Professor Carpenter on Mesmerism, and those two eminent theologians Bob Ingersoll and Rev. Joseph Cook on Theology.

The young woman who has been pestering Senator Hill about her baby these three or four weeks past, left the city a few days ago. She made several unsuccessful efforts to leave the child in Hill's committee room and at his house, and one day she called on Mrs. Hill and made such a rumpus that assistance was called in to get rid of her. When she left she had plenty of money, though nobody knows where she got it. The Senator declares he never gave her a dollar and that he would resist to the last all her efforts to blackmail him.

DOM PEDRO.

SANITARY SCIENCE.

PUBLIC HYGIENE.

Public Hygiene is an important branch of general hygiene, and differs only from private hygiene in the mode of application. Hygiene is apparently a new science. I say apparently, because the Ancients, in periods of civilization and refinement, did not disregard it. The Cloca of Rome is a monument of ancient hygiene, one which, although twenty-five hundred years old, is in use now, and indestructible. Recent discoveries in Syria and Jerusalem prove that the Mosaic sanitary laws were most religiously observed. It seems however that with the fall of Eastern and Roman civilization, sanitary science perished.

Public hygiene needs general facts, authentic statistics, positive studies and exacting measurys. These studies of general facts and authentic statistics lead to the suggestion of sanitary measures, to which every law-abiding citizen ought to conform and should gladly obey. In studying the material as well as moral and intellectual influence that affect the social structure, we must be led not only in the interest of common preservation, but also in the amelioration of our kind in all the conditions of our existence. Public hygiene may be far from possessing all the materials necessary to solve all the questions under its domain, but well conceived statistics and reliable records will, in the course of time, throw so much light upon causes and effects, that future generations may draw from their teachings lessons of incalculable benefit to the preservation and amelioration of the human family.

The medical art and science is but a feeble protector when a community is invaded by a fatal disease as an offspring of neglected sanitary laws. Hundreds of instances might be cited to prove how powerless the medical faculty are to stay these scourges that decimate populations. We have had too recent illustrations of the truth of this statement in our own country to fear any contradiction. We need not go to the Egyptian nor to the London plagues. New Orleans, Memphis, Nashville, Savannah, Key West, and many other cities and villages, are sufficiently suggestive. Yellow fever or cholera have cast dismay and death among these people too often for them to forget their recurrence. Scarlatina in Chicago, diphtheria in Albany, and its fatal visitation within the limits of our own State, are also factors in this problem. These plagues are never checked or conquered until sanitary science comes to the front and lights filth as the Irish do fight the prairie fires. The sanitarian cleanses the city or village, regulates the markets and the sale of food, condemns and abates every nuisance injurious to health, in spite even of the claims of property and of liberty. A people skilled in sanitary science clean streets, alleys, grounds and houses; remove all filth; prevent the sale of unwholesome food; isolate those affected by contagious or infectious maladies; disinfect thoroughly all out-buildings; destroy and remove every ill-constructed drain; carefully inspect the water supply from wells or otherwise; provide suitable drainage for the removal of all stagnation, etc., so that ozone, which abounds where there is no filth or infusoria, may pervade the atmosphere and shed its benign influence upon a happy and wise people.

To comprehend hygiene, it is requisite that the hygienist be learned in all the causes that disharmonize the functions of vital organs or disturb the human economy. The atmosphere should at once demand his careful attention. As fish inhale and float in water so we inhale and float in air. The quality of water has certainly relation to the life of the fish; polluted water kills the fish. Polluted air kills man.—What pollutes air, then? Every mouth that breathes, all animal and vegetable matter in a state of decomposition, the home fire, the burning lamp and a thousand other things pollute the air. Every animal that assists man in the great struggle for existence is a nuisance per se. The daily avocations, trades and manufactures, as the rending of fats, boiling bones, slaughtering animals, cleaning of clothing, etc., must be added to the above. Every such animal and every such occupation increases the filth that accumulates in streets, alleys, vacant grounds and cesspools. If you add to this a moist undrained soil, you have the foundation of every disease that humanity may be destroyed by. These are the causes that induce zymotic diseases and that swell the general mortality from twenty-five to thirty per cent, independently of epidemics. The supply of water is another very important department of hygiene. Deleterious substances in water may be even more dangerous to human life than deleterious substances in the air.

Food is another department of great importance to human existence. To be useful it must be wholesome. Persons engaged in this traffic are not always so particular as to the excellence as they are to the price. The inspection of markets is an imperative duty of sanitary authorities. There are many other departments of sanitary science which require close attention, careful observation and thorough restrictions or corrective measures, such as public congregations, schools, dress, sleep, personal care, regularity of habits, training of children, amusements, etc. Each of these subjects and many other subdivisions of sanitary science, would furnish topics for this column of the HERALD, which has been especially set apart by its editor for the consideration of this highly important subject of the prevention of disease and physical suffering.

No doubt that but some of the able and intelligent men, who I am informed are expected to contribute to this column, will select some of these special subjects, and give us an exhaustive essay of all that is at present known on the subject.

R. B. HOUSE.

ALCOHOL ON THE SYSTEM.

Dr. Burton, in the Contemporary Review, says: "Alcohol appears to excite the circulation through the brain reflexly from the mouth, and so stimulate the heart reflexly from the stomach, even before it is absorbed into the blood. Soon after it has been swallowed, however, it is absorbed from the stomach and passes with the blood to the heart, to the brain, and to other parts of the nervous system, upon which it then begins to act directly. Under its influence the heart beats more freely, and thus the functional powers of the various organs in the body are increased, so that the brain may think more rapidly, the muscles act more powerfully, and the stomach digest more easily; but with this exception, the effect of alcohol on the system may be described as one of progressive paralysis. The higher centres suffer first, and the judgment is probably the first quality to be impaired. One of the most esteemed novelists of the present day informs us that, although he can take a great deal of wine without its having any apparent effect on him, yet a single glass of sherry is enough to take the fine edges off his intellect. He is able to write easily and fluently in the evening after taking dinner and drinking wine, but what he then writes will not bear his own criticism next morning, although, curiously enough, it may seem to him excellent at the time of writing.

A young man by the name of Wm. Kotz, coachman for Mr. Charles McClellan, came to my store one morning complaining that his feet hurt him very badly, and expressing fears that they were frost-bitten. He had in vain tried to get relief by consulting physicians, and had endeavored, without success, to ease the pain by rubbing his feet with snow and ice, the remedy applied in such cases. Being exposed a great deal to the cold by his occupation, his feet got worse daily, until one day he fainted in the street. A few days after he came to my store and showed me his feet. I have seen a great many sores in my life, but nothing to equal this, and was afraid the poor fellow would lose his limbs. He asked me for St. Jacobs Oil; but at first I refused, as I did not wish to take the responsibility upon myself, not being a great admirer of so-called Patent-Medicines. However, some friends, who happened to be in the store at the time, begged me to give the St. Jacobs Oil to the sufferer; so we rubbed his feet well with the Oil, and he took the remainder with him. After nine days the same man again came into my store, perfectly well, and requested me to write to you of this most wonderful cure; he also stated that two other persons had been cured of Rheumatism by the same bottle which helped him.

JOHN LENZEN.

Avon, Loraine Co., O., Jan. 17, '79.

A wounded owl presented to a lady of Louisville, Ky., became a favorite, and was soon allowed to wander about her rooms. In time an unusually fine specimen of bluebird was placed upon her table. After it had been "set up" it was so life-like that the owl thought it alive, and stared at it night and day. At length he ate the bluebird one night, stuffing and all, and, as it was pickled with arsenic, the owl now stands with open beak and outstretched wings, poised on the pedestal where the blue-bird was poised before him.

Kidney Complaints

of all descriptions are relieved at once, and speedily cured by Kidney-Wort. It seems intended by nature for the cure of all diseases of the kidneys caused by weakness and debility. Its great tonic powers are especially directed to the removal of this class of diseases. Try it to-day.

"Vidi" is the Latin for ice-saw.

Guard Against Disease.

If you find yourself getting bilious, head heavy, mouth foul, eyes yellow, Kidneys disordered, symptoms of piles tormenting you, take at once a few doses of Kidney-Wort. It is nature's great assistant. Use it as an advance guard—don't wait to get down sick.

LEGAL NOTICES.

KING OF THE BLOOD.

The Most Thorough Purifier of the Blood Yet Discovered.

Cures all Humors, from a Common Eruption to the Worst Scrofula.

It purifies the Blood.
It invigorates the Liver.
It regulates the Bowels.
It strengthens the Stomach.
It gives vivacity in place of lassitude; cheerfulness in place of gloom, and robust vigor in place of debility.

Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Disordered Liver, Constipation, Nervous Affections, General Debility, in short all the numerous diseases and discomforts caused by impure blood are speedily conquered by this powerful corrector, the chief and sovereign of all ancient or modern medical discoveries—KING OF THE BLOOD.

ITS NAME IS ITS BEST DESCRIPTION as it is a royal dispenser of the blessings of health and vanquishes the foes that lurk in the blood.

It banishes PIMPLES, SALT RHEUM, SCALY ERUPTIONS, ULCERS, SCALD HEAD, FEVER SORES, and all SCROFULOUS DISORDERS.

It checks CONSUMPTION in its early stages. It has frequently cured it when advanced.

It disperses TUMORS and CANCERS without the Surgeon's knife.

It cures DROPSY, general or partial;
It cures FEMALE WEAKNESS and DISEASE.
It reduces in a safe and effectual manner all swellings, external or internal.
It eradicates the effects of Venerial Disease and Mineral Poisons, and establishes a sound constitution.

Many certificates, much further information and full directions for using, will be found in the pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," to which each bottle is enclosed.

Price $1 per bottle containing 12 ounces, or 40 to 50 doses. Sold by dealers in medicine.

If your druggist does not happen to have it on hand, request him to order a supply of it for you, as it will be cheaper than for you to order direct of us, and less trouble.

MORTGAGE SALE.

ON the 11th day of March, A.D. 1869, Jonas Weaver and Caroline M. Weaver by an indenture of mortgage made and executed by them on the 11th day of March, to Henry H. Rawson certain lands owned by said Caroline M. Weaver, which mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Lenawee county, Michigan, on the 3d day of November, A.D. 1869, in liber 81 of mortgages on pages 615 and 616, and which mortgage was duly assigned by said Henry H. Rawson to Jonas Weaver on the 5th day of November, A.D. 1879, which assignment was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of said county of Lenawee on the 26th day of January, A.D. 1880, in liber 98 of mortgages on page 224. There is claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date of this notice the sum of forty-seven and 65-100 dollars and the sum of twenty-five dollars as an attorney fee which is also covenanted for in said mortgage, should any proceeding be taken to foreclose the said mortgage; no proceedings have been taken either in law or equity to recover the amount due on said mortgage or any part thereof. Default having been made in the terms of payment of said mortgage by means of which the power of sale in said mortgage has become absolute; notice is therefore hereby given that by virtue of said power of sale said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in said mortgage or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount due together with all legal costs and charges and said attorney fee of twenty-five dollars; said sale will be to the highest bidder and will be made on the thirtieth day of May, 1880, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at the front door of Dean's Opera House on Toledo street in the city of Adrian in said county of Lenawee, (that being the place of holding the Circuit Court for said county,) The premises described in said mortgage and to be sold as aforesaid are described as situate in the township of Rollin in said county of Lenawee, and known as the west half of the south west quarter of section twenty-nine, except twenty acres off the north end thereof, in township six south of range one east.

Dated February 21st, 1880.

A CRUSHED SERENADER.

Young Bilkins went to serenade his girl on Van Ness avenue. The amateur orchestra of which he is a member, had hardly squealed out the first two bars of "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming," when the second story window went up and old Boggs, Amelia's father, stuck his head out and remarked:

"Is there no way of compromising this thing?"

"What—w—what?" gasped Bilkins.

"I say, can't we make some arrangement to get out of this matter? How does $4 and an old gas stove strike you?"

"Why—this—this is a serenade," exclaimed Bilkins.

"Exactly—so I see. Now, suppose I were to stand the beer and car-fare all round, wouldn't you go into the suburbs somewhere and work off the rest of it in front of some deaf and dumb asylum or other?"

"Well, I'm blowed," ejaculated the crushed lover.

"I should think you would be, hitched to the end of that big trombone. Don't point it this way, for heaven's sake; it might go off."

"Come down and say that like a man!" roared the big drum, who was full of Budweiser and fury. "You bald-headed old pelican, come down!"

"I—I—think we had better—better go, as it were, boys," murmured the mortified Bilkins, and the disgusted band walked sadly off, scornfully ignoring Boggs' parting injunctions to reform and lead better lives after the thing blew over.

In a Vermont village a tall and awkward beau called to see his young lady, and found her engaged with other company. To set matters right he gave them a riddle: "There was two boys playin' on the sidewalk, and a man asked them whether they were any relation. The boy replied, 'Sir, that there boy's mother and mine were twin sisters, and yet we ain't cousins.'" The girls guessed at it for half an hour and gave it up. "Is there any solution to it Mr. Brown?" one of the girls asked. "Oh, yes," he replied, "it's easy explained—that there boy lied."

Poverty and Suffering.

"I was dragged down with debt, poverty and suffering for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, which did them no good.—I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well and none of us have seen a sick day since, and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost—I know it.

A WORKINGMAN."

—Choice Styles new Hats,

ESTATE OF WILLIAM STEVENSON.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.

At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office in the City of Adrian, on Thursday, the 1st day of April, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty.

Present Fernando C. Beaman, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of William Stevenson, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Peter M. Stevenson, executor of the last will and testament of said deceased, alleging that he has paid all the debts of deceased and expenses of administration of said estate thus far incurred and all specific legacies under said will; that he is ready to file his final account, and praying that said account may be allowed; that the residue of said estate may be assigned and distributed to the persons entitled thereto under said will and for his discharge.

Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday, the 3d day of May next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court then to be holden at the Probate office in the city of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing. DR. THOMPSON'S MAGNETIC OINTMENT

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

ALL SORES, CUTS, BRUISES, SPRAINS, BURNS, SORE THROAT, LAMENESS, RHEUMATISM, PILES, INFLAMATION of LUNGS and BOWELS, BRONCHITIS, CROUP, SALT RHEUM, CHILBLAINS, AFFECTIONS of the SPINE, ERYSIPELAS, NERVOUS IRRITATION, and all disorders attendant with INFLAMATION.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve, and ligament is searched out and made sensible of its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external disease.

Over 40 Years

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have not space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should feel perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

Robert Stewart, son of John Stewart, is a great sufferer from sciatic disease of the hip, caused by a strain. He has not done any work since last autumn, and is now under treatment of Dr. Hess, of Tecumseh. He has suffered terribly during the past week.

The club meeting at the Hall Saturday evening was well attended and the exercises very interesting. Next meeting in two weeks, when P. S. McKinnon, Esq., is invited to speak.

Next Grange meeting on Friday evening of this week, and a good program.

Quite a relief from the subsiding of diphtheria; business is again assuming its proper channels, but the air is full of gossiping as to the cause of diphtheria hereabouts. Some who believe in wizards and ghosts, say the Grange caused it by building a hall and permitting the public to meet in the varied socials and society gatherings during the past winter. By the way we will say that this community has never passed such an enjoyable season as since the building of the new hall. We have never had so many good readers, declaimers and speakers; so many good musicians, both vocal and instrumental; such a unanimity of action in the temperance cause—nearly every person for two miles around belonging to the red ribbon club; and there has never been such a friendly, social, moral and intellectual development. Now we do not believe this begets diphtheria, if so, villages and cities would have it all the while. Others theorize that the rain fall on the cemetery grounds, near the hall, in filtering south thro' one hundred rods of earth into Mrs. E. Rogers' well and cellar poisoned the air and water so that her children took diphtheria; notwithstanding the fact of its being all the way up hill and the cellar dry and dusty, and the further fact of Mr. Mead's family just across the way from the cemetery, and on the down hill side, have never had diphtheria, and the cemetery has been there for thirty or forty years. Still others theorize that this same water in filtering east through about twenty rods of earth to the hall, thence up through the floor, poisoned the air so that it is not safe to go inside; some going two miles around to avoid the danger in passing, and it was not deemed safe to hold town meeting within two miles; notwithstanding the fact of its being a new building, and a drain all around at the bottom of foundation wall leading off into the highway ditch, and the ground dry all the time, and the fact of there never being any diphtheria in the hall; and the further fact that the Postoffice building on the Ridge, which was selected for town meeting but refused, and where both parties held their caucuses, has been used for the past year for renovating feather beds and pillows, and one of the operators, a young man, has assisted as nurse in one of the afflicted families. Right here let me give a word of praise to Martin Bailey for his untiring devotion in assisting the family of Mr. Ehmane in their sad affliction. Now this is all speculative theory, and very ungenerous towards those afflicted.

We believe diphtheria is epidemic and has been quite general in all sections during the past winter. That it is also contagious when in a malignant form inside of afflicted families, but not dangerously so outside, which has been demonstrated in numerous instances during our late experience. Young people having visited the bedside and attended the funerals of those afflicted and not sickened, while those afflicted could trace no exposure. Ida Martin came down while teaching in the township of Saline, was brought home and had diphtheria quite severely but none of her scholars or brothers and sisters took it. George Bryan, who has not attended a public gathering this winter, while his wife and children have gone, had diphtheria quite severely and none of his family took it. Numerous other cases might be mentioned, but we forbear, as our health officers will soon be out with their professional knowledge.

Mr. and Mrs. Mathew Yates celebrated the thirtieth anniversary of married life on the 6th inst. Friends and neighbors to the number of one hundred were present, and it being the next day after election—Mat having kept his cigars, being "left"—we had a jolly time all round, Rev. Swank did the ceremonial in presenting presents, etc. Presents rare and costly, amounting to over $200, were presented. The following is a list with the names of donors:

Bedroom set—Mr. and Mrs. Francis Yates, H. Miller, Ransom Miller, Jno. Wiggins, Francis Wiggins, Peter Swick Geo. W. Smith, John Stewart, Wm. Britton, David Coryell, Charles Smith, John Sherman, John Cheever, Miss Hannah Wiggins, Mr. J. B. Sherman, Samuel Gibson and Cortland Warson.

One dozen silver knives and forks—Mr. and Mrs. John Britton. Silver castor—Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Wiggins. One set of dishes—Grandma Britton. An alarm clock, "The little beauty"—Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Easlick. Pickle castor and fork—D. R. Wiggins. Pickle castor and nut pick—Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Jourdon. Cake stand and pillow sham—Mr. and Mrs. Francis Yates. Set glass dishes—Mr. and Mrs. Ransom Miller. Glass pitcher and six goblets—Mr. and Mrs. Herschael Miller. Butter knife—Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Wilkins. Napkin ring—George Graves. Toilet set—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hoagland. Pair of vases—Miss Mary S. Scott. Set of tea and table spoons—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Scott. Quilt and pair of slippers—Grandma Britton. Chromo, set spoons and wall pocket—Mrs. Francis Coats. Two bread dishes—Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Stewart. Bed spread—Mr. and Mrs. John Cheever. Table spread—Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Baker. Towel rack—Mr. and Mrs. Lester Osgood. One dozen napkins—Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Morrell. Pair of wall brackets, letter receiver and lamp mat—Misses Mary Scott and Ida Wiggins. Linen table spread—Mr. and Mrs. G. V. Osgood and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Clarkson. Air castle—Miss Hattie Wiggins. Glass sauce dish—Mr. and Mrs. George Hawks.

CLINTON.

Geo. A. Kies and wife, of Howell, made their relatives and many friends here a flying visit Monday, and returned home early Tuesday morning.

Miss Lottie Ellis, niece of E. W. Freese, was taken with diphtheria last week and was quite sick for a few days, but is better now and considered out of danger.

The excitement at River Raisin over the supposed murder at that place last week, growing out of the finding of blood and other evidences of foul play in and around the little coop, used as a station there, continues to increase. That there was murder committed there seems evident, but who the victim was is as yet shrouded in deep mystery.

Hill's theatricals, a troupe of some celebrity, are absorbing the attention (and money) of Clinton theatre-goers this week. Monday night they acted the "Octoroon," and last night "Rip Van Winkle," to very fair houses each evening. They are billed here for the entire week.

John W. Palmer has opened a meat market in the rooms lately occupied by F. Schneider, and placed on exhibition last Monday the finest sample of beef ever displayed in a Clinton market. Mr. Palmer is an experienced meat dealer and thoroughly understands the business.

The miscalled lecture last Sunday is characterized generally as an unwarranted and consumately indecent insult. A few more such and farewell to temperance work at this place.

That mental deformity who said it was done by the low, ignorant Irish, etc., had better pack up his rusty old war-bag and git out of town. The sooner the better.

Clinton News: We understand that all the saloon-keepers in this village have decided to quit the business after May 1st, owing to the action of the Council last Friday evening.

FRANKLIN.

Another pioneer gone. Mr. John Blanford, for thirty-five years a resident and highly esteemed citizen of this town, died on Friday last, after a long and painful illness, in the 69th year of his age. The funeral services were held at the M. E. church, conducted by the pastor, Rev. E. P. Pierce, assisted by Rev. Vincent, both congregations uniting, and was very largely attended. Deceased was a man of sterling christian integrity and honored by all who knew him.

The people, in what is known as the German school district where Rev. Pierce holds service each alternate Sunday, held a maple sugar festival on Friday evening last at the residence of Mr. Kid Glenn, which was very largely attended. The proceeds were some $14.50, and a very enjoyable time was had by all present.

Also on last Sunday the Sabbath School in the same district was reorganized for the summer campaign, officered as follows:

Supt.—Kid Glenn.
Asst. Supt.—Miss C. Hendryx.
Sec.—Charles Hendryx.
Treas.—W. Vanderpool.
Librarian—Alonzo Peters.
Chorister—Burt Vanderpool.

They start out with every prospect of usefulness.

One day last week a young lady stranger made her appearance at the residence of Mr. Reuben Langdon, taking possession of the whole institution, creating quite a sensation; and now cigars are in order. All doing well.

There is a dearth of news this week, or rather your correspondent has been too busy to collect many items, having moved this week into the house formerly occupied by Mr. Tuttle, which is much more conveniently located as regards our business than where we formerly resided. Mr. Alonzo Peters has been employed by us as an assistant in our blacksmithing business, the rapid increase of business requiring additional help. But we will not blow our own trumpet too long.

A grand social event took place on Monday of this week at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wilson, it being the 40th anniversary of their marriage. Some fifty of their friends were present. Many costly and beautiful presents were bestowed, among the most costly were those presented by their children. All were well pleased with the hospitality afforded by the happy pair.

RIDGEWAY.

Ridgeway! "Twenty minutes for refreshments!" "Change cars for Adrian and Detroit,"——next year.

The B. B. association will meet at the office of G. P. Waring on Monday evening next. All interested parties take due notice and govern themselves accordingly.

A three year old son of Lewis Priest was buried on Friday of last week.

And now the old Exchange building is empty. Who will be the next landlord?

Thos. H. Temple, the new town clerk, has established telephonic communication with his father's, 30 rods away.

On Thursday, March 18th, Mr. and Mrs. James Underwood celebrated the 20th anniversary of their wedding. The presents were numerous and a pleasant time was had. A list of presents was furnished us but it is too long for publication.

At the next regular meeting of the Philomathic society, instead of the usual order of exercises, Rev. A. B. Wood will deliver a lecture. As this probably will be the last meeting of the society prior to the usual summer adjournment. We would like to see a full house.

We see bills are out for an entertainment of the clairvoyant order, to end with nigger show and social hop.—Now, "Oll," get the "Austin Minstrel Troupe" and that "perpetual motion" and Barnum will have to strike "only greatest show on earth" from his bills.

A couple of Dundee sports was in our village on Monday, passing themselves off for lighting rod men. Well if they know anything about lightning it must be the "jersey forty rod" which kind of lightning is the only kind they seemed to be dealing in.

G. W. Underwood offers a reward for information that will lead to the recovery of seven sheep which disappeared from his premises about three weeks ago.

Dr. Irish, of Ohio, talks of locating in our village.

The Adrian Daily Times issues six pages these days.

RAISIN VALLEY.

To be champion kicker of the new foot ball seems just at present to be the highest ambition of the average Seminary boy. The "Dr." has been "limping around" for several days, the result of an over exertion in that direction.

Walter Jones has been confined to his bed for several days, sick with bilious fever. We hope to see him around again soon.

Herbert Southworth, a former student of the Seminary, who has been engaged in business at Bay City for two years past, reached home last week and gave his old friends a surprise.—Glad to see him. Walter Willits, of Fairfield, also gave us a call.

The sugar social of Mrs. Marlatts, on Wednesday evening last, passed off very pleasantly; proceeds about five dollars.

The present officers of the Literary Society are: Ed. Illunden, president; Llewellyn Bedell, vice president; Sylvia Maxwell, Secretary; Fred Doty, treasurer; Fred Hathaway, critic; Nelson Underwood, marshall; third member of ex. com. Tennie Kerr.

Cambridge Sheep Breeders' and Wool Growers' Association.

EDITOR HERALD:—The town of Cambridge has an established reputation for good sheep, and in order that it may be better known abroad, several who are interested in sheep husbandry, met at C. W. Greenleaf's on the evening of March 29th, to form a Sheep Breeders' Association.

J. E. Gibbs was chosen President, Marshall Reed, Secretary, and Wm. Wimple, Treasurer. F. I. Kinney, Lemuel Sheeler and O. L. Short were chosen directors, and requested to draft a constitution and by-laws.

It was decided to hold a public shearing at C. W. Greenleaf's on Tuesday, May 11th. Henry Read and E. S. Ross, wool tyers, and Charles Greenleaf, weighman.

Any person wishing to become a member of the association can do so by signing the constitution and by-laws and paying into the treasury the sum of fifty cents.

All members may be competitors, and will be entitled to dinner free of cost. No premiums will be awarded. All who desire, at home and abroad, may become members of the association.

MARSHALL REED, Sec'y.

FIRE AT DEERFIELD.

A disastrous fire occurred at Deerfield last Saturday. The fire was first discovered about half past four in the morning, in the frame building on the west side of Main street, occupied by the post office, and all the buildings between that one and the railroad track north were burned to the ground. Four buildings were burned, one of which was a double front containing two stores and the printing office, and the total loss will reach nearly $7,000. The insurance was small, not exceeding $1,400. A high wind prevailed at the time, and the hotel and depot buildings on the east side of the street were only saved by extra exertions.—A dispatch was sent to Adrian calling for aid, and engine No. 2 was sent down to render assistance. The fire will make a big hole in the business part of Deerfield.

The June Races at Adrian.

At a meeting of representatives of the Michigan Grand Central Trotting Circuit, held at the Russell House, Detroit, Tuesday evening, the following program and division of purses were announced:

JUNE 1-4—PURSES, $10,000.

First day—3 minute class; 2:19 class.
Second day—2:35 class; free to all for pacers.
Third day—2:45 class; 2:26 class; class for 2:22 pacers.
Fourth day—2:30 class; open-to-all trotting; 2:23 class.

In each of these classes, with the exception of those for 2:22 pacers and free-for-all trotters, the purse is $1,000 divided into premiums of $500, $250, $150 and $100 to first, second, third and fourth. The 2:22 pacing race is for $800—$400 to first, $200 to second, $120 to third and $80 to fourth. The free-for-all trotting race for $1,200—$700 to first, $300 to second and $200 to third.

The Free Press says that Ira A. Metcalf, of Adrian, has gone to New York in the interest of the entire circuit.

Universalist Dedication at Moorevilla.

At the Universalist meeting and dedication at Moorevilla the services will commence Monday evening, April 19th, at 7½ o'clock. Sermon by Rev. C. W. Knickerbocker.

There will be preaching on Tuesday and Wednesday, the 20th and 21st, at 10½ A. M., 1½ P. M., and 7½ P. M.

Dedication service Wednesday A. M. at 10½ o'clock. Sermon by Rev. G. B. Stocking.

All are cordially invited to attend.

THE FAMILY CIRCLE.

PATTER OF THE SHINGLE.

When the angry passion gathering in my mother's face I see,
As she leads me to the bedroom—gently lays me on her knee—
Then I know that I will catch it, and my flesh in fancy itches,
As I listen to the patter of the shingle on the breeches.

Every tackle of the shingle she is wielding, and a sting,
And a thousand burning lancets into active being spring,
And a thousand hops and harness match my outcry seem to swarm,
As I listen to the patter of the shingle, Oh, so warm!

In a minutes, mem, my father, whom I thought away had gone,
To survey the situation and to make her lay it on—
To see her bending o'er me as I listen to the strain
Played by her and by the shingle to a wild and weird refrain.

In a sudden intermission, which appears my only chance,
I say, "Strike gently, mother, or you'll split my Sunday pants."
She stops a moment, draws her breath, the shingle holds aloft,
And says "I had not thought of that, my son—just take them off."

Holy Moses! and the angels! cast your pitying glances down,
And thou, O family doctor, put a good soft poultice on,
And may I with fools and dunces everlastingly commingle
If I ever say another word when my mother wields the shingle.

A LITTLE TRAVELER.

The day I met this little friend of mine, whom I never shall forget, I had just left some other friends, and I was sorry that my pleasant visit to them was over. I had a long journey to take before I reached home, and I was to take it alone. I did not mind this, in one way, for I have grown used to traveling by myself, but I felt lonely enough that day after the cars had started. However, I was lucky in having a most comfortable section in the sleeping-car, and I was well provided with books and lunch and pleasant thoughts. So, after I had looked miserably out of the window at nothing for half an hour, I began to settle myself comfortably for the day or two I must spend in the train. There were several passengers, but no one whom I had ever seen before, and it was some time before I lost the feeling that I was with a company of unknown people, and began to take an interest in my fellow travelers separately. There were the usual young couple in very new clothes who tried to make us believe that they had been married these ten years, and there were two comfortable elderly women who knew each other and were journeying together, loudly talking over parish and neighborhood matters by the way. Not far from me was a round, red-cheeked old lady in a somewhat fantastic dress, with a big bonnet all covered with ends of narrow ribbon and lusterless bugles. I am sure she had made it herself and was proud and conscious of it. She had a great deal of small luggage in the compartment with her, and I thought she must be changing her home, for she never could be taking away so many and such curious looking packages just for a visit. Besides these people there were four or five business men and a Catholic priest, and just opposite my own place was a little girl.

For some time I supposed she must belong to some one in the car, and had chosen to sit by herself for a while and look out of the window. Then I thought her father must have left her to go to some other part of the train where he had found some one to talk with. But two hours went by, and it was toward noon, and I watched the little thing grow sleepy and at last put her head down on the seat, and the doll she had held so carefully slid to the floor. I picked it up and put it on her arm again so she might find it when she waked. I had noticed that the conductor had spoken to her, and I thought I would ask him about her when he next came by.

She did not sleep very long; the stopping of the train startled her, and when she opened her eyes I smiled at her and beckoned her to come to me. So she climbed the seat beside me, still holding the doll, and I asked her what its name was, and if she were all alone, and where she was going. She looked up gravely into my face and told me the doll's name and her own, and then she did not say anything more. She was younger than I had thought at first, and yet she was grave and sober and saddened. "Isn't your papa with you?" said I, but she only shook her head and looked up at me again as she sat beside me. I was strangely drawn to the little thing, she puzzled me, and she was so wistful. She seemed contented and we both looked out of the window, and talked now and then about the things we saw. She sat in my lap so she could see better.

After some time she said to me, "Mother is dead," in a half questioning way, as if she expected me to say something; but what could I say, except that I was sorry?—though there was all that wonder in her face at having been brought in contact with so great a mystery. This new, undreamed of, uncomfortable change was almost too much for her mind to recognize at all, but she had been shocked by it, and everything was different from what it used to be. She knew that at any rate.

"Poor little girl," said I.

"She said she was going to die," the child told me, still watching me with her sad and curious eyes as if everybody knew the secret of it all and would not tell her.

"You will know all about it when you are older, dear, and you will see her again by and by," I said; but she shook her head.

"She isn't coming back any more," she told me, as if she were sure of that at any rate.

"I am going to have my lunch now," said I, "and you will have some too won't you?"

She was very hungry, and I was more pitiful than ever, for the fact of her friendlessness grew more and more plain. She had very nice ways; she evidently had been brought up carefully, and there was a quaint dignity and reserve about her; she did nothing in a hurry, as if she had never been with other children at all and had learned no childish or impatient ways. I noticed her clothes, which were beginning to look worn and outgrown, but were very clean and well kept. It was on the edge of winter, but she still wore what must have been her last summer's hat, a little, leghorn hat trimmed with white ribbon, and over her shoulders she had one of the very smallest of plaid shawls folded corner wise, and pinned very neatly. She had some mittens, but she had taken those off and put them together on the window ledge.

Presently the conductor came in, evidently in a hurry, and when he saw that we had been lunching together he looked as if a weight were taken off his mind.

"I'm very much obliged to you," he said to me; "I meant to take her out and give her some dinner when we stopped, but I got a dispatch that something had gone wrong up the line, and I had to fly round as fast's I could. I only got part of a cup o' coffee myself."

"Is she under your care?" I asked.

The conductor moved the little girl to the seat facing mine, and bent over to tell me. "She's left all alone in the world. Father was a friend of mine, freight conductor on the road, and he was killed pretty near two years ago. Wife was a nice little woman, and the company helped her some, and she sewed and got along very well for a while, but she never had any health, and she died last Sunday of the pneumonia very sudden,—buried day before yesterday. The folks in the house sent a dispatch to a sister in Boston they'd heard her speak of, and she answered right off she'd take the child. They can't sell off what little stuff there is until they hear from her. My wife told me how things were and I spoke to the superintendent and said I'd take her on free, I guessed. I'd a taken her home myself and welcome, but long's she's got some folks of her own she'd better go to 'em. I don't much believe in fetching up other folks children, but I told my wife last thing as I came out of the house that if I didn't like the looks of the woman that comes for her I'm just going to fetch her back again. She's the best little thing I ever saw; seems as if she knew what had happened and was trying to make the best of it. I found this Pullman wasn't full, and I thought she could move round in here more than in one of the other cars. There ain't much travel at this time of year."

"I'll take the best care I can of her," said I; "I'm going to Boston;" and the conductor nodded and touched Nelly's cheek and disappeared.

She seemed to look upon everybody as her friend. She walked with unsteady, short steps to the other end of the car, and the bride, who was a pleasant looking girl, spoke to her kindly and gave her some candy; but I was sure that presently the child said, as she had said to me, that her mother was dead, for I saw the girl bend over her and flush a little, while her eyes filled with tears. I dare say she thought of her own mother whom she had so lately left, and she put her arm close round the child and kissed her, and afterwards seemed to be telling her a story at which she smiled now and then.

I read for a while, but in the middle of the afternoon I fell asleep, and when I waked again the car lamps were lighted, and I looked for the little traveler, who was standing in the passage way of the car. She had taken off her hat and there was evidently something wrong with it, for she was looking at it anxiously and trying to fasten something which had broken. I tried to beckon her to me, but in the seat just beside her was the priest, a stout, unsympathetic looking old gentleman, and I was half amused and half touched to see her give the hat to him and show him where to fasten the strap of it. He was evidently much confused; he even blushed, but he did what she asked him with clumsy fingers and then put the hat on for her, as she stood before him and bent down her head as if he would have had to reach up to it. She was going away then, but he stopped her and gave her some bits of money from his pocket; she came a step or two nearer to him and held up her face to kiss him, and then he looked out of the window a minute and afterward turned and looked at his neighbors appealingly. It had been like a flower dropped into his prosaic life, I imagine; he was evidently quite surprised and pleased by so touching a confidence.

It must have been a long, dull day for a child to spend, but she was as good as possible, and did not give anybody the least trouble. We talked with each other about her, and felt as if she were under the care of every one of us. I could not help thinking how often we are at each other's mercy as we go through this world, and how much better it would be if we were as trustful and unsuspicious as this little child, and only looked for kindness at our neighbors' hands.

Just as it was growing dark she came to me and put her hand into mine and gave it a little pull.

"Come and see the birds," said she, and I suddenly became aware of the chirping of a robin somewhere near us. It was a funny sound to hear in the winter twilight, with the rattling of the train and shriek of the whistles, for it was really the note of a robin who was going to sleep on his nest in an apple tree, or high on an elm bough, some early summer evening. But Nelly led me toward the old lady with so many bundles, and I found one of her treasures was a bird cage, and there sure enough was the red-breast, a fat fellow with smooth feathers who winked and blinked at us and stopped his chirping as we stood beside him.

"She seems pleased with him, the little girl does," said the bird's owner. "I'd like to have her see the rest of my birds. Twenty-three I've got in all; thirteen of 'em's canaries. The woman in the other part of the house is taking care of 'em while I'm gone. I'm going to Stockbridge to spend Thanksgiving with my niece. It was a great piece o' work to get started and I didn't feel at first's if I could leave the birds, but I knew Martha's folks would feel hurt if I put 'em off again this year about coming. But I had to take the old robin along with me. Some folks said it might be the death of him, but he's never been one mite scared. His cage stands in a window at home where he sees a sight o' passing. He's the tamest thing you ever saw. Now I'm so fur on my way I'm glad I did make up my mind to start, though it'll be bad getting there in the night. I think a change is good for anybody, and then I'm so tied down most of the time with the birds that I don't get out much, and there's nobody to fetch in the news."

"Why don't you bring up a few carrier pigeons with the rest of your family?" said I, and this seemed to amuse her very much.

"Sakes alive! I don't want no more," said she; "but then I've said that all along; all the folks that keeps canaries in our place comes to me if anything ails 'em. I was telling this little girl if I'd known I was going to see her I'd brought along a nice little linnet for her; he'll sing all day long, but he and the one I put with him is always fighting each other, and all my other cages is too full a'ready. I reckon you'd be good to the little bird, wouldn't you now, dear?" The little traveler smiled eagerly, while I suddenly thought of the five sparrows that are sold for a farthing of this world's money and yet are worth so much to God.

I think we were all anxious to see what kind of woman the aunt would be, and I was half afraid she would look hard hearted, and I knew in that case I should always be sorry when I thought of the little girl whose hand I was so sorry to let go. I looked after her at night. I had waked a dozen times to look at her sweet little shadowed face as she slept, with the doll held fast in her arms.

At the station in the morning I found some one who came to meet me, but I could not go until I saw the aunt. I waited with the conductor for a few minutes, and I was beginning to fear I must say good-by to my little traveler and never know her fortunes. Every one of the passengers had given her something, I believe—picture-papers and fruit and candy, and I do not know what else—and I had seen even the old priest kiss her good-by most tenderly, and lay his hand on her head in what I am sure was a heart-felt blessing. I do not know whether it was some grand old Latin benediction, or a simple longing that God would be near to the lonely child and that His saints would defend her as she goes through the world to heaven.

I was glad when I saw just the woman I had wished and hoped for coming hurriedly toward us—there was no doubt that it was all right, she was sure of the child at a glance. I had fancied all the time that she must look like her mother.

"My dear baby!" the woman said with a sob and caught her in her arms, while the little girl, with a quick, instinctive love, put out her short arms and they clung to each other without a word.

It was all right, as the conductor said again, half to himself and half to me. After a minute the woman said brokenly that she thanked him for his kindness. Poor Ellen! she never knew she was sick till the news came she was gone. He must tell people that Nelly would have a good home. They stopped to talk longer and Nelly stood gravely by, but I had to hurry away, and after I was in the carriage I wished I could go back to kiss the little thing again.

SANITARY SCIENCE.

HOUSE CLEANING.

It is not the purpose of this paper to recite the joys of house cleaning.—Whatever of felicity is vouched within the mysteries of that process has been experienced time and again by the average householder. It has been long ago conceded that the most intolerable nuisance about a house upon these supreme occasions is a man. He is then a trespasser upon woman's most valuable domain; he is ever offering unasked advice, and assuming, as if by right, the functions of commander in a campaign which he is utterly incapable of managing. It is therefore with great diffidence and humility that the undersigned offers a few suggestions on this important subject.

Do not commence house cleaning too early in the season. It is enough to freeze the blood of a Greenlander to see a house with windows out, stoves on the back porch, and carpets on the clothesline, flapping a melancholy accompaniment to the scrub-brush and mop within; while the March wind bowls and shrieks at every crack and crevice of the dwelling, making it for the time a bleak and dreary waste. All this happened in a Tecumseh household in the spring of 1880. Colds, coughs, consumption, follow naturally and almost necessarily from such untimely haste to lead the van of the house cleaning brigade in the neighborhood.

In view of all this, the writer would meekly suggest the middle of May as sufficiently early to commence a general house cleaning enterprise. He is fully aware of the maledictions that will descend upon his head for daring to offer any suggestions at all on this subject; but it is done, as before stated, with humility, and with a thought of the children and others who really suffer on such occasions from the cold and dampness necessarily following a too early renovation of the house.

Of course you will scrub your floors with soap and sand before putting down the carpets. This is a necessary operation to prevent soiling the newspapers and straw under the carpet; besides it enables the pampered hired girl to earn her $1.50 per week. Whatever is done in this respect, do not replace your carpets until the floors are thoroughly dried. It is far better that the family live on bare floors for a week than to subject them to the dangers arising from a damp carpet. By all means dry the floors.

Some worthy people have certain specified days for commencing all important enterprises. Some farmers plant corn on the 10th of May, rain or shine; some in the new of the moon, but never on Friday. Opinions vary concerning such matters, but Madam Housecleaner has in her own mind a day, unalterably fixed, on which every stove must cool off and leave the house. The condition of the weather has nothing whatever to do with it; the stoves, like the Chinese, must go. This is the iron rule in many households, and there is no doubt, in madam's mind a grim satisfaction and much complacence in the promptness and vigor with which her ideas of household propriety have been enforced.

These severe rules have been so long enshrined as among the most sacred of her household gods, that any iconoclastic views herein expressed are uttered with fear and trembling.

Some people—old fogies doubtless—do not remove their stoves at all, but keep them ever standing, like faithful sentinels at the post of duty. "They are too lazy to take them down" says madam. My dear lady, that view of the matter is not without weight, especially in the case of the undersigned. Nevertheless let me implore you to try it this year, and not take your stoves out. There will be cold and rainy days in July and August when the bare-legged and thinly clad children will delight in the warmth and glow of a good fire. Mark my word, if you leave your sitting-room stove standing, there will be scarcely a week during the summer when you will not have a fire; and you will find it very comfortable and cozy sitting by a warm fire in a dry room during the long rainy days that frequently occur during the summer months. Let me beseech you, my dear madam, to leave your sitting-room stove standing this summer. Try it as an experiment if nothing else. Stoves are no more inconvenient or unsightly in summer than in winter, and they do save sickness and doctor's bills.

It would probably be a low estimate to say that the death-rate in Tecumseh is increased by at least one every year on account of too early house-washing, and of cold, damp rooms unprovided with fire during the spring and summer months. There are those who do not believe this. Ask your doctor about it the next time he comes to visit Johnny with the croup.

I.

MAD HIM THERE.

During the dinner Proctor Knott demonstrated very clearly that his reputation as a story teller is not entirely undeserved. One of the best stories he related was how a young colored lad got the start of him in a religious matter.

There was some sort of celebration in honor of St. Francois de Xavier, which he attended. A host of negroes in his neighborhood were Roman Catholics. When he came home his darkey boy asked him how he liked the Catholic service. "I," said he "could not stand it." He said. "There was one point about it that I never liked."

"What is that?" said the boy.

"The priest does all his praying in Latin."

At this the colored boy fell down in the road, and rolled over shouting with laughter.

"Why, what is the matter with you?" said Knott.

The darkey answered: "Fo' God, massa, don't think that de Lord can't understand, de Latin as well as English. In the Catholic churches de priest he prays to de Lord, and not to de congregation"; and Mr. Knott added that he had been brought up in a church where the preacher prayed to the congregation, and acknowledged that the boy had got the advantage of him.

THE READY FAMILY SOAP MAKER:

LEWIS' LYE

98 PER CENT. PURE.
(Patented.)
NICELY POWDERED.
HIGHLY PERFUMED.

The strongest and purest Lye made. Will make 12 pounds of the best perfumed Hard Soap in 20 minutes without boiling.
The best washing-compound made.
The best disinfectant.
The following are some of the advantages obtained by using Lewis' 98 Per Cent. Powdered Lye.

First. It is packed in an iron can with a slip or removable lid, easily taken off and leaving the contents exposed, thereby saving the trouble, annoyance, and danger (from flying particles) as with other Lyes, which, being sealed in the case, must be broken with a hammer to get the Lye out.

Second. It being a fine powder, you can remove the lid and pour out all the contents, being always ready for use.

Third. A teaspoonful or more can be used, as in water-softening, scrubbing, etc., and the lid returned to the can, and thereby save the balance of contents. With other Lyes all must be dissolved at once and used in a short time, or the strength is gone.

Fourth. Absolute purity. Free from all adulterations.

Fifth. The best Soap can be made in from ten to twenty minutes with this Lye.

Sixth. No failure is possible in making Soap with this Lye when the simple directions given are followed.

Seventh. One can of this Powdered Lye is equal to twenty pounds of Sal Soda or Washing Soda.

Eighth. One can of this Lye will saponify one pound more of grease than any other Concentrated Lye, Ball Potash, or Saponifier.

Ninth. This Lye is 98 per cent. stronger than any other Lye or Potash.

Tenth. One to two teaspoonfuls will soften a tub of the hardest water.

Eleventh. One teaspoonful will thoroughly cleanse Sinks, Drains, or Closets.

Invaluable for killing Roaches, Mice, Rats, etc. The best article for washing Trees.

TUTT'S PILLS [illegible]

DR. TUTT has succeeded in combining in these pills the heretofore antagonistic qualities of a STRENGTHENING, PURGATIVE, and a PURIFYING TONIC.

Their first apparent effect is to increase the appetite by causing the food to properly assimilate. Thus the system is nourished, and by their tonic action on the digestive organs, regular and healthy evacuations are produced.

The rapidity with which PERSONS TAKE ON FLESH while under the influence of these pills, indicates their adaptability to nourish the body, hence their efficacy in curing nervous debility, melancholy, dyspepsia, wasting of the muscles, sluggishness of the liver, chronic constipation, and imparting health & strength to the system. Sold everywhere.

THE LATEST RAILROAD MOVE.

The Butler railroad boom has been started at Adrian in the newspapers, and the indications now are that the boom will amount to something. A Detroit committee visited Adrian last week and an Adrian committee visited Detroit on Monday. The preliminary talking has been well planned and carefully put into execution, and if the citizens of Adrian now open their purses and come down, the prospects for the Butler road will be very encouraging. The Times indulges in these pertinent remarks on the subject:

The road will undoubtedly be built.

We can be on the line if we pay for the privilege.

Or we can see the line run four miles to the east of us, and go around, after a while, begging to be allowed to plug the road. And probably be refused the privilege.

The road will improve the trade of every business man in the city.

With the Butler road built and running through Adrian, we shall enter upon a new career of prosperity.

If it is built and does not come here we shall be sunk fathoms deeper in the mud.

Suppose the road runs through Ridgeway and Medina. The trade of these two towns coming to Adrian, and we get precious little of it now, would be worth more to us than the cost of the road.

The road will, as soon as it is established, increase the value of every man's property in the city, aggregating many times more than the road will cost us.

It will give labor to our laborers, customers to our merchants, improve our markets, increase the price of produce here, give us competing markets.

It will give us a needed stimulus to our business life.

It will make manufacturing enterprises possible here.

It will open up the great coal fields of the southwest to our use.

Heretofore we have begun at the wrong end. We have tried to establish manufactures here without railroads. The result is we have lost money. Now let us have the Butler road. This is the way to regain what we have lost.

With the Butler road we shall be on two great through routes from the west and southwest to the east.

The committee will visit Detroit on Monday, and make the best terms possible with the Detroit & Butler railroad company. But whatever the result, our citizens must earnestly and manfully put forth their best effort to secure the road.

The benefit to the city will be inestimable. It will be to us the true elixir of life, and when we get the company's ultimatum, we hope to hear no grumbling about the amount.

When the patient is dying, it is no time to haggle over the price of the prescription.

True as gospel, every word. Such language as this would not have appeared in an Adrian paper six months ago, but they are beginning to realize the fact that smart towns are built up by competing railroads, and that if Adrian expects to retain her business in the future, she must put forth efforts in that direction.

And we can say very emphatically, "Them's our sentiments" also. A competing line of railroad would be of just as much benefit to Tecumseh. It would enhance the value of real estate both in the village and in the farming section about us, it would increase our population, it would open to us the coal fields of Ohio, it would invite new manufacturing enterprises, and stimulate those already located here. The Toledo and Milwaukee line is within our reach. We can be on this line if we pay for the privilege, or we can see it run 10 miles to the southwest of us and pour trade into Adrian which legitimately belongs to us.—Marshall, Homer, and all the towns east to Cambridge have got their quotas raised. Toledo is also wide-awake on the subject, and their quota will certainly be forth-coming. A late issue of the Toledo Blade has this to say:

Never in the history of the country was there ever so fierce a struggle for trade by the different cities as now. The shrewd men of all cities see that this is the time when the relative power for control is to be settled, and every community is straining every point possible to hold what it has, and wrest from competitors all that is possible. It is the time for laying broad and deep the foundations of supremacy. Detroit is reaching out, Cleveland is making very certain and sure progress, and Chicago, like an octopus, is endeavoring to swallow the entire West. There has got to be unity of action, and that action must be liberal. It is no time for laying back upon maps, "natural advantages," or "geographical position." It is dollars that make cities now, and if there was ever an enterprise that promised well it is this.

This is about the condition of the game on the railroad chess board at present. What is the outlook for the future?

First, if the Butler road should be built, the probabilities are that it will run through the eastern part of the town of Ridgeway leaving both Ridgeway village and Tecumseh out in the cold; at least that is the line now talked of.

Secondly, if Tecumseh, Franklin, and Ridgeway fail to "put up" their share on the T. & M. road, that line will be diverted from Cambridge to Adrian, and Tecumseh will then be about as effectually fenced in as she would be to adopt the plan of neighbors Smith, Brown and Jones, which was proposed at their private conference held here a short time ago. We are happy to state that a large majority of our citizens have seen their duty in the premises and performed it. But we exceedingly regret to say that a few men of abundant means act the part of the dog in the manger, and still decline to help us in this great emergency. We have faith however that the grace of the business boom will soften their hearts. The citizens of Franklin, Tecumseh and Ridgeway now hold their future welfare in their own hands. They must pull together and complete this work speedily.

THE REFORM SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.

The board of control of the Reform School for girls had a meeting in Adrian last Saturday and after a protracted session located the school at Adrian by a vote of four to one. Owosso, St. Louis, Allegan and Marshall were the competing towns; and the board visited all of them and inspected the several sites offered.

The city of Adrian made three offers, although all of them were for one location on the "Hickory Shade" farm of Stone & Medick, situated about a mile North-East of the city, on the direct road to Tecumseh. The first was the south twenty-five acres on the west side of the road, without buildings, and $6,000 cash; the second was the entire forty acres west of the road, without buildings, and $4000 cash; the third was for the same forty acres with buildings, and $3000 cash.

The board is composed as follows:—President—Mrs. Samuel L. Fuller, Grand Rapids; Clerk—Miss Emma A. Hall, Flint; Treasurer—W. H. Waldby, Adrian; Mrs. C. B. Stebbins, Lansing, and Hon. Charles T. Gorham, Marshall, being the remaining members of the board.

A session was held during the entire afternoon last Saturday, during which the several offers were freely discussed and finally Adrian was chosen as the location, and the third offer made by the citizens of Adrian was accepted.

This success is due in a great measure to the efforts of W. H. Walby and E. L. Clark, of Adrian. Mr. Waldby was on the board of control, and he has been untiring in his efforts to secure this result; and Mr. E. L. Clark's liberal donation in money secured their final success.

Adrian is certainly entitled to our hearty congratulations in having secured the location of this State institution. It is not only an honor to Adrian but to the entire county of Lenawee as well, for the interests of the county seat and the county at large are really identical. The prosperity of Adrian helps the county and the business prosperity of the county has a reflex influence upon Adrian.—The location of this State institution will give an impetus to business in Adrian, and if she should secure the Butler railroad during the present season, the year 1880 will certainly be a most fortunate one in Adrian's calender.

Hudson Gazette:—Edmond Ronayne, claiming to be a past master of Keystone Ledge, No. 639, of Chicago, who some time since held forth in Hudson, has been giving in the Music Hall, Boston, what purported to be an exposure of the entered apprentice degree in Masonry. The stage was furnished to represent a lodge room, and all the officers were personated. The candidate wore only drawers, an undershirt and one slipper, his left leg, arm, and breast being bared, his eyes bandaged, and his waist encircled by a rope. The iniation was conducted, so he said, in exact accordance with the Masonic ritual. Several clergymen gave countenance to his exhibition.

Adrian Times: House cleaning may be said to have fairly commenced.—The household furniture is on the front stoop, the female head of the household, with her head tied up in a rag, and her dress pinned into a washerwoman panier, brandisheth a broom and shouteth to her handmaiden, as they attack the dust and dirt accumulated through the winter. And the male head of the house—pshaw, what's the use of mentioning a man during the house-cleaning mania?

Morenci Observer: A new bell, costing $60, has been placed in the tower over the council room for the use of the fire department, and it gives out "no uncertain sound."

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES.

Tilden's Withdrawal.

New York Tribune.—Tilden continues to withdraw by capturing solid delegations.

Dreadful to Think Of.

Philadelphia Times.—If Tilden is in such poor health now it is dreadful to think what might become of the country should it ever occur to him to get well.

A Good Deodorizer.

Chicago News.—There is talk of burying, for this season at least, the Kellogg-Spofford case in the Senate. The experiment might be tried, and perhaps with advantage. Burying is a good way to deodorize offensive subjects.

The Anti-Third Term Boom.

Adrian Times.—The people who are managing the anti-third term boom to be held at St. Louis, claim to have assurances of sympathy from "half a million republicans." Isn't that a large number of people to hear from in ten days or two weeks?

Much Exercised.

Cincinnati Enquirer.—Tammany Hall is much exercised because the Democracy of New York want to know whether it will abide by the action of the National Democratic Convention. The big Chief, John Kelly, wants the privilege of kicking out of the traces if the nomination does not suit him.

Very Obliging.

Detroit Free Press.—The New York Herald, urging Grant to take the second place, says that it has no doubt that "Mr. Blaine would gladly see the ex-President holding the second place on the Blaine ticket." No doubt he would. In all probability he would go so far as to give it up himself rather than not have Grant take it.

It Worked Like a Charm.

Detroit Evening News.—It has been said that a soft answer turneth away wrath, but it must be confessed that the democrats in congress have improved upon that in their recently invented method of controversy, by making no answer at all, and leaving all the talk to the other side. Those of the house tried it on Saturday, when the army at the polls was on the tapis, and it worked to a charm.

The Difference.

Philadelphia Times.—The difference between the Republican party and the Democratic party is very marked. One thinks that the Republican party ought to control all the offices, while the other believes that the Democratic party ought to control all the offices. This is the platform upon which the Presidential campaign will be fought, and it is something of this kind which is dividing the parties into factions.

A Good Candidate.

New York Tribune.—Mr. William Groesbeck, of Cincinnati, is a reasonably wealthy man—he is worth probably three or four million dollars. He owns quantities of stocks and bonds, but never indulges in any speculative ventures, though he is fond of watching and studying the fluctuations of the market. He has no business which might be injured by his becoming a Democratic candidate for the Presidency.

Let Him Have Peace.

New York Tribune.—At last Mr. Seymour has been able to decline so that he cannot be misunderstood. He said last week to a visiting Democrat from Cincinnati, Mr. Theodore Cook: "Under no circumstances could I accept the nomination. My age and health both forbid it; but even if these were not in the way, I am not the man to perfectly unite and harmonize the party. I trust my friends and the party all over the country will have no question as to my sincerity in this expression'" Now let the poor man have peace!

Never Got Excited.

Philadelphia Times.—The Tammany morning twinkler in New York seems to have enlisted itself in a determined effort to break down Tilden's health. The paper had another double-leaded attack on the poor old man, and the picture is so drawn as to make one feel that there isn't enough of Tilden left to pitch into. We should suppose, however, that our doubled-leaded contemporary is mistaken in supposing that Tilden is in danger of dying of excitement. He probably never was excited in his life, and he would not know how to begin to get excited now.

Our National Debt.

Europe's "national debt"—the debt of the seventeen States of Europe counted together, is twenty-one thousand six hundred and twenty-three million dollars, or more than nine times as great as the debt of the United States; but the population of all those States taken together is probably not more than six times as great as the population of this country. Consequently we are, in respect to the permanent financial burden upon the nation, in a more favorable position—a much more favorable position—than the peoples of those great countries from which but a few years since came out many prophecies that our great war debt was to crush us out of existence.—New York Herald.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

All SORES, CUTS, BRUISES, SPRAINS, BURNS, SORE THROAT, LAMENESS, RHEUMATISM, PILES, INFLAMMATION of LUNGS and BOWELS, BRONCHITIS, CROUP, SALT RHEUM, CHILBLAINS, AFFECTIONS of the SPINE, ERYSIPELAS, NERVOUS IRRITATION, and all disorders attendant with INFLAMMATION.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve, and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should feel perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlets around each bottle.

Price 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

We shall meet but we shall miss you;
There will be one vacant chair,
Yet in heaven we hope to meet you,
Where God's love we all share.

You have left your own dear children,
You have bid us all farewell,
Yet which one of us will next go,
None alone but God can tell.

And now we bid you a long farewell,
How soon we'll meet no tongue can tell.
Oh Lord help us to live and die,
That we may meet again on high.

REV. C. C. SINK, of Bryan, Ohio, was the guest of his brother, W. H. Sink, our popular host of the Sink hotel, last week. The Rev'd is the gentleman who gave our readers of the HERALD such an elaborate account of Tecumseh and its business enterprises some five years since.—The gentleman was on his way to Marshall, this State, to spend the Sabbath, and is, we understand, a fine orator, and will favor our citizens sometime in the near future with the benefits of his celebrated lecture entitled "The Philosophy of the State," which is highly commended by the press.

THE HILL DRAMATIC TROUPE.

The Hill troupe will appear at the Opera House next week in a series of entertainments. The Union City Register says of this troupe:

The Hills, supported by an excellent dramatic company, have been giving a season of refined dramatic representations at Cooley's hall this week, commencing on Monday last, when they appeared in the play of "Ingomar," the most beautiful play we have ever seen produced upon the stage. Adelaide Hill, the star, is without doubt the greatest actress we have ever heard in our city, and in the character of "Parthenia, the Greek Girl," she is truly unsurpassable; she fairly carried the house by storm. Mr. Hill, as "Ingomar," was all that could be required. Every part was well played. There was an evenness and spirit manifested by the company that show a careful study and time training. Their houses improved with each evening, and we cheerfully recommend them to our readers as one of the finest troupes that have ever visited us. By general request they will this evening reproduce the play of "Ingomar," and we would advise all to secure their seats early, as we have no doubt the house will be filled to overflowing, which they so richly deserve.

THE TECUMSEH HERALD.

TECUMSEH, MICH. APR. 15, 1880.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

LENAWEE county has got a State institution at last.

WM. H. MATHER has rented his farm and moved into the village.

JOHN R. CLARK has our thanks for late copies of the Oil City Derrick.

INGOMAR next Monday evening at the Opera House by Adelaide Hill.

THE Reform Club will hold their regular meeting on Monday evening next.

LON STACY is improving quite rapidly from his accident. He was able to ride out yesterday.

WILLIAM DOVE has left a specimen of Cotswold wool at our office which is fourteen inches in length.

ELLIOTT GRAY has recently received orders from Ireland for 450 tons of corn meal and 100 tons of flour.

ARTHUR KENNEDY started for Denver, Col., last Tuesday, where he intends to stay during the summer.

BILLY JORDAN is at his old tricks again. He is putting the streets in better condition than ever this spring.

THE celebrated actress Adelaide Hill will appear at the Opera House next Monday evening in "Ingomar."

JOHN LINTON, of Macon, is the owner of a yearling buck which has wool 13 inches in length and weighs 180 pounds. Next.

SILAS CHAPMAN left Tecumseh last Monday for Missouri, where he intends to work in a rolling mill. May success attend him.

W. H. CHATTERDON has been spending a few days in Tecumseh. He is on the look out now for some permanent business situation.

THE Supervisors have decided to assess all property this year in strict accordance with the law at its full cash value. A very sensible conclusion.

WE are going to have a new undertaker in town. A. W. Slayton has gone to New York to buy a new hearse and a complete stock of undertaker's goods.

N. M. SUTTON has on exhibition at his store a cocoa nut just gathered from the tree, and a lot of West India shells which he brought from Florida with him.

THOS. LEE, of Macon, has just completed a new grain barn on his premises which is a model of neatness and convenience, at an expense of over two hundred dollars.

THE Reform Club will hold Sunday afternoon meetings at their hall regularly hereafter, until further notice. Rev. H. Shepard will address the meeting next Sunday at 3 o'clock P.M.

CHARLES WALDRON, who has been for the last six months in Philadelphia studying for a veterinary surgeon has returned bringing with him a full bred Champion horse, which is a beauty in every respect.

O. C. MAYNARD, special agent of the Northwestern Mutual Life is in town this week, on business connected with his company. He has taken several new applications during his sojourn in Tecumseh.

MILES' Juvenile Pinafore Company played to a good house last evening.—The entertainment was first-class in every respect, and was one of the best Tecumseh has been favored with during the present winter.

THE Reform Club entertainment which was to have taken place on Monday evening next has been postponed on account of Prof. Cook's lecture in Adrian. Due notice will be given when it is to be held.

COPIES, in neat pamphlet form, giving the full text of Mr. Bayley's address before the Presbytery, of which we give a few sentences this week, will be for sale at Sherrard & Robbins. Price 3 cents for single copy—2 for 5 cents.

DR. P. C. GOODRICH, arrived at Tecumseh last Saturday from the Black Hills, in Dakota, where he has been practising dentistry during the winter. Business is lively in that quarter of the world, but it is rather a rough place to live.

WILL R. WOODEN has been appointed agent for Tecumseh of the Michigan Mutual Benefit Association. He will be an excellent man for that position and will doubtless increase the business of the company very materially in this vicinity.

REV. C. C. SINK, returned from Marshall last Tuesday, having been there three days. He says Marshall has her entire quota raised on the T. & M. road, and that surveying was begun on the line between Marshall and Battle Creek last Monday.

LIBANUS E. HOAG was arrested last Saturday charged with setting fire to four wheat stacks belonging to P. R. Adams, which were burned in August, 1878. He was arraigned on Monday morning, waived examination and was bound over for trial at the next term of court in the sum of $1,000. He procured bail and was released from custody.

THE funeral ceremonies of the late Gov. William A. Howard, were held in Detroit, Tuesday afternoon. The sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. Baker.

O. B. DEWORF returned from the Hot Springs, Ark., last week, where he has been spending several weeks for his health. He feels much refreshed and strengthened, and prepared to enter the spring business campaign with renewed energy.

JOHN R. CLARK has been engaged to deliver three lectures to the students of Allegheny College, at Meadville, Pa. The President of the College heard his lecture, "To and Fro in London," and immediately afterward made the above engagement with him.

Adrian Times: Tecumseh will have a good base ball club this year. There are some good players among the boys of that village, and they have commenced practice. If Adrian can't have a first-class club, the next best thing is to have one somewhere else in the county.

THE Gardner's Monthly and Horticulturist for April is at hand. It is one of the best periodicals for small farmers and landscape gardners within our knowledge, and contains much general information which will be interesting to all. Subscriptions taken at the HERALD office.

THE new amendment increasing the Governor's salary was buried beneath a majority of nearly 2,000 in this county. Adrian city, Tecumseh and Ogden voted in favor of the amendment, but every other town in the county polled a heavy majority against it. Woodstock roported 10 votes in favor and 208 votes against.

MR. J. B. SKINNER, of Hillsdale, is in town this week on business connected with the Michigan Mutual Benefit Association. This organization now has over seven hundred members and they are taking new members at the rate of about one hundred per month. There has not been one death loss as yet in the company.

MR. A. B. COTTON is making a change in his store which will be a decided improvement. The silk trade has grown to such proportions that he finds it necessary to enlarge his salesroom and secure additional light by which to display silks and fine dress goods to advantage. The board partition near the south end of his store will be removed and the space formerly occupied as a separate room will be given up to silks and dress goods.

AN Adrian committee visited Detroit last Monday on the Butler railroad business and were royally entertained there. The amount which is required from Adrian to secure this line is $40,000, and E. L. Clark has headed the list with $10,000. This will give the canvass in Adrian a big send off. Adrian is very fortunate in having a wealthy man like E. L. Clark within her borders, who possesses the traits of generosity and public spirit in proportion to his wealth.

THE Tecumseh Base Ball Association has commenced operations for the season. The first meeting was held at their Hall on Tuesday evening, the 13th inst, when the following officers were chosen for the ensuing year.

Pres't.—J. H. Tribou.
Vice Pres't.—R. B. House.
Sec'y.—S. A. James.
Treas.—Newbold Satterthwaite.
Manager—T. C. Cummins.
Ex. Com.—R. B. House, T. D. McKinney, B. P. Anderson.
Special Com.—R. B. House, Willis Merrit, S. A. James.

Auction Sale.

H. W. Stevens will sell at public auction on the corner of Railroad and Chicago streets, in Tecumseh, on Saturday, April 17th, at 1 o'clock P. M., the following property: 1 top buggy, 1 platform spring wagon, 1 single harness (all new), a lot of household goods and other desireable articles, being the property of Wm. Van Camp, A. Warren and the late Mrs. Mary Patchen. Terms made known at the sale.

THE RIVER RAISIN MYSTERY.

About three miles north of Clinton, there is a flag station on the Jackson Branch called River Raisin. There is a small building near the side of the track used as a station house, and passengers signal the train themselves, when they wish to get aboard. About a quarter of a mile Southeast of the station is the Bridgewater postoffice. Last week Wednesday morning, when Mr. Fischer, the man who carries the mail arrived at the station house, he found that the stove had been up-set, and the floor was covered with blood. A large oak club was lying on the floor which had bloody finger marks on one end, and a quantity of congealed blood on the other end. Blood was found on the ground in front of the building, and a trail of blood leading down an embankment near the station house to the river, and a quantity of blood near the river's edge. The inference is that a foul murder was committed and the body of the murdered man thrown into the river. The officers of the law have taken the matter in charge and every effort will be made to unravel the mystery.

PRESBYTERY OF MONROE.

The Spring Session Held Last Week at Tecumseh.

The spring meeting of Monroe Presbytery convened in the Presbyterian church in this village, on Tuesday evening, April 6th, 1880, and was opened by the usual religious services.

Rev. Wm. Grandy declined nomination for the place of moderator, and on his motion Rev. Henry P. Collin, of Coldwater, was elected to that office.

Monroe Presbytery embraces 21 of the 6,000 churches belonging to this branch of the Presbyterian family in the United States, and under the care of the General Assembly, which meets next month in Madison, Wis.

Rev. John C. Hill, of Adrian, and Elder E. B. Wood, of Tecumseh, were honored by the Presbytery in being unanimously chosen as commissioners to General Assembly, with Rev. Wm. Grandy and Elder Geo. H. Botsford as alternates.

The following ministers being present, were invited to sit in sessions of the Presbytery as corresponding members: Rev. Charles E. Conley, Rev. A. J. Bigelow and William Charles, of Tecumseh; Rev. T. D. March, Superintendent of Home Missions for Michigan, Paw Paw; and Rev. J. Chester, D. D., of Cincinnati, agent for Lincoln University (colored), at Oxford, near Philadelphia.

The statistical reports and narratives from the churches indicated the general maintenance of religious services with increasing interest and enlarged offerings for the benevolent causes of the church.

This Presbytery represents a little under 3,000 communicants; there being 600,000 in the whole denomination, with eight or ten different Presbyterian denominations in the United States. The 21 congregations under this Presbytery expended for their own uses last year some $30,000, including their current expenses, salaries, new buildings, repairs, furnishings, etc.; their donations to missions and the general benevolences of the church at large, $2,500.

Many teachers and others came in on Wednesday afternoon to hear the following Sunday school topics discussed:

1. The Sunday school as the assembly of the congregation for the study of the Bible. Rev. F. T. Bayley.
2. The aim of the Sunday school—conversion and edification. Rev. D. P. Putnam.
3. The normal class of the congregation. Rev. H. P. Collin.
4. The supplemental lesson. Rev. Jno. C. Hill.

These topics were ably presented, impressing the auditors with the far reaching and formative influences eminating from the study of God's word in the assembly of the congregation.

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society, of Monroe Presbytery, met at the same time as the Presbytery, holding their day sessions in the Baptist church, which was courteously placed at their service. Their reports from the churches and papers on missions and mission lands were deeply interesting, pointing, like a flaming tongue of prophecy, to the fast approaching time when all heathen religions shall be supplanted by christianity, with its wealth of blessings for mankind.

We have not space for these, but give the beautiful Address of Welcome, by the President of the local society, Mrs. E. B. Wood.

ADDRESS OF WELCOME.

To the Ladies of the Presbyterian Society:—We welcome you here, dear friends, to-day; we give you warm greeting, because of our mutual love for our Redeemer, and our mutual interest in those who have gone to carry out His last command, and while we speak these words we remember, beloved friends, who would have joined us in this welcome, but they have heard the voice of the master, saying unto them, "Enter thou into the joy of thy Lord." One of these so lately told me to send two of you, as guests, to her home, and then with one day more of life she was suddenly taken through the shining gates to her sure place in the many mansions. We know that some among you are gathered here not without sacrifice for to most of us life is crowded so full of work that there is constant need to consider which is the duty that is lying nearest to our hand; and some are being reminded by the almond blossoms falling on their hair, that they are drawing near to the peaceful eventide, when all work shall be folded up and put away, and so these meetings as the years grow fewer grow very precious; and we especially have built large hopes on this gathering together of those whose hearts are filled with enthusiasm for the work of our risen Lord. "As iron sharpeneth iron" so may your zeal kindle ours, and from this mount of privilege, on which we hope for a few brief hours to stand, we shall expect to catch glimpses of the beauty as well as of the vastness of our work, and to learn something of the blessedness as well as the sureness of our reward.

In this meeting and in the Presbyterian meetings all over our land, christian women will seek to devise wise and helpful measures to assist those who with a royal consecration have gone forth to teach all nations; and we welcome you in the name of those beloved workers who write back to us that they are so very human that they look up to heaven through America. We know, from the experience of the past, that zeal and love are kindled in many a heart by these annual meetings—with more zeal and stronger love we shall rise to a higher life of prayer and effort in behalf of those toiling ones, and such prayers offered before the mercy seat, will bring to those for whom we pray, added strength, deepening enthusiasm, and stronger faith.

And now with our rejoicings at having you in our midst, are mingled our prayers that the Holy Spirit may abide with us during the hours that we remain together; may our hearts glow with the thought that we are the daughters of the King, and are about our Father's business. May we all, glad that He has called us to be co-workers with Him, seek to maintain His glory and honor, through this meeting, through this year, and thro' life, and at last may He admit us into His glorious city, to share in "the rest that remaineth for His people."

Wednesday evening a joint meeting of the Presbytery and the Woman's society was held in the Presbyterian church, which was filled with an appreciative audience to hear Rev. Frank T. Bayley speak on missions. His address was fresh, original, telling. Take the following as samples of Mr. Bayley's mode of putting things:

In 1878, one church with 380 members gave to the eight benevolent causes of the Presbyterian church, $13; the native church at Hilo, Sandwich Islands, gives every year to Foreign missions alone, $1,200, and has sent out twelve missionaries.

In 1877, the native church at Gaboon, Africa, with 100 members (all poor) gave more than three times as much as the five Presbyterian churches in Toledo, with their 1,285 members. The Gaboon and Benitia churches gave more than the whole synod of Columbus, Ohio; more than the Presbytery of Maumee with 2,960 members; more than the Presbytery of Des Moines with 2,953 members; more than the Presbytery of Mattoon with 3,349 members. The church in Gaboon, Africa, gave more to home misssons than any Presbyterian church in Michigan, 11 excepted, while only 8 gave as much to foreign missions as it did. And Gaboon is not alone in this respect. The churches in Hawaii, in Asia, in Egypt, in the Islands of the sea, all stand to-day as our accusers before God.

In 1878, the government received for the sale of revenue stamps for whisky in Chicago, $560,555. The Presbyterian board of foreign missions received, last year, including legacies, $425,482, a difference of $135,000 in favor of whisky, and a difference of over $8,500,000 when compared with the $9,000,000 paid for intoxicants in Cincinnati alone in 1878.

A single retail candy counter in Detroit took over $15,000 last year, or within $2,000 as much as the whole Presbyterian church gave to Sustentation, which is a department of home missions.

The government tax on tobacco in New York State for 1876, was $7,040,985. All christian denominations gave about $1,500,000 that year to foreign missions.

The internal revenue receipts for tobacco in 1876 in the United States were nearly $40,000,000, while the whole christian world gave about $6,000,000 for foreign missions.

The christians of every name in the United States give in 365 days for home and foreign missions about $5,000,000, or what they pay in three days for strong drink.

A. T. Stewart's hotel in New York cost $800,000 more than the total cost of christianizing the Sandwich Islands which was only $1,220,000.

The United States expends annually for intoxicating drink, (as estimated by Dr. Young, the chief of the U. S. Bureau of statistics,) four hundred times as much as all its churches, of all denominations, give for christian work in foreign lands—$600,000,000 a year for whisky; $1,500,000 for foreign missions for Christ.

Ah, brethren, the missionary delinquencies of the church are very great; they rebuke us before God and man. Let us remove them and speedily "all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God."

After votes of thanks and prayer, the Presbytery adjourned.

"Good Night, Gentle-folks," is the title of a new quartette, by Will L. Thompson, author of the famous quartette "Come Where the Lilies Bloom." Concert and Minstrel troupes pronounce it the most beautiful piece of music ever put on their programs. It never fails to receive a hearty encore. The demand is such that it is scarcely possible to keep it in print. Music dealers write that they never knew a quartette to sell so fast. We advise lovers of music to send the price, 50 cents, to the publishers, and receive a copy by return mail. Published by W. L. Thompson & Co., East Liverpool, Ohio.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.

AN INDOLENT CONGRESS.

A Greenbacker's Views on the Money Question—The Senator Edmunds Boom.

Washington, April 10, 1880.

It is many years at least since the country has had a more indolent Congress than the present—one more ready to adjourn early and begin late, or more impatient of business when dinner time comes. Generally there has been a custom in Congress to hold sessions on Saturday for debate, on which occasion any member who is spoiling for a speech may get an opportunity to fire it off, or at least have it injected into the Record for the benefit of his constituents. This practice relieves the regular proceedings of a great encumbrance in the way of gab, and it is, therefore, commendable. But the present Congress adjourns over Saturdays, and sometimes Fridays, while the very suggestion of night sessions will give the members a cramp.

This Congress fell into easy habits during the extra session. With a political debate on hand and no other business, members adjo'rn'd early, neglected committee meetings and fell into indolent ways. More solid work can be done after a long afternoon's debate, during the hour between 5 and 6 o'clock P.M., than in all the rest of the day. Members are savagely impatient of debate, utterly intolerant of points of order, wickedly resentful of unnecessary interruptions, and will take more votes and get through more business in that ante-dinner hour than during twelve hours of full-stomached ease and tolerant humor. The committee that rises and loses this precious hour wastes its day's work, for another morning will see a new lot of talkers start out for a brush over the very ground on which the first lot was exhausted on the previous day; and the hour of 5 on the second day will find that committee precisely where it was at the same hour on the first day. The House this session considered twenty of the new rules for two months, adjourning every day about 4 P.M. The committee one day determined to hold the house till 6 o'clock, and the members, fearful of losing their dinner, adopted the other twenty rules in that one afternoon. Were it not for that extra hour the new rules might have been under discussion yet.

Mr. Weaver, the Greenback member from Iowa, who has been struggling for three months to "catch the Speaker's eye" succeeded at last in getting recognized on Monday and dropped his resolutions on the Clerk's desk. Considering their extreme character the vote on these resolutions was unexpectedly large. They declare the right and duty of the Government to issue all money, whether of coin or paper, and to make it full legal tender for all debts, public or private; they oppose the refunding of the public debt, and propose its payment as fast as possible, "according to contract," and, for this purpose, propose the utmost practicable coinage of silver, as well as such gold as the business of the country may require. Mr. Weaver protested that he and his party did not intend the payment of the bonds in paper, so that the resolutions must be accepted as for unlimited paper money and the payment of the bonds in silver. These propositions were sustained by 85 Representatives, or within a fraction of 30 per cent. of the entire House. Of these 73 were Democrats, 10 were Greenbackers, and only 2—Messrs. Belford, of Colorado, and Kelley, of Pennsylvania—Republicans. The 73 Democrats constitute one-half of all the members of that party in the House, and with those who were paired, make a decided majority of the party. It is not surprising that the Democratic leaders of any degree of sense have steadily resisted the presentation of these resolutions. They knew that the test vote would show that their party was hopelessly divided on this question.

Apropos of the Edmunds boom, of which there has been some sly talk lately, it may be said that the Vermont Senator does not consider himself a candidate in the accepted sense. But his party might go farther and fare a great deal worse. Senator Edmunds is without doubt the most critical man in Congress. It has long been the practice of some Senators to take their bills to him for approval before introducing them. Sometimes he will change a comma, a word or a sentence, but when the bill comes up for action he is pretty sure to favor it. He is certain not to oppose it. But if he does not see a bill beforehand look out for him! Lately his intimates in the Senate have been guying him somewhat about his Presidential aspirations, and according to reports he answered some of them a day or two ago with the remark, "I see not a single feature in the Presidential office which would please me." "What!" exclaimed Senator Hoar, "not even the power to veto bills?"

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

Alamo voters have decided to build a new town hall.

A glass ball shooting club has been organized at Flint.

A charcoal establishment is now in operation at St. Charles.

The amount of salt made in Michigan in March was 131,508 barrels.

Fourteen convicts arrived at the Jackson state prison on the 7th.

It takes fifty-six liquor dealers to supply the demand for the ardent in Saginaw City.

Bishop Harris is to deliver the address of the university commencement in June.

There will be a reunion of the pharmaceutical alumni of Michigan university June 30.

The Grand Traverse pigeon roost is about 12 miles long and from ten rods to two miles wide.

The skeleton of an elephant is now in the museum of the state agricultural college at Lansing.

Ebenezer Swan who was said to be 104 years of age, died at Saranac on the 8th.

The total value of domestic exports from Port Huron for the month of March was $394,935.

A history of Berrien and Van Buren counties for the past 50 years has just been published.

Many of the pine grinding establishments on the Saginaw river are running at full speed.

Mrs. Henry Sheller, of Carmel, Eaton county, dropped dead on Friday while preparing dinner.

S. B. Fullerton, formerly a business man of New Haven, Macomb county, has been taken to the Pontiac asylum.

Shank Bros.' barn, near St. Louis, Gratiot county, was burned on Friday with five horses and some other stock. Loss $1,400.

Inspector general Heath, inspected the arms, uniforms and quarters of the Flint Union Blues on Friday and condemned a quantity of clothing.

P. J. Campbell's stave and heading mill at Cheasaning, Saginaw county, burned on Friday; loss $7,000. Thirty-two men are thrown out of work.

F. B. Spanhman, a Marcellus mill operator, was struck by a board on the 7th and sustained injuries which may prove fatal.

Women of Michigan, beware of the "Paisley shawl agent." He is still abroad in the land, and if you buy of him you will be "out" about $20.

The Port Huron Times says that the prospects for a branch railway from the Port Huron & Northwestern (narrow guage) to Mariette are now very good.

Corrigan and Gleason, the Marshall youths recently arrested for stealing, have been sent to the reform school, where they are to stay until 18 years of age.

David Snider, of Bellevue, died very suddenly on Friday. He was a well-known and prominent citizen, being at the time of his death one of the village trustees.

James K. West of Ypsilanti, went hunting on the 8th and was afterward found dead in the woods, having evidently been killed by an accidental discharge of his gun.

Hiram H. Hunter, of Pontiac, had two sons who were starved to death at Andersonville, and now the government has given the old man $1,500 and a pension of $8 per month.

Over 300 hunters are now at the great pigeon roost in Benzie county, near Traverse City. The slaughter goes on briskly, and shipping the dead will soon begin at Traverse City.

The machinery department of Thompson's shook factory at Ovid, which was recently burned, has been rebuilt and is of double its former capacity. The cooperage is running at full blast, with about 75 men employed.

The Evening News says the man who can tell the worst lie about the Grand Traverse pigeon roost is the best fellow, but he who tells the first one stands no chance, and that's the situation of the Grand Rapids man who published the report that the nesting place contained 500 square miles.

The Grand Rapids Leader of the 8th says that about 100 employes of Nelson, Matter & Co., furniture makers, of that place, struck a few days ago. The complaint made by the men is that they have been receiving only $5 in cash each, and the balance in orders, or allow it to remain in the hands of the firm. The matter has been amicably arranged.

Daniel O'Brien, of Summit, Jackson county, who fell dead in his wagon on the night of the 8th, while on his way home from Jackson, is said by the coroner's jury to have died from affection of the heart, brought on directly by over exertion and excitement, it being shown that he loaded up and brought to the city, sold, weighed and unloaded two big loads of hay after 10 o'clock, and that one of his horses had balked and made him much trouble.

Mr. John Muhlig, Poyner, Iowa, sends us the following communication: I have been a sufferer with Rheumatism for the last six years; I tried lots of medicines without any success. Visiting one day the store of Messrs. Wangler Bros., in Waterloo, Iowa, these gentlemen induced me to try the St. Jacobs Oil, telling me that it had a record as a very effective remedy. I bought a bottle, used it regularly according to directions, and was relieved of the ailment from which I had suffered for six long years.

What Makes You Sick?

You have allowed your bowels to become habitually costive, your liver has become torpid, the same thing ails your kidneys, and you are just used up. Now be sensible, get a package of Kidney-Wort, take it faithfully and soon you will forget you've got any such organs, for you will be a well man.

Every dog has his day; but the nights belong to the cats.

Poverty and Suffering.

"I was dragged down with debt, poverty and suffering for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, which did them no good.—I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well and none of us have seen a sick day since, and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost—I know it.

MORTGAGE SALE.

ON the 11th day of March, A.D. 1869, Jonas Weaver and Caroline M. Weaver by an indenture of mortgage made and executed by them on said 11th day of March, to Henry H. Rawson certain lands owned by said Caroline M. Weaver, which mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Lenawee county, Michigan, on the 2d day of November, A.D. 1869, in liber 57 of mortgages on pages 675 and 676, and which mortgage was duly assigned by said Henry H. Rawson to Jonas Weaver on the 6th day of November, A.D. 1879, which assignment was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of said county of Lenawee on the 27th day of January, A.D. 1880, in liber 95 of mortgages on page 423. There is claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date of this notice the sum of forty-four and 22-100 dollars and the sum of twenty-five dollars as an attorney fee which is also covenanted for in said mortgage should any proceeding be taken to foreclose, the said mortgage; no proceedings have been taken either at law or equity to recover the amount due on said mortgage or any part thereof. Default having been made in the terms of payment of said mortgage by means of which the power of sale in said mortgage has become absolute; notice is therefore hereby given that by virtue of said power of sale said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in said mortgage or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount due together with all legal costs and charges and said attorney fee of twenty-five dollars; said sale will be to the highest bidder and will be made on the thirtieth day of May, 1880, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at the front door of Dean's Opera House on Toledo street in the city of Adrian in said county of Lenawee, (that being the place of holding the Circuit Court for said county.) The premises described in said mortgage and to be sold as aforesaid are described as situate in the township of Rollin in said county of Lenawee, and known as the west half of the south west quarter of section twenty-nine, except twenty acres off the north end thereof, in township six south of range one east.

Dated February 21st, 1880.

HOW TO MANAGE A MICHIGAN ORCHARD.

How to Make it Pay.

At the Hillsdale meeting of the State Pomological Society the Hon. J. Webster Childs, of Ypsilanti, one of the most successful fruit-growers in Southern Michigan, read by request a paper on "How to Grow Apples for Profit." As his directions for the management of an orchard in this part of the State are eminently practical and are drawn almost solely from his own extensive experience, we give quite liberal extracts from his essay. After paying a deserved compliment to the State Society, and expressing a belief that no man need fail to make a handsome profit in raising apples in the State for the market, Mr. Childs continued:

WHAT KINDS TO PLANT.

In growing an orchard for profit simply, the first thing to be considered is, what, and how many varieties to plant. The answer to the first question will depend somewhat upon the soil, and upon the locality, as some of our most approved and popular varieties seem to be better adapted to some kinds of soil, and to flourish better in certain localities than in others. Valuable information upon this point may be readily obtained from the best fruit-growers in the vicinity of where it is proposed to plant an orchard. From a list of perhaps a dozen of the very best market varieties, we would then select not to exceed four or five, having reference in the selection, to the natural characteristics of the tree for vigorous growth, hardiness, and prolific bearing, and to the popularity of the apples in the market in which they would be the most likely to be offered for sale. Setting those of the same variety in contiguous rows, will not only add much to the symmetry and beauty of the orchard, (as they can be easily trained to look very much alike) but will also add somewhat to the convenience of gathering and preparing for market. For the first ten years, at least, after planting, as vigorous and rapid growth should be obtained as will be consistent with the health of the tree. In order to accomplish this, none but the most perfect and healthy trees are desirable for planting. The ground where it is proposed to plant an orchard, should, in all cases be heavily manured from the barn-yard, and plowed deep as possible for a year or two before setting the trees; and also underdrained if necessary.

HOW TREES SHOULD BE SET.

The spring is, I think, the preferable time for setting the trees, and I would put them not less than thirty-six feet apart each way; except Waggoners, which if I set at all, I would put in an orchard entirely by themselves on account of their too early and very prolific bearing, and small size of top, and I would set them not more than twenty or twenty-four feet apart. In setting trees it is labor well expended, and will pay, to dig the holes at least three feet across, and a foot and one half deep. Then fill nearly to the surface with top soil, as in no case would I plant the tree much if any deeper than it stood in the nursery. The holes being thus dug and filled, together with the fact of the land having been manured and plowed very deep previously will result in the latteral roots striking deeper than they otherwise would, thus being more out of the way of after cultivation.

On account of the great prevalence of west and south-west winds in this State, great loss is sustained by many of those raising orchards, from many of the trees getting to lean to the east and north-east, and becoming dead upon the west or southwest side—a result almost sure to follow, through the effect, I think, of the rays of the sun striking vertically upon the side of the tree thus exposed, when the wood is frozen. This may all be easily avoided by staking the tree for the first few years, driving the stake upon the south-west side, and confining the tree to it.

After an orchard is thus set, I would manure it from the barn-yard every second or third year, and cultivate it with some hoed crop rowed both way, so that the ground can be very thoroughly and often cultivated, which I consider far preferable to mulching and no cultivation. By continuing this cultivation during the first half of summer, a vigorous growth of the trees will be secured in the early part of the season, and by not stirring the ground in the last half of the summer the new wood will have a better opportunity to ripen up for winter. If an orchard of originally healthy trees, thus carefully set, very few will be lost by the transplanting, and thus cared for, few will fail to come to maturity, unless destroyed by accident.

METHODS OF PRUNING.

A very important matter connected with making orcharding profitable, is the pruning, and while it is true, as a general rule, that the skillful orchardist may give his trees about such shape as he pleases; still, the pruning should be done with a thorough knowledge of the natural characteristics of growth of different varieties of trees. For instance, no well posted fruit grower should, or will, attempt to give like shaped top to a Northern Spy, and a Rhode Island Greening. The pruning should never be done in a hap-hazard way, but with an intelligent idea of what form of tree is desirable, and the reasons for the same. The extremes of too compact or too open a top should be carefully avoided. With all varieties the skillful pruner will be able to secure a handsome, well rounded top, sufficiently compact to give the proper shape to both trunk and main limbs, and at the same time sufficiently open to admit the amount of light and air necessary to perfect the fruit of the more central portions of the tree. The pruning should be commenced when the trees are set out, and continued regularly every year as long as the orchard lasts.

At the time of transplanting, as the the tree has lost so many of its roots, the top should be cut back, and some of the branches should be entirely removed, if it has too many, leaving such as will start a top in the desired form. And then by careful pruning every year, it will be a long time before anything except the pruning knife will have to used; and rarely will it become necessary to cut off a limb more than an inch in diameter until the tree becomes old, and begins to lose some of the limbs by decay. I think it is exceedingly desirable to avoid cutting large limbs from the trees as long as possible. Judicious trimming year by year, cutting out small branches where the same are too thick, and keeping the bodies and main limbs free from sprouts, has much to do with the production of a greater proportion of perfect fruit, large in size and firm in quality.

SHAPING THE HEADS.

From my own experience, as well as observation, I am of the opinion that the profits of the orchard are augmented by heading the trees low. On such varieties as the Rhode Island Greening, and some others whose branches incline to a more lateral growth, thus giving a very spreading top. I would start the top about four feet from the ground, while to the Northern Spy, and such varieties as naturally make a more upright growth, I would endeavor to give not over three feet of trunk. Trees with their tops formed thus low, will be more easily kept erect; will have less of their fruit shaken off by the wind, and the expense of gathering will be quite a per cent. less than from those allowed to grow much taller. As to the best time in the year to trim an orchard, much has been said and written, and a considerable difference of opinion and practice prevails. And while I believe the time for trimming of less importance than the manner, still I think that it can be most successfully and properly done when the trees are free both from fruit and leaves, and that all things considered perhaps no time is better adapted to this important work, than the month of March, and the first part of April.

TILLING AND FERTILIZING.

Shall we plow and cultivate our orchards, is a question of much importance, and in reply I would say yes.—But it should be done with the utmost care. I think that not only young trees are far less likely to suffer, and have their growth retarded by drouth, where the land is planted to a hoed crop, and often stirred with the cultivator, than where it is in grass or a sowed crop; but that also, as the trees come into bearing, we get finer fruit, and more of it, from an orchard that is well fertilized and thoroughly cultivated. But as the trees advance in size and the roots become extended, the plowing should be very shallow, and at no time should it be deeply plowed near the trees.

I have an orchard that has been set 22 years, with which I have been very successful, and which has borne a large amount of very fine fruit, which I have plowed and cropped nearly every year, and most of the trees are in a fine thrifty condition, making a good growth every year; and but few have died out. As the trees have now become very large, and being headed pretty low, it is very inconvenient to plow it, and I have therefore seeded it to grass and fertilize by spreading a liberal coating of fresh manure upon the surface, which I consider the next best way of keeping up the production of fine fruit, and a large am't of it.

Ashes, either unleached or leached, are of great value to the orchard, and there is little danger of using too many spread broadcast over the ground.—While it is evident that by very heavy and constant manuring, it is possible to stimulate a too rapid growth of the orchard, resulting, probably, in its being shorter lived, still my observation has led me to conclude that where there is one thus injured, there are scores that more manuring and better care would add largely to the profit to be derived from them.

A good excuse for a bad act reminds us of the English lady who bought a salamander safe and had it put in her stateroom so that her valuables would be safer in case the ship should take fire.

TESTIMONY

Of the Hon. Jos. E. Gray, Judge of the Superior Court, Chicago, Ill.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15, 1875.

DR. S. D. HOWE,

DEAR SIR:—Permit me to add my grateful testimony to the array of witnesses to the virtue of your justly celebrated Arabian remedies. For a long time my wife was seriously afflicted with hacking cough, oppressed breathing, soreness of the chest, and constant acute pain in the lower portion of the right lung and under the shoulder blade. Her sufferings were intense, and she became extremely nervous and prostrated. Her disease was pronounced consumption by the physicians of Chicago and other cities, whose prescriptions had been taken without benefit. When you visited Chicago in June, 1875, we called on you, having very little hope of deriving help from your treatment. We were inspired with hope by the skillful manner in which your thorough examination was conducted, and the satisfactory examination with which you closed your diagnosis. My wife determined to take your medicines in accordance with your plan and practical directions. She began to use the Arabian Milk Cure and Arabian Tonic; their beneficial effect at once became manifest—the cough loosened and soon ceased, respiration became easy, the soreness of the chest was relieved and all pain removed, she began to gain in flesh and improve in strength and appearance. I fully believe that your medicines and skillful advice have saved the life of my wife. She unites with me in this grateful tribute to the merit of your remedies.

Very respectfully yours,
JOSEPH E. GRAY.

GLEANINGS FROM THE COUNTY PRESS.

Deerfield Record: A gentleman who was a visitor of this town the past week, made the remark that he never saw a village of the size of Deerfield, that was as lively in its business relations.

Morenci Observer: Colorado has inducements for another Morenci boy.—Harry George has retired from his clerkship at Cole's store, and next Monday, in company with Geo. Gay will depart for that State, to which speculators are thronging. Success to George and Harry.

Hudson Gazette: It beats the "15 puzzle"—how Geo. R. is to get that steamer from the "navy yard" to Devil's lake. We suggest to him that he launch it on the Bean and float it up by constructing a succession of locks and dams. But our imp says he can construct "dams" enough to take the boat overland.

Hudson Gazette: Bean Creek was on a regular tear the front day of the week. The driftwood borne down by the swift current carried out two props placed under Jackson st. bridge, but the bridge seems to be safe and sound enough for all that. Mr. Dicks had fears for his dam, and was working zealously to let away the pent up waters.

Adrian Press: Miss Rappleye, aged about sixty-five years, from Seneca county, N. Y., who has been staying with her neice, Mrs. J. Cole, in Weston, for the past few weeks, went up stairs to rest awhile; on arising to go down, she fell to the bottom of the stairs, breaking her left arm a little above the wrist, and the main bone of her right arm near the wrist. Dr. Ayers, of this place, was called in and the sufferer was made as comfortable as possible.

Hudson Post: A hail storm, a regular "blizzard," passed about three miles north of town last Saturday afternoon. The hail stones were many of them as large as walnuts, and broken windows are common in the pathway. Our informant tells us that Uncle Jim Dillon was treed in a fence corner by the storm. Frank Treat, south of Rollin, had sixteen panes of glass 12x28 broken, and geese killed. Twenty-four hailstones weighed four and one half pounds.

Blissfield Advance:- Mr. Miller, father of Peter Miller, while driving a pair of young horses belonging to Mr. Pease, this morning was run away with. The team became frightened just east of the dry bridge and ran some distance down the street, detached themselves from the wagon and when we saw them were on their backs down the bank near the bridge. Mr. Miller escaped injury. The wagon was badly demoralized. The lion on this occasion was the striped pole man. Dell's courage and massive strength accomplished wonders. Huzza for the barber!

Morenci Observer: On Thursday morning last a fatal accident occurred in Chesterfield township, 4 miles south of Morenci, by which Wilford C. Butler lost his life. He was engaged on a job of clearing land for his brother-in-law, Mr. Eldridge, and was, with a neighbor, Theodore Seebring, in the act of sawing down an oak tree of some 18 inches diameter. Unexpectedly it fell at about right angles from the direction it was calculated it would fall, and just when it was going to the earth, Mr. Butler took the unseen fatal steps that brought him right beneath the falling tree, which came crushing down upon his shoulders, and killed him instantly. Before the maugled remains could be released a log had to be sawed off, and the body was immediately removed to Mr. B.'s stricken home.

COMMON COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

VILLAGE OF TECUMSEH, MICH., Council Room, April 5, 1880.

At this regular session the Council convened at the usual hour.

Present, the entire council except Messrs. Burridge and Smith.

On motion the Council adjourned to meet on the 12th day of April, 1880, at 7½ o'clock P.M.

P. S. MCKINNON, Recorder.

VILLAGE OF TECUMSEH, MICH., Council Room, April 12, 1880.

At this adjourned session the Council convened at 7½ o'clock P.M.

Present the entire council except Mr. Stout.

Minutes of last two meetings of Council read and approved.

PETITIONS AND APPLICATIONS.

William Hayden presented a petition asking the council to grant permission to the L. S. & M. S. R. R. Co. to change the side-track that lies on the east side of the main line on Evans street.

Referred to Committee on Streets.

NEW BUSINESS.

AROUND THE COUNTY.

FRANKLIN.

There are several cases of scarlet fever reported in this vicinity, but so far of rather a mild form, and it is hoped will not become general.

The school in this district commenced last week Monday under the direction of Miss Webster of Ridgeway; it is well attended and bids fair to be successful.

Miss Josie Butrick is teaching in what is known as the Grub school house, which is sufficient guarantee that they will have a profitable school, her reputation as an instructress being second to none in this vicinity.

The third quarterly meeting of the M. E. church will take place on next Sunday. The presiding elder, Rev. Mr. Shier will preach on Saturday afternoon and Sabbath morning at the usual hour.

In absence of much general news this week, and believing "the day of grace" has not passed for securing the T. & M. R. R. through this part of the county, providing the proper effort was at once put forth, and having had more railroad experience and consequently a better opportunity of witnessing the immense advantages that accrue from competition, in transportation, then perhaps any man in this community, and knowing as we do in how many ways every man would be benefited by securing that important thoroughfare through our town, perhaps it may not be out of place (although at the eleventh hour) to make a few statements of the facts that came under our immediate observation during several years of experience as agent of an important competing station, hoping thereby to remove some of the objections that are urged against contributing aid towards the construction of the proposed road. Not that we would presume to enlighten this community upon any other subject, nor upon this, did we not know whereof we affirm, and that the facts are as susceptible of demonstration as that 2 and 2 make four, if people were in a position to, and would investigate the matter in all its bearings impartially as they would any other financial problem, instead of fortifying themselves with arguments against aiding what would beyond question prove a highly profitable investment, to say nothing of the great convenience it would afford in the way of passenger communication, a daily mail and express facilities etc. Now in brief the facts promised. In the first place we took charge of the Bay City station when there was no other railroad and at a season of the year when navigation was closed, and consequently no competition, affording a complete monopoly precisely as Tecumseh and Adrian are situated today, and the first freight tariff adopted from Detroit to that city, although considerable lower in proportion than was charged between local stations was 76 cts per 100 lbs, which the construction of other and competing lines forced down to 25 cts for a distance of 100 miles, while local rates remained at one cent per mile per hundred lbs. If space would permit we could give numerous other instances of a similar nature. But this affords a fair illustration of the advantages that invariably arise from competition, and any man who will take the trouble to compute the amount of products shipped from Tecumseh for instance for one year, and deduct say one fourth from the present exorbitant rates of freight could not help be convinced that the comparatively small amount required of each man would prove a profitable investment. In short we could successfully refute every argument we have heard against the enterprise, had we the space, and will only add that if every man in this vicinity had had our experience the road would have been secured long ago, and if Adrian secures the Butler road, as she bids fair to do and this part of the county allows her golden opportunity to go by default, we firmly believe it will long be a matter of serious regret.

BRIDGEWATER.

Mr. L. J. Freeland who has been teaching the school in Dist. No. 7, in this township during the winter term, closed his school week before last.—Although the regular term was of four months' duration, the district, at a special meeting called for that purpose, unanimously passed a vote to continue the school four weeks longer. The term closed with a grand exhibition, at which the music was furnished by the Bridgewater orchestra. Mr. Freeland has made a very successful teacher. MATE.

CLINTON.

Our age of general activity and public enterprise is marked by features peculiarly its own. Such is the 19th century, and appropriately so, because notable events have so crowded into its history as to demand recognition and celebration. Hence we have military, ecclesiastical, political, scientific conventions, exhibitions, reunions, pioneers meet or reviews and congratulation, eliciting the more tender sensibilities of our common nature, and augmenting the sources of our social enjoyment.

Amid the strife which prevails on other topics and in less favorable associations such intercourse is like pouring oil on the troubled waters of ordinary evolutions. It gives a lull, a calm to our over taxed brain and nerve. Friends, in the undress and quiet of their own local attachments, convene, converse, partake of the cup which animates but does not inebriate, unitedly pour their sorrows and their joys into the bosom of their God.—Thus help each other heavenward.—An honored, matronly member of our community, annually affords an exhibition of such feeling and practice which fact, if we mistake not, should be noted and commended.

On the 15th inst. in the quiet home of Mrs. B. K. Felton, the writer was kindly invited to meet, ministerially, a select company of elderly ladies.—the particular friends and neighbors of Mrs. Felton, who by her special desire had collected in the most unpretentious manner, to review the past seventy years, during which their heavenly father had led them in life's sojourn. Their intimacy had been agreeable and of long standing, while they had not wholly escaped cares, trials, bereavments, —which indeed are the common lot of humanity.—They were bold to aver that some sweet had been mingled with every bitter cup, so that their united testimony was "Jehovah doeth all things well." They linger on the shores of time a little longer, and by thus gathering, to give the helping hand to each other, sacredly resolving in divine strength, "to be imitators of those who now, thro' faith and patience, inherit the promises." Expecting soon to meet on the other shore, where four who met late years have already gone, and where "God shall wipe away all tears from all faces." W.P.W.

RAISIN VALLEY.

Dr. Test is now sole proprietor and exhibitor of two young foxes and a woodchuck.

The spring term in district No. 6 commenced last week with Libbie Satterthwaite as teacher,—her seventh term.

Rev. Mr. Grandy and Mr. Charles were present at last week's seminary prayer meeting; the remarks of the former impressing the students very deeply. We hope both may find other opportunities to be present at these meetings.

Saturday and Sunday is the regular time for Friends' Quarterly Meeting. School closes on Friday in consequence.

The farm formerly owned by Mrs. A. T. Bowen, has been sold to Mr. Jacob Fort; also that of Mr. Muck to Charles Tingley, who will now become a resident of the valley.

The April meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held at the house of Mrs. Wm. Cornelius on Wednesday afternoon of this week, and the ladies' social at the M. E. Church on Thursday afternoon.

Rev. Mr. Shier will conduct the services at the M. E. church next Sabbath, as it is communion day.

Miss Bonnie Strong, a member of the graduating class, and Mattie Jones were both taken quite sick last evening.

MACON.

Wednesday eve., the 14th inst, being the 10th anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Aten's wedded bliss, a few of their friends to the number of sixty or more, thought best to give them a social call. Accordingly at about 7½ o'clock in the evening when all was apparently quiet around the abode of "Will and Mett," a dozen carriages quietly filed into the yard, and in less time than a good talker could tell it the house was comfortably full of as jolly a crowd as one would wish to see. As a token of their friendship presented Mrs. Aten with a fine set of tinware, and Mr. Aten with a large tin watch and chain. A very enjoyable time was had and after a bountiful repast served by the ladies (which by the way was greatly enjoyed by all present,) the company dispersed congratulating themselves upon having had a general good time.

SPRINGVILLE.

Mrs. J. C. Kinney has moved to Brooklyn.

Mrs. Groger, landlady of the Springville hotel has erected a new sign. It reads "Springville Hotel."

Our lady school inspector elected at the last township election failed to qualify.

Chas. E. Jessup has just purchased a large stock of stone ware, about 600 gallons, and a large assortment of flower pots, hanging baskets, &c.

J. H. Smith has received the appointment of solicitor for the Home Insurance Co., of New York.

At the meeting of the Springville Band association held at Ayer's store, Friday evening. All members present. The report of the committee appointed to draft a constitution was accepted, the members signing the constitution. The following officers were elected:

President—John Stafford.
Secretary—J. H. Smith.
Treasurer—C. L. Vaughan.

Arrangements have been made with Mr. G. P. Wright to furnish the instruments of the firm of Lyon & Heally, of Chicago.

The Springville Sabbath School organized last week with

Supt—J. B. Stephenson.
Chorister—R. L. Rogers.
Sec.—Libbie Ayres.
Librarian—Mary Booher.
Teachers—Henry Smith, Wesley Rogers, Mrs. R. L. Rogers, Mrs. Dr. Vaughan and Mrs. Mason.

The railroad has taken a new start in this township the last few days.—Messrs. Hathaway & Bowen, of Addison, visited us last week and informed us that they were notified by Mr. Latcha that he was going on the west end of the line, and that if he finds everything ready there that he will expect to come this way as far as the work of raising aid is accomplished.—Our committee have been busy at work the last few days arranging their notes in shape and expect to be ready to answer to his call. We hope that those east of us will have their aid ready so that Mr. Latcha will and can stick to this route clear through. We have the promise of his coming thro' this town if we have our aid ready and we expect it will be.

RIDGEWAY.

Boreas on a bust.

C. L. Waring, of Holland, is in town.

Geo. Chaple, of Detroit, spent Sunday with us.

Geo. Scollick has taken up his residence in Tecumseh. Can be found at Brown's gallery.

Miss Ella Cadmus opened up the "pickerel hill" school on Monday last.

George W. Jackson has invented a carpet stretcher that will make husbands smile in house cleaning time.

One of Jeff Pilbeam's children swallowed a dose of corrosive sub., by mistake, last Tuesday, but is out of danger now.

Geo. Osgood and wife attended Joseph Cook's lecture at Adrian.

Ridgeway has got the measles now. One thing at a time.

A lively scrimmage was indulged in by a couple of pugilists in the east part of the town last week.

The ladies' mite society, which has made so many improvements and repairs on the church property, has disbanded. Hereafter there will be series of "church socials" under committee, or board of managers, the present chairman of which is I. S. Osborn.—The mite society held its last meeting at the home of the outgoing president, Miss Mary Temple, and was an enjoyable affair.

The B. B. A. held its annual election on last Monday evening.

Pres—G. P. Waring.
Sec.—W. J. Clark.
Treas.—T. H. Temple.
Captain—P. W. Cadmus.

Decided to commence practice as soon as the weather and ground will permit.

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly for May.

This periodical fully maintains its well deserved reputation, and, in the present number, we find a rare display of admirable articles, stories, sketches, essays, poems, and a miscellany remarkable for its comprehensiveness. The opening article—"Alexander II., Czar of Russia," by Alfred H. Guernsey—is most interesting and replete with information. There are seventeen excellent illustrations. "The Three Alpine Tunnels," with special reference to the Mont Cenis, will be read with great interest. It is profusely illustrated. An article on "Nuts and Nut-bearing Trees"; one on "Cotton in the Coast and Upland Field of South Carolina," and "Quinine Land," by N. Robinson, are among the prominent features of the number. The price of a single copy is only 25 cents; a year's subscription, $3; six months, $1,50. Sent post-paid. Address Frank Leslie's Publishing House, 53, 55, 57 Park Place, New York.

GLEANINGS FROM THE COUNTY PRESS.

Clinton News: Ziegler & Co. have now received all their new machinery and are making strenous efforts to get some of their new machines completed ready for the market. They expect to have a sample machine completed in a few days.

Hudson Gazette: They have got one of Pennock's pat. road machines in Mr. J. H. Keagle's district, Pittsford. It is operated by two or four horse power, and will make a mile of good road each day, or 300 rods of surface ditch. The machine works like a charm; and as they cost only about $150, we expect soon to see them in use in nearly every road district.—Then we may realize that great desideratum with farmers and townspeople as well, good country roads.

Deerfield Record: Blinn & Weidmann's stavemill shut down operations Thursday morning, to make repairs on their steam engine that was recently smashed up by the breaking of the main shaft.

Hudson Gazette: The cyclone which swept through Jonesville on Saturday as mentioned in another column, also passed through Rollin, doing a good deal of injury to trees, fences and buildings. The storm raged with terrible fury for a few minutes. Many windows were shattered to pieces by hailstones as large as snow-balls.

Hudson Post: Mrs. E. D. Hammond and her daughter, of Ransom, while coming to Hudson last Monday, when about two miles west of town, were thrown out the hind end of the buggy by a sudden start of the team, and Mrs. Hammond so seriously injured that she has not been able to be removed to her home. She is able to sit up a little now, but can move about only by the aid of others.

Adrian Press: Mr. Paul T. Bowen, of Washington has been spending a few days in the city, and returned to his post yesterday. He is one of the most efficient clerks in the treasury department.

Hudson Gazette: About six p. m., on Tuesday the house of Peter Ward, in the northeastern part of the corporation, took fire from a defective chimney, it is supposed, and was soon almost wholly reduced to ashes. The fire engines were promptly on hand, but for lack of water were unable to cope with the devouring element. Most of the contents were saved. Building and furniture insured for $600. Mr. Ward thanks the firemen and all friends who rendered assistance.

LIST OF JURORS.

Following is a list of petit jurors drawn to-day to serve at the May term of the circuit court for this county. Court opens on the 11th day of May, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon:

Cambridge—Samuel Morey.
Clinton—Wm. P. Silvers.
Deerfield—Nathan Manly.
Dover—Gilbert Torborn.
Fairfield—Riley Nash.
Franklin—Wm. H. Fisher.
Hudson—Charles Haskins.
Macon—Lewis Kellogg.
Madison—Harrison Harwood.
Medina—Chester R. Lyon.
Ogden—James H. Hodges.
Palmyra—A. V. Dersham.
Raisin—Aziah Ash.
Ridgeway—Joseph Thackery.
Riga—Byron Tripp.
Rollin—John H. Todd.
Rome—Henry H. Ferguson.
Senaca—George W. Keefer.
Tecumseh—Charles H. Blood.
Woodstock—Charles W. Pelham.
1st ward, Adrian—Alfred H. Wood.
2d " " —Harvey Hitchcock.
3d " " —Henry Wilcox.
4th " " —Jerome Reynolds.

Appleton's Journal.

The opening paper in Appletons' Journal for May is of great interest. It consists of copious selections from a work recently published in England, entitled "Conversations with Distinguished Persons during the Second Empire, from 1860 to 1863" by the late Nassau William Senior. Mr. Senior was Master in Chancery, and had unusual opportunities for intimacy with distinguished French contemporaries, including such men as Thiers, Guizot, Renan, Merimee, Lamartine, Barrot, and Prince Napoleon; and he noted down all his conversations with these men, and others equally famous. The article in Appletons' Journal consists of a number of remarkably spirited and suggestive passages from these conversations. M. de Lessep's reply to the Suez Canal article in the prevous number is given, to which is appended a note from Judge Morgan, the author of that article. There is a paper on "Metternich," and one on the French painter Regnault; "The Philosophy of Drawing-Rooms" is discussed; Science in its relation to the discovery of Crime is considered, and a number of striking examples given; a paper called "The Story of The Merchant of Venice" is very readable; and the the editor's departments are well filled. Appletons' Journal is published monthly, at 25 cents per number, or $3,00 per annum.

THE FAMILY CIRCLE.

LOVE

Love's like a mutton chop
Soon it grows cold
All its attractions pop
Ere it grows old.
Love's like the colic, sure,
Both painful to endure;
Ready's for both a cure,
So I've been told.

When first we meet (ah the swain
Begins with design
To flummox fair maiden
Easier to fry her)
He woos as soon as he can,
And jumps unhappy man
Out of the frying pan
Into the fire.

PROFESSOR STARR'S MENAGERIE.

The Perils of Drinking Water—Some Curious Monsters.

In the big hall of the Cooper Union, where several thousand persons were gathered last evening to enjoy the free entertainment, Prof. A. A. Starr exhibited his microscopical menagerie. Although Professor Starr was announced as a resident of Westfield, New Jersey, he began by saying that he was a native of this city, and this accounted for his knowing so well where to come when looking for bugs. He said that he would show ten thousand different specimens of insect life, and as he could not be expected to find so many bugs in New Jersey, the natural inference was that he had been investigating a street-car. "I am going to talk to you," said the Professor, "about the largest sect in the world—the insect. Manhattan Island contains six hundred varieties of animals that can not be seen with the naked eye," and one or two varieties, he neglected to add, that can not only be seen but felt. The water we drink, he said, is usually free from animalculæ. There are very few beasts, birds or fishes in Croton water, usually; they are found in stagnant water. A few summers ago the Croton water was yellow, dirty, and smelled bad. It was after a long drought, and two morning papers published conclusive articles showing the causes of the impurities. Both articles were conclusive, but they were entirely different. The water was made impure by decaying vegetable matter, and then it contained animalculæ.

"I have here," Professor Starr continued, "some flour and water, mixed. The ladies knead flour and water into dough, and let it stand over night; then they knead it again in the morning, and then, after it is baked, we all need it. I can bring 10,000 animals out of this glass on the point of a needle, some of them six feet long. I am going to show you, among other things, a water-tiger and a cyclops."

The name of this latter animal sounded like cyclops, but Professor Starr's voice was heard so indistinctly across the big hall that it may have been a cycloner. He said, however, that it was so called because it had only one eye; so the reader can choose whichever would be more probable—a one-eyed cyclops or a one-eyed cycloner.

"I have taken," said the speaker, "twenty-seven parasites from a bee, and ten from a common house-fly. Every insect has its parasites, which are lice. A smart man, who thought it was indelicate even to mention a louse, asked me some smart questions about them one night. God made the louse, and he made that man, and perhaps he made a mistake in making either. We can tell a bird by its parasites. Fifty birds have fifty different kinds of parasites, and we can distinguish them with the microscope."

The process of distinguishing things by their parasites may prove a valuable one in New York. In a few years we will have experts who can tell an elevated train from a ferry-boat merely by running a few of its parasites under a microscope.

"I will show you the abdomen of a saw-fly," the professor continued, "and this will illustrate the development theory. Flies originally had no saws; but one day a fly got a few, and found it was a fine thing to have them, and he kept them, and thereafter all saw-flies had saws. These little insects all go to show the wisdom of the Creator. You might as well pick up a watch and say there is no such thing as a watch-maker, as pick up an insect and say there is no Creator. It is all nicely arranged by nature with these insects, just as it is with human things. The big ones eat up the little ones; and the little ones turn round and torment the large ones."

Stretched over a frame on the platform was a piece of muslin big enough to have been one of the sheets of the great bed of Ware, and in front of it was a microscopic stereopticon. Somebody was behind the scenes to turn down the lights, and turned them all the way out, leaving the big hall in darkness. The Professor then threw upon the screen a photograph of the devil-fish in the Aquarium. So it looked, at least, but he said it was only the leg of a common house-spider. It had a claw on the end of it like a lobster, and bristles sticking out all over it like the limbs of trees. It was dead. Then came the foot of a tarantula, fully big enough to have corns, and the leg and foot of a fly, and then the leg of another fly. A specimen of [illegible] the dust of a butterfly's wing, each particle of dust a complete feather. Then came the head of a trichina, with a bill about eight feet long, to be used for the cheerful purpose of boring into your muscles; the gizzard of a cricket, looking like fine lace; the proboscis of a butterfly, about thirty-five feet long; the mouth of a fly, something the size of an elephant's ear; the head of an ant, with a very big, fat, but benevolent-looking nose; antennæ from the head of a cockroach that would reach from Bowling Green to South Ferry, and the sting of a bee. This and the point of a fine needle, shown immediately afterward, were among the most interesting parts of the exhibition, showing what a clumsy workman art is, compared with nimble-fingered nature. The sting of the bee, under the powerful microscope, tapered off to a point too fine for the eye to appreciate, but the point of a fine No. 17 needle looked like the mouth-end of a clumsy cigar. The eye of a musquito looked like a honeycomb. A drop of the flour and water was then shown, exhibiting a paradise for Liliputian anglers, with thousands of eels, and all sorts of squirming and wriggling fish. A water-tiger was next exhibited, and the wing of a Chinese lantern-fly, making a surface big enough to carpet a Murray Hill drawing-room. Then the mouth of a house-fly again, with two big tusks; a bed-bug, the size of a goat (showing from his formation that it is better to always grasp him immediately back of the fore legs), and a jumping flea, that looked for all the world like a two-legged sheep.

The great act was reserved for the last; the water-tiger was brought out to be fed. An innocent little creature was put into the water with the tiger, and the big fellow let him skip around and flourish for a while, for all the world like a "master" in Wall street, and then the tiger made a spring, and, behold! the innocent little insect was swallowed; you could see him going down the tiger's throat and away down into his innards. Then the tiger brought out a couple of arms he had not used before, and patted himself over the jaws, as if he were saying to himself: "Well done, old boy!" Then a water spider was put in with the tiger, and they were to fight. They made a great commotion for a few minutes till spider legs and tiger claws were scattered all over the screen, and then the tiger intrenched himself in one corner of the drop, and the spider did the same in the opposite corner, and they dared each other to come on. But neither came on, and they were taken out to be sponged.—New York Times.

A CHINESE LODGE OF FREEMASONS.

Judge Lawrence, of the New York Supreme Court, lately granted a certificate of incorporation to a Chinese Masonic lodge, to be called "Long We Fong Eng We." The incorporators are five Chinamen, who were "raised" in their native land. Mr. Baptiste, one of the number, gave the following responses to the queries of a World reporter:

"If you are Freemasons, why don't you apply for a charter from the Grand Lodge of New York?" asked the reporter.

"We have had that under consideration for some time, and have taken the advice of several American Masons, who, however, are divided as to the advisability of such an application. To avoid any question being raised, we have decided to form a lodge of Chinamen and to do our work in our own lodge-room."

"When did you first become a Mason?"

"I was first made a Mason in China long before I came to America."

"Have you ever been tried by an American Mason?"

"Oh, yes, more than once. In China we have had both English and American Freemasons in our lodges."

"Is there any very great difference observable in the examinations by Americans of Chinese and vice versa?"

"No, none in the signs and grips. The great trouble is in the language, although both rituals mean the same thing, and our passwords, although different in sound, have the same significance."

"Have you any idea of the origin and antiquity of Masonry in China?"

"Oh, yes. I have studied the subject, but it is too much to discuss at this time and under these circumstances; but one thing I will tell you, and that is that the ritual used in China has been handed down unaltered for over 1,000 years."

"Can you produce any evidence to substantiate that assertion?"

"I can; and will be happy to do so if you will call at my house at any time," and, handing his card to the reporter, Mr. Baptiste passed on. His lodge is the first established among Chinamen of the Atlantic coast.

"Now, Johnny, if you had an orange which you wished to divide with your little sister, how much would you give her?" Johnny: "A suck."

SANITARY SCIENCE.

SOME GENERAL HINTS.

Advances have been made by civilized communities during the last few years in their own protection that would have been very much to their credit centuries ago, but are really nothing to boast of in this day and generation. In this age of silver, greed supercedes cleanliness if not godliness, and men seem more devoted to amassing fortunes than to the pursuit of health or happiness.

Barbarians built defensive fortifications, displaying great ingenuity and sagacity, but against the insidious preying of disease upon the human constitution they opposed no barrier because of their ignorance.

We are literally overwhelmed with information regarding the many causes of disease, the common foe and enemy of happiness and longevity, but worse than the untutored beings of former ages we are in the position of the picket who sleeps while on duty or the general who having command of the situation drowns his sensibilities in debauch, inasmuch as we engross ourselves in affairs of minor comparative importance, and instead of combining and organizing to prevent the onslaught, we allow the outposts to be overcome, the sentry to be conquered, and not until the very citadel of life is in danger do we call the doctor and then expect a well nigh miraculous cure.

We then view with some realizing sense the importance of resistance from the first, and while able to present an unbroken front, the actual treachery of which we have been guilty, when allowing supplies to pass to the innermost garrison without the closest scrutiny, lest hidden therein might pass for food or drink, or pure air the germ of infection.

Every unconscious breath of our nostrils is not as a matter of course the pure air of heaven, neither are the multitudinous triumphs of culinary genius to go unquestioned as food, though surrounded by fairest garniture of festal board. The limpid liquid lifted by the hand of a Gough, who extols its pellucid purity, may contain undiscovered and almost incredible contamination.

What goes into a man may not work his moral defilement. It is undeniable that it is only that which goes into him or fails to at the proper time, which compasses his physical demoralization. Possessing many of the secrets of the enemy even to his very origin, together with educated specialists who are probing further into his machinations, how shall we excuse ourselves if we fail to apply such vital knowledge in self-preservation. Careful to a fault, one's self alone, the duty is but half performed, and opportunities and privileges but feebly appreciated, neither can we avoid the fact of being our brother's keeper. An inalienable right of man is the pursuit of health and happiness and no member of a community, obscure or influential, can have the right though permitted the power, to obtrude an obstacle in the path of a fellow being. The blood of Abel is upon the head of Cain, and members of the body-politic become particeps criminis when a corporation infringes private rights by inflicting a nuisance or omits the plain duty of abating every repressible menace of personal health.

What an inspiring spectacle is that of a highly refined community, A.D. 1880, meekly submitting its corporeal substances to the pervading taint engendered by some careless citizen's filthy surroundings? And when death ensues, how edifying to hear conspirators artfully shift the responsibility upon the doctor, or resignedly murmur "Thy will be done."

What a pretty place is Tecumseh! Beautiful for situation, fertile soil, intelligent, educated, wealthy people! These are the spontaneous exclamations of visitors without exception. Has this highly favored community fully applied its natural resources and culture to the development of its highest interests? The critic's task is generally easy, but the limited space afforded will not permit us to enlarge. The visitor within our gates would wonder after taking in our water works and steamer, that we have no public well of water for the benefit of man and beast; that we have no public baths where the soil and stain of travel might be removed and enable him to become presentable; he might even entertain a reasonable doubt of our appreciation of that valuable country patronage whereon the banner village bases its prosperity, for in consideration of the general health we should at least have public closets and save delicate natures many a shock and physical ailment arising from the pangs of plethora. Improvements of the character indicated are not so costly as to be denied to ordinary enterprise, and are so common sense as to require, it seems to the writer, but the mention to become adopted.

The cemetery association has found its former borders too circumscribed, and at present rate of growth the silent city will become more populous than its stirring neighbor. An association, having for its object the introduction of a thorough system of sewerage, would operate to cheat the hungry grave of many an untimely victim, accomplish beneficient results upon the public health and prove again the axiom "Prevention is better than cure."

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

THE KELLOGG CASE.

Prevalence of Stock Gambling—Schurz and His Indians—Lightning Calculator.

Washington, April 17, 1880.

The Democratic majority in the Senate has been caucusing lately concerning the order of business generally and the Kellogg case incidentally. It has been a question whether policy dictated the postponement of this case until next session or whether it ought not to be taken up in its order and disposed of now. There was not until lately much doubt that when the vote came Kellogg would have to go, but just now it looks a little squally on that score. The important fact that four Democratic Senators—Gordon, Butler, Lamar and Hampton—will not vote, under any circumstances, to unseat Kellogg, because they take the view that the agreement that admitted Butler and Kellogg at the same time, two years ago, was a final settlement of the whole questions. These four votes with that of Senator David Davis would be enough to hold Kellogg in his place, and this circumstance may cause the matter to be put over, though a majority of the Democrats were disposed to call a vote as soon as it could be reached. In my opinion "Brindle Bill" is safe.

The reports in circulation as to the remarkable prevalence of stock gambling among members of Congress and the large sums made and lost by them during the winter are not pleasant reading. At the height of the boom in stocks it was stated that a "ticker" communicating with the New York market had been set up in the Capitol building, so as to facilitate the labors of Congressional "bulls" and "bears." It is known that at least two or three members have been made wealthy by the use of "points," and others have been admitted to the ground floor of great enterprises which promise rich returns. Not long ago a great deal of money was made in the same quarters by fore-knowledge of a rise in one of Jay Gould's railway stocks, and another load of the same stock having been taken on, it is given out that its "boom" is postponed until a certain bill shall be favorably reported upon by a Senate committee. Such stories give rise to ugly suspicions, and these suspicions are strengthened by recent Congressional interference in the affairs of corporations in whose business Congress usually manifests very little interest. A half dozen cases in point might be mentioned. Some day these things will breed a scandal, somebody's fingers will be badly burned, and perhaps a statesman or two will be maimed for life.

Secretary Schurz is giving Indian affairs the most thorough overhauling they have had for years, and representatives of the different tribes and nations arrive here in quick successions. No less than five delegations at a time have been quartered at the Tremont House during the last six weeks and every entrance to the house is daily besieged by crowds of curious people who come to "see the Injuns." Among the tribes lately represented here are the Utes, Poncas, Chippewas, Commanches, Apachees, and Crows. The latter have just arrived and attract more attention than any of the others, not excepting Ouray himself. Their dress is more fantastic and they appear more like the ideal Indian than any we have had here recently. At the Indian Bureau, they received quite an ovation, the room being filled with officials and other visitors, and they were pronounced the finest specimens of the race ever seen in Washington. Old "Big Chief" as he is called stands six feet four in his mocasins and weighs 260 pounds.

There is in the treasury an expert accountant named McMurray who is a most remarkable specimen of the "lightning calculator." The feats performed by him in the casting up of columns of figures are most astonishing. He will give the total of a column of 20 figures, more or less, quicker than you can say Jack Robinson, and the beauty of it is he never makes a mistake. He proves the days work of half a dozen clerks in an hour or two. In preparing the last dividend on the 4 per cent. loan in the Register's office, Treasury Department, Mr. McMurray performed the wonderful and unexampled feat of adding in six days 57,245 accounts, including principal and interest, which would in reality be just double that number of accounts. To do this he had to handle at the lowest estimate 300,500 figures, aggregating in all 514,604,450 dollars. The number of schedule sheets handled, each sheet containing at a very reasonable estimate 111 figures, was 2,707. The number of figures that he was required to write in pencil in putting the footings at the top and bottom of each sheet was about 76,000.

An old widower says, when you pop the question to a lady, do it with a kind of laugh, as if you were joking. If she accepts you, very good; if she does not, you can say you were only in fun.

A lady engaged to be married, and getting sick of her bargain, applied to a friend to help her untie the knot, before it was too late. "Oh, certainly," she replied, "it is very easy to untie it now while it is only a beau knot."

An Irishman remarked to his companion, on observing a lady pass:—"Pat, did you ever see so thin a woman as that before?" "Thin!" replied the other, "Botheration! I seen a woman as thin as two of her put together so I have."

From a Distinguished Physician.

Prof. Green, a distinguished allopathic physician, wrote to the Medical Record to the effect that after all other means had failed, he sent for the Kidney Cure (Safe Kidney and Liver Cure), and to his astonishment cured a serious case of Bright's Disease by administering it, and afterwards found it equally beneficial in other cases.

"Unless you give me aid," said a beggar to a benevolent lady, "I am afraid I shall have to resort to something which I greatly dislike to do." The lady handed him a dollar, and compassionately asked: "What is it, poor man, that I have saved you from?" "Work," was the mournful answer.

Feels Young Again.

"My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy, inactive condition of the whole system, headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicines did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old.—We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family."—A lady, Providence, R. JOE PARSONS' ADVENTURE.

Joe Parsons was a Baltimore boy and a little rough, but with a good hearted fellow and a brave soldier. He got badly wounded at Antietam, and thus laconically described the occurrence and what followed to some people who visited the hospital:

"What is your name?"

"Joe Parsons."

"What is the matter?"

"Blind as a bat, sir; both eyes shot out."

"At what battle?"

"Antietam."

"How did it happen?"

"I was hit and knocked down and had to lie all night on the battlefield. The battle was renewed next day, and I was under fire. I could stand the pain, but could not see. I wanted to see and get out of the fire. I waited and listened, and presently heard a man groan near me.

"Hello," says I.

"Hello yourself," says he.

"Who be you?" says I.

"Who be you?" says he.

"A Yankee," says I.

"Well, I'm a Reb.," says he.

"What's the matter?" says I.

"My leg's smashed," says he.

"Can you walk?" says I.

"No," says he.

"Can you see?" says I.

"Yes," says he.

"Well," says I, "you're a rebel but I'll do you a little favor."

"What's that?" says he.

"My eyes are shot out," says I, "and if you'll show me the way I'll carry you out," says I.

"All right," says he.

"Crawl over here," says I, and he did.

"Now, old Butternut," says I, "get on my back;" and he did.

"Go ahead," says he.

"Pint the way," says I, "for I can't see a blessed thing."

"Straight ahead," says he.

The balls were a-flying all round, and I trotted off and was soon out of range.

"Bully for you," says he, "but you have shook my leg almost off."

"Take a drink," says he holding up his canteen; and I took a nip.

"Now let's go on again," says he, "kind o' slowly;" and I took him up and he did the navigation and I did the walkin'. After I carried him nearly a mile and was almost dead he said: "Here we are; let me down." Just then a voice said,

"Hello, Billy, where did you get that Yank?"

"Where are we?" says I.

"In the rebel camp, of course," says he; "and d—n my buttons if that rebel hadn't ridden me a mile straight into the rebel camp. Next day McClellan's army advanced and took us both in, and then we shook hands and made it up; but it was a mean trick of him. Don't you think so?"

Two gushing Boston girls walking one day in the suburbs found a mile stone, forgotten in the march of improvement. One of them stopped and read the half-effaced inscription, "1, m. from Boston," and remarked: "Here is a grave perhaps of some young girl, who wished it written on the tombstone, 'I'm from Boston.' How touching! So simple and so sufficient!"

LEWIS' CONDENSED BAKING POWDER

STRICTLY PURE!

We will give $1000.00 for any Alum or other adulteration found in this POWDER.

Indorsed by the Brooklyn Board of Health, and by the best chemists in the United States.

It is STRONGER than any Yeast Powder in the world.

It NEVER FAILS to make light bread when used as directed.

It is COMMENDED by every housekeeper who has given it a fair trial.

It is an entirely NEW INVENTION, without any of the bad qualities of soda or saleratus, yeast or other baking powders.

It has in itself a tendency to sustain and nourish the system.

Good food makes good health; and health is improved or impaired in proportion as the food we eat is nutritious or otherwise.

LEWIS' BAKING POWDER always makes good food.

One can of this is worth two of any other baking compound.

It makes bread whiter and richer.

More than half the complaints of bad flour arise from the use of common baking powders, which often make the best of flour turn out dark bread.

The most delicate persons can eat food prepared with it without injury.

Nearly every other baking powder is adulterated and is absolutely injurious.

This is made from Refined Grape Cream of Tartar, and is PERFECTLY PURE.

It makes the BEST, lightest, and most nutritious

TUTT'S PILLS Cure KIDNEY Complaint.

TUTT'S PILLS CURE TORPID LIVER.

TUTT'S PILLS IMPA[illegible] PETITE.

DR. TUTT has succeeded in combining in these pills the heretofore antagonistic qualities of a STRENGTHING, PURGATIVE, and a PURIFYING TONIC.

Their first apparent effect is to increase the appetite by causing the food to properly assimilate. Thus the system is nourished, and by their tonic action on the digestive organs, regular and healthy evacuations are produced.

The rapidity with which PERSONS TAKE ON FLESH while under the influence of these pills, indicates their adaptability to nourish the body, hence their efficacy in curing nervous debility, melancholy, dyspepsia, wasting of the muscles, sluggishness of the liver, chronic constipation, and imparting health & strength to the system. Sold everywhere.

KIDNEY-WORT

PERMANENTLY CURES KIDNEY DISEASES, LIVER COMPLAINTS, Constipation and Piles.

DR. R. H. CLARK, South Hero, Vt., says, "In cases of KIDNEY TROUBLES it has acted like a charm. It has cured many very bad cases of PILES, and has never failed to act efficiently."

NELSON FAIRCHILD, of St. Albans, Vt., says, "It is of priceless value. After sixteen years of great suffering from Piles and Constipation it completely cured me."

C. S. HOGABON, of Berkshire, says, "one package has done wonders for me in completely curing a severe Liver and Kidney Complaint."

IT HAS WONDERFUL POWER. WHY?

BECAUSE IT ACTS ON THE LIVER, THE BOWELS AND KIDNEYS AT THE SAME TIME.

Because it cleanses the system of the poisonous humors that develope in Kidney and Urinary diseases, Biliousness, Jaundice, Constipation, Piles, or in Rheumatism, Neuralgia and Female disorders.

KIDNEY-WORT is a dry vegetable compound and can be sent by mail prepaid.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION.

Delegates to the State Convention Chosen —A County Committee Appointed.

The Republican County Convention which was called for the purpose of choosing delegates to the State Convention and selecting a county committee, assembled in Dean's Opera House in the city of Adrian yesterday. A. D. Gilmore, of Blissfield, was chosen temporary chairman, and H. M. Parker, of Palmyra, was elected temporary secretary. Every township and ward in the county was represented. The usual committees were appointed, and the convention then adjourned until after dinner.

Upon reassembling, the committee on credentials reported a list of delegates entitled to seats. The following named persons were chosen as permanent officers of the convention: C. E. Mickley, of Fairfield, chairman; G. P. Waring, of Ridgeway, secretary.

The several districts then reported a list of delegates to the State Convention as follows:

FIRST DISTRICT.

N. D. Yale, Deerfield; S. P. Whitmarsh, Palmyra; M. A. Wheeler, Blissfield; W. C. Fitzsimmons, Tecumseh; E. G. Wilson, Raisin; John Britton, Ridgeway; Wm. H. Osborn, Macon.

Rollin—Orson Green.
Rome—George W. Teachout.
Seneca—G. D. Morgan.
Tecumseh—R. B. House.
Woodstock—Wm. Kline.

W. A. Underwood was elected by the convention as chairman of the county committee, after which the convention adjourned.

BUSINESS PROSPERITY.

Business prosperity has not only permeated every branch of industry but is felt in all departments of the national and state governments where taxes and revenues are collected. This is strongly shown in our own Michigan by a comparison of the business transacted in the auditor general's office during the months of March 1879 and 1880. The total receipts for that month in 1879 were $18,888.01, divided as follows: Taxes paid $2,034.43, bids $1,158.41, state tax $11,168.24, redemptions, $2,396.73, abstracts $190.20. In March 1880 the total receipts were $37,494.86, divided as follows: Taxes paid $1,102.25, bids $5,750.56, state tax $27,750.34, redemptions $2,733.41, abstracts $528.10. Of course such an increase of receipts brought a great increase in routine office work, but be it said to the credit of Auditor General Latimer that the business of his office has been promptly dispatched without any increase in clerical force.

THE DUTY ON PAPER.

The latest news from the seat of war states that the Ways and Means committee will probably agree upon an amendment to the tariff, which will put paper, type, salt and coal on the free list. Whatever measure can pass the entire committee of Ways and Means will undoubtedly pass the House, as the recent votes in that body have disclosed a good strong working majority in favor of tariff reform. Unless this relief shall come before the adjournment of Congress, many country newspapers will be forced to suspend or increase their subscription and advertising rates.

FROM THE PACIFIC SLOPE.

An Interesting Letter from Santa Barbara, California.

We lately received a very interesting letter from Mrs. John Ketcham, of Santa Barbara, California. Presuming it will be as interesting to our readers as it was to us, we take the liberty of passing it around.

SANTA BARBARA, Mar. 25, 1880.

You have probably wondered more than once that not even a card of thanks had reached you for so kindly remembering us with several copies of the Tecumseh HERALD. Now you shall have such a long letter that you will forget my long silence, except to hope I'll keep silent again.

First, let me congratulate you upon your paper. It is filled with good reading matter; its dress is greatly improved, and like all healthy children "'tis growing."

In one of the papers you sent, I noticed that a Dr. Tuttle and wife, from Clinton, would start for Santa Barbara. Being interested in all from your vicinity, I determined to find them; but I had no trouble, for to my surprise I found they were the very family who were moving into a cozy cottage just across the street from us. I informed them that through you I heard of them, and that opened the door to a good chat on all your Tecumseh people; that made us feel like old friends at once.

The Dr. and ladies are very enthusiastic over our glorious climate and Santa Barbara in general. You will probably hear many glowing accounts from them, and right here I am going to make you wish that you were one of us Michiganders. (I lived there once so of course I am one.) Thermometer 68° in the parlor; sunshine as warm as June; birds singing in trees; foot hills emerald green and dotted with wild flowers. Just home from a pic nic in Mission Canon, loaded with ferns from the large brake a yard long to the exquisite maiden's hair and golden back varieties, and flowers that would make an Eastern botanist leap for joy. In my garden seventy-three callas in purity and stateliness raise their heads, and roses innumerable, with the mignonnette, are doing their part to make fragrant the air. The orange and lemon trees are loaded with the golden fruit. Lemons twenty cents per dozen. Figs will soon come and then follow all the delicious fruits of summer.

For dinner to-night young lamb, fresh green peas, and strawberrys fresh. Have some? Wish I could send you a slice of climate in this letter that you might have just a taste of what we enjoy three hundred and forty days in the year. Farmers are jubilant over crops, and all hope for a good year and better times. I have been very busy since my return, and among other things have just given an entertainment for the benefit of our church (Presbyterian.) Will send you paper with accounts, etc. There were seventy characters, so you may know my hands were full, to train and prepare them all. I think you might get up a Mother Goose entertainment with you. It is very attractive and abounds in fun. I regretted very much that I could not stop in Tecumseh on my return from Buffalo, but found it impossible. The next time I come or go East (which will probably be in three years) I will promise to stop with you for a nice concert. Will try and send you copies of our press containing some nice articles in regard to Southern California. They may interest you and others.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES.

Elastic Journalism.

Chicago News.—Elastic journalism means blackguarding a man on Sunday and taking it back on Monday.

Uncle Sammy Knows It.

Adrian Times.—Mr. Samuel Jones Tilden's health still continues much better than many sorrowing Bourbons wish it was—and Mr. Samuel Jones Tilden knows it.

The Way to Produce Harmony.

New York Tribune.—The rivalry among Tilden's score of alleged second choices is already warm, and the outcome may be that the only way to preserve harmony will be to run himself.

The Color Prejudice.

Detroit Free Press.—Prejudice against color is not confined to West Point it seems. In the office of a religious newspaper in New York, the white compositors struck recently because they were compelled to work side by side with two colored compositors.

A Fight for the Immigrant.

New York Herald.—One of the cheering signs of the times, so far as the greatness and prosperity of the South are concerned, is the growing desire in that section to attract by every means in its power a portion of the immigration now setting towards this country.

Will Produce Confusion.

New York Tribune.—General Grant's friends ought to tell him that he can't work the "reconciliation" theory of his canvass in the South, while his advocates are holding him up as the only "strong man" in the North, without disastrous confusion among the boomers.

The Great Feature of the Century.

New York Sun.—The engineering achievements of this century, beyond a question, are those for which it will be most famous and longest remembered. Theologians and philosophers may split hairs about metaphysical science, but they will all join in the celebration of what the engineers have done for modern progress.

Should be Painted White.

Cincinnati Enquirer.—It is announced in Washington dispatches that Mr. Hayes is to spend the summer in the White House. By the way, son Webb should have the family mansion at Fremont painted white, so that his father will be able to keep up the Presidential illusion after the expiration of his alleged term of office.

Will Support the Nominee.

Cincinnati Enquirer.—Secretary Sherman alleges that he will support whoever may be nominated at Chicago. Mr. Sherman should not bring this position under suspicion by a too intimate association with men who are known to be hostile to Grant, even to the point of bolting, should he be nominated. Men are frequently judged by the company they keep, and Mr. Sherman may get himself into a position where his support of the nominee will be comparatively worthless.

Senator Conkling's Fine Rhetoric.

Philadelphia Times.—During a short debate in the senate to-day over a bill for the relief of George Law, of New York, whose claim for $16,000 dated from the secession of Louisiana, Senator Conkling grew quite poetical. He sided with the claimant, appealing to Senator Cockrell not to oppose a just claim which had dragged along for years and which, if it should go over now, would be likely to remain unsatisfied "until eternity grows gray and hobbles on the crutches of time." After that the bill was passed of course.

The Chicago Hotels.

Philadelphia Times.—An Ohio man who thought he might have some business in Chicago about convention time and wrote to one of the hotels to secure a couple of small rooms, not particular on what floor, but with a communicating door if possible, during the sessions of the Republican National Convention, was informed in reply that the cost of such accommodations would be $50 a day. As a general thing, Ohio men have had a good streak of luck under the present administration, but they have about concluded that it is better to be a hotel-keeper in Chicago than an office-holder under the Federal Government.

A Mammouth Newspaper.

New York Herald.—The Herald is presented to the world for the first time in its history, in sextuple form of twenty-four pages, or one hundred and forty-four columns. At this period of the year, when the burden of winter is shaken off for good, and spring with its rapid march hastens on to summer, a business awakening accompanies the breaking forth of buds and early flowers. From all parts of the country we hear great good news of the progress and promise of trade. Nothing, therefore, is more to be expected than that those who are doing this business should make it known through such a channel as the Herald.

CHANCERY SALE.

IN pursuance and by virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court for the County of Lenawee in chancery, made and entered on the 17th day of March, A. D., 1880, in a certain cause therein pending, wherein Elizabeth S. Partree is complainant and William Gates, Lovina L. Gates, William A. Segerson and Sarah E. Rigby are defendants.

Notice is hereby given that I will sell at public auction to the highest bidder at the front door of Dean's Opera House, in the city of Adrian, Lenawee county, Michigan, (that being the place of holding the Circuit Court in and for said county of Lenawee,) on Friday the 4th day of June, A. D., 1880, at one o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all those certain pieces or parcels of land situate in said city, county and state, and known and described as follows, to wit: Commencing in the center of Scott street, eight (8) chains and six (6) links, northerly from the center of crossing of West Maumee street and Scott street, thence south eighty-nine (89) degrees west eight (8) chains and sixty-eight links for a place of beginning; thence South eighty-nine (89) degrees west one (1) chain and eighty-three (83) links to the north-east corner of land formerly owned by William Anderson, deceased; thence south six and a half (6½) degrees west five (5) chains and fifty (50) links to center of highway; thence easterly in the center of said highway ten (10) rods, thence northerly in a straight line to place of beginning, containing two (2) acres of land more or less.

Also that other tract commencing on the west line of Broad street at a point seventy-six (76) feet northerly of the south-east corner of lot one hundred and twenty-seven (127); thence westerly parallel with Maumee street one hundred and twenty-two and a half feet to Whitney's east line, thence northerly on Whitney's east line and parallel with Broad street fifty (50) feet; thence easterly parallel with Maumee street one hundred and twenty-two and a half (122½) feet to the west line of Broad street; thence southerly fifty (50) feet on said line to place of beginning, being a lot one hundred and twenty-two and a half feet by fifty feet, with all the rights and privilege of a ten (10) foot alley on the south side of said lot as granted to William Gates by Eli Parsons, on deed of Nov. 14th, 1872, together with all and singular the hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in any wise appertaining.

MORTGAGE SALE.

ON the 11th day of March, A.D. 1869, Jonas Weaver and Caroline M. Weaver by an indenture of mortgage made and executed by them on said 11th day of March, to Henry H. Rawson certain lands owned by said Caroline M. Weaver, which mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Lenawee county, Michigan, on the 2d day of November, A.D. 1869, in liber 57 of mortgages on pages 675 and 676, and which mortgage was duly assigned by said Henry H. Rawson to Jonas Weaver on the 6th day of November, A.D. 1879, which assignment was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of said county of Lenawee on the 24th day of January, A.D. 1880, in liber 95 of mortgages on page 423. There is claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date of this notice the sum of forty-four and 22-100 dollars and the sum of twenty-five dollars as an attorney fee which is also covenanted for in said mortgage should any proceeding be taken to foreclose the said mortgage; no proceedings have been taken either in law or equity to recover the amount due on said mortgage or any part thereof. Default having been made in the terms of payment of said mortgage by means of which the power of sale in said mortgage has become absolute; notice is therefore hereby given that by virtue of said power of sale said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in said mortgage or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount due together with all legal costs and charges and said attorney fee of twenty-five dollars; said sale will be to the highest bidder and will be made on the twenty-six day of July, 1880, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at the front door of Dean's Opera House on Toledo street in the city of Adrian in said county of Lenawee, (that being the place of holding the Circuit Court for said county,) The premises described in said mortgage and to be sold as aforesaid are described as situate in the township of Rollin in said county of Lenawee, and known as the west half of the south west quarter of section twenty-nine, except twenty acres off the north end thereof, in township six south of range one east.

Dated February 21st, 1880.

OUR OBITUARY POETRY.

After a season of serious reflection and prayerful consideration we have finally concluded to charge five cents a line hereafter for the insertion of obituary poetry. These obituary poems are coming in more rapidly than we can take care of them, and besides they seriously interfere with our spring poetry. We have not yet got through with the Macon epidemic, and now rumors reach us that they are threatened with the scarlet fever in Franklin, with the mumps in Raisin and with the measles in Ridgeway. We are thus placed in a very embarrassing position by being threatened with an inundation of obituary poetry, which will crowd out our local news. We shall have no room left in which to announce shows or to chronicle runaways and dog-fights. Now it is a standing rule of the HERALD office never to exclude a paid advertisement in any case. And hence by extending the protecting care of this rule over obituary poetry, we shall be able to encourage literary effort, replenish our exchequer and still preserve our own consistency. Therefore, friends, send along your obituary poems, the more the better, but please remember also to enclose a remittance of five cents a line.

Adrian Times, April 15: This morning Walter Barrows, aged 9, son of P. J. Barrows, who lives on Spring Brook avenue, while on his way to school, met with a severe accident.—He was sitting on top of a hitching post, when he fell and broke his arm above the elbow, and dislocated it at the elbow. Dr. R. Stephenson attended the little fellow.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

UNCLE Tom's Cabin is coming.

THE base ball season approacheth.

A good time now to plow corn ground.

Now put out onion sets and work over the pisgnut bed.

THE subscriptions for the Butler road in Adrian have reached $23,000.

J. B. SWAN has gone to Richmond, Ind., for a few days' visit among relatives there.

THE Universalist Social will be held at the parsonage to-morrow afternoon and evening.

SABBATH afternoon meeting will be held at the Reform Club Hall next Sunday afternoon at three o'clock.

QUITE a number of Tecumseh people went to Adrian last Monday evening to attend Joseph Cook's lecture.

THE Adrian R. R. committee holds its meetings regularly every evening, at the office of the Mich. State Ins. Co.

HENRY NYLAND is about building a brick addition to his store, connecting the store proper and the shoe shop in the rear.

THE proprietor of the Imerson House has provided himself with a hack, which he uses whenever there is any custom in that line.

THE next meeting of the Northern Lenawee Farmers' Club will be held next Saturday afternoon, at which time officers will be chosen.

BUILDING improvements are now in order. New floors are being laid this week in Whitenack's hardware store and Eaton's Dry Goods store.

SUPERVISOR COLVIN, of Palmyra, has resigned, and S. B. Mann has been appointed by the township board to fill the vacancy for the balance of the year.

WE respectfully refer our Tecumseh and Ridgeway readers to what our Franklin and Cambridge correspondents have to say on the railroad question this week.

THE last day of grace for Tecumseh on the T. & M. railroad project is rapidly approaching. Will our citizens, who have not aided us, now come forward and do their duty?

MR. J. J. VENIER has taken a position in O. B. DeWolf's store as repairer and engraver. He is a first class engraver, and will be a valuable addition to Mr. DeWolf's corps of clerks.

IF hanging a horse-shoe over the door of a house is sure to bring good fortune to the dwellers therein, why wouldn't hanging one over your pocket keep the coin from being dissipated.

IT is a positive fact that Michigan can produce more varieties of weather in the shortest period of time, about this season of the year, than any other country on which the sun shines. Witness the past week for instance.

"THE man who is bringing up a family on an income of six dollars a week will be happy to learn from the fashion predictions "that the spring and summer fashions, in elegance and style, will surpass anything ever seen in America."

WEBB ANDERSON has commenced work upon an addition to the south end of his store. The addition will run back to the alley, and will add considerably to the size of his sales room, which he finds to be necessary owing to his increasing business.

THE Grand Lake Club are beginning to make their preparations for the summer's campaign. N. M. Sutton and family have become members of this club, and we understand that they will erect a private cottage at Grand Lake this summer.

Adrian Times:—The bonus for the Butler road is not booming as much as it should. Some people who ought to give liberally, not only do not give themselves but prevent others from giving.

Adrian seems to be having a little of the same experience that Tecumseh has been enjoying lately.

THE veteran burglar and fire proof Japheth Cross has sold the Adrian Journal to Mr. F. W. Wickwire, who has taken immediate possession of the office. We regret to have Brother Cross leave the profession, but hope his mantel has fallen upon a worthy successor.

QUITE extensive improvements have been made in the school yard in Dist. No. 2, of Macon. A large number of evergreens and other shade trees have been set out, and if they are properly taken care of the school grounds will be greatly improved in appearance in a few years.

THE politicians are pretty busy this week. The Democrats hold State Conventions in New York and Texas on Tuesday, and in Vermont on Thursday. The Republicans hold conventions on Wednesday in Oregon, Georgia and Virginia. The result of the New York convention will probably decide Tilden's fortunes, while the Grant boom is expected to receive an impetus from the two leading states of the South.

MANY of us are wondrous wise,
But who wouldn't be a "Papa Kies."

MR. JAMES HECK of Flowerfield, this state was in town last week.

WOOLSTON COMFORT has a fine bed of hyacinths. That bouquet tells the story.

THE Arnold Bros. have commenced work on the foundation of their new store.

THE Merchants' Hall is being fixed up throughout we understand, for the use of Co. C.

MISS MARY ECCLES arrived home very unexpectedly from Deadwood, last Monday P. M. however her people were glad to see her.

Detroit Evening News: Michigan now contains two houses of correction, one big state prison, a reform school, two public and some private lunatic asylums, and has about contracted for another house of correction. If this thing keeps on, the decent, well behaved people of the state will all be required for prison keepers.

WE called in to see W. J. Kies' clothing store the other day, and we can safely say he has one of the largest and finest stocks in Tecumseh. Mr. Kies has had long experience in the woolen business, the past five years having been in the wholesale trade, which enables him to buy and sell clothing cheaper than many other houses. Parties wishing anything in his line should give him a call.

A LATE issue of the Lansing Republican, in its report of a meeting of the State Board of Health has this item. "The secretary presented an address issued by the local board of health of Tecumseh to the people of that village, together with a displayed card which has been tacked up in every out house in that village. Tecumseh is an illustration of what a live board of health may accomplish."

THE Postoffice department has recently ruled that a rubber stamp may be used to print the words "Please remit" "This account is over-due," "We are in need of money," etc., upon statements and other commercial papers without changing their character as third-class matter. This ruling does not, however, apply to receipts or other partly printed papers having "the expression of a monetary value." The use of a printed signature to such paper does not alter their character as first-class matter.

THE River Raisin mystery has not yet been solved. Many people now believe it to be a huge joke, but the sheriff and prosecuting attorney of Washtenaw county do not share in that opinion. They have investigated the case as far as possible, and gave it as their opinion that the two tramps who were seen north of Manchester the next day after the murder, one of whom had a lame arm, were the guilty parties, and that the man killed was a tramp, who fought with the bloody club found in the station house and was stabbed by one or both of the other tramps. Mr. Hanki has erected guards at the dam near his mill, which will prevent the body from floating away if it should rise to the surface of the water.

YESTERDAY'S Post & Tribune has this to say in regard to the Butler road:

W. T. Lawrence, of Adrian, visited Mr. Christian H. Buhl with reference to the route the road should take thro' the city of Adrian. Mr. Lawrence in common with most Adrian people, wishes the road to go through the more central portion of the city, along the valley of the Raisin river, instead of merely touching the city at the eastern limits. Mr. Buhl told Mr. Lawrence that the matter of route through the city, as well as location of depot grounds, was of very small importance to the company, and must be settled at home. The only requirements of the company were that the cost and length of the line should not be materially increased. The company wishes to accommodate Adrian people as much as possible.

The sooner the youth of this country are compeled by the scope and tendency of our public schools to recognize that only one boy in a hundred can be a lawyer, doctor or clergyman, the better it will be for the American people. To that it is essential that our methods of training shall cease to the silly and abortive preference for so called gentlemanly pursuits—shall squarely face the fact that manual labor is the sphere in which the great majority of the human race are destined to move, and that it is a mechanical skill and genius which has transformed the world, and which should command the highest prices in the race of life.

The Tecumseh Temperance Reform Club.

This Society recently moved into a new Hall, and are now fairly settled and ready for business. Their new quarters are in the room known as Bidwell's hall, over Cotton's dry goods store. The hall has been put under general repairs and looks as good as new and being located upon the corner of Chicago & R. R. Sts. it is lighted with many windows, thus securing good ventilation. The Reform Club is not a secret organization, and the members hope to see all their old friends and many new ones at their meetings on Saturday evening of each week; a special invitation is extended to the ladies.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.

The famous and only Wilkinson's, New Englands favorites will appear at Tecumseh Opera House on Saturday May 1st, one night only, presenting for the fourth consecutive season Harriet Beecher Stowe's immortal work, Uncle Tom's Cabin, in a manner absolutely unequaled by any company in the world. Their tour through this State is an unparalleled success, having appeared at Detroit nine nights to the largest houses of the season. Remember this is the only first class company who are playing at the people's popular prices. General admission, 25 cents; all coupon seats 35 cents for everbody.

Refering to their third appearance in Syracuse, the "Courier" says: Critics have puzzled their brains a good deal, to account for the wonderful vitality, the astonishing hold that the play of "Uncle Tom's Cabin has upon the public. Year after year it is played, and always before crowded houses, when presented by good talent. But few women who have made for themselves a reputation as actresses, have gained any credit for themselves in the delineations of Topsy, the incorrigible wench of Mrs. Stowe's creation. Mrs. G. C. Howard and Miss. Lillie Wilkinson are about the only ones who have been able, year after year, to play this character to large and delighted audiences; and it is generally conceded that Miss Wilkinson stands at the head. So, it is a wise move by Manager Lehman to celebrate the New Year by engaging the Wilkinsons, with their large and excellent company, to give us Uncle Tom's Cabin, with a matinee in the afternoon. Mr. Charles Wilkinson the oldest traveling manager in America will appear in his great specialty, Gumption Cute, as played by him in 1853, Georgia L. Fox, daughter of the late George L. Fox, will personate Little Eva, with Lillie Wilkinson as Topsy. The company embraces eighteen artists, all excellent in their respective roles."

THE NEW PROBATE JUDGE.

Judge F. C. Beaman, who has been in feeble health for several months past has finally determined to resign his position as Judge of Probate, and accordingly he placed his resignation in the hands of the Governor last Friday. The vacancy thus created was immediately filled by appointment of Ex-Mayor Geddes to that office for the balance of Judge Beaman's unexpired term. The Adrian Times in commenting on the new appointment says:

The governor has been extremely fortunate in his selection of a successor to Judge Beaman. In Norman Geddes the people will have a servant of such legal ability, judgement and business industry and capacity, as to make him no unworthy successor of the gentleman who preceded him. Mr. Geddes has been almost his entire business life among the people of this city and county. No man has ever questioned his personal integrity, and no man can doubt his ample ability to discharge the duties of the office with promptness and fidelity. It was an appointment eminently fit to be made, and we congratulate Gov. Croswell on his wisdom in making the selection.

In all of which the HERALD can give a hearty acquiescence. Mr. Geddes is well known in this section of the county and has many warm friends here, who all view his appointment with a great deal of satisfaction. It is an appointment eminently fit to be made.

The Graves Combination.

This celebrated combination will appear at the opera house on Monday and Tuesday evenings next, when the plays entitled "Queens Evidence" and "The Soldiers Trust" will be presented. The leading parts will be taken by the great character actor, Geo. C. Boniface. Both of these plays are good ones, Queen's Evidence has had a big run in the eastern theaters, and Boniface is peculiarly adapted to the leading role in that play. This is one of the very best companies on the road this season and their entertainments should be well patronized.

Auction Sale.

Joseph Wigglesworth having sold his farm will sell at auction on the premises 1½ miles n. e. of Knittlin's mill, on Friday, April 23, 1880, at 12 o'clock m., the following property, viz: Good work horse, 2 brood mares, with foal; yearling colt, heifer, 6 shoats, 4 stands of bees, poultry, 3 milch cows, 2 lumber wagons, 2 plows, double harness, pair of harrows, parlor stove, corn n the ear, 1½ acres growing wheat, bbl. soft soap, stove blocks, cord wood, stave bolts, &c. Usual terms of sale. Abe Hanford, Auctioneer.

THE third anpual shearing festival of the Franklin Merino Sheep-breeders and Wool Growers Association will be held at Franklin Center on Wednesday May 5th, 1880. All who are interested in improving our sheep are invited to attend.

HENRY WILSON, Sec'y.

JOHN MILLHOLLAND of Raisin put in about 500 cubic feet of ice last winter, costing him counting labor and all about $10, and sold it the other day for $80; now the question is, how much per cent profit did he make?

WOOLSTON COMFORT our enterprising Raisin miller does not intend to be behind in anything; he is giving his mill a brau new coat of paint all over.

Lines on the Death of Alicia and Lenny Remington.

Dry your tears fond parents,
For Alicia and Lenny dear are no more;
Safe in the arms of Jesus
Clasped to his loving breast.

Their short life is ended,
Their earthly trials are o'er,
They are numbered among the angels,
Do render adoring share.

You fain would wish to join them;
But that now cannot be;
You must only look to Jesus,
The rock higher than thee.

He will support and strengthen,
Will comfort and sustain,
All the way the Saviour leads thee,
Until you meet your loved ones again.

Brothers, think not that sister and brother
Now lies within the tomb;
They never knew its shadow,
They never felt its gloom.

Only their form is lying
Beneath the earthly sod,
Their soul, the part most precious,
Is now in heaven with God.

A happy change for Licia and Lenny,
To leave this house of clay;
Their spirit, like the caged bird,
Soared joyfully away.

Be faithful, loving sisters,
Till God shall bid you come,
To meet the angel ones
In heaven, that glorious home.

H. A.

Ridgeway, April 12, 1880.

Lines Directed to I. and H. Emans on the Death of Their Children.

Gone from your home but not your hearts
Sweet lovely blossoms nipped so soon.
God only lent, he took his own.
'Tis hard to say thy will be done.

Gone from this world of pain and grief
To one so full of peace and love.
God sent his angel to relieve,
And took them to that world above.

Gone to that home so pure and bright
From which the spirits never roam.
Bright angels robed in spotless white
Waited to waft their spirits home.

Farewell, dear loved ones, fare you well
We will meet you no more here;
You have gone with Jesus Christ to dwell—
Farewell our children dear.

Three little mounds well mark the place
In yonder grave-yard fair,
And when we have run our mortal race,
We too shall slumber there.

Fond parents look aloft and see
Christ with your treasures given;
Gird on your armor, say that we
Will meet them all in heaven.

A. E. BEAL.

Macon, April 8, 1880.

In Memory of Little Purley Priest.

Yes, your darling has gone before you,
To his beautiful home on high;
He beckons you to meet him
In that sweet by and by.

You miss his little pattering feet,
You hear his voice no more,
For your Purley has gone to Jesus
On that bright and happy shore.

He leaves a little empty chair,
His loss you deeply feel,
But Jesus calls his little ones,
He can all our sorrows heal.

The snowy form is laid at rest,
Your eyes the tears bedim,
Your Purley cannot come back to you
But you can go to him.

DIED.

SHERRARD—In Tecumseh, on Sunday afternoon, April 11, 1880. Ellen Richard, wife of James H. Sherrard and seventh daughter of Archibald Richard, Esq., of Raisin, aged 33 yrs.

Ellen Richard Sherrard was the youngest of a large and godly household, of great amiability of character and sweetness of disposition. While yet a girl she publicly professed faith in Christ, united with the Presbyterian church, and, until the day of her death, led a remarkably consistent christian life. The Sabbath was ever to her God's holy day; the Bible God's holy book; and the church God's house. These she loved and reverenced. From them she learned that "the whole duty of man" is to "love God with all the heart and our neighbor as ourself." Only those nearest to Mrs. Sherrard in life and most constantly with her, knew either the purity of her life, the strength of her faith, or the quiet, deep peace of soul resulting from her trust in the precious promises of scripture.

She leaves behind, her husband, a son and a daughter, all of whom look forward to the rending of the veil and the blessed meeting in the morning of that day which knows neither noon nor night, sorrow nor pain. To them it has been given to see the life of their beloved.

"Set as sets the morning star, which goes
Not down behind the darkened West, nor hides
Obscured among the tempests of the sky,
But melts away into the light of heaven.

"Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord."

WILSON—In Tecumseh, on Saturday, March 27th, Sarah Wilson, aged 83 years.

The funeral services were held at the Presbyterian church in Tecumseh. She was a native of Ireland and lived in the township of Tecumseh about 33 years. She was a member of the Presbyterian church about 65 years, and died rejoicing in Jesus Christ as being her Saviour.

WOMEN'S FOREIGN MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Below we give the address of welcome by Mrs. F. B. Wood, and the response by Mrs. J. W. Bailey, of Hillsdale, at the Women's Foreign Missionary Society, held in Tecumseh April 7, 1880, in connection with the session of the Presbytery held here at the same time.

ADDRESS OF WELCOME.

To the Ladies of the Presbyterian Society.—We welcome you here, dear friends, to-day; we give you warm greeting because of our mutual love for our Redeemer, and our mutual interest in those who have gone to carry out His last command, and while we speak these words we remember, beloved friends, who would have joined us in this welcome, but they have heard the voice of the master, saying unto them, "Enter thou into the joy of thy Lord." One of these so lately told me to send two of you, as guests, to her home, and then with one day more of life she was suddenly taken through the shining gates to her sure place in the many mansions. We know that some among you are gathered here not without sacrifice—for to most of us life is crowded so full of work that there is constant need to consider which is the duty that is lying nearest to our hand; and some are being reminded by the almond blossoms falling on their hair, that they are drawing near to the peaceful eventide, when all work shall be folded up and put away, and so these meetings as the years grow fewer grow very precious; and we especially have built large hopes on this gathering together of those whose hearts are filled with enthusiasm for the work of our risen Lord. "As iron sharpeneth iron" so may your zeal kindle ours, and from this mount of privilege, on which we hope for a few brief hours to stand, we shall expect to catch glimpses of the beauty as well as of the vastness of our work, and to learn something of the blessedness as well as the sureness of our reward.

In this meeting and in the Presbyterian meetings all over our land, christian women will seek to devise wise and helpful measures to assist those who with a royal consecration have gone forth to teach all nations; and we welcome you in the name of those beloved workers who write back to us that they are so very human that they look up to heaven through America. We know, from the experience of the past, that zeal and love are kindled in many a heart by these annual meetings—with more zeal and stronger love we shall rise to a higher life of prayer and effort in behalf of those toiling ones, and such prayers offered before the mercy seat, will bring to those for whom we pray, added strength, deepening enthusiasm, and stronger faith.

And now with our rejoicings at having you in our midst, are mingled our prayers that the Holy Spirit may abide with us during the hours that we remain together; may our hearts glow with the thought that we are the daughters of the King, and are about our Father's business. May we all, glad that He has called us to be coworkers with Him, seek to maintain His glory and honor, through this meeting, through this year, and thro' life, and at last may He admit us into His glorious city, to share in "the rest that remaineth for His people."

RESPONSE.

We come not as strangers in your midst to-day, beloved sisters; though it is the first time, with some of us, that our eyes ever beheld your beautiful village; yet its name renowned in story and in song is not unfamiliar to our ears. But it is the name above all other names that draws our hearts together to-day—Jesus—"sweetest name on mortal tongue"; and the kind and tender words you have spoken touch all our hearts. Said a lady once "I can never listen to music without tears." Surely the fountain is stirred to-day by words far sweeter than music to our very human hearts. Varied has been the experience of each since a year ago we gathered as a Presbyterial band, in the delightful parlors of the new church edifice at Jonesville; and still more varied the changes since two years ago an early train swept us into one of the oldest cities of our state; where we were so gracefully received by sisters who have done so much to help forward this work.

Disappointments have come to all, sickness and bereavement to some;—but I will not sadden the hour. All these are but parts of the discipline an all-wise Father permits, to fit us for our work and for our sweet rest at eventide. Though, indeed, with some of us the almond tree begins to flourish, and the grasshopper to be a burden, yet as we look into faces to-day glowing with love and zeal in the work, faces on which the years rest lightly, we "thank God and take courage," the work will go on. If we have come hither, not without sacrifice, not so seems it to those who stand aloof from this work. They say:—"Why this waste? Why was not this money given to the poor missionaries instead of being squandered in attendance on Woman Conventions?" Has not the answer already been aptly anticipated in the words of the wise man, as "iron sharpeneth iron, so a man sharpeneth the countenance of his friend." We shall indeed catch glimpses of the beauty and the vastness of the work before us, as to say, we follow our sister who in "charmed numbers" shall reveal to us its power in the home circle,—as we contemplate "what God hath wrought in this generation"—as together we trace "the progress of civilization in Africa, where remaineth much land to be possessed,—and as we listen to words from Ningpo, far over the sea. Shall we bow in sadness over the demise of Miss Abbie Ketchum? Surely not when she so very cheerfully writes her own obituary, gaily bidding us follow in imagination the procession bearing her away. But forgive me that I anticipate. Since the delights of the feast so often consist in the surprises which the covered dishes afford, we shall indeed realize both the blessedness and the sureness of our reward if we call to mind the words of the Lord Jesus, "Blessed are they that do His commandments that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gate into the city." Rejoice and be exceeding glad for great is your reward in Heaven.—It gives us courage to remember to-day that christian women all over our land are seeking to devise ways and means to help those who have gone forth to prepare the way of the Lord, and that it is not in vain that they thus meet, thousands of Zenanas testify, and the upheld hands of our missionaries bear witness that our labor together is not in vain in the Lord.—And so woman's work for woman goes on, and shall go on, broadening and deepening in its course, till the daughter of the King shall receive their last glad welcome to "the city that hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God."

Rawson, certain lands owned by said Caroline M. Weaver, which mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Lenawee county, Michigan, on the 2d day of November, A.D. 1869, in liber 57 of mortgages on pages 675 and 676, and which mortgage was duly assigned by said Henry H. Rawson to Jonas Weaver on the 6th day of November, A.D. 1879, which assignment was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of said county of Lenawee on the 24th day of January, A.D. 1880, in liber 95 of mortgages on page 423. There is claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date of this notice the sum of forty-four and 22-100 dollars and the sum of twenty-five dollars as an attorney fee which is also covenanted for in said mortgage should any proceeding be taken to foreclose the said mortgage; no proceedings have been taken either in law or equity to recover the amount due on said mortgage or any part thereof. Default having been made in the terms of payment of said mortgage by means of which the power of sale in said mortgage has become absolute; notice is therefore hereby given that by virtue of said power of sale said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in said mortgage or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount due together with all legal costs and charges and said attorney fee of twenty-five dollars; said sale will be to the highest bidder and will be made on the thirty-first day of May, 1880, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at the front door of Dean's Opera House on Toledo street in the city of Adrian in said county of Lenawee, (that being the place of holding the Circuit Court for said county.) The premises described in said mortgage and to be sold as aforesaid are described as situate in the township of Raisin in said county of Lenawee, and known as the west half of the south west quarter of section twenty-nine, except twenty acres off the north end thereof, in township six south of range one east.

Dated February 21st, 1880.

THE DAIRY OF THE FUTURE.

The advantages [illegible] ter making are so rapid that it requires no great stretch of the imagination to picture, in the not distant future, methods and results which to our grandparents would have seemed the work of a magician. In careful breeding we have in less than a century increased the daily butter yield of a good cow from half a pound to over two pounds, and the annual yield from one hundred to over three hundred pounds. And at the same time by reducing the bone and muscle and hide to the minimum, we have improved the quality, by providing better and more varied food and purer air and water. The old pasture with its coarse grasses, acrid weeds and stagnant pools has given place to carefully selected upland pastures, from which rank weeds are excluded, and upon which fertilizers are regularly supplied, or which are wholly taken up and reseeded with many varieties of fine grasses. Hay made from grass cut after it has hardened into wood and afterwards left to sour with mould, has given way to that bright and fragrant hay made from grasses cut in their first bloom, cured rapidly and housed immediately. Musty cornstalks tramped into the snow and manure of the barnyard are quite unlike the modern fodder carefully cured and, after being cut and steamed, mixed with sweet corn meal. The rich carrot and sweet beet have taken the place of the strong turnip and cabbage, and green fodder of many kinds—sweet corn, lucerne, millet and oats and rye cut in their bloom—now supplement the pasture. And thoroughly brushed and carded bodies and scrupulous clean flanks and udders, with light, warm and sweet smelling stables, constantly purified by thorough ventilation, and disinfected by sawdust and powdered gypsum, have taken the place of the darkness, dampness and filth of our ancestors' stables. Moreover, kind and gentle voices and quiet motions are now recognized as also of the first importance in the pasture and the stable.

In the milk room the changes are as many and great. We are learning that the Centrifugal Cream Separator does the work of thirty-six hours in less than as many minutes, and at the same time removes a dark and strong smelling substance, much of which has hitherto remained in the cream and gone forward into the butter.—Chemists have already removed the envelope from the butter globule by artificially prepared acids, getting their idea from the practice of those French peasants who, by burying cream in double canvass bags in fresh earth, are able to obtain pure, sweet and dry butter after twenty-four hours burial.—The centrifugal process has also been successfully applied to the "working" of butter in the remaining buttermilk and the broken envelopes of the butter globules being by this means satisfactorily removed. And already the chemists claim to have discovered preparations of borax and other substances by which butter can be perfectly preserved for many months and safely transported for long distances over land and sea. Finally, the selection of grasses for pastures includes not only those which are valuable for their nutritious qualities or early or late bloom, but those which like the sweet vernal, have the power of giving to the butter of the cows fed where it grows its powerful and agreeable flavor. The effect of corn as compared with wheat and oats and other grains upon the texture, as well as the flavor of the butter, is also being carefully noted.

With such rapid strides in the past and present, can we not imagine the butter-making of the future—and the near future—to be as brief and exact in its processes, as it will be excellent and uniform, yet varied in its products? Let us glance for a moment at this butter-making which is to be. Thirty minutes then will suffice from the patient cow to the perfect butter. Every four hours through the day the cows will be milked, as experiments have already shown that up to certain limits, the oftener the milking is done the greater will be the quantity, and the richer the milk. As the cows walk into their places, they are secured by a single motion of a lever at one end of the stable. Immediately a long pipe is placed behind them; from this pipe branches run at right angles, reach the cow, and each branch is again sub-divided into four tubes, each of which terminates in a flexible mouth, which can be quickly attached to the teat of the cow. All being now ready, word is now given to one of the dairymen, who is in charge of a steam engine placed in an adjoining building. By a pumping apparatus attached to the engine, the air is exhausted from the milking pipe and its branches, and at the same time a gentle motion is given to it; this steady suction, combined with alternated pressure and relaxation, successfully imitates the natural action of the calf, and in three minutes from the time the engine was started the cows are milked, and under the care of the herdsman are returning to the pasture.

The milk room, in a building distinct from the stable, but not far removed from it, now demands our attention. The milk when drawn from the cows, runs, at its natural temperature, directly into the separator, in which, under the influence of over 2,000 revolutions to the minute, it is soon separated, and from one spout is now running the sweet skim milk, as we call it, and from the other the pure cream. The separation is completed in seven minutes. From this separator the cream is led directly into the liberating vat, where by a gentle agitation it is thoroughly mixed with a prepared liquor which attacks the envelope of the butter globule that in ten minutes more, a faucet being opened, the liquor runs off, carrying with it the digested envelope of each globule. We now make the acquaintance of a second centrifugal machine called the dryer, in which, in three minutes more, the butter is entirely relieved of its remaining moisture, and pure, dry and sparkling, lies before us. It is next treated with the salting and preserving mixture, stamped into fancy prints, or packed into solid masses, and in less than thirty minutes from the udder the butter is on its way to consumers in the four quarters of the globe, or stored in warehouses ready for use at any season of the year.

But in the future, if possible, more than to-day, will purity be considered as of the first importance. The steam of the dairy engine will not have ended its labors with the production of the butter, but will be regularly employed in the perfect purification of the milking pipes, the centrifugal machines, and every vat and utensil; by it also will the floors of stable and dairy be cleansed, and the fan-wheels revolved, which increases the currents in the many ventilating tubes. The butter of the future will vary as much as does the butter of to-day, but then the variation will not be in the quality, for all will be excellent. The differences then will be in the flavors imparted by the nature of the grasses, which are made predominant in each particular pasture, either by artificial selection and cultivation, or by the nature of the soil and climate. Butter will then vary in flavor, as honey now does, and as wines do. Absolutely pure and free from all strong and undesirable odors as it will be, it cannot but be extremely sensitive to all variation in the food which is provided for the cows.—Cor. Country Gentleman.

A New Method in Medicine.—By this new method every sick person can get a dry vegetable compound, Kidney-Wort, and prepare for themselves six quarts of medicine. It is a specific cure for Kidney Diseases, Liver Complaint, Constipation and Piles, and a grand tonic for Females.

Let your expenses be such as to leave a balance in your pocket. Ready money is a friend in need.

A splendid dairy is one that yields its owner profit through the whole season. But he must supply the cows with what they need in order for them to be able to keep up their product. When their butter gets light in color he must make it "gilt edged" by using Wells, Richardson & Co's Perfected Butter Color. It gives the golden color of June, and adds five cents per pound to the value of the butter.—For sale by A. Anderson.

A cat is the most destructive of animals. They mewtilate every summer night.

They Work Together.—When your system gets out of tune and you feel completely played out, it is pretty certain that you need a medicine to act on both the Kidneys and Liver for these important organs work together in freeing the system of its waste, and keeping up the tone. Then take Kidney-Wort, for this is just what it does, for it is both diuretic and cathartic.

It is not difficult to take the part of an absent one, especially at a feast.

Wanted! Wanted!

To find a case of Kidney Complaint where Hill's Compound Extract of Buchu and Cubebs, will not make a permanent cure. We know such a case cannot be found, for out of the many thousands that have tried it not a single case has failed.

Chocolate Jelly.—Take seven tablespoonsful of grated chocolate, the same of white sugar, and one cup of sweet cream. Mix well together, set it over the fire, and let it just come to a boil. This is very nice to put between layers of cake, or to eat with corn-starch pudding, or any other blanemange.

The Council then took into consideration the amount of tax necessary to be raised for contingent expenses during the current year.

Upon presentation by the finance committee of the estimates of necessary expenditures it was, on motion,

Resolved, That a levy of three mills on the dollar of the assessed valuation be made for the augmentation of the contingent fund for the current year.

On further motion it was

Resolved, That a street tax be levied on the basis of one day's work for each fifteen hundred dollars of the assessed valuation of property in this village.

On further motion, the council adjourned.

P. S. MCKINNON, Recorder.

Godey's Lady's Book for May

Opens with several pages of Christian Ried's best novel, "Roslyn's Fortune," which is anxiously expected by all subscribers, and will repay the interest it excites. There are also various sketches in prose and poetry, a feast of literary treasures, and the new serial, "Glenarchan," is continued. This serial, we are informed, is by Mrs. E. Benjamin, the gifted author of "Hilda and I," a novel now exciting much attention in the literary world. "Glenarchan" is one of her best efforts. The steel plate is one of Darley's masterpieces, and there is page after page of attractive fashion matter following the mammoth colored plate. A design for a tidy in Java canvass is given on the "Novelty" page, and the diagram pattern is for a lady's bodice, that can be worn also as a street jacket. Every department is filled with attractive matter, and ladies will pronounce the "May Godey" one of the pleasantest surprises of the pleasant month.

Thousands of soldiers and heirs are entitled to Pensions with payment from date of discharge or death, if applied for before July 1, 1880. Wound, accidental injury or disease entitles to a Pension. Bounty and back pay collected. Increase of Pension secured. This firm established in 1866. Address, enclosing stamp, EDSON BROS., U. S. Claim Attorneys, 711 G Street, Washington, D. C.

ESTATE OF CLARRISA MORLEY.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee—ss.

At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian, on Wednesday, the 21st day of April, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty.

Present, Norman Geddes, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Clarrisa Morley, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition, of Edwin B. Wood, administrator of said estate alleging that he has paid the debts of deceased and the expenses of administration of said estate, that he is ready to file in this Court his final account, and praying for the allowance of the same, for an assignment and distribution of the residue of said estate to the persons entitled thereto and for his discharge.

Thereupon it is ordered, That Monday, the 17th day of May next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court then to be holden at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing. ESTATE OF EVEN. HENDERSHOT.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee—ss.

At a session of the Probate Court for the county of Lenawee, holden at the Probate office in the city of Adrian, on Monday, the 19th day of April, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty.

Present, Norman Geddes, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Even Hendershot, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Hugh A. Hendershot and William Hendershot, executors of the last will and testament of said deceased, alleging that they have paid the debts of deceased and the expenses of administration thus far incurred, and all specific legacies under said will, that they are ready to file their first account, and praying for the allowance of said account, and for such order as shall be in conformity with said will and the law in such case provided.

Thereupon it is ordered, That Monday, the 17th day of May next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court then to be holden at the Probate office, in the city of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of said petitioners should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said petitioners give notice to the persons interested in said estate of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the TECUMSEH HERALD, a newspaper printed and circulating in said county of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing. Literary Revolution and Universal Knowledge.

An Encyclopedia in 20 vols., over 16,000 pages; 10 per cent more matter than any Encyclopedia ever before published in this country, and sold, handsomely and well bound, in cloth for $10, in half morocco for $15, and printed on fine heavy paper, wide margins, bound in half Russia, gilt top, for $20—an enterprise so extraordinary that its success, beyond all precedent in book publishing, may be fairly claimed to inaugurate a Literary Revolution.

THE LIBRARY OF UNIVERSAL KNOWLEDGE is a reprint entire of the last (1879) Edinburgh edition of "Chambers's Encyclopedia," with about 40 per cent of new matter added, upon topics of special interest to American readers, thus making it equal in character to any similar work, better than any other suited to the wants of the great majority of those who consult works of reference, and altogether the latest Encyclopedia in the field.

Specimen Volumes in either style will be sent for examination with privilege of return on receipt of proportionate price per volume.

Special Discounts to all early purchasers, and extra discounts to clubs. Full particulars with descriptive catalogue of many other standard works equally low in price, sent free.

Leading principles of the American Book Exchange:

I. Publish only books of real worth.
II. Work upon the basis of present cost of making books, about one half what it was a few years ago.
III. Sell to buyers direct, and give them the 50 to 60 per cent commission commonly allowed to dealers.
IV. The cost of books when made in large quantity, and at a time is but a fraction of the cost when made 500 at a time.
V. Adopt the low price and get rid of the old plan of costly printing and binding, but avoid all "padding," fat and heavy-leaded type, spongy paper and gaudy binding, which are so commonly resorted to to make books appear large and fine, and which greatly add to their cost, but do not add to their value.
VI. To make $1 and a friend is better than to make $5 and an enemy.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

ALL SORES, CUTS, BRUISES, SPRAINS, BURNS, SORE THROAT, LAMENESS, ERYSIPELAS, PILES, INFLAMMATION of LUNGS and BOWELS, BRONCHITIS, CROUP, SALT RHEUM, CHILBLAINS, AFFECTIONS of the SPINE, ERYSIPELAS, NERVOUS IRRITATION, and all disorders attendant with INFLAMMATION.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame, every bone, muscle, vein, nerve, and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should feel perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

CLINTON.

Wilkinson's Uncle Tom's Cabin on Friday night.

Lent begins with next week with the saloon-keepers of Clinton.

The "walking fever" has just shed its halo over this place. Lovinus Cochran was the first victim whose legs cramped for more exercise and then "Simon, the bold," was taken, though in a far more violent form, so that he had to gird up his loins and array himself georgeously in scarlet and fine linen, and fast and pray, &c., to develope his muscle and powers of endurance to such an extent that he could walk a mile in less time, and do it easier, than an ordinary man would require to saw a cord of wood. Time, 6-27.

Ira W. Smith, a former resident here, but recently of Jackson, died at that place last week of consumption and was brought here Friday for burial. He leaves a wife and one child.

It would seem by the way our popular harness-maker, W. C. Rogers, shoves out harnesses, that the demand would be supplied after a while, but instead, it constantly increases. Every day fresh orders are taken, and the work is being pushed forward to its utmost to supply the demand if possible.

E. R. Smith is in New York, buying goods. Look out for the largest stock ever brought to this market when he returns.

A. B. Van DeMark is in Detroit this week on business.

Mr. John P. Silvers had two colts, a yearling and two year old, run over Tuesday night by the Jackson Branch passenger train. By the carelessness of the hired man a gate had been left open and the colts got on the track with the above result.

There is a scarity of items this week.

Considerable building is being done this spring. Four new dwellings are being erected, besides the meat market, printing office and grocery.

Wm. C. Rogers is putting up an addition and repairing generally.

E. T. Muir is building a dwelling for his son Will.

Geo. Haggart is getting material together for a house.

The Congregational people have planted a fine lot of evergreens around their new parsonage, a gift we understand of our nurseryman D. R. Gibson.

G. Kimball is still confined to the house, and has been since October last.

The opinion is unanimous with those who heard Mr. Arnold Clark two weeks ago, that your correspondent's criticism was too severe, especially for one who did not hear the lecture. Mr. Clark was making a plea for female suffrage. He said "the Irish, the German, the Negro, the Indian and Idiots could vote, bnt criminals, lunatics and women could not." There was no disparagement uttered against any nationality. He merely stated a fact. I did not hear any illusion to the "low, ignorant irish, &c." Suppose he had said the ignorant Irish, the ignorant German, or the ignorant Yankee, it would still have been a fact. Instead of the lecturer being an outcast, a humbug, as represented in the language "he had better pack up his rusty old war bag and get out of town, the sooner the better," he was a talented young man; we would like to see a boy of 19 that can out rank him.

Third Pioneer Party.

Mrs. Felton held her third anniversary last week Thursday, April 15th, 1880, at which only aged widows were invited, embracing some of the very earliest settlers in this community.—Between the first and second party two passed away, Mrs. Tuttle and Mrs. Powell. Since the second gathering two more have crossed the silent river, Mrs. Lynden and Mrs. Woodward.—The ages of the third party, with the time each has lived in the state, are as follows:

Mrs. Brown, 76—46.
Mrs. Whedon, 73—47.
Mrs. Hixon, 80—50.
Mrs. Barker, 72—49.
Mrs. Mills, 73—50.
Mrs. Calhoun, 69—44.
Mrs. Van Gleson, 72—30.
Mrs. Boucher, 71—49.
Mrs. Doty, 70—44.
Mrs. Jenkins, 73—49.
Mrs. Kimball, 70—38.
Mrs. Star, 70—43.
Mrs. McDonald, 76—44.
Mrs. Breed, 75—30.
Mrs. Larzelere, 79—22.
Mrs. Park, 85—45.
Mrs. Nichols, 79—44.
Mrs. Felton, 70—50.

We learn by the length of time that some of these ladies have been in the state, that they came when it was new and perhaps wild; a few incidents of pioneer life will illustrate.

Mrs. Hixson has frequently seen the wolves eating crumbs from off her doorsteps. Mrs. Felton has been kept awake until exhausted because these night prowlers were too near. Mrs. Mills, then Mrs. Ford, had known the wolves to purloin a roll of butter from near the living room. Until these pioneers had settled in this country it had been a dreary, desolate wilderness, for ought we know, since creation, inhabited only by wild beasts and savage men. The sound of the church going bell, these woodlands and streams never heard, nor sighed at the sound of a knell, or smiled when a Sabbath appeared. What a change has come over the landscape. Instead of the wilderness, expressive with its loneliness, now we have pleasant fertile fields. In place of the rude cabins, commodious and beautiful homes.—Now we have the railroad, the telegraph, the express, and all the appliances of high civilization. These privileges have come down to us thro' the labors of these pioneers and their compass. They toiled in the wilderness that others might receive the benefit. Now, instead of the serenade of the wolves, we have the sweet strains of music in artistic combinations. The ladies who have met today have come down to us from a former generation. Their cares, toils, anxieties, and their life work, are of the past. A few more anniversaries and all will have passed the deep, dark river. All honor to their memories, and peaceful be their setting sun.

Fred Groger is moving back to Springville. He is going to move into the Springville hotel with his mother we understand.

The farmers who havn't their oats sowed are wishing for a little vacation in the rains.

Some need of work on the highways after the heavy rains, but no material damage done to large bridges.

James Martin was arraigned before Justice Queal Tuesday charged with larceny. But for want of sufficient evidence he was released.

On visiting Henry Lancaster's of the Evans Lake House last week, we noticed that Henry is preparing for future shade. He has planted 325 maple trees in front of his hotel, on the shore of Evans lake.

Mr. J. A. Latcha was at the proposed railroad line through this township last Friday, on what is known as Wooden's hill. A meeting was held at the Cambridge cheese factory Tuesday, at which time word was received from Mr. Latcha stating that he would not go over Wooden's hill, on the proposed line, that he will go around the hill. Mr. Latcha wrote us that the surveyors would be at Addison the last of next week.

FRANKLIN.

Our usually quiet community was suddenly thrown into considerable excitement on last Sabbath morning by the atrocious murder committed at Adrian on the evening previous, by Doremus Aiken and during the entire day officers were on the alert intent upon capturing so desperate a character, and a general feeling of rejoicing was manifest when the news reached us of his capture, as well as a universal desire that his punishment should be commensurate with the enormity of the crime committed.

We are happy to announce that the railroad project has received a new impetus with us during the past week and that about $1000 has been added to the fund from those who had previously held aloof, which is very gratifying to those who have labored so earnestly for its attainment, but who will derive no more benefit from the road if secured. Were it in our power to convince every man in this community to what extent his financial interest would be enhanced by a comparatively trifling contribution, we should ask no greater compensation than the gratitude we should receive as soon as the benefits were experienced.

Some important changes are contemplated in our village, with a fair prospect of their consummation, but we will not anticipate them; suffice it to say we expect soon to have a new hotel that would do no discredit to a town of far greater pretensions than ours.

Mr. Geo. M. Alexander formerly of this township and now residing at Napoleon has a large number of pupils in music in this vicinity; his skill as a teacher is too well known to require commendation at our hands.

The wool growers of this township anticipate a large attendance and lively competition at their festival here on the 5th of May, and unquestionably every man who is interested in that important branch of husbandry would be amply repaid for his trouble in attending it, as few if any better sheep can be found in this state than are bred in Franklin.

Married at the M. E. parsonage on April 22d, by Rev E. P. Pierce, Mr. Seward B. Redfield of Woodstock, and Miss Rachael S. Newton of Cambridge, all of this county. The happy pair returned immediately to their home evidently well pleased with their prospects matrimonial. May they never have occasion to regret the important step taken.

Mrs. Alice Peirce and Mrs. S. J. Parker, mother and sister of Rev. E. P. Peirce, from Niagara Co., N. Y., are visiting at his home. Mr. Miles Parker the husband of the latter has purchased a farm in this township where they will reside.

MACON.

The following is a list of those who have been neither tardy nor absent during the winter term of school in Macon, and are therefore entitled to cards of honor. The cards will be forwarded as soon as they can be prepared.

In district No. 1, Bertha Allen, Jessie Frost, Fannie Gifford, Milton Kreider, Fred Nobles, May Nalp, Ethel Pennington, and Hattie Smith. In No. 3, Georgiana and Johnnie Baker. In No. 4, Sarah Miller, Harry Sisson, Alice Sisson, Lulu Gilmore, Lida Emans, Laverne Emans, and Isadore Bailey. In No. 6, Layfaette Gregory. In No. 7, Ada Henry, Ettie Kellogg, Florence Miller, Jennie Boyd, David Boyd, Johnnie Murphy, and Charley Kellogg.

District No. 7 taught by Mrs. Mary Martin receives the largest number of cards in proportion to the number of pupils. It is hoped that teachers and parents will encourage prompt and regular attendance of pupils during the spring and summer terms as such attendance is an important factor in securing perfect success in school, besides we wish to largely increase our roll of honor.

RIDGEWAY.

Alvah Waring of Orange Co., N. Y. is visiting his bro. Joshua this week.

Miss Eva Shipman is stopping in Ridgeway for a few days.

Dr. Irish has rented a house and taken up his residence with us.

The first church social under the new management will be held at the house of D. W. Loree to-morrow night.

Mr. C. J. Wheeler of Dundee will speak on temperance at the M. E. church next Sunday evening.

Owing to the inclement weather last Friday night the Philo had to be postponed.

Geo. Scollick has concluded to be an artist and can be found at Brown's gallery in Tecumseh.

Clark & Son have been opening up a big stock of goods during the last week, and every thing seems to be booming.

Measles are very plenty, and there are lots of words that rhyme with measles, but the measles are not very fatal this year.

The B. B. A. have rented grounds of Joshua Waring for the season and are now fitting them up. Expect to have things in order soon.

Among the improvements we notice Wm. Andrews and Thos. Blacker are each moving houses. Wm. F. Pocklington is building a new barn, John C. Palmer is making arrangements for a new house, and Geo. Rixom is making additions to his house.

We can always tell when a new "bar'l" of whiskey has been opened in Tecumseh and think the last one must have been "regular Jersey lightning" from the indications on the corners last Saturday.

EAST TECUMSEH.

The question for discussion at the next meeting of the East Tecumseh Literary Society, next week Saturday evening, will be:

Resolved, That the emancipation of American Slaves has been detrimental to their welfare.

Affirmative—B. F. DePuy, Justus Lowe, C. W. Culbertson, Sr.

Negative—Rufus Raymond; A. E. Palmer, J. W. Benedict.

A lively time is expected.

GLEANINGS FROM THE COUNTY PRESS.

Adrian Times: Albert Wilcox, whose daughter Gertrude committed suicide some weeks ago, is laboring under a fit of insanity.

Deerfield Record: The engine which brought the fire-engine from Adrian to this village, at the time of the recent fire, ran the fourteen miles in sixteen minutes.

Adrian Times: On Monday the papers deeding to the state the site for a reform school for girls will be made out, and the money bonus subscribed by our citizens will be paid into the state treasury.

Adrian Press: Robert Kerr, of Franklin, will test in the circuit court, a question affecting the unlawful paternity of a certain child, which, with its mother, is at the poor house. Both were employes of a farmer.

Adrian Times: R. C. Pate telegraphed Secretary Church yesterday, that the noted pacers Sleepy Tom, Mattie Hunter, Rowdy Boy, and Lucy, would positively appear at the driving park meeting here in June, and pace for the purse of $1000.

Blissfield Advance: The severe wind on Monday, blew down many fences, trees and outbuildings hereabouts, also, the new stave shed at Cogswell's Crossing, owned by Jesse Chamberlain, and just built. It was entirely demolished and entailed quite a loss.

Adrian Press: Last week a barn belonging to Charles Porter, of Batavia, caught fire and was burned with some hay, a lot of corn, &c. A cow endured the blaze till the rope that held her was burned off, and the poor creature was roasted so her skin cracked open.

Adrian Press: Mr. A. B. Elwood, of this city, an old resident and a well known carriage maker died Saturday morning last of congestion of the lungs. He had been many years in business in Adrian. The funeral took place Tuesday, under the auspices of the order of Odd Fellows, of which he was a member.

Morenci Observer: One of the teachers in our union school, in punishing a pupil last week, accidentally, as she alleges, hit a little chap on the nose, causing a profuse hemorrhage; whereupon an enraged parent offered her the alternative of leaving the school or being prosecuted for assault and battery. She still remains at her post, and what will be done is yet to be seen.

Hudson Post: Joseph M. Brokaw has purchased the Comstock House.—The bargain was closed yesterday afternoon, and Joe. was immediately installed as landlord. The consideration paid was $9,500 for house and furniture, which is certainly a very low figure. Mr. Comstock is intending to remove to Minnesota, where he has a tract of land which he proposes to settle on.

Hudson Post: Ed. Root, and Bradley Loyster sawed, split and piled ten cords of eighteen inch wood for C. A. Jewell, in ten hours. The trees were felled by them, and the brush piled, within the ten hours. The trees were small and somewhat bushy, requiring seven trees to make ten cords. The wood may be seen and measured by any one passing Mr. J.'s premises, as it is piled by the road-side in front of the barn. Who can beat it?

Hudson Gazette: Mr. J. K. West, of Ypsilanti, who was accidentally killed by his own weapon while out hunting a few days since, was a relative of Ira Wychoff and Frank Crippen of this village. It is supposed his foot touched the hammer of his gun as he was getting over a fence, close by which his lifeless body was found. An interesting incident in connection with the unhappy event was the fidelity of the dog which accompanied him in his hunt. The faithful animal remained for many long hours by the cold form of his late master, and it was by the signs he gave in response to the whistling of the searching party that the remains of the unfortunate man were found. The dog was a present to Mr. West from Messrs. Crippen and Wyckoff.

Blissfield Advance: The happiest man in all the town is David Weaver, who was a brave and daring soldier in the late war of the rebellion, and at the battle of Knoxville, Tenn., where he received a number of ugly "vulnus sclopeticums," and now, the government of the United States, has kindly remembered the ex-soldier, and recently sent him $1,040, through Alf A. Miller, pension agent at this place.—Very wisely, Dave has bought himself and wife a pleasant home on the east side of the river, and is furnishing it in fine style. May the soldier and his better half live long and prosper.

THE FAMILY CIRCLE.

WHAT I LIVE FOR.

I live for those who love me,
For those whose hearts are true,
For the God that made me,
And all my kind;
For all human ties that bind me,
For the task my God assigned me,
For the bright hopes left behind me,
And the good that I can do.

I live to learn the story
Who've suffered for my sake,
To emulate their glory,
And follow in their wake;
Bards, martyrs, patriots, sages,
The noble of all ages,
Whose deeds crown history's pages,
And these great souls make.

I live to hold communion
With all that is divine;
To feel that there is union
Twixt nature's heart and mine;
To profit by affliction,
Reap truths from fields of fiction,
Grow wiser from conviction—
Fulfilling God's design.

I live for those who love me,
For those whose hearts are true,
For the heaven that smiles above me,
And awaits my spirit too;
For the wrongs that need resistance,
For the cause that needs assistance,
For the future in the distance,
And the good that I can do.

THE MORTGAGE'S COST.

Widow Thornley sat alone in her snug cottage home. Outside the ivy-trailed window, on the slip of lawn, browsed the cow, now and then looking in with friendly eyes at the cottage's single occupant; the chickens strutted up to the very threshold of the open door, standing with heads wonderingly raised, as thought expectant of the customary "shoo!" which sound should warn them that their depredations were being carried too far; but Widow Thornley's thoughts were wandering, and the mild blue eyes were filled with unshed tears. Crops and harvests had failed in the last two years, and simply and homely as was the home, a mortgage was hanging over it, which, in three short months, unless met, would leave her old age unprotected and homeless.

But the cow moved off to fresh browsing-places, and the chickens flew away, and a look of gladness drove the tears from the mothers eyes, as a firm, manly tread sounded on the gravel walk outside, and a young, stalwart form in another minute darkened the cottage door.

"Well, little mother," said a frank, fresh voice, "idle again? Ah, I fear you have been thinking."

"Too true, John. It is a strange time of life, when one waxes to 70, to begin to think; but you know, dear, I'm not quite used to care," and the gentle voice trembled, as though she would fain make excuse for her weakness.

"And you are to have no more, mother. I can do nothing here, but I am sure you will be willing to spare your boy for a little while, that he may make enough money to free the old home."

"What do you mean, son?"

"Only that I am going up to the great city, mother, to work. You need not fear for me—your boy will never forget the lessons he has learned at your knee; but I am going to pay off the mortgage—not only the interest, but principal—and then I am coming back home indeed. I shall have earned my right then to mother-loving and mother-petting; aye, and as dear a right to bring a daughter to the home—to give you two children for the sparing of one a little while."

So it was decided. Again and again the mother-heart failed, but John would silence her lips with kisses; and, feeling his strong young clasp about her, some of his hope and energy stole into her old, bowed frame. But there came a time when she sat alone by the desolate hearth-stone, and need not strive to check her sobs, for none were by to hear. John had carried out his purpose—he had left her; and now that he was not by to cheer and comfort her, she wondered at herself that she had let him go.

The old eyes grew dim with constant weeping; a dull, nameless foreboding pressed upon her. Something of this lifted when John's first letter came, for in it was a crisp new bank-note. He wrote:

"I have found work mother—and it is honest work, too—which will soon bring in enough to give you back your home, and ere long your boy. Cheer up, little mother! I must do the working—you must do the waiting. I think yours is the harder of the two."

The letter was badly spelled and badly written, but, oh, how precious to the old, dim eyes, which knew not that it contained any fault! It rested on her heart by night and by day. Scarcely an hour passed of the waking time that the trembling hands did not adjust the silver-rimmed spectacles on the nose to read and re-read the dear words. By-and-by, another came, and another, and in each was the crisp fresh note, until in quite a pile she carried them to the county bank, and, according to John's directions, paid off the interest on the note. Oh, how proud and glad she was! A few weeks later came a letter in a strange hand. The stranger wrote:

"John is not feeling very well. He has had a fall, which has injured his wrist, but fearing you would be troubled at hearing no news, he has asked that you be written to, and assured that except for this trifling hurt all was well with him."

She read the letter through, then rose and crossed the room to the spot where stood the old chest of drawers. From some hidden recess she drew forth the stocking where she concealed her hoard. She spread it out and counted it over. Yes, she had enough. What! did John think she could rest here at home, and leave her boy to the care of strangers? She knew well what meant this trifling hurt. He was ill—dying, perhaps—and he would never let her know until too late.

Out from its linen wrappings she drew forth the plain merino dress, and with trembling fingers put it on; then she fastened the quaint, old-fashioned bonnet, which had done faithful duty for ten long years, drew on her gloves, gathered up a few needful articles, and sallied forth, locking the house-door behind her, and slipping the key into the capacious pocket of her dress.

A long stretch of road lay between her and the station. It was a hot and dusty way, but she toiled on. She had no time to feel fatigue or tired, but spite of herself her voice was weak and quavering as she asked the agent the price of her ticket; and the tears came into her eyes when she learned that she must wait two long hours before the next train would arrive and then it must be dark night when she reached the great terminus of the route. For the first time she had time to think. There was nothing to do but sit with folded hands and wait, conjuring up visions of her boy, and how she would find him—living or dead.

At last the train thundered up. She was the only passenger from the little way-station. It seemed hardly possible that this great, panting, almost human thing should stop for her; but stop it did. She took her seat, the whistle blew, and again the wheels were in motion. Fast—faster they flew, but to her they seemed to creep. The sun sank, the twilight gathered, the night came on, but night as the old eyes had never before seen it, when the train at last drew up in the great station, and the glare of myriad lamps burst upon her view. She was nearing John, however. He would make all these crooked ways straight. Crooked ways indeed, they seemed, when the policeman to whom she applied for assistance, perhaps remembering an old mother of his own, had found time to answer her questions kindly, and finally to put her himself in a cab and gave directions to the man where to drive.

Would they never stop rattling over the stones? Suppose—suppose John were dead, all her dreadful journey had been made in vain! But no! The cab stopped at last before a small humble house. The landlady herself opened the door. The poor mother scarce could put the question as to how she might find her boy, when the woman, giving her withered hand a hearty grasp, led her into the lighted room.

"So you be John's mother, and you feared he was dead. No, indeed! You may well be proud of your boy. There is no pluckier lad in all the town."

"But where is he? I must see him!"

"He's up at the Gardens and you ought to see him, sure enough! Let me see," glancing at the clock, "you'll just be in time. I'll take you to the door myself, and see you get a ticket all right. I won't have time to go in though I never do get tired of looking on him."

What did it all mean? Once more out in the streets, hurrying on to an unknown goal. Finally her companion paused before a large building brilliantly lighted. Crowds of people were passing in. She followed with the rest until she found herself again alone seated before a large ring, surrounded by a sea of strange and unfamiliar faces.

Suddenly a cry—a shout, a cheer—burst from a myriad of throats, followed by a long angry roar. She then saw what she had not before noticed—that to her left were three cages of wild beasts, while into the ring there sprang a man dressed in parti-colored tights, and holding in his left hand a whip, which looked as though a child might have broken it. His right hand was in a sling.

"The lion broke his wrist last week with his paw. He's a brave fellow to try it single-handed," she heard one man explain to another. Then she looked again, and then she saw that it was John—her boy—bowing his thanks. She had no power to move or cry, as she watched him run forward, and, opening one of the cages, spring among the beasts. They shrank, cowed before him. In his hand the toy whip was mightier than the sword. But suddenly a mighty hush fell on the assembled people. He had entered the cage where the lion stood alone. It was this beast, who, only last week, with one stroke of his paw, had snapped his wrist. Now he defied him single-handed.

He raised his whip. The lion opened his wide formidable mouth. The people held their breath as he knelt before him and placed his head between the red, yawning jaws. One woman there had pillowed a little, yellow, curly head upon her breast; now she saw it at the mercy of a savage beast. The lion uttered a low angry roar. He gave a sudden snap. It was a part of the play. The lion's head was withdrawn as the brute's jaws met with a sound which echoed through the place. He was saved, but it seemed a miracle.

The people rose, with a sigh of relief. It was the last part of the program. It was well to disperse the crowd, with their attention to the highest pitch, and since the accident last week the feat had gained new stimulus in the public mind. The building was almost emptied now, when some one noticed the old woman, sitting silent, motionless, on one of the deserted benches. They approached and touched her on the shoulder, then shook her, fancying her asleep; but they could not wake her. Her mother's heart had broken in that moment of peril to her boy! Poor soul! she had journeyed to her death.—Saturday Night.

NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW.

In the North American Review for May, ex-Judge Jere. S. Black continues the very interesting series of papers on the Third Term Question begun in the February number. His article is entitled "Gen. Grant and Strong Government," and its purpose is to show, first, that the limitation of tenure of office in the Presidency of two terms is a fundamental principle of our Republican form of government; and, secondly, that not only does disregard of that principle threaten the permanency of republican institutions, but that Grant's third candidacy is actually a plot to revolutionize the republic and introduce monarchy. Mr. Leslie Stephen writes of "The Religion of all Sensible Men," and speculates on the prospect of that displacing the present creeds of the multitude. The creed of the future, he says, must be capable assimilating modern scientific theories. George Ticknor Curtis continues his series of articles on "McClellan's Last Service to the Republic." These papers are specially valuable on account of the large number of hitherto unpublished documents which they contain. Mr. Francis H. Underwood contributes an essay on R. W. Emerson and his writings; and an anonymous writer labors to show that the United States Government cannot, consistently with the Monroe Doctrine, permit the construction of an American Isthmian Canal, unless the same shall be controlled solely by cis-Atlantic Governments. The Review is sold by booksellers and newsdealers generally.

It can almost be asserted that St. Jacobs Oil works wonders. Shortly before the New Year, when I visited my family in Mitchell, I found my son Edward, a lad little more than ten years old, very sick. He suffered with Rheumatism, and so terribly that he was perfectly stiff in the limbs, could not possibly walk, and had to be carried from place to place. At once I sent for some St. Jacobs Oil, used it according to directions, and in a few days could see evidence of considerable improvement. On the tenth day of this month I again visited my family and was astonished to find him well and hearty. He has fresh color in his face and can go to school again. Whenever the old trouble threatens to return, relief is immediately secured by the use of the celebrated St. Jacobs Oil. From sheer joy over this result I cannot withhold reccommending St. Jacobs Oil to suffering humanity as a true benefactor.

That striking paper by Washington Gladden in the March St. Nicholas—"The Disadvantages of City Boys," is to be followed in the May number of the magazine, by "A Talk with Girls and their Mothers," from the same strong writer. The facts on which the first article was founded were obtained by canvassing one hundred highly successful men. The second paper, also, is to be based on facts,—facts and the wisdom won by ripe experience, communicated to Mr. Gladden by a large number of the most eminent ladies in his own city.

Far more bushels of corn are raised in America than of all other grain crops added together. For some weeks now this will occupy most attention. The American Agriculturist for May gives instructive results of hundreds of careful experiments with fertilizers on Corn during 1877 and 1879, and there are some 130 other articles, and 75 original engravings, all useful and instructive to every cultivator of a small Garden or a large Farm. The Department of Agriculture gets a hard hit for sending out some bogus seed. Exposure of Humbugs, Hints and Helps for Farmers, various Dairy matters, etc., make this a most valuable number. Price 15 cents, or $1,50 per year. Orange Judd Company, New York, Publishers.

SANITARY SCIENCE.

A PLEA FOR PURE AIR AND FRESH WATER.

When will the inhabitants of this planet learn to love it in as good and wholesome a condition as they found it? Dare the Oracles of to-day declare the secret; if so give us the date, that we may prepare for the great jubilee of a humane and appreciative people who have labored for its attainment, and let the invitation be extended to every son and daughter of mother earth, that we may all together hail the glorious day when Israel is free, and let us have the anvil chorus, that man has at last learned (but only through a multiplicity of sorrows,) that the penalty of a persistent contamination of the vital elements of nature is disease and premature death.—Suppose we have a visitor from a country where all refuse and decaying matter was taken outside the gates of the village and either burned or applied to the earth of the fields where it belongs, there to be absorbed and utilized by nature in perfecting plant growth, how strange it would seem to that visitor for us to deposit, like waste matter in our garden, that we should establish and continually replenish a cess-pool just under our nose, and there during the warm months it is decomposing, filling the air with its unwholesome and dangerous gases; aye, sending off the effluvia of death; and then as one or two or perhaps three of our little jewels fall beneath the insidious grip of the monster we wonder at the mysterious dispensations of Providence.

Then again, it does not all evaporate. A large part of it sinks into the earth, and will you just measure the distance your slop deposits and privy vaults are from your well of water.—Forty, sixty and perhaps eighty feet. Do you think the loose and porous soil of that distance will bar the impurities from reaching your well for a great many years? If so you will be deceived; it will not do it, for the earth becomes impregnated, and the rainfall carries it onward, so it is leaching and sweeping forward every moment. Yes, and there are wells it has reached already, and remember every time your little ones ask for a drink of water, that it is either there or coming.—If the wells were in the front yard they would be double the distance out of harms way that they are now. In order to test the matter, somewhat, in regard to the question now before us, I dug a pit in the ground a few years ago to receive all the waste matter from the kitchen; the pit was six feet deep, and in a few days it was part full and had commenced its work. It was in the summer time and decomposition took place rapidly. In ninety days I tested the ground around it and at the depth of eight feet there was a strata of sand that was thoroughly impregnated for a distance of twelve feet laterally from the pit, and in one hundred and eighty days it had extended to sixteen feet; the soil was discolored, and upon having vent it sent forth poisonous gas and a stench which was not to be endured and live. The depth was not tested but we can take it for granted that it was sweeping downward for the water-courses with all possible haste. Hence when we consider the porousness of the soil of the earth, which is the recepticle of the animal and vegetable refuse matter, and the very nature of all such matter to sure corruption, part passing into the air the residue sinking into the earth with the water courses beneath which supply our wells with water, it is obvious that it depends very much upon how and where this waste matter is disposed of, both by ourselves and our neighbors, whether we are to have pure air to breathe and pure water to drink.

Popular Science Monthly for May.

The May number of "The Popular Science Monthly" is uncommonly strong, and its contents are unusually varied. The first article, by professor J. M. Buchan, is an interesting study of ethnology under the title of "Climate and complexion." The paper is valuable both as reporting the state of knowledge upon this subject and presenting the ingenious views of the writer. Under the title of "The Carbon Button" Mr. E. A. Engler, a talented young physicist, gives an elaborate and instructive account of the telephone, so far as the interesting properties of carbon in relation to sound are involved. Edison's researches in this direction are clearly described, and the paper is made lucid and valuable by a profusion of illustrations. Those concerned in the question of religion and science will read with profit the essay of the Lord Bishop of Carlisle, entitled "God and Nature," in which the study of physical science is skillfully defended against the charge of atheistic tendencies. The Bishop maintains that scientific and religious conceptions exclude one another and do not interfere; and that the scientific man, if he takes up religious ideas, is no longer a scientist but a theologian. New York: D. Appleton & Co. Fifty cents per number, $5 per year.

"How much are these goods a yard?" said a gentleman at a dry-goods store, the other day, as he picked up and examined a piece of ruffled silk. "Good gracious!" cried the horrified clerk; "that isn't for sale! That's the end of a lady's train! She's just going up to the third story in the elevator."

From a Distinguished Physician.

Prof. Green, a distinguished allopathic physician, wrote to the Medical Record to the effect that after all other means had failed, he sent for the Kidney Cure (Safe Kidney and Liver Cure), and to his astonishment cured a serious case of Bright's Disease by administering it, and afterwards found it equally beneficial in other cases.

"I would announce to the congregation that, probably by mistake, there was left at the meeting-house this morning a small cotton umbrella, much damaged by time and wear, and of an exceedingly pale blue color; in the place whereof was taken a very large black silk umbrella of great beauty.—Blunders of this sort, my brethren, are getting a little too common.

Feels Young Again.

"My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy, inactive condition of the whole system, headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicines did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old.—We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family."—A lady, Providence, R. I.

DYING TOGETHER.

A touching incident occurred in the death of two aged people, Mr. and Mrs. Dickson, of Oskaloosa, Iowa, recently. For convenience in attendance during their illness, they were placed in separate bedrooms. The heads of the beds were placed against a thin partition, which, having an open door, permitted the two old people to converse, though not able to see each other. The night before the husband died, his wife heard him groaning, and was very anxious to be with him, but was unable to arise. Soon she was informed that he was dying, and in order to be near him the beds were moved so as to bring them parallel with the partition, the heads opposite the door.—This done the fond wife reached out, grasped her husband by the hand, and held it during his last moments. Thus death found them as nearly or quite fifty-one years before the marriage ceremony had left them, hand in hand.

Greatest Remedy Known.

Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumptive is certainly the greatest medical remedy ever placed within the reach of suffering humanity.—Thousands of once hopeless sufferers, now loudly proclaim their praise for this Discovery to which they owe their lives. Not only does it positively cure Consumption, but Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Hoarseness and all affections of the Throat, Chest and Lungs yield at once to its wonderful curative powers as if by magic. We do not ask you to buy a large bottle until you know what you are getting. We therefore earnestly request you to call on your druggists, M. Wright & Son, and get a trial bottle free of cost which will convince the most skeptical of its wonderful merits, and show you what a regular one dollar size bottle will do. For sale by M. Wright & Son, Tecumseh.

A man went into a store the other day and asked to look at a revolver and the weapon was shown him. Then he asked to see a cartridge and one was handed him. Then he placed the muzzle to his head and scattered his brains over the store. "Well," ejaculated the astonished storekeeper, glancing at the soiled walls, "a man who will do such a thing deserves to be sent to jail for two years."

An Irishman once saw a clock which showed the Greenwich and Dublin time, and he saw that the Dublin time was twenty minutes behind that of Greenwich, and he asked how that was, and it was explained to him that Dublin being to the west of the first meridian, must have its time later than that of Greenwich. "Then be the powers," says Pat, "there is another injustice to ould Ireland!"

Poverty and Suffering.

"I was dragged down with debt, poverty and suffering for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, which did them no good.—I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well and none of us have seen a sick day since, and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost—I know it.

THE READY FAMILY SOAP MAKER:

LEWIS' LYE

98 PER CENT. PURE.
(Patented)
FINELY POWDERED.
HIGHLY PERFUMED.

The strongest and purest Lye made. Will make 12 pounds of the best Perfumed Hard Soap in 20 minutes without boiling.
The best water-softener made.
The best disinfectant.
The following are some of the advantages obtained by using Lewis' 98 Per Cent. Powdered Lye:

First. It is packed in an iron can with a self-removing lid, easily taken off and leaving the contents exposed, thereby saving the trouble, annoyance, and danger from being particled as with other Lyes, which, being sold in the iron can, must be broken with a hammer to get the Lye out.
Second. It being a fine powder, you can remove the lid and pour out all the contents, being always ready for use.
Third. A teaspoonful or more can be used, as in water-softening, scrubbing, etc., and the lid returned to the can, and thereby save the balance of contents. With other Lyes all must be dissolved at once and used in a short time, or the strength is gone.
Fourth. Absolute purity. Free from all adulterations.
Fifth. The best Soap can be made in from ten to twenty minutes with this Lye.
Sixth. No failure is possible in making Soap with this Lye when the simple directions given are followed.
Seventh. One can of this Powdered Lye is equal to twenty pounds of Sal Soda or Washing Soda.
Eighth. One can of this Lye will saponify one pound more of grease than any other Concentrated Lye, Ball Potash, or Saponifier.
Ninth. This Lye is 33 per cent. stronger than any other Lye or Potash.
Tenth. One to two teaspoonfuls will soften a tub of the hardest water.
Eleventh. One teaspoonful will thoroughly cleanse Sinks, Drains, or Closets.
Invaluable for killing Roaches, Mice, Rats, etc.
The best article for washing Trees.

THE RAILROAD OUTLOOK.

A rumor has lately gained circulation that the Toledo and Milwaukee railroad project might fall through.—This rumor has no foundation in fact whatever.

On the contrary the indications are becoming stronger every day that this road will be built within a few months. Also that the road will be located either through Tecumseh or Adrian.

Toledo added seven thousand dollars to her quota last week and she now has over half of her bonus in hand.

Marshall has seventy-three thousand dollars raised, which is three thousand in excess of her quota.

Battle Creek has commenced an active canvass for her forty thousand dollars, and a committee of twenty business men in that city threaten to put it through in ten days.

A surveying party started from Marshall last Monday, coming East. Yesterday they were at Albion. The first of next week they will be at Addison. Thence they will come to Cambridge, and thence ——to Tecumseh, perhaps, and perhaps to Adrian.

Marshall will be a point on the line. That is fixed. Addison will be a point. That is fixed. Between Marshall and Addison the line will be varied according to the amount of local aid furnished. And the same is true of that portion between Addison and the Toledo and Ann Arbor road.

President Latcha was in Tecumseh yesterday and had a conference with our committee. He is disposed to treat us with the utmost fairness, and afford us an opportunity to complete the work now so far advanced.

Tecumseh can yet secure this road by prompt and vigorous action. But her bonus must be forthcoming soon, and the people of Franklin and Ridgeway must also do their proportion.

Adrian now has a reasonable certainty of getting the Butler road, while Tecumseh is likely to lose it. Tecumseh, however, is sure of the Toledo and Milwaukee by coming manfully up to the scratch at once.

Do those men in Franklin, Tecumseh and Ridgeway, who are able to help us, and have not yet done so, appreciate the situation?

If so, will they heed it?

The last day of grace is rapidly approaching.

Shall it find us, like the foolish virgins, without oil?

THE DUTY ON PAPER.

Whatever else may be doubtful about the intention of the authors of our tariff laws, they undoubtedly meant to place on the free list all materials used in the manufacture of paper. It happened that pulp of wood, which is by far the most important element in the manufacture of paper used by the daily and weekly press of the country, was not specifically and by name exempted from duty. Under a Treasury decision which held that this verbal omission was fatal to the free admission of wood pulp, a few manufacturers of that article have been able to impose an exorbitant tax on the general body of paper-makers, by whom it is of course shifted on the consumers, the newspaper publishers of the country; and the burden falls with special hardship on publishers outside of the great cities—we consequently, being impoverished so that a handful of monopolists may grow rich. The most powerful champion of these monopolists is Representative Garfield. Were his opposition to the bill withdrawn, the restoration of wood pulp to the free list, where it belongs, would be accomplished in a few days. While his opposition continues the monopolists are secure.—Can Mr. Garfield afford to continue his support of a most odious and oppressive tax which brings in no revenue to the Government, but which interferes very decidedly with the dissemination of knowledge among the people?

ONE great evidence of prosperity in a city is the demand for houses. Tecumseh has hardly a vacant house within her borders, at least in a convenient location, and if any one doubts it, just let him hunt for one.—In our exchanges from different portions of the state, we notice a demand in many of them for more residences. This denotes prosperity.

A DASTARDLY MURDER.

Night Policeman D. R. Lyon of Adrian Shot in Cold Blood—The Assassin Arrested.

Last Saturday evening about nine o'clock a party of young men who had been on a spree in Fred Laird's saloon came out on the street and got into a row. Policeman Lyon endeavored to arrest one of the party, Doremus Aiken by name, and gave chase, when Aiken turned and shot the officer killing him instantly. A man passing along the sidewalk shortly after found Lyon lying dead upon the sidewalk. The following details are condensed from the report of the Adrian Times.

At the request of the prosecuting attorney and coroner, the Drs. Stephenson, Dr. Todd and Dr. C. M. Kimball, proceeded to hold a post-mortem examination, which was conducted at the city marshall's office. They found that the ball had entered one inch above, and one and a half inches forward of the left ear, and that its course was downward and backward, completely traversing the cerebrum, and lodging on the right side of the cranium, not passing through the membrane of that side. Where the ball entered the skull was a clearly defined orifice, and the bullet was so much flattened, that its shape and caliber could not be correctly determined. The skull was fractured on the right side, probably by the fall on the sidewalk. It is evident from this post-mortem examination, that Aiken stood on the sidewalk above Lyon, who was probably shot while stepping up to the walk, and as Lyon was running rapidly at the time, he had acquired sufficient momentum to reach the walk before dropping dead.

On Saturday evening, after the murder, and after the identity of the murderer was ascertained, ex-marshal Trupp, who had assisted in conveying Lyon's remains to the city marshal's office, went to the house of Aiken's aunt—Mrs. Worden—to inquire about his relation in this county. As soon as he ascertained that James Morrison of Franklin, was his uncle, Mr. Trupp believed that Aiken would reach there. He went there on Saturday evening, in company with Mr. John Lambie, and searched the house, but found nobody. On Sunday afternoon he had for a companion county clerk Church, and Mr. Trupp still clung to his theory that Aiken would visit Morrison's house. They went to the Center, and remained there until about 8 o'clock, when they went a mile south, a mile west, and half a mile north to Pentecost's where they put up their team, and proceeded to Morrison's afoot. They reconnoitered, and found nobody there but the family, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Morrison, their son and a hired girl. The officer insisted that the family should go to bed, and this they did, after some demurring. The family retired to the main part of the house, while the officers took up their quarters in the lean-to in the rear. About four o'clock, Mr. Church heard a footstep, and touched his companion, calling his attention. Yes, surely, a footstep was approaching. Round the south side of the house came the step, nearer and nearer. He approached door one, but kept on around the east end of the house. Mr. Trupp had on rubber boots. He stepped softly until he could see out of the door. The man was there. He kept on however, to a third door, but the officers were there ready for him. As he took hold of the handle of the door, and was quietly turning it, Mr. Trupp quickly and forcibly pulled the door open and siezed Aiken, while Mr. Church covered the culprit with a pistol. He was caught, and the job was very cleverly and pluckily done.

The Mayor and Marshal of Adrian offered a reward of $500 for the arrest of the murderer, and the common council held a session on Monday morning to ratify their action, which was done without a dissenting voice. A like reward was offered by the county, making $1000 in all. The examination of the prisoner has been set down for Wednesday, May 5th, at 9 o'clock A. M.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES.

Let Them Pair Off.

Philadelphia Times.—Somebody or another at the happy moment will make the suggestion that Tilden and Kelly shall pair off and let the Democratic party go about its business unobstructed.

A Useless Rally.

New York Tribune.—The Illinois Democrats are trying to rally around Palmer as a "favorite son." Unless he is a "second choice" of Tilden's, they may as well exert themselves in favor of Andrew Jackson.

Very Satisfactory.

Adrian Times.—Senator Logan's defense of the Duke of Wellington and Julius Cæsar, in his speech on occasion of the Grant boom the other night in Chicago, is said to be very satisfactory to the friends of those two gentlemen.

Medill's Position.

Chicago News.—Medill is a tremendous kicker against Grant; but it is possible, nay, probable, that, after the Chicago Convention, he will assure the party which his paper is misrepresenting that his errors were of the legs and not the heart.

A Pertinent Question.

New York Tribune.—General Grant says the south is reconciled to the results of the Union war and can be depended on to be loyal to the Union and just to the negro. If he is right what excuse have his advocates left for violating precedent and running him for a third term?

A Political Impossibility.

New York Sun.—The Springfield Republican speaks of the Hon. W. A Wheeler of Malone as an "interesting political possibility." This is a mistake. When Mr. Wheeler of Malone consented to play second fiddle to Fraud, he became an interesting political impossibility.

Sherman's Bar'l.

Atlanta Constitution.—The symptoms are that John Sherman has a bar'l of his own. It is a very loyal bar'l. The staves are painted alternately red and white, the ends are studded with stars, and the spigot is shaped like an eagle's beak. Among Southern Republicans such a piece of furniture is not without its attractions.

Much To Be Regretted.

Philadelphia Times.—General Joe Johnston has carefully reviewed the situation and reached the conclusion that being in Congress doesn't pay. He will not be a candidate for re-election, it is stated, as the life doesn't suit him. This is much to be regretted, for General Johnston is of the kind of men who are always needed in Congress.

Yes, Bottle It Up.

Philadelphia Times.—Governor Hendricks, with Blue Jeans Williams and a few other Indiana gentlemen, have gone South. They have no thought of anything of the kind, of course, but it may, for all that, happen that they will frequently find themselves in the midst of a tremendous Hendricks boom. It will be wise for them to bottle as much of it as possible for use at Cincinnati.

Important, If True.

Detroit Free Press.—The New York Tribune has information, which is important if true, that in the opinion of Mr. Tilden's friends he will be content with the control of the Cincinnati Convention and instead of taking the nomination himself, will select either Justice Field or ex-Congressman Payne of Ohio. The Ohio part of the story is not well imagined. Mr. Tilden is not likely to suggest a candidate whose chance of carrying his own state is reasonably open to question.

A Little Moralizing.

Detroit Evening News.—Civilized people can have little interest in the mutual shootings of the Kallochs and De Youngs in San Francisco. They have pursued each other more like wild beasts than men, and perhaps will continue to do so until they mutually exterminate each other, which, perhaps will be the best thing they can do for the community in which they live. It would be hard indeed to tell which has exhibited the most cowardice or ferocity.

Tilden's Power in New York.

Lansing Journal.—The power of S. J. Tilden in New York is truly remarkable. It is not the result of machine work, but it flows from the confidence of the people in him as a great leader, an able statesman, and a thorough-going reformer of abuses and a smasher of corrupt rings. The opposition of the old Tweed-Tammany ring and the beaten and broken canal ring form an unquestionable certificate of his ability, patriotism and unflinching integrity. We have thought, and still think, the nomination of Tilden this year would be unwise, but if there is anything in politics that would reconcile us to defeat this fall it would be the complete squelching of the corrupt, dictatorial, and diabolical Kelly and canal ring bolters in New York.

A little rain to-day for a change.

JOHN R. CLARK arrived home yesterday from an extended eastern trip.

MISS BLANCH BLACKWOOD of Big Rapids, Mich., is the guest of Mrs. G. P. Sparks, of this village.

H. W. STEVENS has been engaged to take charge of the Railroad canvass in the village this week, together with other volunteers. He started out this morning and is meeting with good success thus far.

HAS anything been done in reference to observing Decoration Day in Tecumseh? Our citizens have seldom failed to remember the day, and it is to be hoped this year may not be an exception. By all means let us honor the memory of our dead soldiers.

WITH the return of summer do not forget sanitary matters. Have your premises thoro'ghly cleaned, sprinkle all cellars freely with lime, and see that the drainage about your residence or place of business is good. Remember that pure drinking water is necessary to good health. Let everybody pay attention to these matters, and the general salubrity of our community will be greatly increased. "An ounce of prevention, etc."

Hudson Gazette: The Ohio Legislature has passed a law authorizing the commissioners of Fulton county to purchase a set of abstracts of deeds and wills made by A. L. Bliss, of Adrian, for $7,000. Mr. Bliss made these abstracts prior to 1865, in which year fortunately (we mean unfortunately) the court house was burned, giving a cash value of $6,000 to said abstracts to the then purchasers. The fire—we mean the abstracting of the records—seemed very providential—and profitable.

"Good Company" ($3.00 a year: Springfield, Mass.,) Number eight, opens with a story by Mrs. Rebecca Harding Davis which is not lacking in her usual vigorous touches. The other stories are A Tale of the North Shore, and Not in the Curiculum, both from new contributors. "Barberry Island" of the last number is followed by "The Schoolmistress on Barberry Island," equally attractive in quaintness. There are also "Getting Breakfast at Bruges," "The Preacher in Print."

Card of Thanks.

EDITOR HERALD:—I was just waiting for somebody to die so that I could write some poetry, when I saw you had riz on the price of publishing obituary poetry, and being quite poor, as poets generally are, and not able to pay for publishing my poetry, I tho't I would write a "card of thanks" to my friends, as I see the price of publishing cards of thanks has not riz yet. I have nothing in particular to thank my friends for, but as things are on the rise, and if my friends do take a notion to do something for me, they will be already thanked.

HOW THANKFUL.

THE TECUMSEH HERALD.

TECUMSEH, MICH. APR. 29, 1880.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

ALMOST time for a circus.

THE latest spring bonnet has arrived.

BEAUTIFUL moon light evenings now.

Now eat pork and asparagus and grow fat.

UNCLE Tom's Cabin next Saturday evening.

THE latest novelty in East Tecumseh is an Archery Club.

RAIN storms come regularly every Friday. Look out for rain to-morrow.

WINTER has a great fondness for lingering in the lap of spring this year.

AN E. L. Clark would be a pretty good thing for Tecumseh just about now.

JAS. COBB, of Norvell, was in town last Monday and favored us with a call.

WM. MCCOWEN has just put up a bran new awning in front of his furniture store.

ED. HOBOR has gone to Clinton, having taken a position in Zeigler's jewelry store.

A. HARDENBERG, of New York, is in town for a few days as the guest of S. W. Temple.

EVANS creek was on a tear last Sunday. The water reached the highest point it has in several months.

SUPERVISOR MCKINNON is busily engaged taking his assessment. He is calling on the farmers this week.

THE HERALD from this date till Jan. 1, 1881, will be furnished for one dollar. Now is the time to subscribe.

WHAT a poetical town Deerfield is. The post office of that burg has just been moved into the "cottage by the sea."

MR. WHEELER, of New Jersey, will address the temperance meeting next Sunday afternoon, at the Reform Club Hall.

MESSRS. TRUPP AND CHURCH did a pretty good night's work in the capture of Aiken, having made $500 each in the operation.

IF you wish to see the Opera House filled to overflowing, have the C. L. Davis troupe reproduce the play of "Alvin Joslin."

HARRY LEE left town last Tuesday for a few day's visit at his old home in Seneca Falls, N. Y. He will return the first of next week.

A. S. HAYDEN, who has been confined to his house by illness for several days, is out again, and able to attend to business once more.

WE regret to learn that Rev. Peter Sharp, of Ridgeway, has been troubled with poor health this spring and that his eye sight is failing him.

THERE was a big crowd in town last Saturday afternoon. It seemed as though everybody had come in with their uncles and their cousins and their aunts.

WHICH of our livery men are going to invite the HERALD printers to take a ride with them up to the lakes this summer? We are ready to entertain any such proposition.

A. W. SLAYTON'S new hearse has arrived and our citizens pronounce it the finest they ever saw. He announces himself ready to serve the people. See his new advertisement.

HEWETT & FREEMAN have formed a partnership in the law business and will continue in business at Manchester where Mr. Hewitt has been a successful practitioner for some time.

THANKS to Wm. VanCamp for a late copy of the Sedalia Eagle. He has got started in business there as we gather from his advertisement. The new firm is "Wheeler & Van Camp."

THE Reform Club Entertainment which has been in coarse of preparation for some time past will take place on Monday evening, May 10th. A program will appear in next week's paper.

THE Tecumseh boys attending school at Ann Arbor seem to have the bulge on the present sophomore class. Will Robbins was president of the class last year and Sumner Collins is its President this year.

THE improvements and changes in A. B. Cotton's store are progressing favorably. The interior of the store is being treated to a new coat of paint, and considerable new shelving is being placed in the rear end of the store.

THE editor of the Blissfield Advance wants to bet a hat on election with the editor of the Morenci Observer.—Careful, gentlemen; don't commence too early or the stock of hats may be exhausted before election day comes around.

JOHNNY ORR, at Wright's drug store, keeps constantly on hand a full supply of choice house plants. He is agent for some of the best florists in the state, and can furnish any plant on short notice. Call and examine his assortment. His prices are very reasonable.

THE railroad boom, it boometh again this week right lively.

WE understand that the bonds of Erskine & Rowland were not accepted on account of a flaw in making them out, not on account of the signers.

GUS. SLAYTON'S new hearse is a beauty. We looked it over carefully the other day and found nothing about it to criticise. Although we do not expect to use one yet awhile ourselves, yet it is a consolation to know where we can get a good article in an emergency.

Hudson Gazette: We had a call from Dr. Brown, of Addison, on Saturday, who talked confidently of railroad matters. The survey for the G. H. & T. road was to commence this week. Addison folks are bound to have an iron way out through Tecumseh or the county seat.

WE learn that Charley Akin is fitting up the grove at the East end of Wampler's lake, and will be prepared to entertain visitors about the first of May. He has a lot of new boats, a large supply of ice, and will be better prepared than ever to accommodate picnic and boating parties.

THE time of general pulling and hauling has about arrived. Lock up every thing you care for gentlemen, that you can in your trunks—take all your spare clothes out to the barn, and stand out of the way yourself for the time of house cleaning is at hand. We give you fair warning, gentlemen.

THE persevering rascals who make their living by swindling farmers, are already on the war-path as census takers. They get a farmer to sign what he supposes to be a statement of his property, products, etc., which signature in a few days turns up as a promissory note. Look out for them. No census takers will be around until next June.

COL. L. SAVIERS and Mrs. Col. Church have been taking a trip south to New Orleans and Jacksonville, Fla. and have written some very interesting letters to the St. Louis Leader and the Gratiot Journal. We were strongly tempted to publish some of them, but have been obliged to forego that pleasure on account of their length.

MRS. H. E. STOUT has just received a new and large stock of spring millinery, consisting of new hats, new flowers, new ribbons, new laces, and in short everything usually kept in a first-class millinery stock, which surpass anything ever shown in Tecumseh both in quantity and quality.—The ladies are invited to call and see for themselves.

THE last number of Rounds' Printer's Cabinet has this item: "W. T. B. Schoemaker, publisher at Hudson, Michigan, one of the jolliest knights of the quill in the Wolverine State, paid us a visit recently, and took away with him a store of our neat and new faces." Schemy probably left one of his autograph cards with friend Rounds, which accounts for the slight shange in his name.

"ISABEL" enquires through a New York paper: "Since when are public school teachers permitted to retain their positions after marriage? There are now many young ladies in this city waiting for a position, many of whom have widowed mothers, smaller sisters and brothers depending on them for support. Yet ladies who have husbands, whose business it is to support them, are selfish enough to retain their positions. Is it right?"

HE stood upon the street curb, and, raising his glistening cornet, he filled the air with notes of peace and war, both sad and stirring. He was a one-armed soldier, and took this method of picking up a few honest pennies. To some who listened and "chipped in" their mite, those sounds had been familiar on many a field of struggle and glory, while the younger hearts saw in the maimed man of music one of the sad relics of the terrible days of the great rebellion.

CO. "C" will soon move into a new armory, having rented the old Merchants' Hall for that purpose. The hall will be fitted up with a new floor, and scenery, and otherwise improved. A doorway has been cut through the west wall of the block and a second exit thus made by way of the stairs leading down from Odd Fellows' hall, which will do away with the principal objection heretofore urged against the use of the hall for public entertainments. The company is preparing an opening entertainment which will take place about the middle of next month.

GEO. C. BONIFACE appeared in Queen's Evidence and Soldier's Trust at the Opera House on Monday and Tuesday evenings. The first named play has been presented here before by the same company, but the latter was a new play, and it was admirably acted. Good judges pronounce the acting of Boniface in this play the best character acting ever seen in Tecumseh. We regret to say that the audience was a very small one. If this is the way first-class entertainments are patronized in Tecumseh, we shall soon be compelled to rely wholly on nigger shows, which always draw a full house.

THE RIVER RAISIN MYSTERY.

No clue has yet been obtained which throws any light upon the recent mystery at River Raisin, but a dispatch from Ann Arbor to the Detroit Free Press seems to make it evident that a foul murder was committed there.

Prof. Charles H. Stowell, of the University, has been examining some of the blood stains found at River Raisin Station, the scene of the supposed bloody encounter, the particulars of which have been published. Stained pieces of bark and pieces of wood were sent to him, and some of the supposed blood clots were scraped from the wood and examined after treating them with the usual methods. The very highest powers of the microscope were used, so that measurement could be made as fine as the one seven hundred and fifty thousandth of an inch. A large number of bloody corpuscles were found, circular in shape, and thus excluding the belief that the blood was that of any other class of animals than the mammalia, for other animals have oval corpuscles. While as far as the measurements are concerned the blood might be that of a dog, yet the location of the stains and the surrounding circumstances make it almost certain that the blood is human and that a murder was committed.

The Cyclone in Arkansas.

We have received from Alex Hendry a copy of the Fayetteville, Ark., Democrat giving a full account of the terrible cyclone which passed over that city on the 18th inst. It struck the town in the Southwestern part, and extended through it in a Northeastern direction, sweeping almost every building in its course for more than half a mile. The track of the tornado was about thirty feet wide, and not a single building or fence in its course escaped distruction or injury. Barns, out-houses, fences and trees were all swept away. Amid all the destruction of property, it is almost miraculous how so few persons were injured. Two persons were killed outright and several persons seriously injured. Several large buildings were damaged and a few totally destroyed, and several stocks of goods were ruined. Both printing offices were seriously damaged.

Michigan Unitarian Conference.

The semi-annual meeting of the Michigan Unitarian Conference will be held at Kalamazoo, May 17, 18, and 19. The opening sermon will be preached Monday evening by Rev. F. B. Forbush of Detroit. The exercises will consist of sermons, essays, and discussions on living questions. The Unitarian society of Kalamazoo extends the hospitality of its homes to visitors.

"We condition our fellowship on no dogmatic tests but welcome all who desire to work with us in advancing the Kingdom of Right, Truth and Love. Please extend this invitation to the friends of Freedom, Fellowship, and character in Religion, in your vicinity.

J. N. PARDEE,
Secretary.

Hudson Post: Willis Merritt, Esq., of Tecumseh is receiving quite a boom just now through the county press. He is being brought before the people as a candidate for prosecuting attorney. Those who have seen him try his cases before the last circuit court say that he has the material in him requisite for the business. Adrian will probably have three candidates in the field: Charley Hall, Charley Weaver, and R. A. Watts, all good men, but unless they can "pool their issues," Merritt may walk away with the prize.

Among all the candidates named on the Republican side for this office, Mr. Merritt is certainly as good as the best and he could make a strong run in this section of the county. His friends are fully justified in making an effort to secure his nomination and we believe they will succeed.

The Tecumseh HERALD now charges five cents per line for publishing obituary poetry, and even at that rate had 72 lines last week—and such poetry!—Evening News.

Unfortunately (for the HERALD and its readers) the last batch of poetry came before the 5c-per-line regulation went into effect. But the new rule is an excellent one, and the HERALD will without doubt receive the heartfelt thanks of its readers for having delivered them from a great affliction.—Adrian Times.

We feel friendly towards the News and the Times also, and have never done anything to injure them. Then why should they make this sinister attempt to cripple our business? This is the first week since our new schedule of rates went into operation and we have not yet received a single verse—not one. We feel bad.

THE HERALD Job Rooms have turned out a good deal of fine job printing during the past year, and this week we have completed a four page card program and dance program for the Sophomore Class at Ann Arbor. It is the best job of the kind ever issued from a Tecumseh office.

Manchester Enterprise: Clinton, Tecumseh, Grass Lake, and other neighboring towns have street lamps, and find them a benefit in dark nights. Manchester has none, but she might spend her money more foolishly than to buy a dozen or two.

NUMEROUS fishing parties can be seen any evening on the banks of our ponds.

An Excellent Idea.

Adrian Times: The citizens of the First and Second wards, under the solicitation of Messrs. Bruce, Jewell and Wagener, have responded nobly to the call for aid for the Butler road. If the other wards had done as well, the whole of the required amount would have been raised. There are still a number of citizens who ought to subscribe; who, to put it plainly, cannot afford not to subscribe. They cannot afford to be considered by their fellow citizens as not having interest in the city's welfare. We have men in our minds now who, if they persist in their refusal to subscribe, will find, in the future, a mighty slow sale for their goods. For this they will have nobody to blame, and if they find trade falling off it will be a just penalty for their own niggardliness. We are satisfied that the great mass of the people of this city mean business in this thing. The subscriptions show it, and we propose, after doing all we can to induce people to subscribe, to print the list of subscribers so that all may note those who are conspicuously absent, and act accordingly.

Verily, human nature is about the same all over. Tecumseh is similarly situated. The idea suggested above is a good one, and we shouldn't be surprised if our Tecumseh committee acted upon it.

Another Railroad Morsel.

Adrian Times of April 28: Mr. Latcha, of the Toledo & Milwaukee road, was in the city last night. He is discouraged with the want of sympathy in Toledo for the project. But, if we understand Mr Latcha he does not intend to give up the idea of the line. He thinks if the Detroit & Butler line is built through Adrian it would be a good idea to deflect the line to connect with the D. & B. road and run to Detroit. He says the engineers of his line will reach Addison next week. If Mr. Latcha's proposition should be adopted, Detroit would have two lines to Milwaukee, but the Latcha line would run through a good section, and make it tributary to Detroit, and Adrian would be pleased to be brought into close connection with some of the towns through which this line is laid out.

SOUTH MACON.

Our Macon stream is having a big time carrying off old logs, tearing down fences, undermining bridges, etc.

The highway commissioner and drain commissioner elect of this township failed to qualify. "Honors to thim."

Good club meeting Saturday evening. The debate on the question, Resolved, That the license law should be repealed, was participated in by Rev. A. B. Wood, A. Easlick and C. Mead, Aff. R. R. Hall, M. J. Martin and Geo. Howell, Neg. Decision by a committee of five in favor of Aff. 4 to 1. The exercises at next meeting will consist of memorial services for deceased members.

[The report of the Health Physician on the diphtheria epidemic will appear next week.—ED. HERALD.]

AN elegant new black-walnut counter has been placed in Bills, Lilley, & Co's. bank this week, which will be a great addition to the interior appearance of the room. The workmanship is by Theodore Crane, who performed the entire work. The finishing and polishing was done by H. Schroeder. It is certainly a very fine piece of work.

RAYNOR LILLEY has gone to Cleveland to work for the Cleveland Paper Co. The machinery formerly in the Adrian Paper Mill, and owned by the Cleveland house, was removed to that city a few days ago.

SILVERS' SS.

Somebody said something strikingly sensible Saturday, showing, somehow, such splendid sense. See, said she, Silvers sells slippers, sandals, spats, satin-serge shoes, satchels, seamless shaker socks, sixty styles striped shirts, Smith's silk suspenders, seersucker sun shades, sleek, sightly, serviceable, showy, satisfactory, smooth setting samples satinet sack suits so shockingly sheap.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.

ALL QUIET IN CONGRESS.

Politics Occupy a Large Share of Attention—Conscience Money.

Washington, April 24, 1880.

The business of legislation has made a little progress during the past week, though considerable time has been consumed by the Senate in discussing the Geneva Award bill, while the House has talked a good deal over the immediate deficiency bill. But there is a little more industry and disposition to get along with business manifested now, which of course make a great difference in results. The weather is beautiful, soft and balmy as May, which has a tendency to make the lawgivers think of home.

In the Spring a Congressman's fancy Lightly turns to thoughts of move—away from Washington and into the rural districts, where they engage extensively in the pursuit of honest tillers of the soil—in their minds. I saw one the other evening discussing the subject of fruit culture. He was preparing to raise some strawberries—with a spoon. By the way we have had strawberries in market here most of the time for a month past.

Politics occupy a large share of attention here now. All parties have had their attention fixed upon the New York Democrats, anxious to see how Sammy Tilden would come out of the struggle in his own State. It is amazing to see so much bitter opposition to Tilden in his own party, for if the "fraud" issue is to be raised the common mind will hardly see how they can think of any other candidate. To a man up a tree it would look as tho' there was going to be a powerful lot of crow eating in the coming campaign—and at this time it does not appear that there is to be any exclusiveness about the feast. There are some people on both sides who stand a chance of taking a hand in it. But it is all the result of our personal politics. The time was when measures not men, divided the sentiments of the people.—Now it is all the other way. Measures nothing; men are everything; and the advocates and enemies of each particular candidate rend parties into warring factions. It is a deplorable state of affairs, according to my notion. It is amusing to see how conservative the department clerks are now. I think they are generally for Grant, because they think he is coming back into power, but they are cunning fellows, these department officers. If you say the thing looks like Blaine, they say it certainly does. And if you say it is surely to be Grant, they say they have thought so from the first.—If you are in a good humor and say that Sherman's chances will come up after the first ballot, they say that Sherman would make as good a President as any of them. When you say that some dark horse is likely to win, their faces drop and they ask who is the most likely dark horse. If by any unhappy chance you say that a Democrat is pretty sure to come in, with what eagerness they question you for your reasons for thinking so. The ten thousand people in Washington working for the government in one capacity or another are just now a mighty conservative lot.

Among the women who have been very persistent in asking for compensation for services rendered during the war is Eliza Howard Powers, of Patterson, N. J., who was very active from 1861 to 1864 in caring for sick and wounded soldiers, and collecting and forwarding hospital supplies and money for their relief. For these reasons she was given a clerkship in the Dead Letter Office which she held seven years and was then discharged. Her petition for compensation for work done during the war has been rejected by several committees. It was again introduced last April, and the Senate Committee on Claims has just made another adverse report. The committee finds that the services of the petitioner were patriotic and laudable, but such as many thousands of women performed, as very few have demanded pay for, and as the Government has not recognized as justifying a demand upon the Treasury.

The President received the following letter a few days ago, signed "A Soultjier," and enclosing one hundred and thirty dollars: "My compliments to your honor. Dear Sir, I was in the army of the late war, a union soldier, and I did a great rong by takeing a horse belonging to the government and sold him and kept the money. I became convicted for the deed, joined the M. E. Church, and asked God for murcy, and I had to promece him to pay for the horse, and I did so, and he forgave my sins, and now I am able to pay the money in to your hand, as it belongs to the government. Please find enclosed $130, which you will please accept."

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS.

Grand Rapids is not all out of diphtheria yet.

The Big Rapids council has fixed saloon bonds at $2,000.

Mrs. Button, wife of Dr. J. S. Button, of Coldwater, died on the 21st.

A cheese factory is to be established at or near Cross Well this spring.

Coffeen, the Vassar brick maker expects to make 3,000,000 brick this season.

A new Roman Catholic Church of fair proportions is to be built at Newaygo.

The Commercial hotel, Romeo, is to be mansarded and otherwise modernized.

A Brunson boy of 18 years is building a steamboat—doing all the work himself.

Hon. Edgar M. Marble, of Michigan, has been nominated for commissioner of patents.

The VanBuren county supervisors have agreed that property must be assessed on its cash valuation.

John C. Wolverton, of Flint, has been elected secretary of the Genesee county agricultural society.

During the month of March Lake Superior copper mines paid $650,000 in dividends to stock-holders.

J. B. Delbridge, of Albion gives the episcopalians of that place a fine lot whereon to build a parsonage.

Mrs. Webster, of Clarence township Calhoun county, has been arrested, charged with firing a straw stack.

Forty persons direct from Germany arrived at Albion a few days ago, and will permanently locate there.

Mrs. Wm. Hyler, of near Grand Rapids, took chloroform to ease a pain in her side, and the dose proved fatal.

The house of P. G. Hemenway, at Bellvue, was broken into by tramps a few nights ago, and $800 in notes stolen.

Of 3,000,000 feet of lumber piled on Emery Bros.' docks, at Tawas, when navigation opened, every stick is now sold and will soon be shipped.

A deaf mute named Harper has been arrested on a charge of forging papers upon which certain goods were purchased at Grand Rapids recently.

St. Joseph's villagers kick up their heels and laugh most consumedly, having received assurances that a blast furnace is to be located in that city.

The Lachlin boys who robbed the Sanilac county treasury have been sent to the state house of correction—one for three years and the other for one year.

Port Huron folks are now being squeezed for $12,000 to aid the Mariette extension of the Port Huron and North-western (narrow-guage) railroad.

It was one little bit of a young 'un, with just a few measles about her, that caused 120 cases of various sizes and sorts of measles in the state school at Coldwater.

William Smith, an employe at the Stone & Atwood woolen mill, at Flint, had a leg broken and was otherwise injured last Friday while trying to adjust a belt upon a pulley.

William Briley, of Owosso, a young man noted for his strict religious observance, was arrested on a charge o stealing tools and paid roundly for a suspension of the prosecution.

The Big Rapids hospital, under the care of a Roman catholic sisterhood, is doing a humane work for the numerous sick and injured lumbermen whom misfortune has sent thither.

Miss Larde, of Old Mission, went to her father's maple sugar bush a few days ago, and getting too near the flames of the furnace her clothing caught fire and she was burned to death.

The farm three miles southwest of Petoskey village, formerly the residence of Petoskey, the Indian chief, has been sold for the paltry sum of $15 per acre, which was about all it was worth.

Clark, the Bay City man who stabbed his stepson with a file, was sent to jail for 20 days and fined $15. If he had killed his victim they probably would have raised the fine to an even $20.

A Morenci boy lost his father's watch and then said a tramp stole it. The hue and cry was raised and an inoffensive Hillsdale traveler arrested. Then the watch was found, and the boy's capacity for lying is still unimpaired.

Grand Rapids newspapers are trying to root out the tax title nuisance which has made so much trouble there. If a Grand Rapids man should attempt to read his title clear to mansions in the skies it would not surprise him to find an old tax title beclouding it.

Three of the way cars on the eastern division of the Michigan Central have been provided with indicators which show the exact time in which each mile made by the train is run. The company will probably put one of these machines in every way car owned by them.

CHANCERY SALE.

IN pursuance and by virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court for the County of Lenawee in chancery, made and entered on the 17th day of March, A. D., 1880, in a certain cause therein pending, wherein Elizabeth S. Partree is complainant and William Gates, Lovina L. Gates, William A. Sagerson and Sarah E. Rigby are defendants.

Notice is hereby given that I will sell at public auction to the highest bidder at the front door of Dean's Opera House, in the city of Adrian, Lenawee county, Michigan, (that being the place of holding the Circuit Court in and for said county of Lenawee,) on Friday the 4th day of June, A. D., 1880, at one o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all those certain pieces or parcels of land situate in said city, county and state, and known and described as follows, to-wit: Commencing in the center of Scott street, eight (8) chains and six (6) links, northerly from the center of crossing of West Maumee street and Scott street, thence south eighty-nine (89) degrees west eight (8) chains and sixty-eight links for a place of beginning; thence South eighty-nine (89) degrees west one (1) chain and eighty-three (83) links to the north-east corner of land formerly owned by William Anderson, deceased; thence south six and a half (6½) degrees west five (5) chains and fifty (50) links to center of highway; thence easterly in the center of said highway ten (10) rods; thence northerly in a straight line to place of beginning, containing two (2) acres of land more or less.

Also that other tract, commencing on the west line of Broad street at a point seventy-six (76) feet northerly of the south-east corner of lot one hundred and twenty-seven (127); thence westerly parallel with Maumee street one hundred and twenty-two and a half feet to Whitney's east line, thence northerly on Whitney's east line and parallel with Broad street fifty (50) feet; thence easterly parallel with Maumee street one hundred and twenty-two and a half (122½) feet to the west line of Broad street; thence southerly fifty (50) feet on said line to place of beginning, being a lot one hundred and twenty-two and a half feet by fifty feet, with all the rights and privilege of a ten (10) foot alley on the south side of said lot as granted to William Gates by Eli Parsons, on deed of Nov. 14th, 1872, together with all and singular the hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in any wise appertaining.

MORTGAGE SALE.

ON the 11th day of March, A.D. 1869, Jonas Weaver and Caroline M. Weaver by an indenture of mortgage made and executed by them on said 11th day of March, to Henry H. Rawson certain lands owned by said Caroline M. Weaver, which mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Lenawee county, Michigan, on the 2d day of November, A.D. 1869, in liber 57 of mortgages on pages 675 and 676, and which mortgage was duly assigned by said Henry H. Rawson to Jonas Weaver on the 6th day of November, A.D. 1879, which assignment was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of said county of Lenawee on the 24th day of January, A.D. 1880, in liber 95 of mortgages on page 425. There is claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date of this notice the sum of forty-four and 22-100 dollars and the sum of twenty-five dollars as an attorney fee which is also covenanted for in said mortgage should any proceeding be taken to foreclose the said mortgage; no proceedings have been taken either in law or equity to recover the amount due on said mortgage or any part thereof. Default having been made in the terms of payment of said mortgage by means of which the power of sale in said mortgage has become absolute; notice is therefore hereby given that by virtue of said power of sale said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in said mortgage or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the amount due together with all legal costs and charges and said attorney fee of twenty-five dollars; said sale will be to the highest bidder and will be made on the twenty-six day of July, 1880, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at the front door of Dean's Opera House on Toledo street in the city of Adrian in said county of Lenawee, (that being the place of holding the Circuit Court for said county.) The premises described in said mortgage and to be sold as aforesaid are described as situate in the township of Rollin in said county of Lenawee, and known as the west half of the south west quarter of section twenty-nine, except twenty acres off the north end thereof, in township six south of range one east.

Dated February 21st, 1880.

THE FARMERS' PAGE.

NORTHERN LENAWEE FARMERS' CLUB.

This Club will hold its meetings regularly on each alternate Saturday of each month, at the Reform Club Hall in Tecumseh, at 2 o'clock P. M. until further notice. All are heartily welcomed and cordially invited to attend. Communications thankfully received, correspondents selected from the Club, especially where communications would accomplish desirable results. All letters should be addressed to E. L. Russell, Sec., Tecumseh, Mich.

SATURDAY, April 24, 1880.

The meeting to-day was well attended, being the annual meeting for the election of officers. We had the pleasure of looking upon some familiar faces, and the satisfaction of greeting some earnest workers, who had been absent for some time. We were gratified to see Mr. Goodrich, who had been absent on account of sickness, again occupying his place in the Club. There were a number who manifested their zeal and determination by coming long distances through the mud to attend; although cold north-east winds, storms and clouds prevailed without, still members brought sunshine and warmth with them, which was shared by all.

On motion of Mr. A. Richard the subject of continuing the Club was fully discussed, in order to get an expression of the views and feelings of members upon the matter and ascertain, as nearly as possible, if the Club would be successfully and profitably sustained another year.

There was a very general expression upon this question and the discussion was interesting and animated, setting forth the importance of sustaining a farmers' club, and the benefits derived therefrom, and their willingness and determination to help sustain it, and did not feel willing that the organization should stop here. Some thought that as farmers we confined ourselves too closely to manual labor; that we should work at that which paid the best; and thought that it would pay better to devote more time to the study of matters connected with agriculture, and that a well organized active farmers' club was one of the best means of gaining useful and practical information, preferable even to agricultural papers, as a large proportion of our knowledge was gained by comparisons and that here we had an opportunity to compare our ideas with those of others.

Some suggestions were made whereby they thought the interests of the Club could be advanced. One, that the constitution be amended so as to hold the meetings on every alternate Saturday, and another that ladies be invited to attend.

On motion of Mr. Wells, members proceeded to elect their officers for the ensuing year, which resulted as follows:

President—J. W. Benedict.
Secretary—E. L. Russell.
Treasurer—Cyrus Wells.

On motion of Mr. Richard, Cambridge was added to the list of townships comprising the Club, and another Vice President added for that township.

The election of Vice Presidents resulted as follows:

Raisin—A. Richard.
Franklin—Cyrus Wells.
Clinton—G. W. Goodrich.
Macon—Irvin Osborn.
Ridgeway—I. N. Pilbeam.
Tecumseh—R. R. Hall.
Cambridge—C. A. Blackmar.

On motion of Mr. Richard, Mr. G. W. Goodrich was elected musical director; also on motion, an invitation was respectfully extended to Mr. B. J. Wells to be present and assist in the music.

Also on motion, an invitation was respectfully extended to the ladies to attend the meetings of the Club; also voted, that all ladies by signing the constitution and by-laws become honorary members.

Mr. A. Richard, chairman of the executive committee, reported the following as the subject for the next meeting: "How may we make farming interesting for our sons and daughters."

The meeting then adjourned for two weeks, or to Saturday, May 8th, at 2 o'clock, P. M.

THE DISTRIBUTION OF LABOR.

There are about as many kinds of farm management as there are kinds of men. To a certain extent this is natural, because there are so many different products of the farm, almost any one of which may be taken as the primary, and all the others thus become of only secondary importance. If butter is the leading "crop," the system of the farm will be of one kind; if wheat is the primary product, the methods pursued will be different from those for butter, and this again will not be the same as when sheep are the main source of the farmer's income. Circumstances of soil, climate, nearness to market, personal tastes, etc., will decide these matters. But whatever the system, whatever the leading crop grown—and we by no means believe that in all cases, or even in most cases, it is always better for a farmer to have a crop that is the leading one—there are certain general principals that should be binding upon one so soon as he becomes a farmer. He who by the soil would thrive, no matter what he is to make the soil produce, should so plan his work that there will be the least number of idle days, in fact, this means that there should be no days when the farmer has, as the common expression goes, to "kill time." Every worker of the soil, whether he owns or rents the soil, and is, therefore working for himself, should put a definite market value upon his labor. This very many farmers fail to do, and overlooking this important fact, it easily and naturally becomes a source of loss. It is as much to the farmer's advantage to have a full supply of labor for each and every work day, as for the day hand that gets his living from his daily labor.

The vital importance of the proper distribution of farm labor throughout the season—yes, throughout the whole year—being accepted as a leading fact in profitable agriculture—the question is, how to make the most of it? In the first place it demands a careful planning of the whole season's work, if not the work for several years. This plan should account for work for not less than 290 days in the year—and the work for each of those days should be of such a character as to pay—not work to be done for the sake of doing something, but seasonable, profitable labor. This principle at once points towards a variety of farm crops, mixed farming, a rotation of crops, the ideal farming, and the one towards which substantial agriculture is tending.

A single example will suffice to illustrate and enforce the point. Let it be supposed that [illegible] is growing roots, and that [illegible] advantage to have the labor [illegible] care of his roots distributed [illegible] through the season. Instead of putting his whole land into Swedes, and that in early summer when other labor is pressing, he can sow a portion of the land to Mangles as early as the ground can be worked, and later, after the Swedes are in, a part of the field may be put into Flat Turnips, which grow rapidly and must be fed as soon as grown. If soiling is practised the Flat Turnips may follow the early rye in July. In like manner there are many cases where the work that would otherwise come "all in a heap," can be distributed through the season, and "all hands" can be kept for several months and furnished with steady and profitable labor. The farmer who can best equalize his work and portion to each week its part, other things being equal, will be the most successful.—American Agriculturist for May 1.

MORE SHEEP NEEDED.

Some three or four years ago, we urged the need there was for raising more sheep in this country, not only for the purpose of supplying the rapidly-growing demand for mutton, but also that importations of wool might be lessened, if not entirely cut off. In the twelve months ended December 31, 1879, there were imported unmanufactured wool to the value of $10,788,216; of cloths and cassimeres, $7,405,773 worth; of wollen rags, shoddy, waste, etc., $58,509 worth; blankets to the value of $120,248; carpets valued at $485,808; dress goods of woolen, alpaca, goats' hair, etc., valued at $13,902,324; hosiery, shirts, and drawers valued at $556,044, and other manufactures of wool, goat's hair and alpaca to the value of $3,590,510.

All of the raw material for these goods could have been produced within our own boundaries, and as much more could be raised for exportation. We have every description of climate, except the arctic, and can approach that as nearly as any one need wish; we have practically unlimited grazing range, grasses of unsurpassed quality, and, in short, everything the farmer can reasonably ask to help him produce mutton of great excellence and wool of any description needed in manufactures. We have in addition a market which already calls for a goodly number of our best sheep, and which will need far more than ever of this class, now that disease has swept away so many sheep in England. As has before happened under similar circumstances, it is likely that as soon as the crop prospects for this year shall have given promise of abundance, English farmers will probably begin looking about for sheep with which to replace those lost within the last year.—American Stockman.

"My back aches so, and I feel miserably," said a hard-working man. The doctor questioned him and found that he had been habitually costive for years, that now his kidneys were disordered and the whole system deranged. Kidney-Wort was recommended and faithfully taken and in a short time every trouble was removed. The cleansing and tonic power of this medicine on the bowels and kidneys is wonderful.

No Sympathy for those who go about suffering with Lame Back, caused from affected Kidneys when one bottle of Hill's Compound Extract of Buchu and Cubebs, will make a permanent cure, and from three to four doses will relieve the severest cases.

TESTIMONY

Of the Hon. Jos. E. GRAY, Judge of the Superior Court, Chicago, Ill.

CHICAGO, Dec. 14, 1878.

DR. S. D. HOWE,

DEAR SIR:—Permit me to add my grateful testimony to the army of witnesses to the virtue of your justly celebrated Arabian remedies. For a long time my wife was seriously afflicted with hacking cough, oppressed breathing, weakness of the chest, and constant acute pain in the lower portion of the right lung and under the shoulder blade. Her sufferings were intense, and she became extremely nervous and prostrated. Her disease was pronounced consumption by the physicians of Chicago and other cities, whose prescriptions had been taken without benefit. When you visited Chicago, in June, 1873, we called on you, having very little hope of deriving help from your treatment. We were inspired with hope by the skillful manner in which your thorough examination was conducted, and the satisfactory explanation with which you closed your diagnosis. My wife determined to take your medicines in accordance with your plan and practical directions. She began to use the Arabian Milk Cure and Arabian Tonic; their beneficial effect at once became manifest—the cough loosened and soon ceased, respiration became easy, the soreness of the chest was relieved and all pain removed, she began to gain in flesh and improve in strength and appearance. I fully believe that your medicines and skillful advice have saved the life of my wife. She unites with me in this grateful tribute to the merit of your remedies.

Very respectfully yours,
JOSEPH E. GRAY.

From a Distinguished Physician.

Prof. Green, a distinguished allopathic physician, wrote to the Medical Record to the effect that after all other means had failed, he sent for the Kidney Cure (Safe Kidney and Liver Cure), and to his astonishment cured a serious case of Bright's Disease by administering it, and afterwards found it equally beneficial in other cases.

—Science in the service of the housekeeper has produced the beautiful, pure, harmless, yet efficient American Ball-Blue for the laundry.

Literary Revolution and Universal Knowledge.

An Encyclopædia in 20 vols., over 16,000 pages; 10 per cent more matter than any Encyclopædia ever before published in this country, and sold, handsomely and well bound, in cloth for $10, in half morocco for $15, and printed on fine heavy paper, wide margins, bound in half Russia, gilt top, for $20—an enterprise so extraordinary that its success, beyond all precedent in book publishing, may be fairly claimed to inaugurate a Literary Revolution.

THE LIBRARY OF UNIVERSAL KNOWLEDGE is a reprint entire of the last (1879) Edinburgh edition of "Chambers's Encyclopædia," with about 40 per cent of new matter added, upon topics of special interest to American readers, thus making it equal in character to any similar work, better than any other suited to the wants of the great majority of those who consult works of reference, and altogether the latest Encyclopædia in the field.

Specimen Volumes in either style will be sent for examination with privilege of return on receipt of proportionate price per volume.

Special Discounts to all early subscribers, and extra discounts to clubs. Full particulars with descriptive catalogue of many other standard works equally low in price, sent free.

Leading principles of the American Book Exchange:

I. Publish only books of real value.
II. Work upon the basis of present cost of making books, about one half what it was a few years ago.
III. Sell to buyers direct, and save them the 50 to 60 per cent commission commonly allowed to dealers.
IV. The cost of books when made 10,000 at a time is but a fraction of the cost when made 500 at a time—adopt the low price and sell the large quantity.
V. Use good type, paper, etc., do careful printing, and strong, neat binding, but avoid all "padding," fat and heavily-leaded type, spongy paper and gaudy binding, which are so commonly resorted to to make books appear large and fine, and which greatly add to their cost, but do not add to their value.
VI. To make $1 and a friend is better than to make $5 and an enemy.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

All SORES, CUTS, BRUISES, SPRAINS, BURNS, SORE THROAT, LAMENESS, RHEUMATISM, PILES, INFLAMMATION of LUNGS and BOWELS, BRONCHITIS, CROUP, SALT RHEUM, CHILBLAINS, AFFECTIONS of the SPINE, ERYSIPELAS, NERVOUS IRRITATION, and all disorders attendant with INFLAMMATION.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve, and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should feel perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

Third anniversary of the Clinton Reform Club commences next Sunday afternoon, opening up with an address by Michigan's favorite orator, R. E. Frazer, of Ann Arbor.

Sidewalk barricaded with new goods fresh from New York in front of Smith's store.

The relatives and mourners of the "liquor corpse" had a big "wake" over its remains last Friday night.—Their uncontrolable grief at the death of their idol found vent in shouts and songs, and wild maniacal laughter, which could be heard all over town; and Saturday morning placards were found posted up about a half mile from town each way, with the following warning printed thereon,—"Stop, Small pox in Clinton" While the action of the Council in the whisky matter may have been a very unwise one with regard to Clinton interests in general, and one that is open to the severest critticism, yet it would hardly justify the scenes which took place on Friday night.

Somebody in his or her little childish simplicity has seen fit it seems to take exceptions to the opinions expressed by your regular correspondent in a communication some two weeks since with reference to certain utterances of a so-called temperance lecturer. He or she says the "opinion is unanimous that the critticisms were too severe, &c." Possible(?). Nevertheless we have the intelligence of this community to back us in what we said.

Saloons all closed.

Miss Emma Davis, of Millville, Mass., is visiting her sister Mrs. L. K. Davis.

Wiley Gunsolus has left the harness shop of Wm. C. Rogers and gone to Petersburg to clerk in a drug store.

Al. Rowland and wife had a stranger come to live with them lately. It is of that class that bang their hair on arriving at womanhood.

Spring seems to have abandoned the lap of winter, and is running her own institution at present.

The village board put the bail bonds of saloonists at $5,000. Thus far no license has been taken out, April 30th, It being the last day of grace the saloonists and friends made a grand demonstration in the evening. It was free beer, as they went from one saloon to another. Some, of course, became somewhat noisy, but it was a grand blow out; a noisy demonstration to Bacchus.

Those who favor potations have all the time predicted that to stop the liquor trade would paralyze the town, in fact would ruin it; and in order to make their prediction prove true, during the night of their jollification they posted notices on every road leading into Clinton, stating that small-pox was in the place. I secured one of these posters and propose to place it among the archives of the town, that future generations may see and know the literature of 1880. Et-literatim, et-punctuatim, it reads thus, "Stop Notice small pox in Clinton."

Rev. W. L. Palmer will preach in the Clinton Baptist Church next Sunday, exchanging with the pastor. He has many old friends in the vicinity who will like to hear him.

RIDGEWAY.

Items scarce.

Railroad committee are taking more subscriptions.

Maple sugar festival at M. E. church next Tuesday night.

G. C. Wheeler, of Dundee, lectured to a fair sized audience last Sunday night on the subject of temperance.

The arrangements for building the Christian church are nearly completed. The committee announce themselves ready to receive bids for the carpenter work. Parties wishing to bid should see or address John Britton at once.

Don't forget the Philo. Friday night. In place of the usual debate, Rev. A. B. Wood will deliver a lecture. Subject "Napoleon Bonaparte."

The last Butler survey made last week is just 1000 feet north of the first. This looks as though Ridgeway need not expect the Butler road to come to the village.

A large number of the people of Ridgeway and vicinity gathered in the M. E. Church on Sabbath evening last to listen to a temperance lecture by J. C. Wheeler, of Dundee. This shows that the temperance sentiment is still alive here. There is something more than sentiment; there is a deep-seated temperance principle. The tone of the temperance principles of the Ridgeway people is indicated by the three hundred names sent up to the legislature praying for a prohibitory law.

The prevailing healthy sentiment on this subject has been sufficient to make the presence of a saloon intolerable. They have no drunkard making, crime-breeding, carousing hell-hole among them,—and it is the fond hope of the people that they never will have one. There is probably not one to be found among them who would aid in establishing such a dangerous nuisance. It is certain that nothing would outrage the feelings of this people more than such an attempt.

They are quite willing that their sister town should have the benefit of the taxes imposed by our impartial laws that legalize 'the crime of crimes' in the eyes of the people. They want no "blood money" to dispose of, and no accursed one to put the bottle to their neighbor's lips, and no such scenes of degradation and temptation presented to the eyes of their children and youth.

FRANKLIN.

There is still considerable interest felt here by those who have identified themselves with the railway project, since it was ascertained that the time had been extended for raising our quota. But owing to the fact that a considerable number of our most wealthy men still withhold their support, tends to disheartten those who have not only subscribed liberally, but devoted much valuable time in securing aid, yet are willing to make one more strenuous effort to secure the prize. And we are informed that arrangements have been perfected to employ a canvasser from Tecumseh, who will devote his entire time, assisted by our local committee, some of whom we believe are willing to increase their subscriptions, thereby not only increasing the fund, but it is hoped to induce those living more remote from the proposed route and consequently feel that they will derive less benefit, to subscribe in proportion to the relative advantage to be secured; for it is believed that every man in this community who has given the matter any thought must acknowledge that the road, if secured, would prove a great and lasting benefit to all concerned. But perhaps we are not warranted in advocating the matter so strenuously, and certainly should not did we believe our citizens generally understood its importance as thoroughly as our experience and observations enable us to do, and can but feel if we were in a position to do so, that we could successfully answer every objection urged, and convince every unprejudiced mind of its importance, and certainly hope this last effort will prove successful.

A happy event transpired on Tuesday, the 4th inst., it being the marriage of Mr. Willard N. Perkins son of Dr. Willard Perkins, and Miss Erena E., youngest daughter of J. W. Keeney, Esq., at the residence of the bride's parents, by Rev. J. Vincent. The wedding was a very quiet unostentatious affair, and the happy pair at once settled down to the realities of life. Both have many warm friends in this community, and if good wishes are of any avail, they may safely anticipate a happy and prosperous future. By the way, friend Will, please arise and explain the connection between the fruit trees you went to Tecumseh for last week and the load of furniture you brought back?

Mr. T. M. Camburn has been making quite extensive additions and improvements to his dwelling this spring, which add much to its appearance and convenience.

Many of our farmers are laying tile drains on their farms, which is a judicious investment of money.

The approaching sheep shearing festival has excited considerable interest for some days past, and bids fair to be a decided success. The morning is delightful, and already at 9 A. M., people are arriving in considerable numbers, and the success of the enterprise is assured.

Mrs. Alonzo Peters has been quite ill for some days with diphtheria, but we are glad to learn that she is much better.

Mrs. Smith German met with quite a serious accident a few days since. Their horse became frightened while returning from a festival, upon which she sprang from the buggy, spraining her ankle badly; she is slowly improving, although still unable to use it.

Another attack of bilious fever has confined Walter Jones to the house during the past week.

Quarterly meeting has come and gone and with it the colored preacher whose propoundings of the gospel has not been satisfactory to all; so we hear.

Rev. W. H. Pierce, of Adrian, will fill the pulpit at the M. E. church next Sabbath.

On Saturday evening of this week the musical talent of the M.E. church is invited to meet for practice at D. C. Willits'.

Ed. Russell has been building a new board fence in front of his residence.

On Saturday last the class of '79 made their alma mater a visit. Glad to see them and hope they will not soon forget the friends and memories of their school days here.

EAST RIDGEWAY.

As I have not seen anything from this locality lately, will drop you a line.

Busy now plowing and sowing oats.

The Detroit & Butler road is talked of pretty strong, and they say they are surveying it 1,000 feet north of the line surveyed last fall; will come very near Kniffin's old mill, if so.

THE CIRCUIT COURT.

MAY 4.—Adjourned session, Judge Cooley presiding as special judge.

M. Adele Hazlett vs. Jacob C. Sawyer. Ordered that the first, second and fourth counts of plaintiff's declaration be quashed, with leave to amend said counts within 20 days, on payments of costs of the demurrer, including an attorney's fee of $10.

Jacob L. Harsh vs. Isaac A. Bartlett. Plaintiff's motion for a new trial overruled.

John F. Murray vs. Orison Kelley, garnishee of Abel W. Wood. Judgment that plaintiff cannot recover, and against defendant for costs.

A. L. Millard and Seth Bean, garnishees of Isaiah La Point vs. C. A. Stacy and W. A. Underwood, appeal from justice court. Judgment of the lower court reversed, and judgment against defendants for plaintiffs' costs.

The people vs. Benjamin Bevilhammer, assault with intent to ravish.—Defendant's witnesses ordered to be subpœnaed at the cost of the people.

The people vs. George Haddock, impleaded with Warren Hazen, and others, for conspiracy. Bail fixed at $600.

Court then adjourned until Monday the 10th day of May, at 12 o'clock, noon.

GLEANINGS FROM THE COUNTY PRESS.

Clinton News: Some of our sporting gents have marked off a half-mile track on Tecumseh street, and amuse themselves evenings by getting up walking, running and trotting matches.

Hudson Gazette: Adrian did well in raising $300 for Mrs. Lyon, widow of the murdered night watchman. One-half of that unnecessarily large reward for the capture of the murderer should also go to the afflicted family.

Morenci Observer: There is a general impression among the intelligent trackmen, who are supposed to know all about "old Vanderbilt's" business, that the Canada Southern Co. will again own and manage the Fayette Branch by the first of January next.

Hudson Gazette: Beardsell's big boat is afloat, is afloat. Six span of horses landed the craft at Lake View wharf on Thursday night. She will soon have her machinery in and be full rigged and manned and ready for business. All aboard for Pennock's Point.

Adrian Press: The Tecumseh HERALD absolutely refuses to "stand out" a dog fight for obituary poetry, and hereafter will suffer the Muses to glorify the "dear departed" only at the rate of five cents per line. There's more business than poetry in that decision.

Deerfield Record: M. B. Hunter, fireman at Blinn & Weidmann's stave mill, met with a painful accident last Saturday. He was engaged in sharpening a stave knife on a grindstone when it slipped and his hand was caught between the knife and stone, tearing the flesh nearly all off his left thumb.

Adrian Times: Deputy sheriff Jibbs Monday morning brought to jail here, George U. Haddock, who is arrested for conspiracy with Hazen and Smith to commit an assault on Burnett, of Morenci. Hazen and Smith have been convicted and sent to Ionia, but Haddock escaped the officers until Sunday, when he was captured near South Wright, Hillsdale county.

Adrian Press: Mr. F. Wickwire an old and prominent resident of Raisin, has for over a year been suffering from a paralytic shock, and though slowly gaining and much improved, is still confined to the house. Much of the care of the large farm devolves upon Mrs. Wickwire, and she though advanced in years, proves equal to the task. We hope Mr. W. will soon fully regain his health and that both may have many years of happiness in store.

Adrian Press: Wednesday evening Messrs. Trupp and Church gave a magnificent supper for the social and physical benefit of the mayor, common council and many other invited guests. The banquet was spread in the dining parlors of John S. Peck's restaurant. The captors of Aiken having received a portion of the reward for his apprehension, deemed the courtesy of a supper not out of place. The spread was very fine and a thoroughly enjoyable hour was spent in doing justice thereto.

Hudson Post: About three weeks ago two tramps—a man and woman—came to Robinson Whitehorn's, in Pittsford, and there engaged to work for three months. These parties represented themselves to be man and wife, but their actions were suspicious and it is thought they are not married. They gave their names as Burnett and Martha Banning. He is over 30 and the woman is not over 17 years of age. Mr. Whitehorn thinks they are a runaway couple from the Saginaw country. Wednesday several parties were at Mr. Whitehorn's and the woman suspected that some of them were officers, and consequently Wednesday night the couple departed. They are probably wanted somewhere.

Morenci Observer: Our village express office has been beseiged for the last week or so by parties who are anxiously expecting packages of goods, and as none arrived the agent, Mr. Rorick, ascertained that these people had been advancing money to an "agent" who had been operating in this vicinity, and, by some hocus pocus draw game, managed to give his customers some wonderful bargains, in consideration of which the cash was to be advanced and the goods sent by express. It is amazing that people will, notwithstanding the repeated warnings of the press, bite at so bare a hook; and yet the appearances are that the graceless scamp carried off quite a booty, and that, too, from people whom we would hardly suppose would be caught in so thin a trap.

THE FAMILY CIRCLE.

I'LL KEEP A KISS FOR YOU.

No matter how the world may frown,
When [illegible] may fall,
Loaded are the [illegible] the care
They triumph over all
So let the wind blow cold and cruel,
While others prove untrue,
I'll face the storm of cruel fate
And keep a kiss for you.

Though separated by degrees,
Or by a sad mistake,
I'll try to undeceive the [illegible]
If only you will wait;
And when the good time comes again
I'll not hereafter rule,
But hold unto the prize I gain,
And keep a kiss for you.

And when we reach the golden strand,
To weep and sigh no more,
We'll kiss each other and go on
To bliss forever more.
When fondest hopes are realized
And heaven is in view,
I'll bless the hour I did resolve
To keep a kiss for you.

CHANG WAU HO.

What a Chinese Priest thinks of Prophets and Theological Matters in General.

While in California I visited a joss house or rather a heathen church. In it were several ugly idols. These idols were all gaudily painted. They were made of paper puffed out with wire. Some of them had many eyes, several hands, and now and then one had a double head. They had eyes in their knees, eyes in their stomachs, and eyes in the tops of their heads. Some had hands all around them, and all had long fierce-looking beards. A little child in our party was too frightened to look at these idols. She kept saying—

"Oh, mamma it is so ugly! Take it away!"

The heathen priest was a very clever man. I found out afterwards that he had been a great reader. In this joss house he stood in front of the gods with his people, and they all worshiped together. They were thoroughly in earnest, and I believe every Chinaman believed his eternal salvation depended on his worship.

I found the priest Chang Wau Ho, I say, to be a man of great learning. After the service I went in behind the gods with a young interpreter—a young Chinese graduate from Yale—and had a long talk with him.

"I see you have many gods?" I commenced.

"No he replied, through the interpreter; we only worship one God."

"Then these are idols," I remarked.

"No," the Chinese do not worship idols. These are images to represent God—one God. We have many images, so that all the people can see at once, but each image represents the same God."

"Then you do not worship the images?"

"Oh no. They are only to remind us of God. You Christains pray before crucifix, and the Catholics even have an image of Christ and the Virgin Mary just as we have these images. We do not worship the images."

"Why do you have such ugly, deformed images?" I asked. "Why do they have double heads, many ears, and many eyes?"

"Well, God, you know, is omniscient, potential, and omnipresent. We represent these attributes by the images. The many hands denote that God is omnipresent. The many eyes denote that he is omniscient—that he sees everything.

"But why do you make such ugly looking images?" I asked.

"Oh! that is the Chinese antique. They are not ugly to us. They made them so in the time of Confucius, and our people don't like to change. It is our religious form. I see you Christians preserve religious forms, too. You have religious architecture—the Gothic. You have iff angels after Fra Angelico, and angels quite deformed, after Sasaf. at[illegible] nd the old religious artists. Why can't we Chinamen preserve our antique religious art, even if it is ugly, as well as you?"

I found Chang Wau Ho, the Chinese priest, very radical. He defended himself and his faith splendidly. Sometimes he was dreadfully irreligious, and often, to me, sacrilegious. Once he replied:

"Heathen! who do you call heathen? To me" he said "every one is a heathen who does not believe in our religion."

When I told him that I thought Mohammed and Confucius and Buddha were impostors, his eyes snapped, the crimson came to his cheeks, and he exclaimed:

"So was your Christ an impostor!"

"Do you call all the prophets impostors—every one since Moses?" I asked.

"Yes, all who claim to be prophets—all who claim a spiritual connection with God. Zoroaster, the Persian prophet, was an impostor, and so was Buddha, who lived in Mecca. Confucius and Moses and Socrates were not prophets; they were simply wise men. They were great writers—great leaders. The prophets have all been ignorant men—adventurers."

"What do you say of Brigham Young? they have just declared him to be the only living prophet, seer, and interpreter in the world!" I remarked.

"Let two thousand years go by, and Brigham Young will be just as much respected as a prophet as is Zoroaster, Buddha, or Mohammed. He is just as much a prophet as they. But they [illegible] to need a religious broker on earth, and every man who sets himself up as a partner of God is a fraud."

Chang Wau Ho's language made me shudder. Still I determined to draw him out. I wanted to hear just what the heathen had to say.

"Do you not believe in religion, Wau Ho?" I commenced.

"Yes," he said; we are all alike. We all have the same God. We all pray to him the same—the Chinaman, Turk, Englishman and South American. He is the same God all over the world, only each nation spells his name differently. We call him Joss, the Hindoos call him Brameln, the Greeks call him Theos; the Italian, Deus; the American Indian, Great Spirit; the Frenchman, Dieu; the German, Gott; the American, God; and so on. Every nation has the same God, only they spell it different.

The same God in twenty-six different nations has the same attributes—omniscience, omnipresence, potentiality. Every nation prays to him the same. You and I, though you call me a heathen, worship the same God. We believe precisely alike, except when we come to the prophets, and then all the nations disagree."

"What do you argue from that?" I asked.

"I argue this—the prophets are all impostors. They cause all the trouble."

"All impostors—every one of them?" I exclaimed.

"Yes, all human impostors. They make all the trouble. The world is cosmopolite as to God—we only differ when we come to the prophets. The prophets make all the wars—cause all the bloodshed. The Turk and Russian would not be fighting now were it not for Christ and Mohammed. Who ever heard of two nations fighting about God? It is these human impostors which they hitch on to God that cause all the wrangling and bloodshed."

"But how about Confucius?" I asked.

"Confucius," said Chang Wau Ho, "was not a prophet. He did not claim to be a prophet. He was a teacher like Moses. They both expounded the laws, they both claimed to be human. Moses was a thief, a murderer, and a liar; he stole the Egyptian jewels, murdered an Egyptian, and laid him in the sand. When Pharaoh found it out, Moses lied and fled the country. Such a man a prophet of God! Moses and Confucius did not have miraculous births. They were born regularly like Brigham Young, and were teachers and philosophers like Socrates. The fraudulent prophets Zoroaster, Buddha, Mohammed, and Christ all pretended to have miraculous births."

"Who was the first prophet?" I asked.

"The first great prophet was Zoroaster, the founder of the Persian religion. He was born supernaturally, 600 years before your Christ. Then followed our Confucius, forty-three years afterward, and fourteen years later came Buddha; 543 years after Buddha came your Christ, in Syria. So you see Zoroaster, Confucius, and Buddha, came almost together—within fifty-seven years, and then, 570 years after Christ, came Mohammed."

"How were each of the prophets born?"

"They were all born miraculously except Moses and Confucius. Zoroaster brought fire from heaven, and had a personal interview with God himself, who gave him his religion. There are 250,000 of his followers in Bombay and Yezd—a few more th[illegible] the mormons."

"How about Buddha?"

"Buddha was born in the seventh heaven. His mother was Maya, a virgin. After his birth he decended to the earth as a white elephant. Seven days after his birth his virgin mother died and Buddha declared his mission. He won his wife, Gopa, by showing pluck in a public game, had five pupils, and performed miracles and withstood temptation. When he died they couldn't light a fire to burn him; but a miraculous flame burst out of his bosom and consumed him. Buddha has 350,000,000 followers in Asia today."

"What do you think of Christ?"

"We Chinese think the same of him as we do of Zoroaster, Buddha, and Mohammed. He had the same miraculous birth 1,500 years after Moses. He was born of a virgin, like Buddha, and this woman is the mother of her own creator—her own God! He taught indolence and shiftlessness. He never worked a day in his life. He was a law-breaker and rebelled against the Government of Pontius Pilate. He made Judas believe that he was God. Judas said to the policeman when he came to arrest Jesus for blasphemy, 'There he is—arrest God if you can!' When he saw that he, too, was deceived, and that the imposter was only a man, subject to arrest and trial like other law breakers, Judas, broken-hearted, went out and hanged himself. Christ claimed to be the son of God as did Buddha, Zoroaster and Mohammed. He claimed to do miracles, but there is no evidence outside of the Bible that he did them. In the same way Mohammed did miracles, and proves it by the Koran. There are now about 800,000,000 believers in Christ, as follows: 150,000,000 Catholics, 75,000,000 Russian or Greek Catholics, and 45,000,000 Protestants."

"Was Mohammed's birth peculiar too?"

"Yes, Mohammed also had a miraculous birth. He was born at Mecca 570 years after Christ. When he was born, the sacred fires of the Parsees were extinguished and the great palace was shaken. He retired to a cave, saw miraculous visions, and had convulsions. He married nine wives, and was expelled from Mecca, and went to heaven, where God made him his most beloved messenger. He called the followers of Zoroaster heathen infidels, and the Christians in turn called him an impostor. Mohammed stole much of his religion from Christ. He stole polygamy from Moses and Solomon, that is, he indorsed the religion of Noah, Abraham, Moses, and the prophets, but he fought the Father-Son and Holy-Ghost trinity of Christ. He pronounced Christ an impostor. He said God was a unit, that he could not have a son, but that he could have a prophet, and that he, Mohammed, was appointed that prophet by the Angel Gabriel, the same angel that appeared to Moses 2,000 years before. There are now in the world 300,000,000 followers of Mohammed."

"Have the teachings of the prophets Moses, Buddha, and Mohammed been similar?"

"They have all taught about the same code of morals. For instance, Confucius, who came 577 years before Christ, gives this rule for all men:

"'Do not unto others what you would not have others do unto you.'

"Christ plagarized this into the Golden Rule:

"'Do unto others as ye would that they should do unto you.'

"Buddha stole it again and ground it through into this form:

"'The hat that hurts thine own head force it not upon the head of thy neighbor.'

"All the prophets forbid murder, theft, lying, stealing, swearing, adultery, covetousness, parental disobedience, and command everybody to love the Lord. Christ said; 'Love thy neighbor as thyself,' while Buddha said, 'Love all men.' Again, Buddha stole from Moses. Moses said 'Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor;' Buddha said a thousand years afterwards, 'Thou shalt not lie to man.'"

"Well, what do you argue from all this?" I asked.

"I argue this, that God is great, but that all the prophets from Moses down, through Buddha, Mohammed, and Christ, to Joseph Smith, who have pretended to inspiration, who have pretended to work miracles, or who have pretended to have any communication with God, were frauds and impostors. They were human like you and I, and only pretended inspiration to dupe their followers. Confucius, Socrates, Huxley, no honest philosopher, would pretend inspiration."

"Do our great men generally reject the prophets who wrought miracles?"

"In China they do. So I find they do throughout the world. In Italy, Galileo, Dante, Raphael, and Boccaccio denied all the prophets."

"What Germans deny all the prophets?"

"Schiller, Humboldt, Gothe, and Bismark."

"In France?"

"Mirabeau, Danton, Voltaire, Rousseau, Roland.

"In England?"

"Ben Jonson, Shakspeare, Bacon, Goldsmith, Hume, Gibbon, Disraeli, Reynolds, Huxley, Tyndall," etc.

"In America?"

"Franklin, all the signers of the declaration of Independence, Tom Paine, Jackson, Jefferson, Robert Ingersoll, James Monroe, John Q. Adams," etc.

"Then what do you propose to do, there being such wide-spread doubt about the prophets and such a unanimity of belief in God?"

"Just this: 1,400,000,000 believe in God, and love and worship him: of these 300,000,000 believe in Christ; 300,000,000 believe in Mohammed; 350,000,000 believe in Buddha; 7,000,000 (Jews) believe in Moses: 150,000 believe in Joe Smith; 350,000,000 in Confucius: 150,000 believe in Zoroaster, leaving 9,720,000 falsely called pagans, who love and believe in the same God, but never had any prophet to believe in."

"Then you would throw out all the prophets and have the world united in one, would you?"

"Precisely. How absurd for 300,000,000 Christians to damn 1,000,000,000 outsiders who believe in the Christian's God, but reject his prophets. And how absurd for 350,000,000 God-loving, God-fearing, God-worshiping partisans of Confucius to damn 650,000,000 God-fearing and God-worshiping Christians and Buddhists because they do not believe in the inspiration of the great Chinese lawgiver.

"What the world should have," said Chang Wau Ho, "is a complete religion that all the world can unite on—a religion based on reason and good, sound, practical, common sense. I don't want a religion where you've got to believe unnatural stories about prophets coming into the world on white elephants, or where a young woman has got to be the mother of her own Redeemer."

"I see the savants are all talking about a cosmopolite currency and a cosmopolite language," I suggested.

"Yes; and what we want more than anything else is a cosmopolite religion—a religion that all can indorse. Why should a little priest-ridden town of 5,000 people have ten churches and pay ten ministers to pull against each other? Rather let us have one church and one minister in each town—a grand temple like King Solomon's where all the people can gather together and listen to the words of instruction, and pray straight up to God without any prophets or mediators to make us wrangle over their ritualism and antagonistic dogmas."

This is what the heathen said.—Eli Perkins, N. Y. Times.

THE FAMILY RUDDER.

A Comstocker who was having his hair cut yesterday afternoon, gave the barber particular injunctions not to remove a long lock that projected in a somewhat unsightly way from the front of his head.

"It don't become you," said the barber.

"Can't help that," said the customer.

"Better let me take it off," said the barber.

"Just you leave it as it is," said the man.

"But," persisted the barber, "I can't give you a smooth, decent cut if I leave the hair so long in front. It will look like the very devil. I can't see what you want it left there for?"

"That's because you don't know what it is—you don't know the use of it."

"I know it's a bunch of hair and know that it's devilish unbecoming just where it is."

"Yes, it is a bunch of hair, and it is something more than a bunch of hair—it's the family rudder."

"The family what?"

"The family rudder. When things don't go right at home my wife always grabs that lock of hair. She would feel lost without it. When she gets hold of that she can handle me—steer me in the right direction, so to speak—and when I go in the right course the whole family go in the right course and all is well. I've got used to it now and don't mind it. Should I lose my hair and become bald, or should you give me a fighting cut all over, there would be no way of steering me; I should become unmanageable, and sooner or later a total wreck. No sir; don't you disturb the family rudder."

An editor in luck.—St. Jacobs Oil cures Rheumatism; of this I am convinced. For two years I suffered with Rheumatism in my left shoulder and right arm, and last fall I was incapable of attending to my duties, and lay many a night unable to sleep on account of terrible pains. A few weeks ago a severe attack of this trouble struck me, and this time I concluded to try the St. Jacobs Oil, I must acknowledge, with but little confidence in its merits. I freely confess that the result has completely astonished me. The first application relieved the pain very materially, and the continued use of only two bottles has completely cured me of this chronic evil, and that, after the most eminent physicians and their Perscriptions had been of no avail. I therefore consider it a duty to publish the above for the benefit of all sufferers with Rheumatism and kindred complaints.

Re-working Butter.—Hundreds of tons of white butter are bought every year, worked over by dealers, colored up and sold for double the price paid the farmers. This fact should convince farmers that they should put their own butter into the best shape for market and so realize all they can from it. It must have the bright golden color of June, which nothing but Wells, Richardson & Co's Perfected Butter Color can give. Use this color, pack your butter in the best manner; and you will get the top price.

Feels Young Again.

"My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy, inactive condition of the whole system, headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicines did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old.—We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family."—A lady, Providence, R. REGISTERING WOMEN VOTERS.

We are indebted to a "staff correspondent" for the following anecdote concerning the recent registration of female voters in Boston. Its accuracy is vouched for by an eminent artist—one of the most distinguished scalp cutters of the Hub:

Enter old lady of a certain age.

"I wish to register, sir."

"Your name, please?"

"Almira Jane Simpson."

"Your age?"

"Beg pardon."

"Your age?"

"Do I understand that I must give my age?"

"Yes, miss, the law requires it."

"Worlds, sir, would not tempt me to give it! Not that I care. No; I had as lief wear it on my bonnet, as a hackman does his number; but I am a twin, and if my sister has a weakness, it is that she dislikes any reference made to her age; and I could not give my own, because I don't wish to offend her!"

A Wonderful Discovery.

For the speedy cure of Consumption and all diseases that lead to it, such as stubborn Coughs, neglected Colds Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Asthma, pain in the side and chest, dry hacking cough, tickling in the throat, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, and all chronic or lingering diseases of the throat and lungs. Dr. King's New Discovery has no equal and has established for itself a world-wide reputation. Many leading physicians recommend and use it in their practice. The formula from which it is prepared is highly recommended by all medical journals. The clergy and the press have complimented it in the most glowing terms. FAITH.

A female teacher of a school that stood on the banks of a quiet stream wished to communicate to her pupils the idea of faith. While trying to explain to them the meaning of the word a small covered boat glided in sight along the stream. Seizing the incident as an illustration, she exclaimed:

"If I were to tell you that there was a leg of mutton in that boat you would believe me, would you not, without even seeing it yourselves?"

"Yes, ma'am," replied the scholars.

"Well; that is faith," said the school mistress.

The next day, in order to test their recollection of the lesson, she inquired:

"What is faith?"

"A leg of mutton in a boat," was the answer, shouted from all parts of the school-room.

LEWIS' CONDENSED BAKING POWDER

STRICTLY PURE!

We will give $1000.00 for any Alum or other adulteration found in this POWDER.

Indorsed by the Brooklyn Board of Health, and by the best chemists in the United States.

It is STRONGER than any Yeast Powder in the world.

It NEVER FAILS to make light bread when used as directed.

It is CONSIDERED by every housekeeper who has given it a fair trial.

It is an entirely NEW INVENTION, without any of the bad qualities of soda or saleratus, yeast or other baking powders.

It has in itself a tendency to sustain and nourish the system.

Good food makes good health; and health is improved or impaired in proportion as the food we eat is nutritious or otherwise.

LEWIS' BAKING POWDER always makes good food.

One can of this is worth two of any other baking compound.

It makes bread whiter and richer.

More than half the complaints of bad flour arise from the use of common baking powders, which often make the best of flour turn out dark bread.

The most delicate persons can eat food prepared with it without injury.

Nearly every other baking powder is adulterated and is absolutely injurious.

This is made from Refined Grape Cream of Tartar, and is PERFECTLY PURE.

It makes the BEST, lightest, and most nutritious

BREAD, BISCUIT, CAKE, CRULLERS, BUCKWHEAT, INDIAN, AND FLANNEL CAKES.

A single trial will prove the superiority of this Powder.

AN EXCELLENT PETITION.

The following petition is being extensively circulated through the Northern States, and if the ex-soldiers properly understand their own interests, it will be very generally signed. The Pension office seems to be run at present to delay and retard the payment of just claims, and parties who have had any business to transact with that office have just reason for condemning the present management of it. Let the soldiers speak their minds frankly in regard to this outrage, and they will probably succeed in inducing the President to apply the needed remedy:

To His Excellency Rutherford B. Hayes, President of the United States:

The petition of the following named soldiers, residing at the localities succeeding their names, and who were members of the companies and regiments stated after said locality, respectfully represent that we have viewed with deep pain and much astonishment the continued retention of John A. Bentley in the position of commissioner of pensions for a long time. We believe said Bentley has in all respects opposed the interests of the soldiers; that his decisions in regard to their claims have been most unjust and monstrous; that he impedes the collecting of their honest dues; that he slanders them by imputations upon their honesty; that he devises bills for congressional action which will reduce many of them to beggary; that he has, without law, cut down their monthly stipends; that he treats their correspondence with contempt; that his satraps visit them to devise every means to invalidate their pensions—in fact that his whole course and conduct toward them is, and has been marked by suspicion, prejudice, delay, slander and injustice.

For these reasons we do most earnestly beseech you, the chief magistrate of the United States, to remove speedily said Bentley, who, we learn, never rendered a day's service in either the army or navy, and to appoint a good, tried, honest soldier in his stead.

You, Mr. President, have been a soldier—an honorable and faithful one—and we appeal to you, as a soldier to a soldier, to give us a new commissioner—an honorable and just soldier—who will treat us with decent respect and be disposed to render us justice.

And your memorialists will ever pray, etc.

THE BUTLER AID AT ADRIAN.

The work of securing aid for the Butler road at Adrian is nearly completed, but they have a few hundred dollars yet to raise. The Times indulges in a little plain talk with reference to the refusal of some men to aid the enterprise. Some plan of this kind is needed here:

A good many inquiries are made as to subscriptions, the amount, etc., and the appearance in print of the list of subscribers, is anxiously looked for. The committee have deferred publishing it for the reason that many men whose names ought to be there have not yet subscribed. Before the week is ended, however, the list will undoubtedly appear.

The committee is also preparing a list of men who have been solicited to subscribe and who have not done so. When the list is printed it will be found exceedingly valuable for future reference. With lists of subscribers, and of non-subscribers, it will not be difficult to determine the men who have at heart the welfare of the city, and are willing to put their hands in their pockets and contribute something toward securing the prosperity of the place in which they live. The men who are in business here will find that their trade will be largely affected by their subscriptions. It is a matter of life or death. There is no time for sentimentalizing. The man who asks support of the community while declining to subscribe to aid this project, ought to ask in vain. The town would be better for the absence of such selfish, narrow men.

THE RAILROAD PROSPECTS.

We hoped to be able to make the announcement this week that the T. & M. road had been fixed on the Tecumseh line, but we cannot do so as Tecumseh and Franklin are not yet out of the woods with their quota. Canvassers are actively at work in both towns this week, and they are securing substantial encouragement. The surveying party have got as far East as Addison and by the first of next week they will be running the line in Cambridge.

A meeting was held at Petersburg last evening in the interest of the Adrian line, and the movement was strongly started there.

The towns on the Tecumseh line need not flatter themselves that they are sure of this road in any event. They are sure of it, if they raise the local aid required. If they fail in this regard they are certain to lose it. This is the situation exactly, and it is astonishing that sensible men cannot see it.

THE BUTLER EXTENSION.

Last Monday's Free Press contained a special from Washington conveying this important intelligence:

According to a telegram received today by Representative Newberry, the Wabash road has secured a lease of the Great Western Railway of Canada.

Commenting on this important fact, Congressman Newberry has said to your correspondent that he has no doubt this lease will inevitably result in a connection of the great Wabash system with the Great Western at Detroit by means of the Butler extension to Detroit, and that the Lake Ontario & Western and New York & Oswego Midland, from Lewiston to New York City, will make the completing link in the chain running from San Francisco to New York City, through a line independent of Wm. H. Vanderbilt, Thomas L. Scott and John W. Garrett.

Congressman Newberry thinks that though Mr. Hurd may not have been privy to the design, yet one object of the introduction of the "Hurd bill" was probably to defeat the lease of the Great Western to the Wabash, St. Louis & Pacific.

The report however has been since contradicted, and the latest news on the subject is in yesterday's Free Press as follows:

A New York dispatch to the Inter-Ocean, referring to the reported lease of the Great Western to the Wabash, and the denial of the statement by the Wabash authorities, adds to the announcement, heretofore published the following:

The leasing of the Great Western has been discussed informally by the Directors of the Wabash, but it was not the principal object of James F. Joy's trip to Europe, and they believe that for the present, at least, it will not, as stated, be accomplished. The extension of the Eel River Road to Detroit made it necessary to secure their suitable terminal facilities. No arrangements could be made with General Manager Broughton, of the Great Western, and therefore Mr. Joy, who had never been in Europe, decided to visit England for the purpose of consulting with President Gray and other English officers in regard to the matter. It is understood that an amicable arrangement has been made with the Great Western officers, but in his dispatches from England Mr. Joy has refered to the project of leasing that road no further than to say that it was impracticable. Even if this could be effected, no plans for lease or purchase of roads east of Buffalo have been contemplated. The Directors of the Wabash Company declare with much emphasis that no thoughts of securing the Ontario & Western, or any other roads this side of Buffalo, have entered their minds.

There seems to be no question however that negotiations of this kind are pending, and they will probably result in the early building of this road.

TO THE POINT.

The following excellent article we copy from the Farmers' Review:

An acre of government land costs $1.25. A corner grocery hanger-on will easily consume five ten-cent drinks or ten five-cent drinks per day. In two and one-half days he has swallowed an acre of as fine a land as "lays out of doors." If he averages two days and a half of loafing per week he consumes a fair sized farm every year. If his tobacco and cigars average a trifle over half as much, he has squandered a quarter section. And these are the men who in cities can find nothing to do, are continually complaining of the hard times, desert their families when the wife cannot earn enough to keep them in liquor, or refuses to give them more, and overrun the country as tramps. It is these men who are fostering communists and fasten themselves upon every honest movement of labor for reforms in hours of work or for needed and just demands for better wages. Who can have any great amount of sympathy for a man who swallows a garden-patch in the morning before breakfast and who whines for bread before sunset?

It looks as though summer had come to stay.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES.

Prospects Brightening.

New York Tribune.—The prospects of an early adjournment of Congress are brightening.

They Are in Earnest.

New York Herald.—The New York Independent Republicans are in earnest in their efforts to defeat the third term project. They propose to fight the machine, Blaine and ex-President at all hazards.

Not So Certain.

Detroit Evening News.—It is not so certain as it was a week ago that the Michigan delegation to Chicago will be solid for Blaine. Some of the rats are showing an ardent desire to leave the sinking ship and get on board the Grantcraft.

Conkling's Confidence.

Cincinnati Enquirer.—There is one subject on which the austere Conkling will always stand an interview. This is Grant. Conkling's confidence that Grant will be nominated seems to increase as the time of the Convention approaches.

Let Them Rise and Explain.

New York Tribune.—Some of the Third Termers display great indignation because it has been said that Grant has made speeches in support of his own candidacy. Will they be kind enough to explain what his reconciliation speeches were in support of?

Gradually Melting.

Toledo Commercial.—Gradually the solid south is melting away before the influence of the anti-third term candidates. A few days ago Maryland was confidently claimed for General Grant but it is now very certain that the state will be for Blaine or Sherman.

Would Have a Sure Thing.

Cincinnati Enquirer.—General McClellan is the latest Presidential possibility discussed by an able newspaper which is making a specialty of presenting Presidential talent. If McClellan would run for President of New Jersey he would have a sure thing.

Marvelous Ingenuity.

Detroit Free Press.—The ingenuity of the Pennsylvania Board of Pardons, in finding an excuse for pardoning the men who attempted to corrupt the Legislature of the State, was marvelous. The members of the board evidently think the first offense under a new law ought not to count—if committed by a millionaire.

One or The Other.

Louisville Journal.—We hope the Grant organs will succeed in reconciling their views about the Southern people with those of their chief.—There seems to be an irreconcillable difference between them. The stalwarts will either have to repudiate Grant as wholly opposed to the policy of hate, or Grant will have to repudiate every speech he has made since he landed at Galveston.

Looks Like Business.

Philadelphia Times.—The Greenbackers have been threatening for a long time to reform things, but as yet it cannot be claimed that they have accomplished a vast amount. The Greenbackers of Indiana, however, have at last done something substantial. They have elected a woman, a Dr. Mary L. Thomas, to accompany the distinguished James Buchanan as a delegate to the convention at Chicago. This begins to look like business.

A Warning.

New York Tribune.—Hancock's fate will be a warning to the other Democratic candidates who think themselves stalwart enough to start a boom without Tilden's co-operation. A similar disaster is likely to happen to Thurman when the Ohio Convention meets. Mr. Tilden may be feeble, but he is still able to smash the budding hopes of any rival who attempts to crowd him off the track.

The Whole Story.

Philadelphia Times.—"The pitcher was finally broken in going many times to the well, and it is possible that Gen. Grant may learn the lesson anew from the national convention, but he isn't of the kind that stops because other people's pitchers have been smashed. He believes in destiny and in his own star, and he doesn't believe in withdrawing from anything that he wants. He likes the White House, and he proposes to settle down if he can, and he thinks he can. That's the whole story.

Hancock Looming Up.

Boston Post.—Among the Presidential candidates spoken of in Democratic circles, General Hancock is looming up with considerable prominence. He appears to be a special favorite in Louisiana and in Texas. This is natural, for it was in those fields particularly that he exhibited high civil qualifications which commended him to general favor. Though it is his military history and brilliant services as a General that have given him general prominence, it would be an error to confine attention to those exclusively. What gave him special prestige in Louisiana and Texas was his determination to subordinate the military to the civil power.

Mr. Geo. C. Steketee,

Dear Sir—I used your Worm Destroyer for one of my children, who was relieved in a very short time of a great many of those troublesome customers, and am pleased to recommend your medicine to the public. Very respectfully,

REV. A. VAN DER VRIES.

Grand Haven, Mich., Feb. 19, 1880.

To whom it may concern:

This is to certify that we have used Steketee's Worm Destroyer and found it an excellent medicine. It does all Mr. Steketee claims for it.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

DISSOLUTION NOTICE.

The firm heretofore known and existing under the name of D. Jones & Son, is this day dissolved by mutual consent. David Jones will continue the business at the old stand.

Dated May 5, 1880. D. JONES & SON.

FOUND.

On Saturday, April 17th, came into my enclosure one Sorrel Horse. The owner can recover the same by proving property and paying charges for keeping and advertising. BERT MOBLEY.

ROOMS TO LET.

With or without board. Also boarders wanted. Day board on very reasonable terms. Enquire at the HERALD OFFICE.

WANTED.

Two first-class painters. None others need apply. SMITH & TAYLOR.

PATTERN PAPER.

We have in stock at the HERALD office, a heavy grade of Manilla paper. It is put up in rolls and can be cut in strips of any length desired. Just the thing for patterns.

HAVE you seen Richmond's summer hat?

FISHING and boating parties to the lakes will now be in order.

HON. J. K. BOIES, of Hudson, was in town this forenoon and favored the HERALD with a pleasant call.

As the size decreases the cost increases—spring bonnets, we mean. The latest is about the size of a china tea cup minus the handle, but the items of cost fill a half sheet bill-head, all the same.

IT is now that the merry housewife erects her ash-barrel in the back yard, collects all manner of grease, starts her smudge and—well—starts opposition to his royal nibs, Mr. Doxcey, in the manufacture of soft soap.

THERE was a large crowd present at the Sheep Shearing Festival in Franklin yesterday and the competition was lively. The HERALD had a reporter on the scene of action and a full report of the meeting will appear in next week's paper.

THE regular May meeting of the Lenawee Co. Grange will be held at light guard hall in the city of Adrian, on Thursday, May 13. All patrons are cordially invited to be present. Good speakers will be in attendance, and a good time is expected.

As spring approaches just so sure does the frowsy-headed old maid cast off her last winters rolls of false hair and once more try to act the part of the light-hearted, empty-headed gay one. Sure sign of spring, boys, when you see those heads flying light.

HIRAM H. WESCOTT's wife died this morning. It will be a severe blow to him, as she was a faithful mother and leaves a large family of small children. The funeral will take place on Saturday or Sunday, the exact time not having been fixed yet.

THIS is the dull season for the Jewelry business and jewelers are expected to let their stock run rather low, yet if you would see the stock of clocks and silverware lately put in by Thomas Adamson, it would seem as if Christmas was about to come twice a year.

SPRINGVALE farm owned by Cyrus W. Wells of Franklin was sold last week to our county sheriff. We understand that Mr. Wells expects to locate west, and will soon sell at public auction his personal property which includes everything pertaining to farming and house keeping. A rare chance for every body to buy something they need.

Auction Sale.

C. E. Williamson will sell at auction, three and a half miles west and one mile north of Tecumseh, on the A. J. Hunter farm, on Friday, May 7th, at 12 o'clock noon, 4 cows, 11 head of young cattle, 15 shoats, 4 breeding sows and pigs, 2 thoroughbred Durham bulls, 60 fine wool sheep, 100 bu. corn in the ear, and other farm property. Usual terms of sale. Ben Reynolds, Auctioneer.

Fair Warning.

At the last regular meeting of the Tecumseh base ball association held at the club hall the 3d inst, the following resolutions were adopted;

WHEREAS, Certain persons are accostomed to trespass upon, and use without right or consent the grounds of Tecumseh Base Ball Association and

WHEREAS, These persons not only disturb the quiet and peace of the neighborhood in the vicinity of said grounds, but also damage and destroy the property of the Association thereon; now therefore be it

Resolved, That the executive committee of this Association be and the said committee is hereby instructed, 1st, to warn said persons to desist from trespassing on said grounds, and 2d, to provide such measures as shall cause all persons to abstain from trespassing as aforesaid upon the grounds of the Association.

BOGUS gold pieces of the dates of 1844, 1847, and 1875 are in circulation. The coin has the right sound, is exact in weight and size, gold plated, and finely executed. Look out for the "queer."

Evening News: The colored folks need to watch their graveyards. Two corpses of African descent were found at the Ann Arbor doctor shop by the Paw Paw man who was looking for his father.

THE recent plentiful rains have given wheat and grass a remarkable start for this season of the year, and the prospects for abundant returns from haying and harvest were never more encouraging.

NEXT Sunday the morning train south and the night train North over the Jackson Branch will commence running every day in the week. This new arrangement will give us one Sunday train a day each way.

CENSUS enumerators will not be permitted to earn over $4 per day. They will be allowed 2½ cents per name, 12½ cents per farm, except in cities and towns of 2,000 inhabitants where the rate will be reduced to two cents per name.

THE Clinton News is trying to punch up the city to organize a fire department and purchase a fire engine for that village. They will probably wait until they have a little Deerfield experience, and then open their eyes and purses.

WHEAT flour is recommended as probably the best article to throw over a fire caused by spilling and the igniting of kerosene. Flour is something most always to be found in every house, and it might be well enough to remember this.

CLINTON is now destitute of a saloon. Not one place where the ardent can be procured for love or money.—The editor of the News seems to feel unhappy.

THE Deerfield Record says, since the fire, there is no billiard table in that village, and it would be a wise plan on the part of their citizens to prevent any more being introduced in the place. A very sensible suggestion that, and should be heeded by the Deerfieldites.

ON account of its being leap-year, aged girls are supposed to enjoy all kinds of privileges; but when the census enumerator gets around next June and asks, "what is your age?" the answer must come accurately and promptly, or a refusal to tell carries with it a fine not exceeding $100.

UNCLE TOM'S Cabin was greeted with a tremendous house last Saturday evening. The Opera House was literally packed, every available seat being taken, and many people were turned away unable to gain admission. The Wilkinsons are a good troupe, and the play was finely acted throughout.

Monroe Democrat: One Hobbs, a lightning rod swindler, was arrested last week by Sheriff Ellis for putting rods on the buildings of a Monroe county man for 7½ cents per foot, and then after getting the latter's note—"putting up" and along side and in front of the 7½ cents. Hobbs secured a settlement, however, and went in search of other victimes. Look out for Hobbs?

THE will of Hon. Elihu L. Clark, late of Adrian, was filed for probate on Monday. He gives snug sums to immediate heirs and $10,000 to Christ Episcopal church, to be put out at interest until the society decides to build a new church, and then to be used in such work. He also gives $10,000 to three trustees for the benefit of Adrian Lodge No. 8, I. O. O. F., to be used in building a hall and establishing a public library.

THE state convention of the W. C. T. U. will be held at Howell, May 25, 26 and 27. Each local union is entitled to two delegates. Names and address of delegates and visitors should be sent before May 8th, to Mrs. R. P. Huntington, Howell, Mich., that tickets of entertainment and reduction of fare on railroads may be secured.—Unions throughout the state are requested to hold a prayer meeting on Thursday, May 27th, at 3 o'clock p.m. Pray for the blessing of God on the convention and especially for the Christian women of the state, that they may awake to the necessity of engaging in Christian temperance work.

A CALL has been issued by a committeee of printers representing Detroit, Flint, and Bay City, calling for a State convention of journeyman printers, to be held in Detroit, May 21st. The purposes set forth in the call are: a state aid society; to provide for members sick and out of work; social intercourse; establish a typographical intelligence office; mutual benefit; and anything else thought necessary. We can conceive how some of the propositions might be of practicle benefit. We can also see how bad men at the head might make it a means of supporting a lot of idle, lazy, drunken tramps at the expense of the sober, industrious, hard-working printers. It may be made a good thing or vice versa.

LAST Tuesday we looked at a few of the farming implements sold by Mr. E. V. DePuy, at his ware rooms near Temple's lumber yard. The first that came under notice was a combination separator, made by the Upton Manufacturing Company, Battle Creek, Mich., and which is certainly a very perfect machine, as certainly the reputation of this company would warrant for it. Then we examined his Triumph Single Reaper, No. 2, which is certainly a little beauty in every respect, and has many advantages over other machines of this kind, among which might be noted the faculty of dropping both ends of the table at the same time; also the automatic and yet adjustable movement of the rakes. Mr. D. also handles a full line of agricultural implements of all kinds.

Don't be in a hurry about taking off your heavy underclothing and exchanging it for light, nor about taking down and removing your stoves. In many dwellings all the stoves, with the exception of that in the kitchen, are taken down and put out of the way at house-cleaning time; and ere many weeks go by there will be many a cold sitting room, and generally desolate, not to say sick, household; for this very reason. There are pleasant days in April and warm, sultry ones in May; but they are followed by cold spells which call, and often loudly, for heavy underclothing and a fire in the room, for the comfort and health of the inmates. In our changeable climate, there is hardly a month without a day on which a little fire at night, or in early morning, is not only desirable, but absolutely necessary, especially for invalids; and there should be some room other than the kitchen, where one may be started at a moment's notice.

PIONEER MEETING.

EDITOR of the HERALD:

Sir.—I noticed in your last week's paper an account of a "Pioneer Meeting," in the village of Clinton, invited guests of Mrs. Felton, composed of women born in the county. Not exactly a unique affair—so in character though not solitary. It was, in fact, the third of a series; all devised by Mrs. Felton, held at her house, and deriving its pleasures from her generous hospitality. The party consisted of eighteen persons whose ages ranged from sixty-nine to eighty-five years. Nearly all of them have been from forty to fifty years residents of Michigan. The writer gives no further intimation as to qualities of these venerable matrons. It were, perhaps, not to be expected, though the reader might, reasonably enough, be curious to know something more about them. With much propriety he alludes to the many and interesting improvements which have been made in the vicinity since these ladies came to dispute titles with the aborigines and the wild beasts of the forest.

But it may be asked—Had they any thing to do in the achievement of these wonderful vicissitudes in our material and social affairs? Did they lift up the axe upon the big trees and retire the ancient forests? Did they direct and guide the huge plow whose prodigious force cut its way through the intertwisted roots and turned up the pure virgin soil? Did they ditch and round up our charming highways? Did their saw, and hammer, and trowel ring out from the convenient and graceful edifices that loom up on village plat and along our rural ways? Did they construct our railroads and stretch our telegraph wires? No. In these bold labors they have, directly, taken no part, attempted no display. It were, therefore, an easy matter for them to elude notoriety, and far this side the grave be essentially forgotten. But, inconspicuous, have they been inactive? Have they done nothing? Have they no claim to a grateful remembrance? We think they have done very much. If their husbands were heroes, they were heroines as well. They left their native homes, their kindred and friends, with their adventurous husbands to share their fortunes of the wilderness. They accepted the log cabin, deep in the wildwood and remote from female companionship, to shelter them by day and night, against summer heats and winter colds. Hard they toiled to keep them neat and tidy, and grateful to the weary husband when he should come in from journey or from toil. There they struggled to prepare wholesome meals for the family, and friends if they should drop in. There they prepared soft beds, and clean, for the hour of rest, and sickness when it should come, as come it often did, and sometimes death! There they washed, and dressed and fed the little ones, and by love which only mothers know, defended them from evil, and lured them to wholsome ways. In sickness sympathetic and watchful; in adversity undismayed, and administering cheer, and, when the toils and anxieties of live brought their companions to the couch of sickness and of death, more than ever their ministries were constant and tearful, and, as the mercy of heaven, unsparing. When life was gone they attended them to the grave, and in grief returned to tread the path of life alone! Hence they are but seldom seen abroad, sparingly mingle in society. Ah indeed; and they of a later generation are too prone to overlook and forget them. To secure such from oblivion; to revive their sympathies with each other; and to invite upon them the venerating notice of the public, was in Mrs. Felton, a beautiful aspiration; and her way of doing it, no less tasteful, generous and becoming. May she and her venerable sister, live to see and enjoy many like anniversaries, and when they fail on earth, may they meet each other, and their husbands, so dearly loved and long lamented, in the world of "Rest for the weary" and where there is no more death nor widowhood.

Governor Croswell has appointed Alexander J. Murray, of Detroit, Joseph B. Griswold, of Grand Rapids, and S. B. Mann, of Palmyra, this county, as commissioners "to prevent the spread of langerous diseases among animals, and protect the people of the state from the dangers arising from the consumption of diseased meat," under the provisions of the law of 1879. The commissioners are to have no allowance for services or expenses, as the law creating the board makes no provision for such payment.

What possible connection there is between the two we cannot conjecture, but an exchange says the following figures are significant: "An ordinary woman's waist is thirty inches around. An ordinary man's arm is thirty inches long."

THE Gardener's Monthly for May is at hand, and is as full of interesting reading as an egg is full of meat. It is the best magazine we know of for small farmers and gardeners.

THE State board of health has decided on taking meteorogical observations at Jackson; and Mr. G. W. Babbitt, Michigan Central train dispatcher, will probably take charge of the matter and furnish the reports. The state of the weather at 7 A. M. and 2 and 9 P. M., including temperature, direction of the wind and barometrical conditions will be registered and transmitted by wire to headquarters. Mr. B. is thoroughly qualified for the service and will furnish careful and accurate reports.

THERE is now in print a book giving the history and exploits of Sile Doty, the famous Michigan outlaw and horse thief, which is probably one of the most interesting works of the kind now published. Mr. B. B. Case is now canvassing in this vicinity and people who wish can secure the work of him.

MR. H. A. FULLER, the blind lecturer of Hillsdale will address the temperance meeting at the Reform Club rooms next Sunday afternoon. He comes highly recommended, and will doubtless get a good audience.

Dr. R. B. House has been confined to his home for several days with a slight attack of inflamation on the lungs. We are glad to announce that he is now getting better.

DIED.

MACHAM—In this village, April 27, 1880, Leo D., only son of David and Sarah Macham, aged 9 months and 9 days.

Call sweet flowers for the darling,
Twine them round his fair brow;
He is sleeping, sweetly sleeping,
And no pain disturbs him now.

Lay him gently on his pillow,
Clasp his hands so pure and fair,
Press back from his marble forehead
All the waves of golden hair.

Though we weep and mourn him sadly,
He is happy up above;
There one day we'll surely meet him,
In the realms of peace and love.

SANITARY SCIENCE.

REPORT OF THE HEALTH OFFICER OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MACON.

The board of health of this town[illegible] and in connection with a [illegible] distribution, was the [illegible]able and full report of the health officer, Dr. Geo. Howell, which we are permitted to repost in full, as follows:

In the latter part of Dec, last a lady of Bay City visited the family of Leroy Mead of this place. She had been assisting in the care of persons sick of diphtheria, one of whom had died. Four days after her arrival on the 28th of Dec, Blanche Mead aged nine years was taken with diphtheria. Her illness was followed by that of Camilla, taken Jan. 5th, aged six, and Mary aged three taken Jan. 8th. Blanche and Camilla recovered, but Mary died after a sickness of five days. The board of health advised that the funeral should be private and children not permitted to attend it. The house was thoroughly disinfected and such other precautions taken as were tho't necessary to prevent the spread of the disease. At this time there were no other cases in the neighborhood nor had there been for many years, if ever before. After the death of Mary, Mrs. Mead had sore throat, but not so severe as to require medical attendance.

We now pass over a period of six weeks from the death of Mary Mead Jan. 13 to Feb. 24, 1880. On Monday evening, Feb. 23, Alicia Remington, 16 years of age, complained of soreness of the throat while at the Grange Hall singing school and on the following day, Feb. 24, she was taken sick while at day school in the Grange Hall. The disease proved to be malignant diphtheria of which she died March 1, after five days of sickness. Her brother Lennie, age thirteen, was taken on March 1st, the day of Alicia's death, and died March 5th. He too was sick but five days. Ransom, aged 26, the oldest brother of Alicia, was taken March 2d, and Wm. another brother, age nineteen, was taken March 7th, both have since recovered.

I am not able to trace the sickness of Alicia to any exposure. Lennie sickened after four. Ransom after five and Wm. ten days of exposure. Geo. Bryant aged 40 was taken March 6th. In his case there was no traceable exposure; he recovered. During his convalescence his wife and two children had sore throat, but in them there was not the membrane characteristic of diphtheria.

Gertrude Howell aged seven was taken March 15; during her sickness she was kept in a large well ventilated room, the room disinfected with lime and carbolic acid. At the end of twelve days she had so far recovered that her sister Viva was permitted to play with her. Three days afterward March 30, Viva, aged 10, sickened. Both have recovered, except that Viva has some dimness of sight and loss of speech. The infection may have been carried in my clothing. The above ten cases comprise all that have come under my care, and in which the false membrane characteristic of diphtheria has occurred. There were several other cases of inflammation of the throat in families having the disease, but as there was no visible false membrane they are not included in this report.

Three cases occurred in the family of Mrs Elizabeth Rogers; Sabra, aged 19, a seatmate of Alicia Remington, was taken Feb. 29th, four days after Alicia, and died March 9th. Monta aged 17, a schoolmate of Alicia, taken March 1st, died the 7th, and Percy aged 12, after being exposed to the entire sickness of both Sabra and Monta sickened March 9th and died March 13th. Sabra and Monta were in the care of Dr. House, Percy was attended by Dr. Loree. Two cases were in the family of Ezra Hendershot. Rosa, aged 16, taken Feb. 29th, and Irena Youngs, aged 10, taken March 1st. Both were in the care of Dr. Wood. The Dr. was not able to trace the cause of the disease to any positive exposure. They recovered. Henry Karcher, aged 21, attended the Grange Hall singing school Feb. 23; he sickened Feb. 29. This was a mild case and he soon recovered.

Richard Wiggins and Nelia Russell, of the family of A. Russell, were schoolmates of Alicia Remington. They were both taken on March 2d, seven days after exposure. In the family of M. J. Martin there were two cases: Mrs. M., aged 48, and Ida, aged 22. Ida visited Alicia Remington Feb. 27; she sickened nine days afterward on March 7. Mrs. Oliver Osborn, aged 42, was taken March 11, and Mrs. A. Russell, aged 78, on March 28. In the case of Mrs. Osborn there was no known exposure. Mrs. Russell had assisted in the care of the sick at John Emmons. There were in the family of John Emmons six cases: Wm., aged 15, taken Feb. 29; Mrs. Hellen, aged 41; Lavern, aged 5, both taken March 5; Libbie, aged 17, March 9; Lida, aged 12, March 12; Alonzo, aged 9, March 29. Lida died March 25, after 13 days illness, and Alonso, April 3, five days sick. The last named thirteen cases, commencing with Henry Karcher, were in the care of Dr. Nelson; all of them recovered except two, Lida and Alonzo Emmons. Wm. Emmons was at the neck-tie social at the Grange Hall, Feb. 25, and was taken four days later, on Feb. 29. His sickness has been attributed to exposure at that time, but there were none present sick at diphtheria, and of those who were none sickened until Feb. 29.

I have thus briefly traced the record of twenty-six cases, eight of which have died. Twenty-three of the 26 sickened between Feb. 24 and March 30, a period of 35 days. Twelve families suffered from the disease. The first cases in seven of them could be traced to exposure, while in the remaining five families the first cases could not be. The fact that the first cases in 5 families cannot be traced to any exposure (though this does not prove there was none) and that in 7 families it is really traceable, might lead us to believe that the disease could originate of itself in certain localities under favorable circumstances. Whether it can or cannot originate thus is as yet an unsettled question. A part of the medical mind is inclined to a "germ theory," like as corn produces corn and nothing but corn, and without the specific germ none could be produced, so diphtheria may be caused by certain germs which have ever and always existed somewhere, and without which there could be no diphtheria. If this supposition is true then it cannot originate under any circumstance, however favorable the surroundings.

Diphtheria is considered a "blood poison," and yet whether so from the inception of the disease or whether it only becomes such after the false membrane has formed, is also a question having adherents on both sides. The epidemic has shown three quite distinct grades of the affection:

I. Those cases in which the throat had only a red glassy appearance with the tissue underlying the mucus membrane apparently infiltrated with a semi-transparent substance; such recovered. They were either in families having the disease or in persons who had been exposed.

II. Those where the palate, tonsils and pharynx were covered with the membrane. These also recovered.

III. Those in which in addition to the palate, tonsils and pharynx, the nasal air passages, larynx and trachea were covered more or less with false membrane, and the bronchial tubes affected; all of this class died.

Inasmuch as all three grades are apparently due to the same cause, we are inclined to regard one as much a diphtheria as another, and in our endeavors to prevent the spread of the disease, it will be safer for us to ever so consider them when occurring in exposed persons and to enforce the same quarantine as with those more dangerously sick.

The following conclusions seem to have been pretty well established:

That the disease is contagious and may be conveyed by attendants from one family to another. The first cases in seven families were exposed.

That it may occur in families not exposed if the surroundings are favorable. The first cases in five families could not be traced to exposure.

That persons quite well of the disease may give it to others. Gertie, at the end of twelve days and apparently well, gave it to Viva, who sickened in three days.

That the epidemic is not wholly due to the sanitary condition of dwellings, i. e., water supply or uncleanliness. It did not seek out places where filth and poverty most abound, and if due to our habits of life, should have come before.

There were some things of interest. Those dying of the disease retained almost complete consciousness until the last, and then died suddenly, as if there was not nerve force or power to carry on the action of the heart. The tears, saliva, exhaled breath and false membrane were acid in their reaction. A portion of the false membrane placed in the field of the microscope showed it to be composed of cells about 1-1500 of an inch in diameter, round and flattened from side to side, similar to blood disks but larger. They appeared to have their growth, increase or propagation by little knob like projections rising from the side or edge of the cell; these increased in size and become more and more like a door knob until at length the small neck separated and the new cell became perfect and independent of the parent cell. These cells flowed from the mouth with the saliva. A drop placed in the microscope showed them in large numbers. They were also exhaled with the breath. This I ascertained by holding a bottle of cold water in the breath until drops were formed on it. The drops contained the same cells. They floated in the atmosphere of the sick room. A jar of cold water was placed at a distance of about ten feet from the patient; they were in the drops that formed on the jar.—Neither the cells or false membrane were soluble in acids, though strong acids and acid compound, as nitric acid, carbolic acid and tinct. of iron would kill or destroy them. Both the cell and membrane were soluble in alkalies, as lime-water, lye from wood ashes, and an alkaline solution of borax and salicilic acid.

Now I do not say that diphtheria is caused by these cells or germs, or that they are the carriers of diphtheric poison. This can only be proven by more extended observation in other epidemics. It may be possible that the cell growth can only take place in acid secretions, and that so long as the secretions remain alkaline, one might not take the disease, however much exposed. This is, however, only conjecture.

The above facts suggest the use of alkalies in the treatment of the disease and as disinfectants. In our efforts to prevent the spread of the disease, each family except Mr. A. Russell's and Mr. Karcher's, were visited and advice given as to placing the house, cellar, well and all the other surroundings in as cleanly and healthy condition as possible, as to care of secretions and excretions of the sick, as to ventillation and disinfection, as to intercourse with unexposed persons and as to strict quarantine. I believe we should regard diphtheria as a walking pestilence, ever and always in existence, and when it comes our turn to be scourged, we should treat it with strict quarantine.

AN ORNAMENT TO THE PROFESSION.

A student applied the other day to one of the district courts for admission to practice, and an examination committee of one was appointed by the Judge to ascertain his qualifications. The examinations began with:

"Do you smoke, sir?"

"I do, sir!"

"Have you a spare cigar?"

"Yes."

"Now, sir, what is the first duty of a lawyer?"

"To collect fees."

"Right; what is the second?"

"To increase the number of his clients."

"When does your position toward your client change?"

"When making a bill of costs."

"Explain."

"We are then antagonistic. I assume the character of plaintiff and he becomes the defendant."

"A suit once decided, how do you stand with the lawyer conducting the other side?"

"Cheek by jowl."

"Enough, sir; you promise to become an ornament to your profession, and I wish you success. Now, are you aware of the duty you owe me?"

"Perfectly."

"Describe it."

"It is to invite you to drink."

"But suppose I decline?"

Candidate scratches his head.—"There is no instance of the kind on record in the books."

"You are right, and the confidence with which you make the assertion shows you have read the law attentively. Let's take the drink and I'll sign your certificate."—San Francisco Stock Exchange.

A PARTING SCENE.

Did you ever hear two married women take leave of each other at the gate on a summer evening? This is the way they do it:

"Good-by!"

"Good-by. Come down and see us right soon."

"Yes, so I will. You come up right soon."

"I will. Good-by."

"Good-by. Don't forget to come soon."

"No, I won't. Don't you forget to come up."

"I won't. Be sure and bring Sally Jane with you next time."

"I will. I'd have brought her up this time, but she wasn't very well. She wanted to come awful bad."

"Did she, now? That was too bad. Be sure and bring her next time."

"I will; and you be sure and bring the baby."

"I will. I forgot to tell you he's cut another tooth."

"You don't say! How many has he got now?"

"Five. It makes him awful cross."

"I guess it does, this hot weather. Well, good-by! Don't forget to come down."

"No, I won't. Don't you forget to come up. Good-by!"

And they separate.—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

THE MILLS OF CONGRESS

Grinding Away Upon the Routine Business

The River and Harbor Bill.

Washington, May 1, 1880

The mills of Congress are grinding away upon the routine business and there is nothing new or startling, or interesting to chronicle this week in connection with the proceedings. There was something in the way of a sensation in the House Ways and Means Committee on Friday, however, of Fernando Wood, the ancient and odorous Chairman of that committee, was the subject of some pretty severe strictures, and found himself the victim of some rather unpleasant suspicions. There are few men, Democrats or Republicans, in Congress or out, who have much respect for Fernando Wood. Of all the old humbugs in our politics he is probably one of the worst, and it is a mystery to all parties why Speaker Randall keeps him at the head of the most important committee. What caused the row on the occasion was the premature publication of what purports to be a report of the sub-committee in charge of Mr. Hurd's bill to impose a duty upon all Canadian cars coming into this country. It seems that no such report as that published has been signed by the sub-committee and the effect, as well as the probable object, of the publication was to "bear" certain railway stocks. The charge freely made is that Mr. Wood was in the scheme, and he was hotly denounced by several members of the committee for absolute untruthfulness and duplicity.

A little mahogany writing desk, about 18 inches long, 12 inches wide, and 3 inches deep, upon which the Declaration of Independence was written by Thomas Jefferson, was presented to the United States last Friday by the children of the late Joseph Coolidge, jr. of Massachusetts, who married Mr. Jefferson's grand daughter, and to whom the desk was given by Mr. Jefferson. The desk bears an appropriate inscription, which was placed upon it by Mr. Jefferson. It was recently brought to this city by the Hon. Robert C. Winthrop, of Massachusetts, and it was sent to Congress accompanied by a message written by the President, In the House, short addresses were made by Mr. Crapo, of Massachusetts, and Mr. Tucker, of Virginia, previous to the passage of resolutions thanking the donors, and directing the preservation of the desk in the State Department. The desk was then sent to the Senate, where the resolutions were passed, after addresses had been delivered by Mr. Dawes, of Massachusetts, and Mr. Johnston, of Virginia. Among those who were in the galleries were Sir Thornton, the British Minister; Secretary Evarts, and President Hayes.

The new rules of the House of Representatives give the committee on commerce charge of what is known as the River and Harbor bill, and we have reason to anticipate unusual folly in the appropriations for this iniquitous system of "internal improvements." For a few years past, Congress has appropriated $8,000,000 annually for the "improvement" of so-called rivers—little runs and duck ponds, of whose existence people in the immediate vicinity are scarcely aware. Congressman White of Pennsylvania, said a year ago, concerning one of these "Rivers" supposed to be in his district, that he really never heard of it before. A sum was voted to survey one of these alleged rivers last winter, and when the survey took place they bored a hole in the stream for abutments, and all the water ran into the hole. The witty Sunset Cox says that on the banks of another of these streams—the Kiskiminetas—an iron furnace was built, and a little water was used for running the furnace. All at once the furnace stopped; there were some sows and pigs in the stream. It is upon the slender pretence of making navigable such streams as these that our Congress votes away millions of dollars per annum. Each member is anxious to get a slice of the steal for distribution in his district, to secure re-election, so they combine and log-roll the thing through upon the principal of "you tickle me and I'll tickle you," and the swindle goes on year after year.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the [illegible] demand with which it meets, [illegible] it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

All SORES, CUTS, BRUISES, SPRAINS, BURNS, SORE THROAT, LAMENESS, RHEUMATISM, PILES, INFLAMMATION of LUNGS and BOWELS, BRONCHITIS, CROUP, SALT RHEUM, CHILBLAINS, AFFECTIONS of the SPINE, ERYSIPELAS, NERVOUS IRRITATION, and all disorders attendant with INFLAMMATION.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve, and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should feel perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

Literary Revolution and Universal Knowledge.

An Encyclopædia in 20 vols., over 16,000 pages; 10 per cent more matter than any Encyclopædia ever before published in this country, and sold, handsomely and well bound, in cloth for $10, in half morocco for $15, and printed on fine heavy paper, wide margins, bound in half Russia, gilt top, for $20—an enterprise so extraordinary that its success, beyond all precedent in book publishing, may be fairly claimed to inaugurate a Literary Revolution.

THE LIBRARY OF UNIVERSAL KNOWLEDGE is a reprint entire of the last (1879) Edinburgh edition of "Chambers's Encyclopædia," with about 40 per cent of new matter added, upon topics of special interest to American readers, thus making it equal in character to any similar work, better than any other suited to the wants of the great majority of those who consult works of reference, and altogether the latest Encyclopædia in the field.

Specimen Volumes in either style will be sent for examination with privilege of return on receipt of proportionate price per volume.

Special Discounts to all early subscribers, and extra discounts to clubs. Full particulars with descriptive catalogue of many other standard works equally low in price, sent free.

Leading principles of the American Book Exchange:

I. Publish only books of real value.
II. Work upon the basis of present cost of making books, about one-half what it was a few years ago.
III. Sell to buyers direct, and save them the 50 to 60 per cent commission commonly allowed to dealers.
IV. The cost of books when made 10,000 at a time is but a fraction of the cost when made 500 at a time—adopt the low price and sell the large quantity.
V. Use good type, paper, etc., do careful printing, and strong, neat binding, but avoid all "padding," fat and heavily-leaded type, spongy paper and gaudy binding, which are so commonly resorted to to make books appear large and fine, and which greatly add to their cost, but do not add to their value.
VI. To make $1 and a friend is better than to make $5 and an enemy.

STRONG & McNAIR.

AROUND THE COUNTY.

CLINTON.

E. R. Smith arrived home from New York last Saturday night.

E. G. Cook and wife started Tuesday morning on a trip to New England. They will be gone about three weeks.

R. E. Frazer, of Ann Arbor, addressed the temperance meeting at the Town Hall, Sunday afternoon and evening. The hall was crowded and the speeches were listened to throughout with intense interest by all.

As Mrs. Nixon was crossing the street yesterday in front of the hotel, she was struck a terrible blow on the head by a base ball from the hands of some one which came very near fracturing the skull. When young men, (and voters at that,) can find nothing else to do but swab quids of gum around in their mouths and play ball from morning till night, they ought to be willing to let up on their game long enough, at least, to allow ladies to cross the street without imperiling their lives.

John Kimball, of the firm of Randall & Kimball has sold out his interest in business to E. R. Smith.

Old Prof. Wilson, colored artiste, gave an interesting exhibition of simon-pure African art, wit, and beauty, at the Town Hall last night. Some pronounce it a very good show for one of the kind.

Dr. J. L. Tuttle is building an addition to his barn.

Hiram Reynolds is putting new shingles on a portion of his hotel.

The walls of the factory addition are finished except the gables.

Dr. A. F. Tuttle is expected home from California this week, where he has been tarrying for several months.

E. W. Freese & Son are building a new sidewalk in front of their store to be ten feet in width.

This is the season when small boys are happy, because they can dispense with foot gear and skip light as the bounding roe.

Married, in Clinton, May 6, 1880, by Rev. W. P. Wastell, Mr. Cris Schmidt and Miss Ida Zeigler, all of Clinton.

That veteran American traveler, the Colorado beetle, has emerged from his winter quarters and is now seeking an opportunity to do something for future generations. Besides this old scamp, other enemies are on hand to dispute our success. The moth of the cabbage worm, the curcullo, and the currant worm are all on the "war path."

FRANKLIN.

As we intimated two weeks ago, Mr. S. S. Decker, the proprietor of the Sand Lake Hotel, has purchased Dr. Tripp's house here, and will at once convert it into a hotel, for which it is admirably adapted, and with the improvements he designs making will afford first-class accommodations, and Mr. D. informs us he designs making it such in every respect; and with the experience he has had in the business we are confident he will receive a liberal patronage. In this connection we may add, the impression has gone abroad that a bar would be opened in connection with the house, but we are informed such is not the case.

Dr. Tripp will move back to his mill immediately, where he will continue the drug business in connection with his practice, and the management of his mill, the latter having suffered considerably for want of personal supervision.

Leroy Dibble met with quite a serious accident last week while assisting in moving a barn, by the falling of a piece of timber upon one of his feet, injuring it badly; but he is doing as well as could be expected, and we hope he will soon be out again.

Uncle Francis Stout made us a friendly call a few days since, and we were happy to see him so much improved in health; in fact for one of advanced age, being nearly 84 years old, he is remarkably active. We were, however, pained to learn that his wife met with a severe accident a few nights previous, on arising from her bed in the dark to attend to the wants of a sick daughter, accidentally fell across the foot of the bedstead, fracturing several of her ribs, but is she slowly improving.

The sheep shearing festival, last week, was a grand success in every respect. But the pressure of business prevented our attending except for a few moments, therefore could not, were it necessary, give a full report, and as the HERALD had a reporter on the ground we need not attempt it.

Mr. Scoville, of Coldwater, is canvassing this township this week in the interest of the T. & M. railroad, assisted by our local committee, but so far has not met with very flattering success. But still several men have agreed to subscribe if certain others would, and it is hoped a considerable sum can yet be added to our subscriptions; but it is evident each man must do his part, regardless of what others have or have not done, if the road is secured.

We are informed Mr. Jas Allen, a former blacksmith of Tipton, now residing at Wolf Creek, has obtained a young gentleman to assist him, but is rather young to "blow and strike" much at present, but will doubtless do both when a little older. All doing well.

Mrs. James Morseman also received a visit from a young female on Tuesday, who it is hoped will decide to remain permanently with the family.

RIDGEWAY.

A jolly party of house cleaners have been operating at the church this week.

The sugar festival was not largely attended owing to the busy season, yet it netted a handsome profit.

D. W. Loree expects to have thirty acres of corn in by Saturday night on his prairie farm.

Mrs. George Smith, of Clinton Co., was taken seriously ill while visiting friends here, but is somewhat improved at this writing.

Samuel Rappleye is clearing away the old fences and trimming up the trees on his corner lots and it is a decided improvement to the village. We are told that this is the first step towards reopening the Exchange.

We thought that Irv. Osborn wore the largest hat of any man in this section, but when he wore off Frank Davidson's it fitted him so nicely that he did not discover his mistake. Explanation, cigars, curtain.

Quarterly meeting at Ridgeway, next Saturday and Sunday. Preaching on Saturday evening, Sunday morning and evening by Rev. J. M. Kerridge, of Clayton.

We were misinformed in regard to the last Butler survey. It crosses the ridge at Wm. Kelly's and the turnpike just west of John Britton's house.

The intemperate temperance extension to the Ridgeway items last week has caused considerable comment among our citizens, and your regular correspondent would be extremely obliged to the author if he or she would father their own correspondence in the future. It is a fact that the people of Ridgeway are temperance people as a rule, but they are not all fanatics by any means.

EAST RAISIN.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Spencer have gone to California on a visit. They expect to remain about two months.

A match game of base ball was played on Monday, May 3d, between the East Raisin and the Valley nines.—The result was a score of 36 to 8 in favor of East Raisin. The boys have purchased suits and say they are now ready for business. We have been expecting a match between Ridgeway and Raisin. When does it come off?

The Literary Society met as usual on Friday eve. and the following program was presented:

Inst. Solo—M. D. Billmeyer.
Dec.—L. C. Coller.
Chip Basket—B. A. Garlinghouse.
Vocal Solo—Libbie Richard.
Vocal Solo—C. S. Lester.
Debate—Question — Resolved, That discouragement has more influence on the mind for evil than disappointment.
Affirmative—Willis Chatfield, R. M. Boyd.
Negative—C. S. Lester, A. L. Arner.

The decision was in favor of the affirmative.

Hereafter the society will hold their meetings on Saturday evenings.

The surveyors are again at work on the railroad line, this being the third time they have been through this section of the country.

Adrian Times: If we should succeed in securing the Detroit & Butler road, would it not be appropriate to signalize the breaking of ground for the road inside the city limits, by a little celebration? Hon. Abel Whitney was among the first settlers of Adrian, he has always taken a keen interest in the city's welfare, he was a railroad builder here at an early day, and has been a liberal subscriber to the Butler bonus. We nominate him for the distinction of turning the first shovel-full of dirt on the new road. Motion put and carried unanimously. We need an orator and a poet. Nominations are in order.

CAMBRIDGE.

The First Annual Sheep Shearing Festival.

The first annual meeting of Cambridge Sheep Shearing and Sheep Breeding Association was held at the residence of Charles Greenleaf, in Cambridge, about two and a half miles south-west of Springville, on Tuesday last, May 11. As this was the first meeting of this association, and as it was held at a time when the farmers were all rushed with their spring work, our sheep men in Cambridge hardly expected much of a turn-out, either as to spectators or showers of sheep; but Mr. Greenleaf had the arrangements all perfectly completed in and around his more than spacious barns for the accommodation of the sheep, visitors and teams, and the meeting was in every way a decided success. A large number of very fine sheep were shown, and all from Cambridge. About two hundred visitors were in attendance, and everyone was taken care of in a splendid and cortious manner. In reviewing the exhibitors we will first give a brief description of each pen as they were shown by their owners.

Wm. Wimple showed 13 head; 9 2-year-old ewes, 1 3-year old ewe, 1 3-year-old ram and 2 2-year-old rams. His stock is from Ball's stock and Hamburg's stock, Vermont, and can be called A No. 1.

Frank P. Sheeler also showed 13 head; 1 4-year-old buck, 1 2-year-old buck, 3 yearling bucks, 4 yearling ewes and 1 2-year-old ewe. His stock is bred mostly from Cherbino & Williamson's stock, Vermont. More is said of this flock in our notes of special mention.

F. I. Kinney showed 38 head; 1 4-year old ram, 1 2-year old ram, 10 yearling rams, 6 4-year old and over ewes, 5 2-year old ewes and 10 yearling ewes. His stock was bred thrg' Hindes, Russ and Vermont stock. See notes of special mention.

L. H. Sheeler showed 12 yearling ewes, bred from F. P. Sheeler's and Short's stock.

J. O. Sheeler showed the Vermont ram "Stogy," half brother to F. P. Sheeler's ram "Silver Horn, Jr."

O. L. Short showed 34 head; 1 12-year old buck "Nuggett," 1 3-year old buck "Livingstone," 3 2-year old rams, 2 yearling rams, 6 2-year old ewes, 12 yearling ewes, 9 breeding ewes with lambs. His flock is bred by Nuggett and Vermont stock—bred clear back to Wooster stock.

SPECIAL MENTION.

The sheep were with few exceptions above the average, and in looking them over it was a difficult task to decide as to which were most worthy of special mention. Probably the sheep that was most noticed and criticised was the two year old ram owned by F. P. Sheeler. This sheep was purchased by Mr. Sheeler of Cherbino & Williamson, Vermont, when a yearling, and as will be seen by his pedigree, cannot be surpassed as to good breeding. His symmetry is simply perfect, wool of fair length and good quality, and he was pronounced by all present "the finest two year old ram they ever saw." Mr. S. has certainly struck a "Bonanza" in this sheep that is destined, with proper care, to be one of the leading stock getters of Michigan, and cannot certainly be worth less than $1,000. He also has ten fine Vermont ewes and eight of them are registered, from this same stock. Mr. S. is a young sheep breeder, but his success thus far has been wonderful, as he has now one of the best stocks in this vicinity. The following is the pedigree of his two year old ram:

CHERBINO & WILLIAMSON, Breeders of Improved American Merino Sheep.

MIDDLETOWN, Vt., May 1, 1880.

This is to certify that we sold two yearling rams to Frank P. Sheeler, of Michigan, sired by our Silver Horn, and the dams were Paller ewes, all recorded in the Vt. Register. Their Nos. are 600 and 579. We also sold him five ewes sired by our Burwell ram and dam Paller ewe, No. 808, sired by Burwell ram, Paller ewe, 858—the same No. 842—was sired by Prince, he by Bonapart No. 839, sired by Burwell ram, dam an Atwood ewe. All the above sheep are recorded in the Vt. Register.

CHERBINO & WILLIAMSON.

F. I. Kinney has a flock of very fine sheep, averaging them all in all. His stock commenced with the Hindes, Vermont, stock twenty years ago, and has been bred and crossed between the old Russ stock, Wimple's stock from Western N. Y., old Nugget stock, and is at present using old Tempest from Russ stock. The most notable feature of his sheep is the length and fineness of staple, which is something indispensable for real paying sheep, and to this point Mr. Kinney has made a hard strife through his whole term of sheep breeding. His sheep all show these points, and are also notable for their surface, making his flock really one of the best paying flocks in the county. He is a careful sheep breeder, good judge of real Merino stock, and is not afraid of a few dollars when it can be used properly to improve his stock.

Want of space only prevents us from publishing a pedigree of some of his Vermont stock; suffice it to say that his sheep are of the first order, and that under his careful management will surely improve to the highest standard of excellence.

Following we give a table showing a full score of the sheep sheared, weight, age, weight of fleece, carcas, etc.:

THE CIRCUIT COURT.

THE regular May term of the Circuit Court convened at Adrian last Tuesday forenoon, Judge Pratt presiding. There are 81 cases on the calendar divided as follows: Nineteen criminal cases, thirty-one issues of fact, three imparlance cases, thirteen first-class chancery, fifteen fourth-class chancery. The Court will probably last three or four weeks.

The criminal calendar was called in the afternoon, and several cases were continued or otherwise disposed of. The grand stand cases came up and three petitions were presented praying for the discontinuance of these cases. One of these was signed by twenty supervisors, and the other two were signed by nearly one thousand residents of the county, all parts of the county being represented thereon. One of them is in these words:

To Hon. D. L. Pratt, Circuit Judge, and Wm. A Underwood, Esq., Prosecuting Attorney of Lenawee county:

The undersigned citizens of Lenawee county respectfully represent to you that in their judgement the prosecution against Charles F. Sizer, W. T. Lawrence, and Henry Armstrong, in what are known as the grand stand cases, should be discontinued. We believe that this is the candid judgment of at least a large majority of our people. We think no good can be accomplished to the public by pressing these prosecutions further. That such course can only result in subjecting the county to a large bill of expense, to no purpose. That all the requirements of justice have been met already, and that the defendants are men who ought not to be subjected to the expense of a trial. In view of the foregoing we respectfully recommend that the cases be dropped.

It is estimated that the petition contains about a thousand names of citizens residing in all parts of the county. It is certainly a very cumbersome document, and is some forty feet in length when unrolled. Among those who advised the Prosecuting Attorney to discontinue the suits were Gov. Croswell, Judge Beaman, and F. R. Stebbins Esq. The prosecutor read a letter addressed to these gentlemen, giving his reasons for not accepting their advice.

The judge said that it would take a good deal of time to examine into the facts as to whether the case should be dismissed or not. If he were to decide the case on petition, it would be no more than fair that those who felt differently from the signers of the petition just presented, should have an opportunity to be heard. He thought it was best that the understanding should now be that the case go over the term.

SCRIBNER'S Monthly for May, containing Stedman's essay on Poe, with the frontispiece portrait engraved by Cole, De Vinne's article on "Wood-Cut printing," "The Younger American Printers," "The New York Seventh Regiment," etc., etc., is already out of print.

SOME fine horses belonging to Ben. Reynolds, Andrew Wilson, Charles Waldron and others were shown at the Franklin Sheep Shearing Festival last week.

THE FAMILY CIRCLE.

THE WEEKLY PAPER.

Every Thursday, when the labors cease
Vanish sleep's [illegible]
And the cheerful, welcome weekly
Calls the weary hours to rest

Comes our weekly paper, glancing
Timidly within the door;
Softly as the snow flake falling,
Resting on the parlor floor
Who shall be the first to claim it?
Thus with joyful steps we pass
For we know its folds envelop
Feast of fancy, wit and fun.

Gems of poetry, the brightest,
Extracts racy, rich and rare;
News from many a foreign country
Ever find we garnered there.

Well, we love our weekly paper,
In our hearts it holds a place;
As a friend our household welcomes
Thursday eve, its smiling face.

Like a dove of peace it cometh
To the care-worn weary one;
And he reads it while he resteth,
When the toils of day are done

Even the children gather round us,
When we light the evening taper,
And with smiling faces listen
While we read the weekly paper.

Kind are all our wishes for it,
Every thought for it is good.
For its presence ever seemeth
To us like our daily food.

EARNING HER OWN LIVING.

It was a tempestuous night in November. The carved Dutch clock in Judge Harrison's study had just struck 9. Judge Harrison himself an austere-looking, silver-haired man, sat upright in his chair, gazing coldly at his guest.

"Well," said Dr. Hooper, pulling on his gloves, "of course it isn't for me or any one else to interfere in family matters. But your grandchild is left totally unprovided for, sir."

"I cannot help that," said the Judge, frigidly. "Eight years ago I offered to support the child, and the father too, if he would only consent to leave that outlandish foreign wife of his. He married her against my will. He clung to her against my will. Let him abide by his decision."

"It's only natural, Judge, that a man should cleave unto his wife," urged the doctor.

"It is only natural, then, that a man should provide for the child of that wife, Dr. Hooper. At all events, I shall assume no further responsibility."

"But, Judge Harrison, you are a rich man!"

"Granted—but as I made my money myself, I feel that I have a right to spend it to suit myself."

"Hilda is a fine girl," pleaded Dr. Hooper.

"No doubt, no doubt, but you will pardon me if I feel no very great anxiety to see the child of the German singing woman who stole my son's heart away from me."

Dr. Hooper hesitated.

"Judge," he said at last, in a tone of appealing earnestness, you have another grand-daughter."

"I have. My daughter's child, Marian Lennox, makes it her home with me.'

"And yet you would deny a similar home to Hilda Harrison?"

"Judge Harrison's shaggy white brows met in a straight frowning line.

"Doctor," said he "you will fail to make the distinction between a dutiful child and one who has been undutiful."

"Let me see Miss Lennox," said Dr. Hooper. "Let me interest her in the fact of this desolate unknown cousin. Sure she has a woman's heart in her bosom. I am sure I can move her!"

Judge Harrison smiled coldly as he touched a small gilded call-bell which stood on the table beside him.

"Send Miss Marian here," said he to a servant, and the man noiselessly obeyed.

In another minute a tall princess-like girl stood in the room—a girl with hair of pale gold, deep, blue eyes, like azure stars, and a dress of soft blue silk that fell in picturesque folds about her, and trailing over the carpet as she walked.

"Marian," said the Judge, "this is Dr. Hooper. He has come here to plead the cause of your Uncle Severn's daughter Hilda. Severn deliberately disobeyed me at first in marrying Hildergarde Boehmer—he rejected the offer I afterward made of taking him and the child home, if he would leave the siren who had blighted all his life. Now he is dead, and has left his child unprovided for. I say, as he has sowed, so let his child reap. What do you say?"

"I think grandpapa is quite right," said Marian, in a soft, sweet voice. "Grandpapa is always right!"

"Then you have no word to speak for this lonely little orphan?" cried out Dr. Hooper, deeply indignant. Marian laid her ringed hand upon that of her grandfather and nestled close to him.

"I always defer my judgement to grandpapa," said she—and Judge Harrison, passing his arm around the girl's waist, looked with ill-concealed triumph at the luckless special pleader.

Dr. Hooper bowed, spoke his adieux, and departed.

When he returned to his own humble residence, a dark-eyed girl met him at the door.

"Have you seen him, doctor—my grandfather?" she cried eagerly.

Dr. Hooper nodded.

"He's as wise though," said he. "The old man has a heart like granite, and that girl, your cousin, is of steel iron."

"He will not take me?"

"No."

Hilda Harrison set her lips together.

"Well," said she, "then I must manage to provide for myself."

"No hurry, lass; no hurry," said the kindly little doctor. "Go tell the wife to bring me a cup of hot coffee before I start out again."

"Hilda," he said, presently, as he sat toasting his feet before the fire, with his wife knitting opposite, and Judge Harrison's grand-daughter leaning against the window and looking out into the stormy darkness, "what are you going to do!"

"I don't think I quite know, doctor,"

"You are 16?"

"Sixteen and a half, sir."

"And you cannot teach?"

"Oh, dear, no, sir!" Hilda shook her head decidedly. "I had no chance for much education, traveling about as I did."

"Nor sew?"

"Not well enough to adopt it for a profession."

"Then, for all I can see, there is nothing left but to go in domestic service."

"I would take a place to-morrow, doctor, if I could get a good home and decent wages," said Hilda, quickly.

"Good," said Dr. Hooper. "That is the right spirit, child! I don't fear but what you'll make your way, in one direction or another. But, I think I can see something a little more promising ahead for you than that."

"What is it doctor?"

"I noticed the way you took care of your poor father, Hilda, in his last illness. I thought then that you would make a good nurse—I think so now—there is an opening in St. Francesca's Hospital. A good home and a dollar a day."

"As nurse, doctor?"

"As nurse!"

"And I should see you sometime?"

"Frequently—twice a week at least."

Hilda pondered a second or two, and then came forward with glistening eyes and red lips apart.

"Doctor," said she, "I will try it."

And so Clement Harrison's grand-daughter donned the little muslin cap, print dress, and white ruffed apron of the St. Francescan corps of nurses, and set diligently to work earning her own living.

A year went by, and Dr. Wallace sent word that a nurse was wanted for a small-pox case in the city. The Sister Superior of the St. Francescans looked dubiously at her women.

"Who will go?" said she—and Hilda Harrison stepped forward.

"I will," said she. "I have no fears of the contagion, and I want to add to my experience."

So little Hilda packed her bag and went.

The housekeeper of the great 5th avenue palace was wringing her hands half-terrified out of her senses; the other servants had taken precipitate leave.

"And Miss Lennox went this morning," said she. "I should think she might have stayed."

"Who is Miss Lennox?" questioned innocent Hilda.

"The old gentleman's grand-daughter that he has brought up and petted like a cosset lamb," said Mrs. Hurst. "Oh the ingratitude of some folks. And if Judge Harrison dies—"

Hilda looked up quickly from the bottles of carbolic acid she was unpacking.

"Is this Judge Harrison's house?" said she.

"Why of course it is," answered Mrs Hursh. "Didn't you know?"

"No, I did not know," Hilda said. "But of course it makes no difference whose house it is."

"Who are you?" Judge Harrison asked, hoarsely, as the light foot crossed the threshold.

"I am the nurse from St. Francesca's. They call me Hilda."

"Hilda what."

"Never mind my other name," said the young girl, with a gentle authority that had come to her from months of practice at weary sick beds. "They call me Hilda; and you are not to talk and excite yourself."

"Do you not know you are running a great risk?"

"It is my business to run risks."

Three weeks elapsed. The crisis of the disease was past. The old man, weakened indeed, and sadly disfigured, was able once more to sit up in his easy chair; and Hilda who had watched over him with a vigilance and tenderness which he fully appreciated, was arranging fresh flowers in a vase on the table.

"Hilda," said he, "where has my grand-daughter Marian been all this time?"

"She went away, sir, when you were first taken ill. She was afraid of the disease."

"And she left me?"

"And she left you, sir."

"There was gratitude!" he muttered hoarsely. "And when is she coming back?"

Hilda laid down her roses and looked with pathetic, feeling eyes at him.

"She will not come back at all sir," she answered. "We dared not tell you before, but—but her flight was in vain. She died of small-pox last week."

The old man turned away with a smothered groan.

"Hilda," said he, "you will stay with me? You will not leave me alone? Nay do not speak. I know who you are; I recognized your name when you first came. You have looked at me with your father's eyes many a time since. Hilda, I think God has sent you to me."

"Oh, grandpapa!" And Hilda knelt weeping beside his chair, scarcely able to believe that his loving arms were around her neck; his tears dropped on her brow. "Oh, dear, dear grandpapa! I have so longed for some one to love—for some one to love me!"

And good little Dr. Hooper was well satisfied with the result of Hilda's experiment at earning her own living.

"Heaven manages these things better than we do," thought he, as he remembered his attempt at softening Judge Harrison's flinty heart more than a year before.

A WOULD-BE SWINDLER SWINDLED.

The other day a very common looking man, dressed in very common clothes, entered a saloon at a moment when the proprietor was alone, and asked him to lock the door for a moment and count the contents of a pocket-book which he had just picked up on the street. The door was locked, and as a fat-looking wallet was handed out the stranger said:

"I can't read nor write nor tell figures, but I know you won't cheat me."

The money counted up just $100. There were two twenty-dollar bills, and the rest were of smaller denominations. The stranger said he would hand the wallet over to the police, and thanked the saloonist and departed. In about a quarter of an hour he returned and confidentially said:

"I gave up all the money but a ten-dollar bill, which I'm going to keep for my honesty. Let's drink."

He threw down one of the $20 bills and drank his beer. It was remembered that he had said he couldn't tell the figures on the bills, and he was given change for $10.

"Was that a five or a ten?" he asked, as the twenty was put away.

"Oh, that's a ten," was the reply.

The man drank once more, and then took his leave. In the course of an hour a detective was looking for him on charge of passing a counterfeit bill, but he could not be found. May be that saloonist made $10 out of him, and maybe he didn't.

Saved From the Poorhouse.

For years David Allingsworth suffered with Rheumatism, and notwithstanding the best medical attendance, could not find relief. He came to the Sciota County Poorhouse, and had to be carried into and out of bed, on account of his helpless condition. After the failure of all the remedies which had been applied, the Directors of the Poorhouse resolved to use the celebrated German Remedy, St. Jacobs Oil, and this was a fortunate resolution; for, with the trial of one bottle, the patient was already much better, and when four bottles had been used upon him, he could again walk without the use of a cane.

The facts as above stated, will be verified by the Editor of the Portsmouth, Ohio, Correspondent.

A New Decoration Hymn.

We have just received from the publisher, W. W. Whitney, Toledo, O., a very beautiful melody, with appropriate words, for mixed voices, written especially for Memorial Day. The first stanza runs as follows:

All honor and praise to the soldier bold,
Who fell on the red field of battle,
Whose life passed away in the deadly fray,
His requiem musketry's rattle.
In the heat of the fight, with his face to the foe,
His life for his country he gave;
He died that his country unsullied might live.
All honor and praise to the brave!

Price of the piece is 25 cents. But we notice printed upon the piece a special price for this occasion, viz: One copy 20 cents, and five copies for 85 cents, post-paid. Address W. W. Whitney, Publisher, Toledo, O.

Feels Young Again.

"My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy, inactive condition of the whole system, headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicines did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old.—We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family."—A lady, Providence, R. I.

From the Quaker City.

E. J. Campbell of Philadelphia, under date of Oct. 4, 1879, certified to the wonderful efficacy of Warner's Safe Pills and Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, in removing a liver disease accompanied by chronic constipation and yellow skin.

SANITARY SCIENCE.

CLEANLINESS.

The regulations issued by the State board of health for restriction and prevention of diphtheria and the specific requirements of our corporation board, if observed, would cause our village to become one of the healthiest in our State. We enjoy exceptional advantages—a grade sloping east to the river, and north and west to the river and Evans creek; a bed of gravel at an average depth of from three to three and one half feet gives us surface and under-drainage; pure water, unless poisoned by the too near neighborhood of contaminating influences that neglect suffer to exist, but which self interest and duty as good citizens should impel us to remove.

The indispensable requisites to a proper sanitary condition are cleanliness! cleanliness! cleanliness! Cleanliness in doors and out; cleanliness of the atmosphere we breathe and of the water we drink; these cannot be had in the near neighborhood of decay. It must be admitted that our individuality decidedly pronounced when in obedience to duty and the requirements of law the health officer invades our premises. We are quite apt to resent as an impertinence a request to remove or abate a nuisance, overlooking the fact that it is the People's mandate; that as their servant he is performing for them an indispensable act, but for him a disagreeable duty. Nothing but the approach or presence of contagion, often too late, startles into the adoption of those plain but indispensable sanitary rules that general cleaning up and attention to drainage are the most effective safeguards against the common enemy, disease.

The spring house-cleaning should be supplemented by a cleaning up out of doors. The master should feel as much pride in the appearance of his premises as the mistress of the house does of her rooms. The earth is a first-class deodorizer; our gardens may receive with profit the steaming heaps that poison the atmosphere. As a measure of economy it will pay better to bury them than our children or friends, or it may be, be buried ourselves; it will pay in the saving of doctor's bills; it will conduce to our comfort by removing the fruitful cause of disease and consequent pain, in the saving of life; for disease, that might by timely attention and a little labor and expense have been avoided, is often an introduction to the king of terrors.

It was not one of the mistakes of Moses when thirty-three centuries since he made the observance of sanitary rules a part of the religion of his people; the injunction to their observance was enforced as the mandate of Deity, Thus saith the Lord! Violation or neglect was punished by a denial of social privileges; the unclean were thrust without the camp. Near eighteen centuries after Moses the Apostle to the Gentiles preached the sanitary gospel of cleanliness, and which others since his day have avowed was next to godliness. Paul doubtless considered cleanliness the first step toward conversion; religion has no affinity for dirt, material or moral. Finally, the importance of a general observance of the rules laid down by the State Board of Health for restriction of diphtheria, and which commend them to the esthetic tastes of the over nice, and dignified as scientific, cannot be too strongly impressed upon all. A.

DANGEROUS AMUSEMENTS.

As out-door sports begin the girls are sure to take their usual turn at rope jumping. Scarcely a season passes without several reports of girls dropping dead after some long continued effort, as in trying to skip the rope a thousand times; and even when not so carried to excess the practice is decidedly hazardous. Dr. Peck, of the Surgical Institute of Indianapolis, pronounces it a prime cause of cripples among girls. Speaking of a recent operation in which the bones of both legs of a little girl had been removed owing to necrosis caused by rope jumping, Dr. Peck says that similar cases are of frequent occurrence, though the mischief more commonly shows itself in necrosis of the spine. Not a month passes but cases are brought to the institute to be treated for injuries bro't on by the continuous concussions upon the bones in this amusement. He advises parents and teachers to prohibit the "pernicious pastime" at all times and under all circumstances.

A leading democrat of Burlington, Mr. E. M. Sutton, speaks in the highest terms of the curative power of the celebrated Kidney-Wort. It first cured him of a distressing Kidney disease, and he now uses it whenever he has any symptoms of billiousness or needs t ning up. It acts efficiently on the bowels, and cures the worst cases of piles.

Kidney-Wort in hot weather sustains the system and keeps up the strength.

A remark that always provokes a "smile—"What will you take?"

THE WORST OLD PELICAN IN THE DECK.

One of the most remarkable things noticeable in social life is the unanimity with which people shake their relatives. Recently a gentleman arrived in Carson with a letter of introduction to one of our leading citizens from the citizen's uncle. After the Carsonite read the letter he remarked:

"Glad to see you, sir. Glad to see anybody who knows my uncle in Cleveland. How are all the folks?"

"Splendid. I spent six weeks there last fall, and I don't really think I ever met such a fine family of genial, hospitable and cultivated people."

"Yes?"

"Yes, indeed—I never spent a pleasanter time in my life. Your relatives are, indeed, the—"

"Well, young man, if my relatives are such fine people they must have changed like thunder since I lived with them. I lived there a year, and I think they are about the worst pelican in the deck. I wouldn't spend a month with the crowd for the whole town of Cleveland."

"Indeed," said the other. "Well, since you've been so candid about it, I might as well remark right here that your uncle and his whole family are the toughest collection of old fossils I have ever had the misfortune to be steered against."

"Put it there, young man—you show good sense. Let's go out and take something."

In a few minutes more the two men were pledging perdition to the Cleveland relatives over a foaming schooner of Carson beer.—Leadville Democrat.

Poverty and Suffering.

"I was dragged down with debt, poverty and suffering for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, which did them no good.—I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well and none of us have seen a sick day since, and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost—I know it.

THE READY FAMILY SOAP MAKER:

LEWIS' LYE

98 PER CENT. PURE.
(Patented.)
FINELY POWDERED.
HIGHLY PERFUMED.

The strongest and purest Lye made. Will make 17 pounds of the best Perfumed Hard Soap in 20 minutes without boiling.
The best water-softener extant.
The best disinfectant.
The following are some of the advantages obtained by using Lewis' 98 Per Cent. Powdered Lye:

First. It is packed in an iron can with a slip or removable lid, easily taken off and leaving the contents exposed, thereby saving the trouble, inconvenience and danger (from flying particles) attending with other Lyes, which, being sold in tin cans, must be broken with a hammer to get the Lye out.
Second. It being a fine powder, you can remove the lid and pour out all the contents, thus being always ready for use.
Third. A teaspoonful or more can be used, as in water-softening, scrubbing, etc., and the lid returned to the can, and thereby save the balance of contents. With other Lyes all must be dissolved at once and used in a short time, or the strength is gone.
Fourth. Absolute purity. Free from all adulterations.
Fifth. The best Soap can be made in from ten to twenty minutes with this Lye.
Sixth. No failure is possible in making Soap with this Lye when the simple directions given are followed.
Seventh. One can of this Powdered Lye is equal to twenty pounds of Sal Soda or Washing Soda.
Eighth. One can of this Lye will saponify one pound more grease than any other Concentrated Lye, Ball Potash, or Saponifier.
Ninth. This Lye is 98 per cent. stronger than any other Lye or Potash.
Tenth. One to two teaspoonfuls will soften a tub of the hardest water.
Eleventh. One teaspoonful will thoroughly cleanse Sinks, Drains, or Closets.
Invaluable for killing Roaches, Mice, Rats, etc.
The best article for washing Trees.

KIDNEY-WORT

PERMANENTLY CURES
KIDNEY DISEASES,
LIVER COMPLAINTS,
Constipation and Piles.

DR. R. H. CLARK, South Hero, Vt., says, "In cases of KIDNEY TROUBLES it has acted like a charm. It has cured many very bad cases of PILES, and has never failed to act efficiently."
NELSON FAIRCHILD, of St. Albans, Vt., says, "it is of priceless value. After sixteen years of great suffering from Piles and Costiveness it completely cured me."
C. S. HOGABON, of Berkshire, says, "one package has done wonders for me in completely curing a severe Liver and Kidney Complaint."

IT HAS WONDERFUL POWER. WHY?

BECAUSE IT ACTS ON THE LIVER, THE BOWELS AND KIDNEYS AT THE SAME TIME.
Because it cleanses the system of the poisonous humors that develope in Kidney and Urinary diseases, Biliousness, Jaundice, Constipation, Piles, or in Rheumatism, Neuralgia and Female disorders.
KIDNEY-WORT is a dry vegetable compound and can be sent by mail prepaid.
One package will make six qts of medicine.

THE TOLEDO AND MILWAUKEE ROAD.

We clip what follows from the Adrian Times of Monday last:

The surveyors on the route of the proposed Toledo and Grand Haven railroad, were working in the towns of Woodstock and Cambridge last week, and it is understood that their instructions were to run their line to a point some mile and a half west of the east line of the town of Cambridge, and then halt until it should be decided whether the route should be extended via Adrian, or via Tecumseh. This probably means that Mr. Latcha is waiting to see whether the Detroit and Butler road is to be a certainty or not. If that road shall be built, one can see at a glance, how important it will be for the Toledo and Grand Haven to come to Adrian, the point where the Lake Shore and Wabash system touch each other. Adrian with the Wabash and Lake shore roads will really be a more important point for the Toledo and Grand Haven road than Toledo, because it puts the point of competing freight rates to the sea board thirty miles west of Toledo, which is a matter of very much importance in these days of sharp railroad competition.—The Toledo and Grand Haven road opening up, as it will if built, a rich section of the state, would be able to command a traffic that would be eagerly sought by the competing roads touching this city, and really there would be little necessity for the extension of that road east of Adrian. If Mr. Latcha concludes to bring his road this way, he will find the people of [illegible] the generous thing by him.

This language is very significant, as it reveals clearly what we have been satisfied of for several weeks, that Adrian was prepared to snatch this road at the first favorable opportunity. How long before the old fossils and do-nothings of Tecumseh, Franklin and Ridgeway will realize this fact? Never, we fear, until, we have lost the road; then they will wake up, rub the saw dust out of their eyes, pick the cob webs out of their ears, wipe their noses and w-o-n-d-e-r why on earth the committees of these three townships should have allowed such an opportunity to slip through their fingers.

DISASTROUS FIRE AT FAYETTE.

Last Saturday night a fire broke out in the village of Fayette, Ohio, and almost the entire business portion of the town was destroyed. The fire started in a saloon and swept the entire south side of the village before it, including the Grand Central hotel, the Record office, Hoffman & Howard's store, Hamlin's cabinet shop, and several dwellings, besides harness shops, three dry goods stores, all the grocery stores and then stretching across the street took a blacksmith shop, three dwellings, and passing a fourth, swept the Methodist church, and was there stayed. The church has been built about nine years, was the best in the village, and lately refurnished by the Ladies' Aid Society, at a cost of over $200. Nothing but the pulpit and bible were saved. Everybody was panic stricken and all efforts to stay the tide of destruction were fruitless. Forty buildings in all were destroyed.—The total loss is placed at $70,000, on which there is insurance to the am'nt of $38,000.

SUMMER EXCURSIONS.

Toledo Commercial: The Wabash road, with its usual enterprise and generosity has just issued an elegantly printed little volume, entitled "Summer Excursions," the same being a complete Tourist's Guide of the many delightful excursion routes for the season just opened via. the great Wabash route and its many connections. The Wabash will not only assist the tourist in the selection of a desirable route, but will sell him an excursion ticket at the very lowest rate, to any of the noted watering or summering places, be the same in the east, west or north. The little pocket pamphlet, of over 100 pages, is full of interesting and valuable information. Any person desiring to get a copy of the guide can obtain it, free of price, on application to J. M. Hall, eastern passenger agent room 5, Hall block, Toledo, either personally or by letter. The publication of this guide shows the sound, practical sense and the generosity of the passenger department of the great Wabash route.

THE Republican State Convention to select delegates to Chicago was held at Detroit yesterday.

AN AGED MINISTER GONE.

EDITOR OF THE HERALD:

The Detroit papers of last week announced the death of Rev. Noah M. Wells, which took place at Erie, Monroe Co., Mich., on the 4th inst., at the advanced age of ninety-eight years. The event is, in many respects, memorable. Mr. Wells came to Detroit in 1823. For several years previous he had been preaching in Brownville, Jefferson Co., New York. He was not quite satisfied with his position. Gen. Brown, one of his parishoners, was about to remove to Michigan, and suggested to Mr. Wells to be his companion in the adventure. He, however, chose to bide his time, adding that he would be willing to remove as soon as he should hear of an opportunity to settle. On arriving at Detroit, Gen. Brown learned that the Presbyterians residing here were in want of a minister. He proposed Mr. Wells to them, and they instructed him to write to him and urge him to come on at once. He wrote and Mr. Wells came.

Mr. Wells was then some forty-three years of age—in his prime, and, at his best. He was of an amiable disposition, of fair natural and acquired ability, of an easy and graceful manner, generous as the dew, and, withal, a modest and genuine christian. They of the Presbyterian faith, and the people generally, were charmed with him. He took a prudent advantage of their confiding and ductile state of mind, organized a church—the first Presbyterian church in the State—and become their pastor. Associated with him were such men as Hastings, Stuart, Larned, Kearsley, Hallack, and others of the like genius. They were a strong force and wrought for the cause of Christ, not only in Detroit, but in the new settlements then rapidly forming in various parts of the territory. Hence he preached the first sermon in Tecumseh that was ever preached here by a Presbyterian minister. Nor did he ever forget the circumstance. This casual meeting of a few members of Christ's flock in the wilderness and finding it the home of his old friend, Gen. Brown, awakened in him an interest in our village [illegible] he cherished ever after. Like circumstances, also, induced him to feel a deep interest in the early settlements all over the State; and of all the Presbyterian ministers on this peninsula he was probably the best known and the most highly esteemed.

But he was of a race which is from the dust, and returns to dust. Mr. Wells grew old, and, finally, like autumn's leaf, began to tremble to the earth. No longer able to toil in the Lord's vineyard, he went to reside with his son in Erie, where he waited patiently and long for permission to go on to his Father's house above. At length the hour arrived, and, in the triumphs of a pure and serene christian faith he bid adieu to earth and went to see and forever to be with the "King in his glory." The departure of a man so pure, and a christian so ripe and beautiful, is, indeed, a loss to the world. Subdued and tearful we join in the refrain—"My Father, my Father; The chariot of Israel and the horseman thereof."

N.

THE WALTER A. WOOD MACHINES.

A late number of the Boston Journal of Commerce gives a full description of the Walter A. Wood reaping machine manufactory, which is located at Hoosic Falls, N. Y. The growth of this establishment has been almost marvelous, and its business is now conducted on a gigantic scale.

One hundred and fifty machines are made in one day, and every four minutes, month after month, a complete, unrivaled mower or harvester is sent forth conquering and to conquer. The yearly record of production is as follows: 1853, 500; 1854, 600; 1855, 1200; 1856, 2500; 1857, 3800; 1858, 4500; 1859, 5500; 1860, 6000; 1861, 6500; 1862, 5500; 1863, 6500; 1864, 7500; 1865, 8500; 1866, 10,500; 1867, 11,500; 1868, 17,500; 1869, 23,000; 1870, 15,000; 1871, 15,771; 1872, 17,097; 1873, 20,715; 1874, 20,430; 1875, 23,507; 1876, 23,836; 1877, 19,071; 1878, 25,065; 1879, 24,920. The grand total, including this year's manufacture, is more than 350,000. When we consider the inventive skill, the patient effort, and the stupendous results, in its effects upon the country at large, it is safe to term the work of Walter A. Wood and his coadjutor's a kind of agricultural statesmanship, broader based and more potential than that of star chamber or cabinet.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES.

Where the Money Goes.

New York Herald.—Over one thousand passengers sailed for Europe yesterday. They will probably spend two million dollars during their stay abroad.

No Doubt About It.

Philadelphia Times.—The bulls and bears had lots of fun yesterday, but when the little fishes come to settle up their losses they will wonder where the laugh comes in.

Wouldn't Stand Such Nonsense.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat.—If Zach Chandler were alive now, little "Genie" Hale would take the precaution to put iron plates in his pantaloons before talking against Grant. The old man wouldn't stand any nonsense.

Rather Significant.

Adrian Times.—The anti-third term demonstration in St. Louis, Mo., on the 6th inst., was not a formidable affair in the way of numbers, but that such a demonstration should have occurred at all, is one of particular significance to the republican party.

Save the Barrel.

Washington Republican.—If the democrats could drop Tilden and save the barrel they might do it, but as they are inseparable there is some hesitancy about bouncing the old man. The barrel is the main-spring of democratic action and can not be dispensed with.

Nast Will Win.

Kansas City Journal.—Harper's Weekly is still pegging away at Grant in the department presided over by George William Curtis, while Nast is for him in every number. We believe with the St. Louis Republican that in the end Nast will come out ahead.

Flaws in the Raw Material.

Cincinnati Enquirer.—It is announced that Vice-President Wheeler is for Grant. He does not train with the Administration. This may be on account of Hayes' failure to keep his promise to make a man of Wheeler.—The President, no doubt, found flaws in the raw material.

Sic Semper Tyrannis.

Chicago News.—The Moffat bell-punch no longer reigns in Virginia.—The toper can take his toddy without hearing its registering clamor. A stringent license law has rendered the instrument useless. In the language of the motto of that State, "Sic Semper Tyrannis."

Logan Knows It.

Toledo Commercial.—General Logan says that Grant is to be nominated on the first ballot at Chicago. He knows it. He has the vote in his carpet-bag. This is encouraging. There have been queer stories about the Illinois delegation, but this sets it all right. If Logan doesn't know, nobody knows.

An Easy Matter.

New York Tribune.—Over two hundred Republicans of Cincinnati were found in a few hours who were willing to sign a declaration that they would not vote for General Grant if he were nominated. It would be easy to find a similar number in the same time in nearly every city and town in the country.

The Pennsylvania Revolt.

New York Tribune.—Senator Cameron cannot suppress the revolt in the Pennsylvania delegation. The independent members who refuse to vote for a Third Term will not shirk their convictions, but will represent at Chicago their constituencies and their own consciences. Mr. McManes's manifesto shows that any compromise with the Grant managers which will shut out the Blaine votes is now out of the question.

Awfully Mixed Up.

Philadelphia Times.—The organs are getting awfully mixed on the Presidential booms. The Grant editor of the Blaine Press and the Blaine editor of the Grant Evening News could not fail to get tangled; but the staid old North American gets its Washington news out of tune on the Blaine harp once in a while. The young Blaine Warwick should set things to rights at the Washington end of the line.

The Dog Show.

New York World.—The managers of the Dog show are to be particularly condoled with on the accident at the Madison Square Garden. Their arrangements had been made before the accident occurred and could not be changed, and the accident has naturally brought the scene of it into public disfavor. The certificate of two reputable architects that the place is safe for a dog show ought to settle the question. Certainly there is nothing in the nature of a dog show, provided dogs do not get mad or set at the people, to endanger human life, and as the dog show will take place on the ground floor of the building there is no more reason to expect that any accident to the building will occur during the dog show or because of the dog show than there is to expect that the building will fall of its own weight while unoccupied.

THE BEST REMEDY

FOR

Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

In diseases of the pulmonary organs a safe and reliable remedy is invaluable. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, of such power as to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt relief and rapid cures, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices are inducements to try some of the many mixtures, or syrups, made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to deceive and disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment; and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great liability that these diseases may, while so trifled with, become deeply seated or incurable. Use AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is a standard medical preparation, of known and acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proven its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

NASHVILLE, Barry county, when quite a small village, gave $25,000 to secure the Grand River Valley Railroad. Since securing the railroad its population has increased five-fold.

THE masons have commenced work upon the brick walls of Arnold Bros.' new store.

THE Michigan State Insurance Co., of Adrian, have subscribed $1500 for the Butler road.

THE case of the People vs. Libanus E. Hoag was in progress yesterday at the Circuit Court.

E. H. HOAG and wife, of Newton, Iowa, are spending a few days with their Tecumseh friends.

THE Democratic State Convention will meet at East Saginaw on Tuesday, the 8th day of June next.

REV. W. GRANDY will address the temperance meeting at the Reform Club Hall next Sunday afternoon.

PROF. W. W. WENDELL, of Clinton, has been engaged to take charge of the Hudson Schools during the ensuing year.

THE delegates chosen at Detroit yesterday to the Chicago Convention are mostly for Blaine, although there are a few Grant men among them.

THE examination of Doremus Aiken for the murder of Lyon was held on Friday last, and the accused was committed to the circuit court for trial.

R. F. JOHNSTONE, the veteran editor of the Michigan Farmer, was in town last week, having come out to attend the Franklin Sheep Shearing Festival.

THE Universalist Social of Macon will be held at Frank Whiting's on Friday, May 21st,—not on the 14th, as erroneously stated in the HERALD of last week.

A. L. BLISS, of Adrian, was in town last Tuesday on business. He drove over and found the weather very exhilerating. Tuesday was certainly a model spring day.

HENRY SMITH got home from the paper makers' convention last Tuesday morning. There was a good attendance and much important business was transacted.

WM. A. PARSONS finds Tecumseh so pleasant an abode that he still tarries with us, and now that the fishing season has begun he will probably tarry some time longer.

PROF. LOUIS BOOS, the Jackson Cornet player, has severed his connection with the Berger family, and has taken an engagement at Haverly's theater, New York, for the summer.

Adrian Times: If Tecumseh can't have the T. & M. railroad, she can at least beat the county on undertaker's supplies. An undertaker of that village has just purchased a $1,200 hearse.

THE fishing season is now fairly upon us. Probably one hundred Tecumseh anglers, more or less, dropped their bobs in the ponds last Monday afternoon. The fishing fever spreads as rapidly as the measles.

JOHN WERNER has sold his house and lot in this village, and bought a farm of twenty-five acres near Brooklyn. He moves this week. John is on old "stand-by" here in Tecumseh. We regret to have him leave us.

THE "Royce Reaper" sold by Kennedy & Hayden is having a big run.—They are selling lots of them in Franklin and Cambridge, as the farmers say the Royce can be run up and down those hills as easily as a wagon.

H. W. STEVENS went to Memphis, Macomb county, yesterday, to attend the funeral of Rev. Wm. P. Russell.—The deceased was a brother-in-law of Mr. Stevens and has been pastor of the Congregational church in that town for the past thirty years.

WM. H. MATHER is building a kitchen as an addition to the house he has lately bought in the village, is overhauling the house in otherways and painting it throughout. When the repairs are completed he will have a very convenient and commodious family residence. He will certainly be in a situation to take life easy and enjoy himself.

THERE will be a meeting of the Base Ball Association at their rooms this evening at 8 30 o'clock.

OUR old and reliable furniture dealer, Wm. McCowen, has a new card this week. He has a very large stock of furniture this spring which he is selling at lower prices than ever.

SEE Berdan's new ad. this week. Friend "Cub" has moved to Detroit, and we wish him all the success possible. He is a man thoroughly posted in the music business, and the people of Detroit will soon find him a pleasant, honorable and upright man to deal with.

DR. R. B. HOUSE has so far recovered from his recent illness as to be out again, and able to attend professional calls. He will attend the annual meeting of the State Homœopathic Medical Society which meets at Jackson next week.

SHERRARD & ROBBINS have dissolved partnership, Mr. Robbins retiring from the firm. The business will be continued at the old stand by James H. Sherrard, who will keep a full stock of jewelry, crockery and notions as heretofore.

J. E. ROSEBROUGH, of Freeport, Ill., is in town this week circulating around among his Tecumseh acquaintances. He is just as tall and just as good looking as when he took the part of Goliah on that memorable evening, years ago, at the old Union Hall.

Blissfield Advance: A small frame dwelling belonging to David C. Partlow, situated in the western part of the village, took fire Sunday morning about one o'clock, and was burned to the ground. As there was no one living in the house at the time, the prevailing opinion is, that it was set on fire. We learn that there was an insurance on it of $250.

WE saw a farmer from Cambridge yesterday, and learned that the surveying party on the T & M. railroad are at work in that town this week.—He confirmed the statement of the Adrian Times, which is quoted in another column, that the party will not go farther east than Cambridge at present.

L. C. BLOOD and wife arrived in Tecumseh yesterday noon, having driven over from Lansing with horse and buggy. They made the entire distance—seventy four miles—in fourteen hours. They drove to Napoleon Tuesday afternoon where they remained over night and came through yesterday morning. They will return home the last of the week.

LAVERN WHEELER has just completed a new drop curtain for the Tecumseh Guard which is a beauty.—The design is an original one with himself. It represents a tile floor and porch in the foreground, looking out upon a sheet of water in the distance. The coloring is finely executed, and the curtain presents a neat and harmonious whole. Mr. Wheeler considers it the best drop curtain he has ever painted. He will paint several other pieces of scenery for the Guard.

Pioneer Meeting.

The fifth annual meeting of the Lenawee county pioneer society was held in the common council rooms in the city of Adrian last Tuesday afternoon, the president, F. A. Dewey, of Cambridge, in the chair. About forty pioneers were present, about a third of whom were ladies. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—F. A. Dewey.
Vice President—Justus Lowe.
Secretary—W. A. Whitney.
Treasurer—F. R. Stebbins.
Executive Committee.—G. H. Kedzie, W. H. Montgomery, Rufus Baker, Lyman W. Baker, Orson Green, Alonzo L. Smith.

A very interesting address was read by the president, containing memoirs of the first settlers of the county.

The Liquor Tax.

The liquor tax in the county will be considerably less than last year, as there are thirty less saloons in the county this year than last. The aggregate tax thus far paid in amounts to $7,430. We give below a table showing the number of saloons in the different towns this year and last. Seven towns which last year supported fifteen saloons have no institution of that character this year:

THE FRANKLIN SHEEP GROWERS.

Their Annual Sheep-Shearing Festival and Exhibition—A Very Successful Meeting.

The third annual meeting of the Franklin Sheep Breeders and wool Growers' Association was held in the sheds of the Congregational church last Wednesday, May 5, and a better lot of sheep, taking them altogether, was never shown in Lenawee County.

About ten o'clock in the morning the farmers from all parts of the county began to assemble, until at 2 P. M., as many as three hundred persons were present. Many sheep growers from Manchester, Adrian and Cambridge were present, and before night the interest waxed warmer than the weather.

Commencing with the first pen we took a look at each lot of sheep, and will give a short description of them in turn.

A. W. Simmons, Franklin, showed 24 head; 11 yearlings and 11 3-year-olds, also 2 fine yearling rams.

Bradley & Wilson, Franklin, showed 12 head. They were bred from the old Russ Flock, and fine sheep that were imported from Vermont.

R. Morseman, Franklin, showed 9 head; 2 4-year-olds, 3 2-year-olds and 4 yearlings; bred from Hunter's stock and sired by Nugget, owned by A. Wilson.

A. Wilson showed 11 head; 6 yearling ewes, 4 2-year-olds and the celebrated stock-getter "Nuggett." This sheep sheared 24 pounds in '79.

F. Osborn & Sons showed 19 head; 6 yearling rams, 6 yearling ewes, 6 three and four year old ewes and one three year old buck, which as will be seen from the table sheared 29¾ lbs.

Munson King, Bridgewater, showed 8 head; 6 yearling ewes, 1 yearling ram and the buck Dom Pedro. The sheep were bred from Vermont stock.

Brunt Knapp showed 10 head; 4 yearling ewes, 2 winter lambs, 3 two-year-olds, and the celebrated buck, Greasy Jack.

Joseph Keeney showed 9 head; 2 yearlings, 3 2-year-olds, 2 3-year old rams, 1 yearling ram, 1 2-year old ram, bred from Vermont ewes and his ram, "Golden Fleece."

There were also several single sheep exhibited, some of which we shall make notice of in our notes of Special Mention.

About 3 o'clock the shearers for the took their places, and then the fun began. Each shearer paid 50 cents entrance fee, and this was divided into three prizes, M. M. Kennedy, of Liberty, taking first; time 79 minutes. D. M. Love, Franklin, 2d; time 53 minutes. G. Fellows, Franklin, 3d; time 77 minutes.

PRIZE SHEARING CONTEST

We give the report of the results of the shearing in table form as taken by the secretary of the society.

SPECIAL MENTION.

Among the exhibitors was Andrew Wilson, a breeder of twenty-five years experience, who showed at the head of his flock the celebrated stock ram, Nugget, for which he has refused $500. This ram is the sire of some of the heaviest shearers in Southern Michigan, and is valued at $1,000.

Bradley & Wilson showed 12 head; 2 rams and 10 ewes, which for density of fleece, length of wool and constitution, could hardly be surpassed, and they undoubtedly have one of the best bred flocks in Lenawee county. Their stock was commenced by a purchase of 43 ewes of Christopher Russ, of Cambridge, they being the choice of his flock; and their breeding rams back to the very fountain of the Spanish Merino blood, through the flocks of such breeders as Stowell, E. Hammond and F. H. Dean, of Vermont. They also showed some of their purchases of last fall, for which they paid large prices. Most of their stock is registered in the first Vol. Vermont Merino Register.

F. Osborn & Sons showed a flock of all ages, and at the head of which was the 3-year-old ram Hector, that sheared at this exhibition 29¾ pounds; which is probably the best fleece ever sheared in Lenawee county. We also take into consideration that the fleece was 367 days old, he being sheared at this exhibition in '79, and that he served 134 ewes last fall. He also has 65 yearlings which have been sheared since this date, and the average weight of fleece is 11¼ pounds. Below we give a portion of his pedigree:

He was raised by C. A. Miller, Marshall, Mich., who gives the following: He was sired by Rob Roy, by Volunteer by Torrent, dam No. 103, bred by C. A. Miller. They also breed from their ram Duke, that is as fine in many respects as the ram Hector.—With this stock, together with a lot of fifteen fine ewes purchased at a large figure from Miller's stock two years ago, and the stock of their own fine breeding, they have certainly as fine a lot of sheep as can be found in this section.

Robert Morseman sheared the heaviest fleece clipped from a ewe, and it seems he manages in some way to get his sheep into the same shape before shearing time arrives as will be seen from the following list of weights taken from the shearing of 21 ewes picked at random from his flock. 15, 14, 13, 13, 14, 10, 12, 12½, 16, 15, 15, 14, 16, 13, 13, 17, 14½, 15, 12½, 14, 12, 10, and thus making an average of 13⅔ lbs to the head; and the two ten pound fleeces were taken from two 12 yr. old ewes, and of course can hardly be counted with the remainder which were mostly taken from yearlings or two year olds. Mr. Morseman's stock was bred from the ram, Nugget, and the old Hunter ewes, and Searles Vermont stock.

A. W. Simmonds showed as an average flock perhaps as good as were to be seen at this exhibition; his 2 and 3 year old ewes were almost without a fault in every particular. They were bred from Nugget, and descendants of the old Russ stock, intermingled with a sprinkling of direct Vermont stock; the fineness and length of fleece on so many all seemingly just alike was almost marvelous, the wool in some instances measuring four inches.

His stock mostly came from the old Russ flock and he was former owner of the celebrated ram, Nugget, now owned by Andrew Wilson.

We would also notice a 3-year-old Sweepstakes ram, owned by Allen & Tayer, of Madison. He sheared 26½ pounds, and considering that he had not been fitted and the dryness and quality of his wool, he is certainly a fine sheep.

DOMESTIC ECONOMY.

NEW AND STALE BREAD.

The distinction between new and stale bread is far from being known. It is only lately that the celebrated French chemist, Boussingault, instituted an inquiry into it, from which it results that the difference is not the consequence of desiccation, but solely of the cooling of the bread. If we take fresh bread into the cellar or in any place where it cannot dry, the inner part of the loaf, it is true, is found to be crumby, but the crust has become soft and is no longer brittle. If stale bread is taken back into the oven again it assumes all the qualities of fresh-baked bread, although in the hot oven it must undoubtedly have lost part of its moisture. M. Boussingault has made a fresh loaf of bread the subject of minute investigation, and the results are anything but uninteresting. New bread, in its smallest parts, is so soft, clammy, flexible and glutinous, (in consequence of the starch during the process of fermenting and baking being changed into mucilaginous dextrine) that by mastication it is with greater difficulty separated and reduced to smaller pieces, and in its smallest parts is less under the influence of the saliva and digestive juices. It consequently forms itself into hard balls by careless and hasty mastication and deglutition, becomes coated over by saliva and slime, and in this state enters the stomach. The gastric juice being unable to penetrate such hard masses, and being scarcely able even to act upon the surface of them, they frequently remain in the stomach unchanged, and, like foreign bodies, irritate and incommode it, inducing every species of suffering—oppression of the stomach, pain in the chest, disturbed circulation of the bloody conjections and pains in the head, irritation of the brain, and inflammation, apoplectic attacks, cramp and delirium.—The Miller.

USEFUL HINTS.

No especial rules can be laid down for cleaning as every house has her own method. It of course requires considerable thought and intelligent management to make each room perfectly nice throughout. As the mild weather approaches large flies appear—veterans of last year's crop. These should be immediately killed, as they are on hand to teach the new colony how to sting and buzz, and waken every one at daylight. The spots may be removed from carpets (unless they are ink stains) by rubbing with ether.—Small paint brushes are convenient to remove the dust from the fancy work and spindles of furniture. Use a flannel piece for washing paint, and a large sponge for mopping marbles.—The housewife should always keep a large bottle of soda dissolved in water for washing off finger marks and cleansing slop jars. After these have been well scalded leave in them a little of this solution.

SAVE THE OLD PAPER.

Never throw away old paper. If you have no wish to sell it, use it in the house. Some housekeepers prefer it to cloth in cleaning many articles of furniture. For instance, a volume, written by a lady who prided herself on her experience and tact, says: "After a stove has been blackened, it can be kept looking very well for a long time by rubbing it with paper every morning. Rubbing with paper is a much nicer way of keeping the tea-kettle, coffee-pot and tea-pot bright and clean than the old way of washing them in suds. Rubbing with paper is also the best way of polishing knives, tinware, and spoons; they shine like new silver. For polishing mirrors, windows, lamp chimneys, etc., paper is better than dry cloth. Preserves and pickles keep much better if brown paper, instead of cloth, is tied over the jar. Canned fruit is not half so apt to mold if a piece of writing paper, cut to fit the can, is laid directly on the fruit. Paper is much better to put under a carpet than straw. It is warmer, thinner, and makes less noise when you walk over it."—Home Journal.

KINDLING FIRES.

As soon as the warm days come we are apt to neglect the fire, and soon find it out. Everybody knows what a trouble it is to kindle a coal fire. An exchange gives the following directions for doing it easily:

When the fire happens to go out in a self-feeding parlor stove, the usual practice is to empty it and start anew. For kindlings, charcoal is much better than chunks of wood, since it prevents smoking of the glass. But the disagreeable task of dumping and shoveling out may be easily avoided. Of this Modoc's brother convinced his incredulous family. He shook the ashes into the pan below; removed through the front door what coal chanced to remain in the pipe, and filled a little hole scooped out of the coal in the fire-pot, with two or three hand shovelfuls of hot coals from the kitchen range; turned on full draught, and in half an hour this little leaven of heat reddened the whole mass.

THE FARMERS' PAGE.

NORTHERN LENAWEE FARMERS' CLUB.

(This club will hold its meetings regularly on each alternate Saturday of each month at the Reform Club Hall in Tecumseh, at 2 o'clock P. M. until further notice. All are heartily welcomed and cordially invited to attend. Communications thankfully received. Correspondence solicited from other clubs, especially where co-operative action can accomplish desirable results. All letters should be addressed to E. L. Russell, Sec., Tecumseh, Mich.)

SATURDAY, May 8, 1880.

The meeting to-day was an improvement upon some of the past. The new departures from last year's program, in introducing music and in admitting ladies, and in changing the day of the week of holding the meetings to Saturday seem to promise success.

There were quite a number of ladies present, a good attendance of old members, and we were gratified to see a few young people present, and would be pleased to see more of this class at our meetings.

The exercises were opened by music by the choir, and a few moments were occupied in preliminary business and suggestions for the good of the Club.

Mr. Cyrus Wells resigned his offices of Vice President and Treasurer, having sold his farm with a view of changing his residence. The Club part with Mr. Wells very reluctantly, as he has been a very efficient and active member, and has gained many warm friends by whom he will be long remembered. Mr. W. B. Keyser was elected to fill the vacancy as Vice President, and Mr. F. C. Rector as Treasurer.

A short time was spent upon the subject of Miscellaneous Questions and Answers.

Mr. A. Richard had seen a statement in some papers that planting flax seed in potatoe hills would prevent injury by potatoe bugs, and would enquire if any one present had tried the experiment?

No one had any experience. Mr. Lowe had no faith in it.

Mr. C. Wells.—Has any one found a sure cure for the currant worm?

Mr. Lowe's wife always tended the currants and succeeded with paris green, and he could show a very fine row of currant brush across his farm.

Mrs. Lowe used paris green in water, a tablespoonful to a pail of water, sprinkled on, two or three applications through the season.

Mr. R. R. Hall used dry hellebore in a coarse sack and sifted it on, and could show two very fine rows of currant brush.

Mr. Goodrich.—Some people are very much prejudiced against using paris green and hellebore, and some so much so that they will not use paris green upon potatoes. He used a tablespoonful of copperas dissolved in a pail of water, and there was no danger of killing the leaves or of injury in using the fruit. He would not say anything about Ridgeway or Tecumseh as he had not seen their currant brush, but it was a matter of fact that he could show the nicest currant brush in Clinton; two rows and a half of them.

Mr. Hall.—Mr. Kimball used copperas water; he would like a remedy for vine or squash bugs.

Mr. R. R. Hall advised planting early and then later between the rows.—The bugs would leave the older plants and work upon the late ones.

The Secretary had tried boxes covered with musquito bar, which prevented cut worms and all kinds of bugs and insects, and hastened the growth of the plants.

The following subject was then taken up for discussion:

How shall we make farming interesting for our sons and daughters?

We would like to give in full the ideas and theories as expressed by various members upon this subject, but it would extend our report beyond the patience of all readers. We cannot forbear, however, giving a few extracts from some of the speakers.

Mr. Lowe being called upon, responded by saying that, "first, in order to make farming interesting, was to make home pleasant; and to make home pleasant we must pay more attention to the training and educating of our sons and daughters, and in making home and all its surroundings attractive and pleasing. And what place or situation can lend more pleasure than a pleasant rural home with all its surroundings beautifully planed and cultivated? or what situation affords more healthy influences for the perfection of all the noble qualities of brain and muscle? If our sons and daughters have a taste for the beautiful, here they have it—help them indulge their taste. If they are ambitious for wealth, farming can be made to pay as well as any honorable calling, if proper study, labor, economy and close attention are given it; and impress upon their minds that without these they cannot succeed in any branch of industry. If they are ambitious for any distinction or honor, here they are on the high road to success, for a majority of our best and most illustrious men have been raised upon a farm. Impress upon their minds the fact that as producers, the farmer has a right to the first choice of all the fruits of the farm."

Mr. R. R. Hall endorsed what had been said, that the home should be made pleasant, was the foundation of all, and should commence from the cradle by learning them obedience, and followed with their early training and education, with a free use of tools, and to learn them order, see that they always return them to their places. Educate them in a channel where their minds are best adapted. In speaking of illustrious men of the farm, only one man who has ruled this nation but what was reared upon a farm, and he made a very poor President.

Mr. A. Richards advocated a nice house and surroundings, with time to enjoy them, and a good motive for labor, and to get them interested in the affairs of the farm.

Others followed with very interesting remarks, but I cannot refer to them as I want space for the following essay, which was written and very well read by Mrs. C. M. Moore:

MRS. MOORE'S ESSAY.

I must confess to a degree of hesitancy in coming before this intelligent audience. I say intelligent from this fact: at your last meeting it was unanimously voted that "Farmers' wives and daughters be admitted to this charmed circle." Now, as I am not "a prophet or the son of a prophet," in other words, I am not a farmers wife or the daughter of one, my position is still more embarrassing; in fact I do not belong to any one, but am a real cosmopolitan. As to women's being admitted, we know that it is not expected that woman—weak woman—can take a part in your learned discussions, but my brethren, please bear in mind how little material was used in the construction of our first mother; only one of father Adam's ribs, and a small one at that, yet the loss of so small a portion of his masculinity rendered him so physically weak that no place since has been complete without the presence of woman. So much for preface.

Now the question: "How may we make farming interesting for our sons and daughters?"

We are governed by the law of "cause and effect." A great deal has been written upon the subject of Homes. Make your home so delightful that your sons and daughters will [illegible] to leave it. I think this suggestion has been fully realized and carried out. In almost every home music, with its controlling and soothing influences has been cultivated, both vocal and instrumental; plants and vines adorn our country homes, indoors and out; while in all our farmer's families we find an abundance of good, healthful literature, in the form of papers, magazines and books. As to equipages, our farmer's wives, daughters and sons ride into town in as fine carriages as the town affords, and drawn by your well fed, well kept horses, which stand champing their bits, full of life; and as to dress, it takes a connoiseur to distinguish them from the towns' people; and if you open your eyes to facts, you will observe that our most intelligent young men from the city go to the country for genuine wives, as our farmers' daughters are physically and mentally superior to our city weaklings. From this fact alone, that our city girls are like hot-bed plants; they have no stamina physically, the mental growth exceeding the physical, and hence the consequences. While with our sons, as soon as they are a little advanced in their studies they are sent to school in our towns or cities, and imbibe a distaste for manual labor, and they must seek indoor employment. They seem to think it too slow a process to make money; this plowing and sowing, reaping and mowing, this monotonous hum-drum life. They work themselves into the belief that it is not exciting enough for their youthful ambition, forgetting for a while that the thorough, earnest, intelligent farmers are God's real noblemen; that the tillers of the soil are the back-bone of our country—the real aristocracy of our nation; that without them our towns and cities would soon go down. It is true we need the cities and towns and their merchandise, but we can live without them far easier than they can without us. Our daughters, as soon as they arrive at the age of 12 or 14 years, must be sent away to school, and come home with the mistaken idea that it is beneath them to soil their hands with such coarse work as bread and butter making, and so prefer town life, its ease and its excitement, its temptations and deceptions, to the quiet of the hearth-stone.

There is a cause for this, and to my way of thinking, combined with a good deal of observation, I can come to only one conclusion. That is, a laxiety in home government and discipline—the girls and boys are allowed to go too young into what is termed society, allowed to choose their company, their amusements, and that too of a too pernicious character, out too late nights weakening and prostrating their physical system. To restore this the cigar is resorted to for stimulant, then the beer, wine and other stimulants, and our boys are gone, and in their train are broken-hearted and prematurely gray-haired fathers and mothers.

Parents, let us return to the good, wise, old-fashioned times, when the boys and girls were kept under the watch-care of their parents until their principles and constitutions were confirmed. The adage holds good yet, if it is more than a century old, "You cannot put old heads on young shoulders. Make companions of our boys and girls; not let our superior wisdom make such a gulf betwixt them and us; let us not forget that we were once young and enjoyed childish fun and frolic. Never mind ye immaculate house-keepers, if the boys do stir up a muss by whittling, and the girls by cutting papers and throwing them out of place. I know it tires body and patience to pick up after them, but it does not break the heart and bring on premature old age. So let us keep young; let the father make farming a science, a delight to his sons; say in a cheerful voice, come on my sons, let us do this and that; inspire labor with a dignity which it really deserves.—Mothers, make bread and butter making, with raising poultry, and all the other phases of farm life, a pleasure; let each one have their duties assigned them and let it be done with a cultivated, cheerful spirit, and there will be no danger of our sons and daughters finding the town preferable to the country.

Give me the hand of an honest, warm-hearted son of toil, if that hand is hard and sun-burnt from grasping the plough handle, to the cold finger-tips of some wixen-faced, brainless Broadway dandy, whose ephemeral life is soon wasted in cigar smoking, wine drinking, and theatre going; the grave soon covers him from sight, and the memory of such is soon forgotten. Give me the well developed, rosy cheeked farmer's daughter, who is queen of the kitchen, and can grace the parlor as well, to such a class of well developed, physically, mentally and spiritually, we hope the rising generation to be, to take the place of many mistaken ones, who will soon pass away as things of but a passing moment.

Let the farmers' wives come to these meetings, compare their experiences with each other as to the best way of raising poultry, the best method of butter making, and managing their work generally. Let the young men and maidens write up essays upon raising flowers, cultivating house plants; talk about their tastes is various ways, thus developing thought, quickening observation, and thus rendering these meetings interesting and dignified.

Program for the next meeting:

Music by the choir.

Preliminary business and suggestions for the good of the Club.

Subject—Gardening, introduced by Mr. Geo. Griswold, followed by others.

Music.

Subject—Flower Gardening. Opening essay by Mrs. E. L. Russell, followed by remarks or essays by Mrs. F. C. Rector, Mrs. R. R. Hall and others.

Closing—Music.

Meeting adjourned for two weeks, or to Saturday, May 22, at 2 o'clock P.M.

Arabian Medicines,

Celebrated throughout the World for their remarkable Cures.

Dr. Howe's Arabian Milk-Cure,
Dr. Howe's Arabian Tonic,
Dr. Howe's Arabian Liver Pills.

THE ONLY MEDICINE that has EVER BEEN KNOWN TO POSITIVELY CURE CONSUMPTION.

TESTIMONY

Of the Hon. Jos. E. Gray, Judge of the Superior Court, Chicago, Ill.

CHICAGO, Dec. 14, 1876.

DR. S. D. HOWE,

DEAR SIR:—Permit me to add my grateful testimony to the army of witnesses to the virtue of your justly celebrated Arabian remedies. For a long time my wife was seriously afflicted with hacking cough, oppressed breathing, soreness of the chest, and constant acute pain in the lower portion of the right lung and under the shoulder blade. Her sufferings were intense, and she became extremely nervous and prostrated. Her disease was pronounced consumption by the physicians of Chicago and other cities, whose prescriptions had been taken without benefit. When you visited Chicago in June, 1878, we called on you, having very little hope of deriving help from your treatment. We were inspired with hope by the skillful manner in which your thorough examination was conducted, and the satisfactory explanation with which you closed your diagnosis. My wife determined to take your medicines in accordance with your plan and practical directions. She began to use the Arabian Milk Cure and Arabian Tonic; their beneficial effect at once became manifest—the cough loosened and soon ceased, respiration became easy, the soreness of the chest was relieved and all pain removed, she began to gain in flesh and improve in strength and appearance. I fully believe that your medicines and skillful advice have saved the life of my wife. She unites with me in this grateful tribute to the merit of your remedies.

Very respectfully yours,
JOSEPH E. GRAY.

The Mystery Solved.

The last number of Rounds' Printers' Cabinet spoke of "W. T. Schoemaker, of the Hudson Gazette," and the Tecumseh Herald is probably right in its conjecture that Bro. Schermerhorn left one of his autograph cards at Rounds' establishment.—Adrian Times.

Schoe, b'ys, you don't know all of it yet. We paid spot cash for a bill of type of Mr. Rounds, and brought away a straight receipt. Afterward our money was credited up to "Schoemaker." When the second bill was sent to us, and the mistake was discovered, Rounds got down on his knees, metaphorically speaking, and laid the whole thing to the new book-keeper, who, he said, wasn't good at reading nice plain writin'.—Hudson Gazette.

—Jersey Butter is all the fashion, and it has become so, mainly because the makers have kept up a uniform color through the year, using artificial color when necessary. Dairymen who wish to be in the fashion must use the Perfected Butter Color made by Wells, Richardson & Co., Burlington, Vt.—For sale by A. Anderson, Tecumseh.

—Try it, it will cure you. If you are troubled with a Lame Back, Gravel, Leuchorrhoea, Non-Retention or Incontinence of Urine, Inflammation or Ulceration of the Bladder and Kidneys, or Liver Complaint, try Hill's Compound Extract of Buchu and Cubebs. It will cure you.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES

All SORES, CUTS, BRUISES, SPRAINS, BURNS, SORE THROAT, LAMENESS, RHEUMATISM, PILES, INFLAMMATION of LUNGS and BOWELS, BRONCHITIS, CROUP, SALT RHEUM, CHILBLAINS, AFFECTIONS of the SPINE, ERYSIPELAS, NERVOUS IRRITATION, and all disorders attendant with INFLAMMATION.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve, and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should feel perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

Literary Revolution and Universal Knowledge.

An Encyclopædia in 20 vols., over 10,000 pages, 10 per cent more matter than any Encyclopædia ever before published in this country, and sold, handsomely and well bound, in cloth for $10, in half morocco for $15, and printed on fine heavy paper, wide margins, bound in half Russia, gilt top, for $20—an enterprise so extraordinary that its success, beyond all precedent in book publishing, may be fairly claimed to inaugurate a Literary Revolution.

THE LIBRARY OF UNIVERSAL KNOWLEDGE is a reprint entire of the last (1879) Edinburgh edition of "Chambers's Encyclopædia," with about 40 per cent of new matter added, upon topics of special interest to American readers, thus making it equal in character to any similar work, better than any other suited to the wants of the great majority of those who consult works of reference, and altogether the latest Encyclopædia in the field.

Specimen Volumes in either style will be sent for examination, with privilege of return on receipt of proportionate price per volume.

Special Discounts to all early subscribers, and extra discounts to clubs. Full particulars with descriptive catalogue of many other standard works equally low in price, sent free.

Leading principles of the American Book Exchange:

I. Publish only books of real value.
II. Work upon the basis of present cost of making books, about one half what it was a few years ago.
III. Sell to buyers direct, and save them the 50 to 60 per cent commission commonly allowed to dealers.
IV. The cost of books when made 10,000 at a time is but a fraction of the cost when made 500 at a time—adopt the low price and sell the large quantity.
V. Use good type, paper, etc., do careful printing, and strong, neat binding, but avoid all "padding," fat and heavily-leaded type, spongy paper and gaudy binding, which are so commonly resorted to to make books appear large and fine, and which greatly add to their cost, but do not add to their value.
VI. To make $1 and a friend is better than to make $3 and an enemy.

AROUND THE COUNTY.

EAST RAISIN.

On Saturday, May 15th, the old barn belonging to Mr. Warren Holdridge was totally destroyed by fire. A number of farming tools were also burned; among them were a grain separator, buzz saw, grain drill, a pair of bob-sleighs and a wheel rake. The loss was fully covered by insurance. No explanation of the manner in which the building was set on fire can be given, as there were no fires burning in the vicinity, and the wind blew from the barn to the house.

An ice cream festival will be given by the E. R. Ball Club on Friday eve. May 28th, at the residence of James Boyd. Let us have a big turn out for a grand time is expected by all.

The literary society was well attended at the last meeting. The following was the program:

Dec.—A. L. Arner.
Rec.—Leona Conklin.
Select Reading—B. A. Garlinghouse.
Chip Basket—W. S. Brown.
Vocal Music.
Debate—Question,—Resolved, That all voters should have a property qualification.
Affirmative—C. S. Lester.
Negative—A. L. Arner.
Decision in favor of negative.

RAISIN VALLEY.

Corn planting for the season is over with in this section. We notice some pieces are already up and looking finely.

That the seminary boy doesn't mean to get tanned is plainly evident from the "broad brim" he wears.

Don't call on your neighbors or friends at present, for you will doubtless find them too busily engaged in house cleaning to make it pleasant for you. Wait a week.

A large number of evergreens have been set out this spring by the Friends on their grounds here, which will in time add much to their beauty.

Foot ball and swimming are the chief amusement of the seminary boy this spring, which accounts for their being so badly beaten in the game of base ball played with the Raisin nine a few weeks ago.

Miss Hattie Webb left on Saturday last to spend a few weeks visiting friends in Chicago.

These cloudless days furnish splendid opportunity for viewing sun spots through our telescope. They seem to be quite abundant on the sun at present, and several very fine ones have been seen during the past few weeks.

School closes here in four weeks from Friday. The graduating class, consisting of four gentlemen and four ladies, have invited Prof. Owen, the former principal, to give the address. Thomas Boyd, of Macon, is president of the class.

CLINTON.

O. E. Carpenter has sold his house and lot to E. S. Tate.

Sam. Larzelere has moved out on his farm one mile west of town.

Frank Kirchgessner's block presents the handsomest front in town.

Tough "boarding-house" steak now costs a shilling a pound, and no discount on age.

Dr. and Mrs. A. F. Tuttle arrived home last Friday night. The Dr. is delighted with the climate of southern California, and believes the valleys there to be the handsomest in the world.

The closing lectures.(?) of the anniversary series of the Clinton Reform Club were anything but satisfactory, even to the members of the Club themselves. Aside from the two above mentioned the meetings were very interesting and well attended.

Another meat market is promised us soon. This time by a party of means who it is said means business. That's right, give us some eight cent steak same as they have in Manchester.

FRANKLIN.

A general dirth of news this week.—We suppose in consequence of people having been too busy with their corn planting to come to our city and report their misdeeds or those of their neighbors.

Dr. Tripp has vacated the house sold to Mr. Decker, and the latter takes possession to-day, and will at once commence repairs. Among other things he will erect a wind mill, with a watering tank in the street, for the accommodation of the public, which will be a great convenience and shows commendable enterprise.

Married, at the Congregational parsonage, on the 16th inst., by Rev. J. Vincent, Mr. Wm. M. Taylor and Mary E. Aldrich, both of Rome, this county.

Our people are now favored every Saturday evening, when the weather permits, with an open air performance by our excellent band; and by the way it would surprise many people to listen to their music, which we think would compare favorably with any in the county, except Adrian. We think our citizens should devise some means to assist them in procuring uniforms, and we would suggest a strawberry festival as soon as they can be obtained, accompanied of course with instrumental and vocal music, for which there is plenty of talent in this vicinity, and thus afford an enjoyable entertainment and at the same time assist and encourage the boys.

We are gratified to learn that a considerable sum has been added to the railroad fund during the past week, and it is hoped enough can yet be obtained to secure the road, as several have increased their subscriptions and others who have persistently refused to assist have thought better of it and come down liberally, and it is believed that others will do likewise,—and the prize may yet be secured, and Franklin placed on an equal footing with the towns heretofore more highly favored as regards communication.

Crops of all kinds are looking splendidly, and a fruitful season in every respect is anticipated.

A CORRECTION.

SPRINGVILLE, May 19, 1880.

EDITOR OF THE HERALD:

I see in your report of our shearing in your paper that you had only two sheep sheared by the undersigned, instead of ten. My four-year-old ram Tempest, 2d, cut 22 lbs.; my ram, one year old, which took first prize at the county fair last fall, cut 16¾ lbs. The heaviest fleece cut from any yearling at public shearing in the county, three yearling ewes from my ram Tempest 2d, cut 13, 13¾, 13¾ lbs. respectively. Those I took the second prize at our fair without any housing. Their fleeces were not greasy. I also see you had mine under head of common instead of bloods. In special reference I wish you could have said something about my ram lamb, from Sheeler's Silver Horn, which I refused $50 for here at our shearing. Good judges say he is the best lamb they ever saw; his weight at 33 days old was 28 lbs. My ram Tempest 2d, cut at one year old 19 lbs.; at two, of one year and nine days growth, 25½ lbs.; at three, of 10 months and 27 days growth, 20½ lbs.; this year, at four years old, 22 lbs. of one year's growth. Yours truly,

F. I. KINNEY.

Frank Leslie's Sunday Magazine.

The number for June closes brilliantly the seventh volume of this deservedly popular periodical. It is essentially a family magazine, and should be found in every household, for the contents can scarcely fail to exercise a beneficial influence. The number before us abounds with good things; the leading article "The Gospel in Africa," by Rev. Daniel Edwards, is replete with interest and instruction. It is profusely illustrated. Among the other prominent articles are: "Birth Customs of the Orient," by Rev. Mr. Houghton; "Litetary Progress in Madagascar," by James Sibree, Jr.; "Ignatus Loyola," by Rev. John Tulloch, D. D.; "Ahasuerus," by Herbert Lee; "Melancthon and the Reformation," etc., etc. The number contains 128 quarto pages and nearly 100 illustrations. The price of a single copy is only 25 cents, and the annual subscription $3, postpaid. Address Frank Leslie's Publishing House, 53, 55 and 57 Park Place, New York.

Wide Awake for May.

The May Wide Awake is sown as thick with pictures as the spring waysides are with dandelions. The opening story, one of Sophie May's best, "The Twin Cousins," has three illustrations, and Miss Lathbury's Spring Snow Storm" is the most charming picture possible. Mr. Shillaber (Mrs. Partington) in "The Uninvited Guest" tells a capital bear story; and Mrs. A. M. Diaz, in "Annetta's Diary," provides a bit of fun for the little ones. One of the best stories in the number is "Jim's Troubles," by Grandmere Julia. E. A. contributes a very interesting article about that pioneer in children's literature, Jacob Abbott, full of tender reminiscences. Various short articles, the Large Print story of "The Carnation Mouse," Tangles, and an Exercise Song for use in schools, by Louis C. Elson, complete an excellant number. Only $2.00 a year. LT. SALSBURY, of Hudson, will deliver the oration at Hillsdale on Decoration Day.

THE CIRCUIT COURT.

Below we give a synopsis of the proceedings in the Circuit Court last week.

TUESDAY.

The criminal calendar was called and several parties pleaded guilty.

The first case called was the people vs. Libanus E. Hoag, charged with burning wheat stacks belonging to P. P. Adams of Tecumseh, about two years ago. He pleaded not guilty. Ready for trial.

The people vs. Doremus Aiken, murder. The prosecutor announced he was ready for trial, but defendant's council, Westerman Bros., were granted time to make a motion for continuance.

The people vs. Chauncey Bacon and Leicester Walker, charged with stealing $10 from Beagle's store in Blissfield in the day time. Both the defendants are young boys. Walker promptly plead guilty, and Bacon plead not guilty. Ready for trial. Walter Watson another young boy, charged with receiving a part of the money above referred to, pleaded not guilty, and further disposition of the case was passed till this evening.

The people vs. Chris. Eisele, violation of liquor law; appeal. J. A. Stacy, of council for defendand, read an affidavit, showing the absense of an important witness for defense, and asking for continuance of the case till next term of court. Continuance granted.

Orrin Craft and Samuel Ford, held for false pretenses, plead not guilty.

George Haddock, impleaded with Smith, Hazen and Palmer for conspiracy, plead not guilty. Westerman Bros. were assigned as council. Ready.

The people vs. Nelson Terpening and Eliza Topp, lewd and lascivious cohabitation. The defendant of the female persuasion is a girl about sixteen; she arose and pleaded guilty. Terpening, however, pleaded not guilty, and Westerman Bros. were assigned as his council.

The people vs. John Marshall, larceny of $28 from James Mc Ginnis. Pleaded not guilty, Westerman Bros. assigned as council, and the case put down as the first for trial.

The people vs. Joseph Camp and Rose Smith, lewd and lascivious cohabitation. The woman Smith, appeared carrying a baby in her arms. Pleas, not guilty. Ready for trial during the term.

The people vs. Benjamin Bevilhamer, assault with intent to rape. Ready during the term.

The people vs. Philo G. Taylor and Martha J. Baxter, lewd and lacivious cohabitation. Pleas, not guilty. Westerman Bros. assigned as counsel.

The appeal case of Gottlieb Geige, convicted in lower court of violating the liquor law, was passed.

The people vs. Willie Ferguson, false pretenses Ready during the term.

The case of the people vs. Jennie L. Lyon, perjury, was then called. The prosecuting attorney said he had received a numerously signed petition from citizens of Hudson, asking that the case be nolle prosequied, as the defendant had moved over into Hillsdale county, and they thought that was punishment enough. The case was declared discontinued.

The people vs. Lafayette C. Hall; false pretenses; ready for the third week.

The Judge then called the case of the people vs. Henry H. Armstrong, Charles F. Sizer and Willis T. Lawrence, impleaded with Ephriam R. Armstrong, for manslaughter. B. F. Graves appears for Armstrong, Millard & Bean and R. A. Watts for Sizer, and C. R. Miller and C. A. Stacy for Lawrence.

The prosecuting attorney stated that the cases were ready so far as he was concerned, except that it was thought best to call them at the beginning of a week toward the close of the term.

C. R. Miller said he desired in this connection to present a petition signed by a large number of the citizens of this county asking for a discontinuance of the case.

The petition was then presented and the Judge held the case under advisement.

WEDNESDAY.

Ella Colwell vs. Edward Cleveland. Continued until next term of court.

William Benson vs. the city of Adrian. Continued until next term of court.

Mary J. Dox vs. James Manning and N. D. Yale, impleaded with O. W. Webster. Continued.

W. H. Robinson vs. N. S. Meyers. Struck from the calendar for want of proper notice.

John T. Packer vs. Charles Packer and A. J. Sutton. Continued.

The people vs. Peter Minch. Ordered that witnesses be subpœnaed at expense of county.

The people vs. Walter Watson. Information for receiving stolen property. The lad changed his plea of not guilty and pleaded guilty.

Chauncey Bacon, impleaded with young Walker for stealing from a store in Blissfield, in the daytime, also changed his plea of not guilty to guilty.

The people vs. John Marshall; larceny; on trial.

A motion was made by the Westerman Bros., attorneys for Doremus Aiken, the alleged murderer of policeman Lyon, for a continuance of the case till next term of court, based on an affidavit subscribed by Aiken, that a material witness is absent.

The jury in the case of John Marshall, held for larceny of money from one James McGinnis, were sent out shortly after the court opened. The jury returned at 10:35, and rendered a verdict that Marshall was guilty of embezzlement as charged in the second count of the information, and fixed the amount at $25.

The case of the people vs. Libanus E. Hoag, charged with burning wheat stacks, was then proceeded with.

THURSDAY.

The case of Arpena Abbott vs. Austin Allen was struck from the calendar for want of proper notice.

The trial of Libanus E. Hoag was concluded this morning, and the attorneys finished their arguments to the jury about noon. Court adjourned till half past one; on assembling at that time, Judge Pratt charged the jury, and they retired to their deliberations.

The people vs. Nelson Terpening, impleaded with Eliza Topp, for lewd and lascivious cohabitation. This morning defendant withdrew his plea of not guilty, and pleaded guilty.

Ella Spalding was granted a decree of divorce from her husband, Edward Spalding. A divorce was also granted Gaine Fuller from his wife, Cynthia A. Fuller.

The jury in the case of the people vs. Libanus E. Hoag were out but a few minutes, when they returned a verdict of guilty.

Nelson Terpening, who pleaded guilty to lewd and lascivious cohabitation with Eliza Topps, was sentenced to pay a fine of $250 within twenty-four hours, or in default, to be confined at Ionia for one year. The girl is very young, being fifteen years of age yesterday, and considering the circumstances of the case, the judge suspended sentence upon her.

Marshall, convicted of larceny, was sentenced to three months at Ionia.

Court then adjourned till next Tuesday afternoon at one o'clock.

GLEANINGS FROM THE COUNTY PRESS.

Hudson Gazette: On Wednesday one Oscar Herrington, of Addison, snatched a watch (at the depot) of Thomas O. Boyle, of Medina. Special policeman Westfall snatched Harrington in Mr. Day's barn, where he had secreted himself. He was bro't before Justice Hiller, who held him for trial. In the evening constable Bennett started with the prisoner in a buggy to obtain bail amongst his friends in Somerset. On the way the prisoner eluded the officer and made good his escape.

Clinton News: By reference to the council proceedings, it will be seen that a committee has been appointed to decide on some kind of fire protection for the village of Clinton. That's business. There are opportunities offered quite frequently to purchase a hand engine at reduced rates, where villages or cities decide to change from hand to steam engines, and a hook and ladder company could find plenty of employment in case of fire among our business houses.

Hudson Post: The four days races, to take place on the Hudson Driving Park, commencing May 25th, will probably be very interesting. There is more money offered in premiums than at any previous time since the organization, and it is expected that a great many horses will be present. The circuit embraces Coldwater, Elkhart, Hudson, Adrian, Detroit, Pontiac, Ionia, Grand Rapids and Fort Wayne and the people of Hudson will have the opportunity of seeing the same horses and witnessing as good races as will take place at the cities on the circuit.

Morenci Observer: The Republican State Convention, which met at Detroit last Wednesday, was an important body as representing the political majority of the State, and its preference for the "plumed knight" of Maine J. G. Blaine, will be hailed with delight by the Republican masses of the state. The chairmanship of the state committee was awarded to Senator Baldwin, who represents the best type of Michigan Republicanism. The delegates at large are James F. Joy, O. D. Conger, Perry Hanna, and E. C. Walker. The delegates from the 2d district are Capt. J. D. Ronan, of Monroe, and L. R. Penfield, of Hillsdale, both men of whom are thorough Blaine men.

Deerfield Record: Two barns on the farm of Oscar Bliss, two miles northwest of this village, were struck by lightning at eleven o'clock, last week Sunday night, during the thunder storm that raged at that time, and were totally destroyed. Mr. Bliss' horses were led out and escaped, but the remainder of the contents of the barns, consisting of quantities of hay, etc., and farm implements, together with a number of hogs in an adjoining shed, was burned up. One barn was old and small, and it was covered by a light insurance; the other barn was an almost new one, and was not insured.

High Priced Butter.—Dairymen often wonder how their more favored competitors get such high prices for their butter the year round. It is by always having a uniform gilt edged article. To put the "gilt-edge" on, when the pastures do not do it, they use Wells, Richardson & Co's Perfected Butter Color. Every butter maker can do the same. Sold everywhere and warranted as harmless as salt, and perfect in operation.

THE FAMILY CIRCLE.

GOOD-BY

"Farewell, good-bye! that dirge-like strain
Is spread to waft me far from thee;
And soon beneath the gaiety of the gale,
My ship shall bound upon the sea.
Perhaps all desolate and forlorn,
These eyes shall miss thee many a year,
But unforgotten every charm—
Though lost to sight, to memory dear.

"Sweetheart, good-bye! one last embrace!
Oh, cruel fate, we now must sever!
Yet in this heart's most sacred place,
Thou, love's alone, shall dwell forever.
And still shall recollection trace
In fancy's mirror ever near,
Each smile, each tear, that form, that face,
Though lost to sight, to memory dear."

LULU'S CHOICE.

"Mary, did you know that you were beautiful?"

"I know that I am utterly discouraged," said the young girl. "I know that I am hungry, and there is nothing to eat."

"There is something to eat; see here. While you were gone I went down to market and bought a whole basket full."

"But where did you get the money?"

"Oh, that's nothing; never mind now, we shall have one good meal, that is certain, if we never have another."

"But where did you get the money?"

"I got it honestly, I—sold—something," said the girl desperately; "now hold your tongue, and sit down. Did you ever taste anything so delicious?"

They were pretty girls, both of them and orphans. One was far lovelier than the other, though not so showy and audacious as her pink and white companion, who was Lulu Grant.

"Only fancy how nice it would be never to have to work!" sighed Lulu, as she sipped her tea.

"My only anxiety is for plenty of work, said Mary. "I cannot bear to be idle."

"What in the world has that to do with it, Lulu? Why are you all the time harping upon good looks? I am very glad that I am just as I am; I please myself, and other people, too, I suppose, but I don't set such a great store by it."

"That's where you are very foolish. Don't you ever want to wear silks and satins and lovely things? A diamond ring, for instance, a watch, with a love of a gold chain, and"—

"What do you mean?" cried Mary, "I never heard you talk so before?—We are poor, uneducated girls. What do we want of jewelry and silks and satins?"

"Yes, I grant you, poor and uneducated in a sense, but quite as able to be genteel and make a dash as the best of them. How many, I wonder, who ride in their carriages, would like to be as pretty as I am, or as handsome as you are? What's the use of being old fogies? I'm tired of it. I'm going in for style, now."

Mary sat and looked helplessly at her companion. Horrible fancies assailed her.

"Why, Lu!" she suddenly exclaimed, "you've got your ring."

"Of course I've got my ring; why, what did you think?"

"I thought of course you'd sold it."

"Why, no, silly; what do you think I could get for that bit of old gold?—Besides, it was mother's ring,"—a spasm went over her face as she said this. "But come, I mustn't sit here; I'm going to the theatre to-night, and I've got to buy me a bit of lace and some ribbons."

"Theatre! lace! ribbons!" exclaimed Mary, in dismay.

"Yes, of course. There's money enough, and for two or three good meals besides. You might go with us too, I suppose, if I had only thought."

"You're not going with"—

"Yes, I am," laughed Lulu, at Mary's breathless speech. "I'm going with Mr. Hastings. What of that? He's a gentleman."

"O Lulu! I'd rather work my hands off, if I were you. Oh, don't go! I've heard ever so many speak of it, and it's hurting you, hurting us both. The landlady is very indignant."

"Oh, she is, is she?" retorted Lulu, angrily. "I don't know what she has to say about it if we pay her her rent."

"Oh, but you know she takes a motherly interest in us"—

"Fudge! don't be silly, Molly. Many a poor girl has married a rich man, as you know, and perhaps I'll marry him, who can tell?"

"I can," said Mary, with spirit.—"He is not a good man. He is engaged to a girl of his own standing, and if you are seen with him it will do you harm. Don't go, Lulu, dear; for my sake, refuse him."

"But I told him I would, and I will. He has been too kind. Many a time he has given me money, because he says he feels a brotherly interest in me. And he says the story of his engagement is false, and—and I like him. If it had not been for him, you would not have had a supper, to night, I can tell you?"

Mary drew back with a shudder.—"What did he give you the money for?"

"Well, I don't mind telling you, because I kissed him. He's an old friend and where was the harm?"

Mary stared at her room-mate with pale lips. She was utterly horror struck.

"Oh nothing. I can say do any good?" she almost wailed. "Lulu, it seems to me you are on the very verge of ruin."

"Thank you, I can take of myself," said the girl, airily, and went out to buy ribbons.

When she came home late, Mary let her in, for the landlady never allowed the girls in her house night keys; she was a good woman, and exercised a motherly supervision over whomever came within her sphere, friendless and homeless), and entered her room, she gazed about her with astonishment.

There was some change; what was it? In place of the two chairs, there was only one; Mary's little brown hair trunk, which had done duty for another seat, was gone, and the room looked desolate.

She hurried to the little nook where the bed stood. Mary was not there. On the one chest of drawers that served for a toilet stand was a note, on the one little table another. Lulu read them both. The first was from Mary:

"DEAR LULU:—I have taken a step which I have for some time had in contemplation. Mrs. Burke (the landlady) has for some time wanted another girl in the kitchen, and as I can get nothing else to do, I have concluded to accept the situation and so earn an honest living.

"So I have removed my things, as you will see, to a small single room in the attic. Dear Lulu, you know how much I love you, but I am afraid you are doing wrong. If you are, you will regret it to your dying day. I cannot remain with you to receive any more favors that come from money you have received, at the price, I am afraid of your good name. I must work to support myself honestly, and so, as I cannot find anything else to do, I have accepted this situation until I can do better. O, my dear Lulu, I beg of you to give up the acquaintance of Mr. Hastings. You can soon find some good place in a store, or at our trade, where you can earn a living; and God will bless you if you try to do right.

MARY."

There was a second note on the table, that came from her landlady:

MISS LULU GRANT.—I must ask you to vacate the room you now have as soon as possible. My reason is that I cannot have my house frequented by such a man as you went to the theatre with to-night.

Very respectfully, etc."

Lulu tore both notes up in a passion, then throwing herself on the bed, wept bitterly. All that night she passed the hours in self reproaches and defiant determination.

Morning found her quiet and resolved. She had decided, and the enemy of souls was triumphant.

Mary never saw her again, till she looked upon the face of a corpse, ten years afterward, in the ward of a parish hospital.—Youth's Companion.

ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS.

Apropos of the coming circus, the agent told us his experience with a country publisher in Iowa, whom he approached for the price of a column display advertisement. The price was $100.

"How much for two columns?"

"One hundred dollars."

"How much for half a column?"

"One hundred dollars."

"That's very singular," said the agent. "How much for a single square?"

"One hundred dollars," replied the publisher, unmoved. "To tell you the truth, the day your show gets here I've got a note for $100 to meet. I've been waiting for you to come along, and I see no other way to pay it. You can have the whole paper, or a single inch, just as you like, but it will cost you just $100."

Poverty and Suffering.

"I was dragged down with debt, poverty and suffering for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, which did them no good.—I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well and none of us have seen a sick day since, and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost—I know it.

A WORKINGMAN."

An excellent old deacon, who, having won a fine turkey at a charity grab-bag raffle, didn't like to tell his severe orthodox wife how he came by it, quietly remarked, as he handed her the fowl, that the Shakers gave it to him.

From a Distinguished Physician.

Prof. Green, a distinguished allopathic physician, wrote to the Medical Record to the effect that after all other means had failed, he sent for the Kidney Cure (Safe Kidney and Liver Cure), and to his astonishment cured a serious case of Bright's Disease by administering it, and afterwards found it equally beneficial in other cases.

PLEASURE RESORTS.

We have received a circular from Hannah, Lay & Co., of Traverse City, setting forth the advantage of that place as a summer resort, and of the Chicago and Grand Traverse line by the elegant steamer City of Traverse.

At Traverse City the special attractions of Park Place Hotel (which, to use the words of a prominent guest of last season, is "simply exquisite in all its appointments") and the exception al good facilities for fishing, hunting, boating and riding here enjoyed will cause you to linger long and leave reluctantly, at last; but when you must go and should for any reason need to reach home quickly, two daily through trains for the south afford ample opportunity for a speedy return to home and business. But if you can, as you certainly should, prolong your trip somewhat, the fast and beautiful new steamer City of Grand Rapids, and the elegant little steamers Clara Belle and Jennie Sutton enable you to visit any day the numerous attractive points around Grand Traverse and the Little Traverse Bays and to connect at Elk Rapids or Torch Lake with steamer Queen of the Lakes for the ever delightful "Tour of the Six Lakes," which should always be taken in if possible.

In the multiplicity of enjoyments and the many pleasant ways of journeying from place to place throughout this extensive pleasure ground, do not forget that to reach Chicago or Mackinac there is no route which offers so many attractions as the one by the steamer City of Traverse, leaving Chicago every Saturday evening at seven o'clock.

To these suggestions for a summer trip it may be said with no fear of contradiction, that for the time and money required there is no other route which offers so much in the way of health, pleasure and solid comfort as the one herein named. Remember it is the Chicago, Grand Traverse and Mackinaw Line, steamer City of Traverse, and commencing about the middle of April regular weekly trips will be made upon the schedule of time herein given throughout the entire season of 1880. The steamer will stop at Frankfort, Mich., each way, for passengers and freight.

For all desired further information apply by letter or in person to Hannah, Lay & Co., Traverse City, Mich.

RECENT TELEPHONE EXPERIMENTS.

A series of interesting telephone experiments have lately been made in New York, under the supervision of Mr. A. E. Beach, one of the proprietors of the Scientific American. Wires were run from Plymouth Church in Brooklyn to several offices and dwellings in New York, Jersey City, Newark Elizabeth and other places. The last number of the Scientific gives an account of these experiments, which were exceedingly interesting.

The first experiment made was on Sunday, April 18, and was on the whole perhaps more successful than could have been expected. The telephone listeners stationed in Brooklyn, and nearest the church, were enabled to hear the service with much satisfaction; but those in New York, Yonkers, and Orange, N. J., only heard the music and portions of Mr. Beecher's sermon. It was concluded on the whole that there were too many telephones in circuit; and it was subsequently ascertained that the wire leading to the church had been surreptitiously tapped where it passed over a dwelling, a ground made on the tin roof, and a considerable number of telephones smuggled in.

On the following Sunday, April 25, another trial was had, precautions having been taken not to allow so many tapping lines or instruments in circuit. Special care was also taken by Mr. Adee, the adjuster of the Bell Telephone Company, to give the most delicate adjustment to the transmitting instruments at the church. The result was most successful and marvelous.

From the opening note of the organ prelude to the last word of the preacher's voice, at the close of the service, everything was delivered to the ears of the listening telephoners in the most perfect manner, the tones that came over the wires being so full, round, clear, and distinct, it almost seemed to the hearers in New York, Yonkers, and Elizabeth as if they were stationed within the church itself directly in front of the speaker.

The delivery of the music was equally perfect, every note of the organ and of the individuals of the choir being fully brought out. The majority of the participators in this experiment were persons accustomed to the use of the telephone, and their unanimous verdict was that the results obtained far surpassed anything of the kind within their previous experience.

"No, William," she mournfully uttered, still allowing him to retain her hand. "No, William, I cannot marry you. I do not believe you can provide a wife with butter upon your present salary, and I can't eat oleomargarine."

SANITARY SCIENCE.

A PLEA FOR BROAD VIEWS ON THE SUBJECT.

The logical mind instinctively attempts to trace all results to some cause. To such an extent has this effort been made by the better minds of the past, that to-day almost every one recognizes the fact that every effect has somewhere an adequate cause. The popular mind, however, does not as readily grasp, the equally certain fact, that in many cases, the effect is the result of, not simply one, but of many causes. For example: it is claimed that there has been an increase of crime in the country during the last half century. One man will say it is because of the extensive use of alcoholic drinks; another, because of the too rapid filling up of the country, and consequent lack of employment of many of the working class; another, to our system of education; still another, to too lenient laws; another, to the spread of infidelity; another, to the making citizens of a half million soldiers, etc., etc. A few minutes thought will, I think, convince any one that no one of the above is alone sufficient; and that the increase of lawlessness is due to many causes that are not enumerated above. In matters of public health the same law applies, i. e., not one cause simply but many. Not simply what we eat and drink, but ten thousand other factors enter the problem of hygienic reform. It has been said that when men lived in reed houses they were men of oak; but when they had lived a short time in houses of oak, they were men of reed. The statement is largely true. Why the change? Not one custom, habit or circumstance will account for it. In the reed house age the fittest (the physically strong) survived, and the unfit (physically weak) died; but in the age of oaken houses the fit and the unfit both survive and transmit to posterity their respective characteristics. Plain food, regular hours, much exercise, temperance, exposure to sunshine and storm, constant employment, and little real anxiety, in the olden times were factors in keeping the reed house people hale and hearty, conditions now so often conspicuously absent. Are these causes all? By no means. I have enumerated but a fraction of all the circumstances that have brought about the change.—Every circumstance connected with a man's life influences his health. Matter is never lost or destroyed. Any influence upon a man's physical being is not lost as far as he is concerned till death closes the scene; and on the race the effect is to end only with the end of time. Public health is a problem whose factors are practically infinite, and whose solution can be accomplished only when the secret of life shall have been discovered. A good liver will not keep a man healthy when the yellow fever poison enters the system, patent medicine advertisements to the contrary notwithstanding. Graham bread and oatmeal cakes can not make a strong man of a child whose parents transmitted to him only half of a natural stock of vitality; yet they are of real and of unquestioned value and a man is better with a healthy liver than with a diseased one. Hygienic reforms are not quickly accomplished, and their results are slow in making their appearance. Therefore many a one who has become somewhat of an enthusiast in matters of hygiene has not the patience to wait half a life time to see the results of proper observance of laws of health. The farmer understands that impoverished land can not be restored in a year; the merchant knows that a reputation for honesty once lost can be regained only by years of upright dealing; the physician is well aware that a constitution once weakened by hereditary taint or by improper living can regain its old time vigor only by long conformity to nature's laws. This is true of communities. A careless neighborhood or village where no thought has been given to public health, has, in its habits, its dwellings, its kinds, and amounts of food and drink, both actual and relative, its manner of disposing of effete material, factors in production of ill health that can not be eradicated from the problem of public hygiene for many years to come. Peoples' habits and customs do not change quickly and the effect does not disappear immediately the cause is removed. The people must learn to study the laws of hygiene not only with relation to individuals and to the present but for the best interests of the community and with special reference to the future. "Rome was not built in a day." We could build a Rome sooner than we could make a hardy people of the American race.

Feels Young Again.

"My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy, inactive condition of the whole system, headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicines did her any good. Three months ago she began to use Hop Bitters, with such good effect that she seems and feels young again, although over 70 years old.—We think there is no other medicine fit to use in the family."—A lady, Providence, R. I.

WE have just received Peterson's Magazine for June, and do not hesitate to say that it has more attractions than all the other magazines combined. No magazine in America has such fine steel engravings, and such good cuts. The ladies at home tell us that "Peterson's" fashions are in the best taste, and more reliable than any magazine published. "Peterson's" illustrated articles are a new feature this year, which makes the Magazine more attractive than ever. A friend of ours, who was in Philadelphia last week, called at Peterson's office, and tells us that they pack 5000 magazines every afternoon to their subscribers. He speaks of the great popularity of the book. Send to Charles J. Peterson, 306 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, and get his great club terms for 1880.

AN AMUSING REMINISCENCE.

The fight at Blackburn's ford, just to the left of Bull Run, was opened by the Second Massachusetts infantry. Supported by a New York and two Michigan regiments. They advanced into the woods until they heard something drop. The regiment bumped up against intrenchments and were subjected to a tremendous fire. Before going into the woods the regiment was "dressed" as on a parade, and the Colonel rode out and exclaimed:

"Men of Massachusetts! the eyes of your country are upon you!"

There was a grand yell, and they went in to conquer or to die! After fifteen minutes' desperate fighting they retired from the woods to re-form behind the supports. Among the last was an old man. He had throwa away coat, hat, gun and all accoutrements, and he was badly demoralized. As he passed the left flank of a Michigan regiment in line of battle, a wag called out:

"Only 800 miles to Boston!"

The old man halted for a moment, and another joker observed:

"The eyes of your country are upon you."

"You blamed Wolverines, go to grass!" growled the old warrior. "I've got a choice about this thing, and I druther stand the eyes of my country all day long than the fire of them cussed rebels for five minutes."

LEWIS' CONDENSED BAKING POWDER

STRICTLY PURE!

We will give $1000.00 for any Alum or other adulteration found in this POWDER.

Indorsed by the Brooklyn Board of Health, and by the best chemists in the United States.

It is STRONGER than any Yeast Powder in the world.

It NEVER FAILS to make light bread when used as directed.

It is COMMENDED by every housekeeper who has given it a fair trial.

It is an entirely NEW INVENTION, without any of the bad qualities of soda or saleratus, yeast or other baking powders.

It has in itself a tendency to sustain and nourish the system.

Good food makes good health; and health is improved or impaired in proportion as the food we eat is nutritious or otherwise.

LEWIS' BAKING POWDER always makes good food.

One can of this is worth two of any other baking compound.

It makes bread whiter and richer.

More than half the complaints of bad flour arise from the use of common baking powders, which often make the best of flour turn out dark bread.

The most delicate persons can eat food prepared with it without injury.

Nearly every other baking powder is adulterated and is absolutely injurious.

It is made from Refined Grape Cream of Tartar, and is PERFECTLY PURE.

It makes the BREAD lightest, and most nutritious.

BREAD, BISCUIT, CAKE, CRULLERS, BUCKWHEAT, INDIAN, AND FLANNEL CAKES.

A single trial will prove the superiority of this Powder.

A STRANGE BLUNDER.

In the circuit court on Tuesday last, when Prosecuting Attorney Underwood concluded the reading of his paper, prepared in opposition to dropping the grand stand cases, he remarked substantially as follows:

"The governor had said he felt the matter ought to drop. The governor had the power to do so, before a conviction was had. By taking the responsibility on himself, by writing 'Charles M. Croswell,' the governor could dispose of the matter."

The Times is not a lawyer, and the prosecuting attorney is, but it seems as though, if Mr. Underwood had glanced at the constitution of the state, a document the prosecuting attorney is supposedly familiar with, he would have been spared the mortification of making a strange blunder. The first portion of the first sentence of article eleven of the constitution of the state, reads as follows: "He (the governor) may grant reprieves, commutations and pardons, after convictions."

It would seem as though by this portion of the constitution the governor was prohibited from granting a pardon until "after conviction." Governor Croswell is not averse to taking any responsibility that can rightfully and legally be put upon him; but if, as the prosecuting attorney suggested, the petitions for the dropping of the grand stand cases had been presented to the governor, they would have taken the form of petitions for pardon, and as we read the constitution, the governor would have no power to act on such petitions until "after conviction."

If we are wrong in this view we shall be very pleased to be set right, but it looks to us now as though the prosecuting attorney had attempted to place upon the governor a responsibility which the constitution prohibits him from assuming.—Adrian Times.

The Twentieth Annual Convention of Michigan State Sabbath Association.

The above Convention will be held at Lansing in the First Presbyterian Church on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, June 8th., 9th. and 10th., commencing on Tuesday evening 7:30 P. M., with an address on "The Centennial of Sabbath Schools," and continuing through Wednesday, and closing Thursday noon.

A program has been prepared which promises to be one of the most interesting and profitable to Sunday-school workers; and all Sunday-schools are invited to send delegates. In order that delegates may be provided with entertainment and reduced rates on railroads, let their names and addresses be sent naming railroads, which they travel, by the first of June to Rev. Wm. Dawe, State Secretary, West Bay City, who will send certificates to all who are duly elected.

Any Sunday-school workers in the State, who desire to attend the "Robert Raikes Centennial" in London England, June 28th. to July 3d., may receive the advantages of delegates by application to the State Secretary for delegate's card.

Kalamazoo Telegraph.—The county superintendents of poor have received a circular from officers of the insane asylums, stating that those institutions are overcrowded with patients, and recommending that hereafter new cases be given preference over old cases of insanity. Of new cases three recover on an an average in two years to one of a chronic nature. Before sending patients county officers are requested to correspond with the institutions. The asylum at Kalamazoo, with quarters for 550 patients, now contains 650; the one at Pontiac, built to accomodate 320, now furnishes room for 430 patients.

—When you feel mean take Kidney Wort, advertised in another column. It acts energetically on the bowels and Kidneys at the same time, and so cures a host of diseases caused by the inaction of these organs. If you are out of fix, buy it at your druggists and save a doctor's bill.

Our drug stores are now supplied with "Malt Bitters," the new Food Medicine which has done so much good and comes to us so highly recommended. Try it. It may save you heavy doctors' bills.

THE PENSION OFFICE.

That the management of the Pension Bureau at Washington is not what it should be, and that there is a pressing need of reform in its administration is patent to everyone who has had any business to transact with that office during the past few months. The present commissioner seems to be totally unfit for the position he occupies. The National Tribune, a soldiers' organ, published at Washington, has in the last issue several articles showing the manner in which the office is conducted, and if one half the charges therein contained be true, Commissioner Bentley should be removed instanter. We give a few of their pertinent paragraphs at random:

All soldiers and friends of soldiers are agreed that the horrible delays and denials of justice in the allowance of pension claims is wholly due to the acknowledged and notorious defects in the administration of affairs in the Pension Office.

The whole system is rotten, the whole machinery is out of gear. The good intentions of Congress, the valuable and liberal provisions of law, are made futile and ineffective by the pedantry, the thick-headedness, the perverse obstinacy, the wretched jealousy of the head of the department.

Mr. Bentley's cue is to make himself a martyr, to secure sympathy under fraudulent pretences for himself, as a man abused for righteousness' sake.

If he is found false to his duty in utterance of wholesale calumny against "all pensioners and pension claimants," by branding them all indiscriminately as thieves and perjurers, he claims that this charge on him is invented by claim agents, and asks to escape the responsibility of his own acts by a false hue and cry as to others.

These claim agents are men right here in Washington, of as good standing and as good character as the Commissioner. Nay, they are of better standing and of better character.

He was picked up by Senatorial influence for local service rendered, from a shabby position as an indifferent and unsuccessful country lawyer, only redeemed from insignificance by his political adroitness, and as a reward for his exertions in this last line he was put in his present position.

Neither by training in the world, by the generous education of a learned profession, nor in any other way, was he qualified for this most important office, but the same sedulous worship of people in power, by which he attained his position, is kept as the main line of his success in maintaining it.

He never was a lawyer in any large sense, and his career in Washington has developed this inborn pettifoger. He tries every case of a poor ignorant and suffering widow as if he was retained for a five dollar fee (as of old) before a justice of the peace.

It is an infinite disgrace to the volunteer service of the United States, that this man should be kept in office, over hundreds of gallant and meritorious officers fully equipped as lawyers, and who by experience of war, know and feel something of what is due to the common soldier.

The pension system is simply taking and considering evidence to bring about a result, and is no more difficult than any ordinary judicial action. But judicial action presupposes impartiality, and this quality Mr. Bentley does not have. Not only does he not have it, but he has not even the grace to pretend to have it.

He boldly affirms that he cannot and will not believe testimony. He denounces all suitors in his court as thieves, conspirators, and perjurers. He knows that the assertion is a scandalous and infamous falsehood, but he has made it in more than one official report.

Widows weep in their lonely homes, orphans beg their bread from door to door, old shattered frames of veterans, pierced with wounds, racked with strange pains, patiently starve while waiting in suspense, long deferred, for the action of this man Bentley, in cases long since proved up, long since complete.

The Adrian Press.

The Adrian Press has completed its seventh volume, and apropos of the event it indulges in these reflections. The Press will accept our good wishes for its continued prosperity:

With this number we commence volume eight of the Press. For two years the paper has been under its present management, and as to its merits we simply point to our gradually increasing subscription list, and the words of commendation from our readers. We have striven to make a good newsy county paper, and we shall endeavor to make it still better. We ask of the Democrats of this county, a continuation of their generous support and hope to place the Press in many more homes ere the year expires.—The Press will continue to do its duty by the people of the county, and asks the aid of its readers to increase its circulation.

Godey's Lady's Book for June

Is a most attractive number, full of good things from cover to cover. First, Darley's fine illustration greets us, the naughty urchin, familiar to us all, who creeps "like a snail, unwillingly to school," while his mother chides and his sister smiles, as generation after generation has done since the great poet first described the scene. Then we find in fashion and work department a very large variety of suggestive matter for lady's use. Summer wardrobes and summer employment have the best of guides in these pages. The literary department is very fine, fully up to the usual high standard of the magazine. Every department is well filled with the matter most attractive to those for whose use the Book is designed—the ladies. We will furnish the HERALD and Godey's Lady's Book for one year at the low price of $3.00, on application at this office.

Adrian Press: The Tecumseh HERALD had 60 cents worth of obituary poetry last week. "Things is boomin."

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES.

This is Paralysis.

Atlanta Constitution.—It is now definitely settled that Mr. Tilden is steadily gaining ground. And this is what is called paralysis!

Perhaps.

Cincinnati Commercial.—Perhaps the Grantites will bolt from the national convention and proceed to nominate a candidate for President of the United States in their club room in Potter Palmer's tavern.

The Greenback Party.

Adrian Times.—The Greenback party of Vermont proclaims to the world that it recognizes "no sectionalism." It is awful to think what would be the condition of the universe if the Vermont Greenbackers had concluded to recognize some sectionalism.

Tilden's Bar'l.

Chicago News.—Mr. Tilden's 'bar'l' has a National reputation, and every Democratic editor wants some of its contents, and will not be a supporter if he has it not. Well might Mr. Tilden exclaim, in view of this hesitancy, "See what a rent this envious Casca's made!"

Welcome News.

Cincinnati Enquirer.—The expert testimony on Saturday brought the case of Cadet Whittaker suddenly to a crisis. The trial is to be concluded to-day. This is welcome news. The country will now have a little time to devote to the Presidential campaign.

The Bidding Lively.

Toledo Commercial.—The New York Democratic magnate is in Washington declaring that Governor English, of Connecticut, would not hesitate to spend $1,000,000 for the Cincinnati nomination and subsequent campaign expenses. The bidding is getting to be lively.

Cut it Up Root and Branch.

Richmond State.—A few branches cut off here and there from the trunk of the tariff, or an occasional one grafted on, will only strengthen and invigorate its growth, and to accomplish any permanent tariff reform we must change our whole policy and do away with the entire system of protection, cutting it up root and branch.

How the Nation Is Saved.

Detroit Evening News.—The bummers of Chicago decided how Cook county shall vote at Springfield. Cook county's vote at Springfield will decide the vote of Illinois at the National convention. The vote of Illinois at the National convention will decide who shall be the Republican candidate for President. Thus the whole matter depends primarily upon the Chicago bummers. Thus are nations saved.

The Third Term.

New York Tribune.—The Grant advocates are peculiarly impatient of what they call the "senseless prejudice against a third term." Opinions may differ about the character of the prejudice, but there can be only one opinion concerning its existence. It is extensive enough to split the Republican party in advance of the nomination. What it might accomplish after the nomination will never be known, because the party is too wise to make the experiment.

Better Swap Candidates.

Philadelphia Times.—There is one way, and only one way that we can now see by which Tilden and Grant might get cordial and unanimous nominations for the Presidency. If the Republicans and Democrats would both agree that each should select the candidate for the other, the Chicago Convention would nominate Tilden as the Democratic candidate with three cheers and a tiger, and the Cincinnati Convention would nominate Grant as the Republican condidate with a yell. It would save much vexation and wear and tear of the machines to swap responsibilities in that way.

Stephen J. Field.

Indianapolis Sentinel.—The Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle has taken up the movement for the nomination of Judge Stephen J. Field, and is giving it valuable aid. Judge Field has shown himself the bulwark or Democratic principles and the relentless foe of centralization and the growing contempt for State Governments on the part of the Supreme Court. Should he receive the nomination at Cincinnati it is probable that California and Oregon would cast their electoral vote for him. He would solidify the party all over the country, and like any candidate whom the party can nominate, would be overwhelmingly elected.

Judge Thurman.

Philadelphia Press.—Judge Thurman is not a rich man, his fortune ranging from $50,000 to $60,000. He lives quietly in Washington, his house being furnished without ostentation and with an eye single to comfort. His wife is a most admirable woman, devoted to her home and husband, and heartily glad that there is a possibility of his retirement from public life after next year. In social life the Senator is pleasant, a fine talker, full of humor, fond of an anecdote. All in all he is a type of the best American—resolute, strenuous, serious when at work; easy, sincere, straight-forward when in leisure—always vigorous, strong, clear-headed and far-seeing.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

ALL SORES, CUTS, BRUISES, SPRAINS, BURNS, SORE THROAT, LAMENESS, RHEUMATISM, PILES, INFLAMMATION of LUNGS and BOWELS, BRONCHITIS, CROUP, SALT RHEUM, CHILBLAINS, AFFECTIONS of the SPINE, ERYSIPELAS, NERVOUS IRRITATION, and all disorders attendant with INFLAMMATION.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame, every bone, muscle, vein, nerve, and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should feel perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

THE TECUMSEH HERALD.

TECUMSEH, MICH., MAY 20, 1880.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Good weather to plant corn.

The swimming season has begun.

And now the rush for the lakes has commenced.

The boys and girls who enjoy fishing can now "bob for eels."

The wares of the Arnold Brothers new store will be up this week.

T. M. Hunter, of the Adrian Times, spent last Sabbath in Tecumseh.

E. H. Hoag and wife left for their home in Newton, Kansas, last Tuesday.

Mrs. H. Betts left Tecumseh last week to enjoy a visit with her many friends in Cleveland.

Bills, Lilley & Co. are putting a new plate glass front in their bank. Who'll be the next?

Mrs. Gov. Croswell and Miss Hattie Croswell were registered at Sink's Hotel last Saturday.

The amount of merchandise that is being received at the depots in this place this spring is more than usually large.

Dr. E. O. Haven, formerly President of Michigan University, is one of the four new bishops of the M. E. church.

A veteran soldiers' club has been organized in Hudson, and they will see that Decoration Day is properly observed in that village.

Two years ago a lot of young eels were placed in Baw Beese Lake. One day last week an eel was caught there which measured over 20 in. in length.

W. F. Baxter will be the census enumerator of Tecumseh, and James Cook will fill the same birth in Raisin. Two excellent appointments.

Cyrus W. Wells has his big auction to-day. A reporter of the Herald has gone up there to see the show and put in his work at the free lunch.

The East Raisin Ball Club will hold an ice cream festival on Friday eve., May 28th, 1880, at the residence of Mr. James Boyd, of Raisin. All are invited.

The great musical festival which will be held in Toledo June 7, 8, 9 and 10 promises to be a brilliant affair.—Mr. Remenyi, the great violinist, is among the soloists.

Mr. J. S. Osgood, of St. Johns, Mich., has been among his Macon friends for the past week. He is doing a good business in St. Johns, dealing in grain, lime, plaster, coal, etc.

Tecumseh will be represented in the largest Sunday School Assembly in the world. John R. Clark delivers "To and Fro in London" August 16th, at Fairpoint, Chautauqua Lake, N.Y.

The great comedy of "Widow Bedott" will be played at the Opera House, in Adrian, this evening. The evening train will be held to accommodate those who may wish to attend from this section.

Luke Wood left home last Monday for a trip to Bridgeport, N. Y., where he intends remaining about two months. Before leaving he called on the "old men's christian association" and bade them an affectionate adieu.

Adrian Times: It's strange how thirsty it will make even a temperance man to hang around a town like Clinton for a couple of hours—where nothing stronger than "sody" can be had for love or money.

Has our friend Hunter been up to Clinton on a visit lately?

Charles Jones got three fingers taken off his left hand last Saturday at Hayden's stave factory. He was tending the engine and by some accident his finger got caught in the machinery and three fingers were badly mutilated. His hand is doing well, but it will be some days before he will be able to work again.

The Brush electric light, the invention of a Cleveland (O.) man, has been adopted after a practical trial by the British government, and an order has just been received by the company that manufactures them in Cleveland for twenty-four large machines and four hundred and thirty-two lamps, the aggregate cost of which will be $80,000. The lights are to be used in the royal navy.

Adrian Times: It is announced that the Detroit and Butler road is to be built and in operation by the first of next December. Those who have been predicting the road never would be built are likely to be disappointed. The only thing to be regretted is, that there is no way in which for those talking against the project, it can be in the future as if the road had not been built.

Clinton News: The Tecumseh Herald announced last week that a Sunday train would commence running on the Jackson branch last Sunday, but as Brother Stacy neglected to notify the Superintendent, the train did not run.

Pretty good. But we have had so much work to do lately for the T.&M. road that the Lake Shore has been thrown in the background. Supt. Blodgett will please accept our apology.

Wm. McCowen has been painting over his store front.

One of the famous Thuken Spring Side Bar Buggies just received by Slayton & Son. If you want to see a beauty just step in there.

A match game of base ball between the Tecumseh club and the Dass club of Detroit, is on the carpet. It will take place the last of this month, probably on the 31st.

The graduating class of the High School this year consists of six members, viz., Mary Campbell, John Wheelan, Albert Arner, Julia Snell, Minnie Jones, Luella Waring.

S. W. Bell, of the celebrated firm of S. W. Bell & Co., of Toledo, was in town last Tuesday selling soap. He placed a lot of orders and departed for home on the afternoon train feeling happy.

R. C. Van Antwerp our veteran ice cream man will be ready for business next Saturday. "Van" made us good cream last summer and will certainly do as well this summer. His rooms are over Ed Merritt's cigar store.

Jim Tray arrived in town on Monday, and has been chosen assistant manager of the base ball club. Will. DeMeyer has been elected Captain.—The club will commence practice at once in preparation for the season's work.

A silver eel, twenty-one inches long and one pound in weight was caught in Comfort's pond last Tuesday evening. Last June the state furnished 7000 small eels which were deposited in the pond, and this is the first fruit gathered. The harvest is beginning to come in sooner than was expected.

Otis W. Bean has rented the O'Row saloon property. Easy now, on drawing your inference. He doesn't propose to sell beer, but will open an office and leather store there, as he finds his increasing business requires an uptown office. And thus we shall have another good business tenant on the West side.

Prof. E. B. Fairfield, of Howell, has been engaged as Superintendent of the Tecumseh Schools for the ensuing year. Prof. Spencer has accepted an invitation to Battle Creek, having been offered a higher salary there than we could afford to pay. Prof. Spencer's administration here has been a very successful one, and we regret his departure, but we have confidence that his successor will worthily fill the position.

The Lenawee County Temperance Association will be held in the M. E. church in the city of Adrian, on Friday, May 28, inst. The session will begin at 10 o'clock A. M., and will continue afternoon and evening. The purpose of the organization is to secure greater harmony and a unity of action among temperance people, and to bring the leading workers together that they may consult together as to the best means of carrying on the temperance work.

The adjourned annual meeting of the Tecumseh Hall Association was held on Monday last. The report of the Treasurer embraced the period from the opening of the hall on Dec. 26, 1878, to May 17, 1880, being for nearly seventeen months. The total income was $1798.75, and the expenditures $1760.84, leaving a balance of cash on hand, of $37.91. Of the expenses reported, $921.93 was for finishing up certain construction items and the repayment in part of a loan made an account of the gas works, &c. But for that, the income would have enabled the Association to have made dividends at the rate of about seven per cent. per annum.

BASE BALL.

The first game of the season was played yesterday afternoon between the East Raisin and Tecumseh Clubs. The weather was pleasant and the game itself was a very creditable one, the score standing 12 to 4 in favor of Tecumseh.

A Pleasant Visit.

Last Thursday afternoon the teachers and pupils of the Presbyterian Sunday School to the number of about two hundred and fifty paid their respects to Cyrus W. Wells, their esteemed superintendent. Mr. Wells has been superintendent of the Presbyterian Sunday School for over five years, having filled the position very efficiently, and his friends turned out en masse to make him a farewell visit before he takes his departure for the West. After an interesting hour in social chat, cakes and ice cream were passed, and a happy time was enjoyed by all. The best wishes of his numerous family of children will accompany Mr. Wells to his new home, wherever it may be.

CENSUS ENUMERATORS.

The Appointments Made for this County.

Hon. John C. Sharp, supervisor of census for this district, has made the following appointments of enumerators of the census for this district, and they have been approved at Washington. We give the names of the enumerators, with the town where they will act, and the number of the district:

145—Adrian, Jay Hoag.
146—Adrian city, First ward, Charles S. Pack.
147—Adrian city, Second ward, Hascall M. Cole.
148—Adrian city, Third ward, Darius C. Dean.
149—Adrian city, Fourth ward, Jesse H. Warren.
150—Blissfield, Joel Carpenter.
151—Cambridge, Frank D. Avery.
152—Clinton, Solomon Brown.
153—Deerfield, Nathan D. Yale.
154—Dover, Henry Bourns.
155—Fairfield, John Phillips.
156—Franklin, William E. Wisner.
157—Hudson, north half, Rosa L. Canniff.
158—Hudson, south half, David R. Stroud.
159—Macon, Darius C. Pennington.
160—Madison, Charles C. Bradish.
161—Medina, Augustus S. Hume.
162—Ogden, Byron Hodges.
163—Palmyra, Madison M. Graves.
164—Raisin, James Cook.
165—Ridgeway, Albert E. Palmer.
166—Riga—Byron Tripp.
167—Rollin, Charles A. Parker.
168—Rome, Charles B. Palmer.
169—Seneca, Erasmus D. Allen.
170—Tecumseh, Witter F. Baxter.
171—Woodstock, William Brown.

The compensation of enumerators has been fixed by the superintendent, except in cities and towns having more than 2,000 inhabitants, as follows:

	Cts.
For each living inhabitant enumerated (schedule No. 1)	2¼
For each farm returned (schedule No. 2)	12½
For each establishment of productive industry returned on the general manufacturing schedule (No. 3)	15
For each establishment of productive industry returned on the special manufacturing schedules	25
For each death reported (schedule No. 5)	5
For each person enumerated on the supplementary schedules relating to the dependent, defective, and delinquent classes (deaf and dumb, blind, insane, idiotic, criminals, paupers, and children in institutions	5
For making lists of names, with age, sex, and color, of all persons enumerated by you under the provisions of section 6, act approved April 20, 1880, for each 100 names	10
For two days' attendance at the court house for the purpose of correcting the schedule of inhabitants, as provided by the said section 6, act of April 20, 1880, two dollars and a half per day, being the maximum allowed by law.

The foregoing rates are subject to the limitation imposed by the proviso to the 10th section of the act of March 3, 1879, that the "compensation allowed to any enumerator in any district east of the 100th meridian shall not exceed an average of $4 per day of 10 hours actual field work each; and the compensation allowed to any enumerator in any district west of the 100th meridian shall not exceed $6 per working day of equal length."

In cities and towns having more than 2,000 inhabitants the rate of 2 cents instead of 2¼ cents a name.

The schedules for taking the manufacturing and social statistics will be withdrawn from the enumerators and intrusted to special agents in the following cities in the first supervisor's district: Detroit, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Adrian, Ann Arbor and Battle Creek.

Supervisor Sharp will at once send to each enumerator the oath of office, and upon its return to him properly executed and certified, will forward to enumerators a commission, instructions, etc. The schedules, enclosed in a portfolio, which in turn will be cased in a cotton sack for greater safety in transmission, will be forwarded direct from the census office at Washington to the enumerators.

Mr. Sharp expects to have everything in readiness for commencing the work promptly June 1, 1880, in each of the 316 enumeration districts. The special agents for taking the manufacturing statistics in foregoing named cities have not yet been appointed.

A Card of Thanks.

To the kind friends, who so generously lent their aid, and gave their sympathy in my recent bereavement, I wish to tender my heartfelt acknowledgements.

H. H. Westcott.

We shall publish at an early day,—probably next week—a full list of the subscribers to the T. & M. railroad in the towns of Franklin, Tecumseh and Ridgeway. Whether we secure the road or lose it, people should know who the public spirited, enterprising citizens of these towns are; and the Herald will be glad to publish these lists without any charge.

James Tray,
Has come to stay,
And join the base ball club.

—Ladies, remember that Miss M. C. Dingman has taken rooms in the rear of A. B. Cotton's store, where she is selling millinery goods cheaper than ever.

DEPARTURE OF DR. HESS.

In the month of May 1879, Dr. G. A. Hess of Rochester N. Y., arrived in town and put up at the Merchants' Hotel. He expected to remain about two weeks, not longer than one month at the outside when he came, but has been in Tecumseh ever since. Dr. Hess is a graduate of the Philadelphia Medical College and has had several years practice in medicine, and he has made a specialty of chronic diseases. He seems to be particularly successful in his treatment of piles, cancers, and similar ailments of a chronic nature. Many a resident of Tecumseh who has been afflicted with these terrible diseases can testify to his skill and success in the treatment of them, as he has affected some wonderful cures of long standing and stubborn cases during his residence among us.

We understand that the Doctor intends to take his departure next week, and that he has selected Grand Rapids as his future location. Knowing what he has done for the sick in this community, we can commend him to the afflicted sons and daughters of Grand Rapids as a skilled and very successful practitioner. As soon as he becomes acquainted in his new location, his practice will speak for itself. The Doctor leaves numerous friends in Tecumseh who will regret his departure.

DIED.

WOODARD—In this village, May 11, Josiah Woodard, in the 82d year of his age.

The deceased was born in New Durham, New Hampshire, in 1798, where he resided until he was twelve years old when his parents removed with their family to N. Y., and settled in Oneida county, where he grew up into manhood. In 1822 he was married to Miss Cloe Cadwell, who still survives him, though at an advanced age, to mourn his loss. After he was married he settled in Vienna, living there until 1853, when he came to Michigan and settled in Tecumseh. Mr. Woodard was converted and connected himself with the M. E. church in 1830, and ever since has been a faithful and honored member, filling the office of class leader for many years with great acceptability, and was highly esteemed by his brethren in the church, and it may be truly said of him he filled up the measure of his day with usefulness. He was a kind husband, a loving father, genial in the social relations of life, upright in his daily walk, beloved and respected by those who knew him best. His last sickness was long and severe, but his end was peaceful, and we doubt not he has entered into his rest.

WESTCOTT—At her home in the village of Tecumseh, May 5th, 1880, Mary, wife of Hiram Westcott, Jr., aged 39 years.

The deceased was united in marriage to Mr. Hiram Westcott May 1, 1865. For fifteen years they have walked life's pathway together. She was a true wife and a devoted mother. No higher eulogy can be pronounced upon any woman. How the children will miss her tender care, and the heart of the husband long for the love and sympathy which she so constantly gave. Truly the central sun of the household has gone down. Yet blessed be God for the sweet promise: "In my Father's house are many mansions." And let us hope that in the golden summer of another life, children, mother and father will gather again in a sweet reunion where partings are unknown.

Where night shall never come,
Nor heaven's long day be o'er,
God and the lambs shall be their light,
Forever more.

CAMPBELL—At her residence in Marquette, Saturday, May 1st, 1880, of apoplexy, Mrs. Maria L. Campbell, relict of the late Rev. Alexander Campbell, aged 67 years.

Mrs. Campbell was born in Geneva, Ontario county, N. Y. When she was quite young her parents removed to Tecumseh, Mich. About twenty-three years ago she came with her husband to Marquette, where she continued to reside until the the time of her death. Until within about a year ago the deceased had enjoyed excellent health. Of late, however, her general health was somewhat impaired by heart disease. On the day of her death she was as well as usual until about one o'clock, when she was taken with dizziness, and soon sank down into a state of entire unconsciousness, and so remained until half past six, when she expired. Mrs. Campbell was a lady of rare qualities. Naturally a person of vigorous mind, she was well informed and took a lively interest in everything which concerned the public good. In social life she was interesting, cheerful and prudent. Her judgment was seldom at fault, and she was staunch in the advocacy of what she conceived to be right. For nearly fifty years she had been a consistent member of the Presbyterian church, and those associated with her in the christian profession can testify to her remarkable diligence in attendance upon the ordinances, and the interest she took in church work. They feel her loss sorely. As a christian she was humble, unobstrusive and steadfast. The nature of her last illness forbade any verbal dying testimony, but in a uniformly consistent and faithful life, she has left the best possible evidence of the depth and genuineness of her religious professions.—Funeral services were held at her late residence on Monday at 10 A. M., when a large company of sorrowing friends were in attendance. Her remains were removed to Tecumseh, Mich., for interment.—Marquette Mining Journal.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

POLITICS THE ONLY TOPIC.

No Adjournment Before July—The Public Buildings.—Hanlan and Courtney.

From our Regular Correspondent.

Washington, May 15, 1880.

The political situation has grown so intensely interesting and exciting during the last two weeks that it is about the only topic of discussion here now among those who give their attention to national affairs. At this writing it does not appear that either the result of the Chicago or Cincinnati Convention is a foregone conclusion. The near approach of the time has not in this case resolved the doubts, as generally happens, but on the contrary, it seems to increase them. We here in Washington, who want to know whom the next occupant of the White House is to be, have got our interest worked up to the highest pitch about now.

The question whether Congress would get through with its labors and adjourn before the Convention is still unsettled so far as any definite action is concerned, though the probabilities are clear enough that it will not. "Taking one consideration with another," as they say in the Pirates of Penzance, it does not seem likely that an adjournment will be reached before July. Much depends upon what course the Democrats take concerning the legislation lately vetoed by the President. The present indications are that they will pass the Garfield-Springer provisions relative to Marshals as a separate proposition, and if then vetoed, no appropriation for Marshals' fees will be made. Something of a contest must arise over such a program, and the result would be considerable loss of time. Night sessions are lately being held by the House but they are "for debate only"—mere wind picnics. The proceedings of both houses are chiefly routine now, embracing appropriations and postponed subjects already referred to in these letters.

In view of the many propositions to erect public buildings in various parts of the country, the refusal of the House to appropriate money to complete the War and Navy Department building is extraordinary, if any absurdity on the part of Congress may be considered extraordinary. The Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds have reported favorable on the construction of sixteen new buildings in the different States. The aggregate cost of these is estimated at $1,450,000. The actual cost, taking the usual rate, may be put down at about $2,000,000. The amount asked for the work on the department building in course of construction here was only $286,000. The public buildings proposed are new ones—the one for which the appropriation was refused is half finished. If there was no more pressing need for the completion of the work begun than for the new buildings contemplated perhaps nothing could be said for one that could not be urged for the other. But it is notorious that for years the Government has spent large sums of money in rental of private buildings. It is still paying annually very much more in this way than the amount refused. The simple question of public economy should be sufficient to determine a matter of this kind. But economy is not the only feature in the case. The private buildings thus occupied by the Government are crowded with valuable public records, the loss of which would be a public calamity. Hundred of tons of original war records, involving millions of dollars in claims against the government, have been stowed away where fire might wipe them out of existence any hour of the day or night. Many of these records are yet subject to destruction by want of fire-proof depositories. They could never be replaced. That no such calamity has occurred is due more to luck than good management. If it does occur and thousands of dollars are asked for to attempt replacement, as in the Patent Office case, the responsibility will be placed where it belongs—on the shoulders of Congressional pettifoggers.

Outside of Congress and outside of politics we are to have some interesting events here during the next few days, which will bring hither vast numbers of people from all sections.—The much talked of rowing match between Hanlan and Courtney is fixed for next Wednesday, and the presence here of both the contestants, together with a large retinue of friends, backers, etc., makes the affair begin to look like business. So much "monkey business" has transpired in connection with the contest heretofore, that many people are skeptical, and up to within a few days odds were freely offered that Courtney would never start in the race, but he is now here and there is scarcely a doubt but that he is in dead earnest. Both men are in splendid condition and both are in hard practice over the course, which they unite in pronouncing excellent. Doubtless the race will be a magnificent exhibition of skill and physical endurance.

The total vote in this State on the question of the amendment of the constitution so as to permit of increasing the Governor's salary was 140,832. Of this number 49,035 voted "yes," and 91,753 voted "no." That settles it!

Decoration day will be duly observed at Pontiac, and the beaviest influences of the Pontiac girls have been brought to bear upon securing the attendance of the Orchard Lake Military Academy cadets. A formal invitation has been sent to the corps.

A. L. McCain, ex-treasurer of the town of Milford, has been absent from home since Monday, and the people are surprised by a statement just made public that he is "short" about $1,100 in his accounts with the town, and is otherwise involved. It is hoped that the case is not as bad as is now reported there.

Flint Globe, May 13: A son of Mrs. Dr. Hughes, aged 11 years, went to Devil Lake Tuesday afternoon with another lad, a little older, on a fishing excursion, but having a double-barrel shot-gun with them. By some means the gun was discharged into young Hughes' abdomen, and he is now lying in a critical condition, with the chances against his recovery.

Mrs. Maria Jones, a widow, aged 65 years, died in Jackson on the 13th. Deceased had been suffering from spinal disease for two years, and for a period of thirty-five days prior to her death had not partaken of a particle of food, either solid or liquid. The only thing that passed her lips during all this time was an occasional teaspoonful of cold water, and yet, strange to say, at the time of her death she was not emaciated. A post mortem examination revealed serious disease of the upper portion of the spinal column and of the brain. The stomach was about one-eighth the normal size, and the walls were as thin as paper.

Wm. Gates, who last week died at Albion, was a noted character. His prominent traits were a daring, venturesome nature, combined with a wonderful amount of endurance.—During the patriot war he, with others, made a raid into Canada, where he was captured by the British, and sentenced to Van Dieman's Land, then a British penal colony. Here Mr. Gates was stripped of every vestige of clothing, and in a nude state compelled, with others, to act as a beast of burden, termed "pack mules," in which condition he remained about two years, when, at the risk of his life, he made his escape, by some of the most wonderful exploits, and eventually reached his native land. For a number of years he has resided at and near Albion, generally respected. The disease of which he died was general paralysis. His age was 65 years.

Sarsaparilla

Is a compound of the virtues of sarsaparilla, stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, with the iodide of potash and iron, all powerful blood-making, blood-cleansing, and life-sustaining elements. It is the purest, safest, and most effectual alterative medicine known or available to the public. The sciences of medicine and chemistry have never produced so valuable a remedy, nor one so potent to cure all diseases resulting from impure blood. It cures Scrofula and all scrofulous diseases, Erysipelas, Rose, or St. Anthony's Fire, Pimples and Face-grubs, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scald-head, Ring-worm, Ulcers, Sores, Rheumatism, Mercurial Disease, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility.

By its searching and cleansing qualities it purges out the foul corruptions which contaminate the blood and cause derangement and decay. It stimulates and enlivens the vital functions, promotes energy and strength, restores and preserves health, and infuses new life and vigor throughout the whole system. No sufferer from any disease which arises from impurity of the blood need despair who will give AYER'S SARSAPARILLA a fair trial.

It is folly to experiment with the numerous low-priced mixtures, of cheap materials, and without medicinal virtues, offered as blood-purifiers, while disease becomes more firmly seated. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is a medicine of such concentrated alterative power, that it is by far the best, cheapest, and most reliable blood-purifier known. Physicians know its composition, and prescribe it. It has been widely used for forty years, and has won the unqualified confidence of millions whom it has benefited.

GRAPE CULTURE.

How to Plant and Take Care of a Michigan Vineyard.

At a recent meeting of the Washtenaw County Pomological Society, the Secretary, Mr. Jacob Gieschen of Ann Arbor, read a paper on grapes, of which we give the material points below.

It will be 20 years in the spring, since I was transplanted from Germany to Michigan, and although yet a boy, I was already passionately fond of the grape, and when I heard men talk on grape growing my ears were wide open, but to my sorrow I observed in their conversation that the climate of this country was considered unfavorable for the production of good grapes. This however in time proved erroneous, for our American grape culture is now permanently established. About that time the light commenced to dawn upon the persevering grape grower by the establishing of Catawba vineyards at Cincinnatti, Harman, Missouri, and on the islands in Lake Erie and other places. Soon after the Delaware and Concord made their appearance which permitted successful grape growing over a large extent of territory; yes, in fact by these two varieties grape culture was made a success all over the country. Now men are masters of the situation. And as a grape producing country we no longer bow to any other country on the globe. We have now placed the lucious grape to be enjoyed by the million—to the poor as well as the rich. This was never before granted to the poor of the old country.

LOCATION.

When we contemplate the planting of a vineyard, the question naturally arises, on what location shall we plant? Some varieties succeed upon any location, free from standing water. However the best grapes and the most uniform crops are obtained on our hilltops. The grape, (while in growth) requires a temperature as uniform as possible between the day and nighttime, and also during the growing season. These conditions are best secured in our locality on our highest elevations. Such a location largely prevents the formation of dew. On the Islands in Lake Erie, the temperature between day and night-time is so near alike that dew is prevented. Now I am not ready to assert that dew is injurious, but it is my conviction that where the temperature is so even between day and night, that dew can not be formed, the grape is most successfully cultivated. The center of my vineyard consisting of two acres is the highest; the ends of the rows are from 10 to 20 feet lower: on the highest ground the grapes ripen fully ten days earlier than they do on the lowest. A hill-side I do not regard as favorable for the reason that the temperature on it is not the most uniform. The highest elevation we can get in our country or State I consider the best. The surrounding country should be lower and no elevated ground of equal height near by. I place a hill-top as best, a side-hill second best, a level plain third best, and a ravine as the worst location.

SOIL AND PLANTING.

No one need to be deterred from planting the grape on account of soil; for it will flourish upon any soil we may select for a garden. A strong clay with sufficient gravel in it to give natural drainage I consider best. Our country abounds in plenty of such soils. The ground should be worked up thoroughly a foot deep, and if the subsoil is loosened to 16 inches all the better. If the soil is thus prepared the planting can go on with dispatch. I plant from 8 to 10 inches deep and make my holes square and level at the bottom. The rows in my vineyard are 10 feet apart and the vines stand 8 feet apart in the rows; and I think I shall plant about the same distance in the future.

PRUNING AND TRAINING.

The grape vine is of such a wonderful structure that it can be formed and trained to almost an endless number of ways. Vines in a garden or against a fence or building, we can train to suit our taste or fancy and grow good grapes. We can in these instances train and prune for the fruit or ornament, or combine both together. A single vine may be trained so as to cover about 20 feet of space, and upwards of thousands of feet and obtain fruit upon almost every foot of space the vine covers from the root to its outer limits. The grape vine bears its fruit always on the last year's growth. This understood, it is easy to proceed to pruning and not commit material errors. The last year's growth is cut back to two joints and from there up to 2 to 3 feet, according to the system adopted for training. By pruning we strengthen the bearing wood; good or large bunches of grapes can not be grown upon feeble wood. The character of the fruit in both quality and size, is largely determined by the previous year's growth, hence a judicious pruning and culture is necessary for the future crop.

Whatever shape or system we adopt to prune, there are general principals, or laws of nature, that govern the welfare of the grape vine, which we must learn and be guided by. Some of these are to know the capacity of the vine for fruiting so as not to permit it to overbear. When the vines are young they easily overbear and in this case they are almost ruined for life. Another important point to be observed, is, to ripen and harden up the new wood during its growth. When we have learned to prune so as to prevent overbearing and produce well ripened wood, we are well advanced in the art of growing grapes. This knowledge can only be acquired by practice and observation. When the vine overbears, the fruit fails to properly color up and the flavor is poor; the leaves are apt to drop from the vines prematurely. When these symptoms are present, the case is a bad one, and not much in the way of fruit can be expected for some years after. Some varieties recover better than others; the Concord is one of these. When a vine bears its crop, it is then in the most exposed condition to overbear, and here we must not shrink from cutting close or thinning the fruit severely. When a man speaks of a large yield of grapes from his young vines, he tells his lack of experience in pruning and trimming.

Now in regard to properly ripened or unripened wood, I can best illustrate this by saying that the former usually has a dark chestnut color. The color, however varies somewhat with the variety; the latter is observed by approaching a straw color and the wood is unusually soft and unusually long jointed. The first year from setting the vine, one cane is usually grown and tied up to a stake. In the year after, this cane is cut back to two or three joints, and is then from six inches to a foot high. Up to this time the pruning is alike for all subsequent training. After this stage of the vine, the variety of systems the vine is recommended to be trained are so great and various from one and another, that it is really complexing to the new beginner to decide which to adopt. For garden culture the arm system is probably the most handsome and ornamental. It is to train permanent arms one to the right and one to the left, and when properly developed, presents the appearance of a picket fence. The arms forming the stringers or bars and the bearing wood the pickets.

CULTIVATION FOR MARKET.

In growing the grape for the market, we are compelled to throw aside all expensive operations inconsistant with profit. It is, of course, the aim to grow the grape of the best quality, a good yield and to produce the result at the lowest possible expense. At the present prices of grapes, and at the prices they will likely have to be sold at in the future, we are forced to study grape culture close. I for these reasons now train my grapes on stakes. I have one stake to each vine. To this stake I train one cane and to the height of about six feet. This cane in time forms a body to the vine. From about 18 inches of the ground I start to grow branches or spurs, on which I grow the fruit. These I shorten to within one to two joints, when I prune in the fall I pinch in the new growth beyond the last bunch of fruit. I do the first pinching as soon as the fruit is in sight and the last bunch on the new cane is strung out. After the end is nipped off, a lateral will at once start out which is also pinched off and beyond the first and second leaf. By the leaves of the laterals new and young leaves are constantly formed which carries the fruit to a proper maturity. If the cane is properly tied to the stake the weight of the fruit will not cause it to slip down, but will keep in an erect and straight position. By this system of training there is no summer-tying required, and the ground can be cultivated both ways of the vine. The saving of tying in the summer and the permission to cultivate both ways materially reduces the expense in growing the grape. This system of training permits a thorough circulation of air and permits plenty of light and sun to all parts of the vine, elements indispensable to secure the best quality of fruit and new wood for the coming crop.

VARIETIES TO CULTIVATE.

As a market grape the Concord stands alone, and towers above all others. For garden culture and for family use, the Delaware, Hartford Prolific, Martha, Rogers No. 3, and No. 15, Salem and Ionia, are good as far as tried in our county. There are promising new varieties that will likely establish themselves as either for the market or safe garden grapes. One of the most promising new white grape which deserves our attention, is a seedling of our friend, Mr. Woodruff. The vine seems extremely hardy, is a good grower and resists disease as well as any variety I am acquainted with. The fruit is very sweet and it seems to be an excellent canning grape. I make mention of this grape because there are other new white grapes now introduced to the public, originated in the East; and as we have a valuable new grape of our own State, it may be well for us to give this a fair trial, believing that it will not disappoint us.

On Streets:

Report in writing on the petition of R. Stretch and J. D. Robbins recommending that the prayer of the petitioners be granted. Adopted and on motion it was Resolved, by the Common Council of the village of Tecumseh, that a plank sidewalk be and the same is hereby required to be constructed along the East line of Maiden Lane, in said village, from the South line of Chicago street to the North line of Pottawatamie street, and that said sidewalk be made four feet wide of pine plank 1½ inches thick and well spiked down on sound white oak or burr oak stringers, not less than 2x4 inches in size, nor more than three feet apart; that said sidewalk be constructed within 30 days from May 17, 1880, on a uniform grade, to the acceptance of the committee on streets, and that that portion of sidewalk, along said line now completed be considered as a full compliance with this resolution.

On Finance:

Report in writing approving of and recommending the payment of the following claims:

Elijah Wilson	$16 20
H. E. Stout	2 00

PETITIONS AND APPLICATIONS.

Petition of A. L. Brewer, C. A. Slayton, C. A. Wright, S. C. Stacy and fifty others praying that the Council take into consideration the necessity of purchasing a team and harness for the use of the Fire Department.

On motion the petition was referred to a special committee consisting of Messrs. Heegan, Fitzsimmons and Smith with instructions to report at next meeting of Council.

NEW BUSINESS.

The following bills against the corporation were presented and referred to Finance Committee:

James Moir, services as Marshall	$5 64
W. Anderson, for 135 brick	1 68
W. E. Gray, for 6 doz. lamp wicks	1 20

On motion the committee on Fire and Fire Limits were instructed to procure forty belts for use of Fire Department.

On further motion it was

Resolved, That an appropriation of one hundred dollars be made from the contingent fund and placed at the disposal of the same committee for the benefit of the Fire Department.

Council then adjourned.

P. S. McKINNON, Recorder.

APPLETONS' JOURNAL for June has a paper by Appleton Morgan, resuming the discussion he began last year on the authorship of the Shakespeare plays. Mr. Morgan in this article reviews all the various theories of their authorship, and gives a most graphic and striking picture of the Shakespearean period. Whether one agrees with Mr. Morgan or not, it is impossible not to enjoy his pungent and suggestive comments. There is the first half of a novelette by Victor Cherbuliez, entitled "Herr Drommel's Inconsistencies," in which the brilliant characteristics of that writer appear at their best. The story is full of wit, point, fresh characterization, and the main situation is certainly a novel one. The editor's departments complete the number, which is full of valuable and very readable material.

MALT UNFERMENTED MALT BITTERS TRADE MARK Malt Bitters Company MALT AND HOPS BITTERS

THERE is no greater BLOOD-PURIFYING and LIFE-GIVING PRINCIPLE in the world of medicine than MALT BITTERS, prepared by the MALT BITTERS COMPANY from Unfermented Malt and Hops. It is a Perfect Renovator of feeble and exhausted constitutions. It enriches the blood, solidifies the bones, hardens the muscles, quiets the nerves, perfects digestion, cheers the mind, and vitalizes with new life every fluid of the body. It is so, because it strikes at the root of all debility—ENFEEBLED DIGESTION and IMPOVERISHED BLOOD. Sold everywhere.

MINNESOTA CHIEF

BEST THRESHER ON WHEELS

Is not a Vibrator nor an Apron Machine. Is wonderfully simple and admirably perfect in its threshing and separating qualities. Saves all the grain, and cleans it ready for market. Runs easily, is constructed durably, is finished beautifully, is the most economical, least expensive, and most satisfactory machine in the market. Will handle wet grain as well as dry. Has no equal in threshing flax and timothy, threshing and cleaning both as well and nearly as rapidly as wheat, and requires no change except the sieves. Has more square feet of separating and cleaning surface than any other machine made, and can not be overloaded. Is both over- and under-blast. Our CLOVER HULLING ATTACHMENT is new and very desirable. Does the work more rapidly and better than an exclusively Hulling Machine.

SEPARATORS of the various sizes fitted for Steam or Horse Power, as desired.

An Improved Pitts Power, an Improved Woodbury Power, and the Elward Equalizing Power, all mounted on four wheels, are manufactured by us, and are not surpassed by any in the market.

We are also prepared to furnish first-class Portable Engines with our Separators.

Literary Revolution and Universal Knowledge.

An Encyclopædia in 20 vols., over 16,000 pages; 10 per cent more matter than any Encyclopædia ever before published in this country, and sold, handsomely and well bound, in cloth for $10, in half morocco for $15, and printed on fine heavy paper, wide margins, bound in half Russia, gilt top, for $20—an enterprise so extraordinary that its success, beyond all precedent in book publishing, may be fairly claimed to inaugurate a Literary Revolution.

THE LIBRARY OF UNIVERSAL KNOWLEDGE is a reprint entire of the last (1879) Edinburgh edition of "Chambers's Encyclopædia," with about 40 per cent of new matter added, upon topics of special interest to American readers, thus making it equal in character to any similar work, better than any other suited to the wants of the great majority of those who consult works of reference, and altogether the latest Encyclopædia in the field.

Specimen Volumes in either style will be sent for examination with privilege of return on receipt of proportionate price per volume.

Special Discounts to all early subscribers, and extra discounts to clubs. Full particulars with descriptive catalogue of many other standard works equally low in price, sent free.

Leading principles of the American Book Exchange:

I. Publish only books of real value.
II. Work upon the basis of present cost of making books, about one half what it was a few years ago.
III. Sell to buyers direct, and save them the 50 to 60 per cent commission commonly allowed to dealers.
IV. The cost of books when made 10,000 at a time is but a fraction of the cost when made 500 at a time—adopt the low price and sell the large quantity.
V. Use good type, paper, etc., do careful printing, and strong, neat binding, but avoid all "padding," fat and heavily-leaded type, spongy paper and gaudy binding, which are so commonly resorted to to make books appear large and fine, and which greatly add to their cost, but do not add to their value.
VI. To make $1 and a friend is better than to make $5 and an enemy.

AROUND THE COUNTY.

SOUTH MACON.

Corn planting is not very uniform this spring, some are plowing, others are planting, and a few are cultivating.

Wheat is heading out, and on heavy soils looks well; loose soils very poor. Some have replaced with oats.

John Henry has just returned from visiting his son C.R.Henry Esq. in the northern part of the state. He reports Charley in good health and doing well; he has just completed his new dwelling house, which is the second best one in the village where he lives. Charley has twenty cases now pending in the circuit court of that county. That looks like business.

L. Osgood is plastering his house. G. V. Osgood is putting a basement story under his barn. W. H. Osborn is doing the same and adding 24 ft. in length.

A. Russell is building a granery.

H. L. Stewart lost a horse last Sunday; cause, overwork.

The sugar social at the hall last Wednesday night was a good one, net receipts a little over $9.

R. E. Frazer and J. Shoemaker of Ann Arbor will lecture before the Red Ribbon club, Saturday evening, June 6. Mr. Frazer is one of the best speakers in the state, and it is hoped there will be a full house.

The memorial services on the death of Alicia and Lenny Remington, Monta, Sabia and Percy Rogers at the church last Sabbath were sublime beyond comparison. The individual character delineations by Rev. Mr. De Spelder were grand, the speeches by Rev. A. B. Wood, P. Sharp, and Dr. Geo. Howell, good, the singing splendid, and the entire program reflected great credit on those having it in charge, and gave great consolation to the afflicted families from the fact of their being compelled through quarantine regulations, to bury their dead with but little ceremony. At the close of the exercises the congregation repaired to the cemetery near by and a committee decorated the graves of the departed with flowers. All united in saying that it excelled any funeral ceremonies they had ever witnessed.

CLINTON.

Screen doors in order.

Ninety-two in the shade.

Not a team on our streets at this writing, and none headed this way as far as heard from.

E. G. Cook and wife returned from their visit to Vermont last Saturday.

Citizens' meeting at the town hall to-night to perfect arrangements for the coming 4th of July celebration. The citizens propose having a grand celebration, the proceeds to go toward discharging a debt against the Clinton cemetery association of about $350. The object is in every way a very noble one and deserves the hearty co-operation of all.

The Clinton band claims priority in the matter of holding a 4th of July celebration at this place, and consequently are very busy in completing their arrangements for the same. They seem determined, and the result according to present indications would warrant the belief that we are to be favored with a double celebration, but each independent of the other.

If there be no more travel on our streets for the next two weeks, than there has been for the two last, it will be necessary to convert them into a hay field. Some one would be willing perhaps to cut the hay on shares, especially that deserted subdivision heretofore known as Main streat.

Prof. Wendell has tendered his resignation as principal of our Union schools, to take effect at the close of this term, and accepted the position of principal of the Hudson high schools.

D. Woodward talks of moving his plow works to Manchester.

O. E. Carpenter the blacksmith moves to Manchester in a few days.

The Baptist social was this week Tuesday at the parsonage.

The Reform Club elected officers Monday evening.

The Good Templars are to have an ice cream and strawberry festival Saturday evening the 29th.

Another meat market is to be put in operation this week under the direction of Geo. Runyon. Three meat markets in this small town ought to keep us masticating tough bovines.

Next Sunday Mr. Bontecue of Jackson will talk on temperance.

Tuesday evening of this week a meeting was held to consider the feasibility of holding a 4th of July celebration, in the interest of the band, to be held on the 3d of July.

Fred Sturms is reshingling his building on the east side of Jackson St.

A meeting that is styled the children's meeting is to come off Sunday at both the M. E. and Congregational churchs. If we understand the thing, it is a centennial recognition of the Sabbath school enterprise.

RIDGEWAY.

Peter Sharp is repainting his store and residence.

John C. Palmer has commenced building.

Dr. Irish and wife are spending a few days in Detroit.

Albert Pulcipher, of Clinton, was in our village last Sunday.

Active preparations are being made for the accommodation of visitors during the coming S. S. Institute.

Parties have been looking up the right of way on both of the Butler surveys through this township.

Isn't it about time we began to make preparations for a Fourth of July?

Rev. De Spelder will fill the M. E. church pulpit next Sunday evening.

Havn't the Ridgeway nine pluck enough to play the Raisin boys? The Raisin club are anxious to wipe out the last year's record, to which the Times' correspondent calls their attention, and 'twould be but fair to give them a chance. Come boys, stand up to the rack.

During the thunder boom last week the lightning struck one of Dan. Allen's shade trees, a few feet from his house.

Temperance lectures on Sunday evening, June 6th. Robert Frazer, of Ann Arbor, and John Shoemaker are announced for that evening. The mention of the names of these popular speakers ought to insure a good attendance.

Mrs. Frank Pocklington met with a painful accident on Monday morning. While in the act of splitting a board for kindling the axe flew off the helve, the edge striking her in the face, splitting her nose in a frightful manner.—The wound is doing well. Had the blow been received in the forehead it would have probably penetrated the skull.

FRANKLIN.

Deacon E. Cook and lady start this week on a visit to the state of New York expecting to be absent two or three weeks.

Alonzo F. Peters will bring his family to Tipton this week, having decided to become a permanent resident of our village.

Our very sedate friend, Burt Crittenden claims the medal (and we award him a leather one) as an egg hunter, having recently found a guinea hen's nest containing 53 eggs, and he is now as jolly as other men.

Our merchants are doing a good business for this season of the year and we believe a good general store that would meet the demands of the community would be well sustained as people are now compelled to go elsewhere for many articles not kept here and consequently purchase many goods that are kept and could be sold as cheap as in Tecumseh and Adrian. And we know of no better field for a good reliable shoe maker than this affords, as we have not even a cobbler in this community, and the first to occupy it we believe will not regret it.

The Railroad matter appears to be at a stand still again, and it is pretty generally believed but little more money can be raised unless some definite route should be established thereby removing the uncertainty that exists as to the relative benefits to be secured. But we have already worn the matter thread bare, and will wait the developments of time.

Fremont Hunter, of our band, is now teaching the Springville band recently organized, and we have no doubt will succeed admirably having had several years of practice both in the Tecumseh and our own bands and has a considerable reputation as a musician. Success, friend Free.

We understand our band has already received an invitation to play at Clinton on the 4th of July. Think the Clinton people are getting high toned to employ city bands when they have one of their own. However it shows their appreciation of good music.

Farmers having finished their planting, are now busy washing their sheep and if present prospects are realized as to price of wool business will soon be lively, money plenty, and everybody correspondingly happy. S. A.

Clinton News: The cut-worm is doing considerable damage in this neighborhood. A number of our farmers have had to re-plant their corn and oats in consequence.

RAISIN VALLEY.

The rainfall last Tuesday was very acceptable to farmers in this vicinity as it was greatly needed.

Wm. Charles was present at our last week's prayer meeting.

Mrs. Chas. Standart, is visiting at the home of Mrs. J. L. Standart this week.

Rev. Wm. Grandy preached at the M. E. church last Sabbath afternoon.

The May meeting of the W. C. T.U. was held at the residence of Mrs. Moses Comfort on last Wednesday afternoon.

Prof. Owen has accepted the invitation to deliver the address to the seminary class of '80.

The M. E. Sabbath School are making arrangements for observing decoration day here. Mr. Pearce will deliver the address.

The supervisor and supt. of schools have both been making official visits in this section of late.

Frank Rogers was home last week, it being vacation at the agricultural college. He reports about one hundred and fifty in attendance at the college this spring. Although Frank is well pleased with college life he has not forgotten his old teachers at the Seminary, as he spent a whole day visiting them.

THE TEXAS PACIFIC JOB.

The Recent Movement in Congress for an Investigation—Mr. J. J. Newell, of Adrian, the Principal Witness Relied Upon.

It has been an open secret in political circles for a long time that a huge job was concealed under the Texas Pacific R. R. Charter, granted by Congress a few years ago. A Mr. George has lately come forward in Washington with serious charges against the corporation which he asks Congress to investigate. The Chicago Times of last Saturday has a long dispatch from Washington in relation to the scandal from which it appears that J. J. Newell, of Adrian, is the principal witness in the affair. The Times gives Gen. Newell's statement as follows:

Mr. Bond in his interview of the 21st says: "The real agent in this scheme to blackmail or prevent any legislation favorable to the Texas Pacific, is one J. J. Newell." What Mr. Bond calls blackmailing on my part is this: I did call on him and other members of the board on the 11th and other days and demanded of them the sum of $20,000 with interest for five years, not on a pretended contract with Morton (as stated by Bond,) but on a contract with Col. Thomas A. Scott, in his capacity as president of the Texas Pacific road. This I will show further on. I will now take up the matter as set forth in the George letter of the 17th. My connection with the parties began in May, 1870. On the 3d of July, 1870, the Texas Pacific (not the El Paso, as stated by Bond) bill passed the senate. I speak of the bill known as the Howard-Kellogg bill. By an amendment of Senator Nye.

THE FREMONT INCORPORATORS

were put in the Texas Pacific bill, which gave the Fremont interest control of the organization. Between the time of the passage of the bill in the senate, viz: July 3, 1870, and the time it was acted on in the house, Fremont tranferred his entire interest to Marshall O. Roberts, of New York. Fears were entertained that the bill from the senate could not pass the house, and arrangements were made to overcome opposition. It was then that an arrangement was made between Roberts and R.C. Parsons for the distribution of $1,000,000 of land grant mortgage bonds of the Texas Pacific road. Parsons was to have 10 per cent. for disbursing the bonds. The question is, did Parsons disburse the bonds? If he did, then there was due him $100,000 of said bonds.

THE FOLLOWING EXTRACT

from a letter dated April 20, 1880, is good reading:

OFFICE OF THE CLEVELAND HERALD, EDITORIAL ROOMS, April 20, 1880.—Your letter received. I supposed you had long since received your fees, and that I was the only one Mr. Scott had declined to pay. * * * * I had a written contract with the original parties for one hundred bonds. I have it still. Mr. S. paid me $5,000 at one time, $3,000 at another, and I gave him a receipt for $8,000.

R. C. PARSONS.

To J. J. Newell.

Is it true that I was trying to blackmail Col. Scott, or was I endeavoring to collect a debt due me by him as per an agreement? Let the following letters and telegrams

SPEAK FOR THEMSELVES:

Washington, D. C., Jan. 5, 1875—To J. J. Newell, Adrian, Mich.: Come here. Want to see you.

B. F. GRAFTON.

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 7, 1875.—To B. F. Grafton, Washington, D. C.: Senatorial caucus to-night. Can I get a settlement by coming to Washington?

J. J. NEWELL.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 8, 1875.—To J. J. Newell, Lansing, Mich.: You can put claim in shape to secure it.

B. F. GRAFTON.

Washington, D. C., April 12, 1880.—Col. J. J. Newell, Washington, D. C.: Colonel, in reply to your inquiry I have to say that I was present at an interview between you and Col. Thos. A. Scott at Willard's hotel in this city, in the month of January, 1875, and the matter of the indebtedness of the Texas Pacific road for services rendered by you was there considered, and Col. Scott, in behalf of said company, agreed to pay you for such service $20,000 in the land-grant bonds of said company. The payment was to be made after the adjournment of congress, but not conditional on obtaining any legislation. B. F. GRAFTON.

IT WAS ABOUT THIS TIME

that the Texas and Pacific was organizing its forces to make a raid on congress for a moneyed subsidy and was very profuse in promising to settle up for past work and work to be done in the future. What was Mr. Scott's settling with me at that time? The following can throw some light on the subject:

Washington, April 21, 1880.—J. J. Newell—Dear Sir: In answer to yours of the 15th inst., in regard to the old unsettled matters of the Texas Pacific railroad company, and whether contracts were made with yourself and others, I have to state that contracts were made in 1870 and approved by Gen. Fremont, by which yourself and others and E. W. Rice and myself were to have in payment for money expended and professional services rendered $50,000 each in the bonds of the company so soon as the company could reasonably issue the same. * * Mr. Roberts told me soon after he sold his interest in the road to Mr. Scott, that one of the conditions of the sale with Col. Scott was that those claims should be paid, and that Col. Scott would settle them as soon as he could get in working order. Yours truly,

G. H. GIDDINGS.

Having now shown the right I have to make a claim on the Texas and Pacific, and shown the falsity of the charge of blackmail made by Mr. Bond, I will rest the case till I can get a committee of congress to investigate, with power to send for persons and papers. Then I will show that all Mr. George claims in his letter to the committee will be made manifest.

J. J. NEWELL.

A SAD AFFLICTION.

Drowning of G. W. Westerman's Youngest Son at Adrian.

Last Tuesday evening Geo. Westerman, the youngest son of G. W. Westerman, Esq., of Adrian, was drowned while bathing in the red mill race. We condense the following particulars from the report in the Times:

This boy with some eight or ten companions was in swimming and they were diving from the flume at the head of the mill race into the water below. Just before taking the fatal dive, Westerman said, "Boys, this is my last dive, and then I'm going home." Inasmuch as he was an expert swimmer for a boy of his age, and frequently made a long swim under water, the boys thought nothing of the fact that he did not come immediately to the surface, thinking perhaps he had crawled under the waterfall, as they were, some of them, in the habit of doing. But the boys concluded after some moments, as Westerman did not appear, that something must be wrong, and they commenced diving for him, but at first without success. Some of the boys ran down town and informed an officer of the facts, and soon Constable Winchip, Marshal Todd, Westerman's father, and others were at the scene. In diving, a boy named Holloway, touched one of Westerman's feet, and with the assistance of young Parker and other boys, succeeded in rescuing the body.

When taken out of the water, the body was still warm in some parts, but all efforts to restore life proved unavailing. There was a skull cap on the head, and the mouth was open partly, as in life. The boy has been unable to breathe through his nose for some years, and has been obliged to keep his mouth open in order to breathe.

Young Westerman has been subject to fits, and one theory is, that he was taken with one of these fits while in the water, and died in convulsions.—The limbs were not cramped when the body was found. The remains were at once taken to the residence of the boy's father on Spring Brook avenue, not far distant, and a physician arrived in a short time. Life was totally extinct, however, and further efforts at resuscitation were useless.

Mr. Westerman was well known throughout the county, and he will have the sympathy of every one in this trying affliction.

A BOLD BURGLARY.

The Adrian Times of last Saturday gives the following particulars of a bold and successful attempt at burglary which took place the night previous:

When the family of John Wiesinger, an employee at the railroad shops, who lives on Toledo street, not far from Tecumseh street, awoke this morning, it was apparent that burglars had visited the house during the night.

The family sleep up-stairs, and none of them heard any peculiar noise during the night, which was a very stormy one.

This morning, a bed-room window, downstairs, was found raised, being propped up by a stick. The robbers entered the house through this window, proceeded to the parlor, and removed from a bureau one of the drawers, and brought it back into the bedroom. In this drawer was a tin box containing $100 in bills and some fifteen or sixteen dollars in silver. The box containing the money was carried away, and the bureau drawer was left lying on the bed.

The loss was discovered about half past five o'clock this morning, an officer was soon notified, but up to this writing the perpetrators of the robbery have not been discovered.

THE FAMILY CIRCLE.

NEARER HOME

One sweetly solemn thought
Comes to me o'er and o'er
I'm nearer my home to-day
Than I ever have been before

Nearer my Father's house,
Where the many mansions be,
Nearer the great white throne,
Nearer the crystal sea,

Nearer the bosom of the
Where we lay our burdens down,
Nearer leaving the cross,
Nearer gaining the crown.

But lo, the waves of this silent sea
Roll dark before my sight
That brightly the other side
Break on a shore of light.

Oh, if my mortal feet
Have almost gained the brink
It is but I am nearer home
Even to-day than I think

Father, perfect my trust,
Let my spirit feel in death
That her feet are firmly set
On the Rock of a living faith.

THE HERMIT.

A Curious Case of Mistaken Identity.

Away to the base of the beetling crags and cliffs of the hoary Sierras stands a lonely cabin, where only ruin and desolation mark what might have once been a pleasant, if not a happy home.

Well do I remember the dark, tempestous night that a friend and myself passed beneath its roof, but a few years since. While seated before a glowing fire, for it was late in autumn, he gave me the following history of the place, which is so strange that I think its interest will warrant me in placing it before your readers.

Notwithstanding that it was miles from any habitation, several years before a solitary individual had appeared in the vicinity, and, out of the material that he procured from the neighboring forest, built this rude cabin.

He was a stranger to all who met him and, seeming to avoid rather than to seek acquaintances, he soon became known as "The Hermit of Lone Cabin."

Three years passed, and the unknown still lived in his seclusion, subsisting upon the game that he readily procured with the aid of his rifle.

One day about this time, as the hermit, contrary to his usual habit, visited the nearest settlement, twenty miles below, he was met by a new-comer in the place, who greeted him with the familiarity of an old friend.

Appearing surprised, he denied ever having seen the other, and would fain have left him, but the would-be associate seized him by the collar, exclaiming:

"You can't deceive me, Loren Gray. I knew you the moment I saw you, though five years have changed your looks greatly. Don't you remember Frank Chapman? I am he. Come, old boy, I want to show you to another old friend whom I know you will be glad to see."

Still the hermit, confused and excited, protested that his name was not Loren Gray, and that he had never met the other.

"Won't do, old chap; you can't deceive me by playing off in that way," was the reply he received. "I know that you are Loren Gray, and I have a friend down to the Eagle House who desires to see you on most important business. Come with me, and if he don't recognize you I'll stand the drinks for the crowd," for by this time quite a knot of spectators had gathered around the spot, eager to know what was up.

Yielding with great reluctance, the hermit was half dragged by the impetuous stranger down to the public house, followed by a throng of lookers-on.

"I tell you it's a mistake," repeated the victim; "my name is not Loren Gray, but——"

By this time they had entered the building, and the stranger, turning quickly to a young man lying on a dry goods box near at hand, indolently smoking his pipe, cried:

"Here Al, I have found him."

Springing to his feet in surprise, the one addressed, who did not seem to be more than 21 or 22 years of age, but with a tall, athletic form, turned upon the intruders.

As he caught sight of the hermit he staggered back like one shot, and, pressing his hand to his forehead, exclaimed:

"Loren Gray!"

"Yes," cried his friend triumphantly, "I found him less than five minutes ago, but he has the audacity to deny his identity."

Unheeding the words, the young man faced the hermit, and, as his piercing eyes met the other's, he said, hoarsely trembling with passion:

"Have you forgotten me Loren Gray?"

"For mercy's sake, tell me what this means! I am not Loren Gray, and neither do I know you."

"Bah you need not think to escape by your lies. I have not hunted for you this five years to be baffled now that I have found you. If you do not remember me, have you forgotten my sister, whom you betrayed and murdered?"

"I——"

"Not a word, dog! You can offer no atonement for the wrong that you have done save the sacrifice of your life. But I wish to take no advantage and I challenge you to meet me in mortal combat."

"No," cried the other, "You are a stranger to me, and I have no quarrel with you. I must decline to fight you."

As the hermit spoke the words, which to the minds of the rough men around him marked him a coward, the room rung with their cries of derision.

The young stranger, too, his face nearly colorless with rage, uttered a contemptuous cry as he dealt the man a smart blow upon the cheek.

"There, see if that will not awaken you. I say that one of us must die. Take your choice of weapons and meet me at once. I am impatient to have it over. I care but little though I fall, if I can know ere I die that the untimely fate of my poor sister has been avenged. Come, Norman," addressing his companion, "you will be my second, while he can select whom he will. If I fall, you know my request. Don't let him escape. Well, Loren Gray, dare you meet me like a man, or have you only courage enough to war upon defenseless woman?

The hermit, fairly writhing under the treatment he had received, could only look upon him in silence.

The excited crowd began to hoot him, and the confusion was becoming ominous of danger to the trembling man, when the avenger silenced them with a move of his hand.

Then, drawing a brace of heavy revolvers, he extended them both toward the other.

"Take one," he said, fiercely. "I see you are not armed; but they are loaded alike, and you have nothing to fear from that score."

Without a word the bewildered victim mechanically took one of the proffered fire-arms.

Mid the applause of the crowd, the duelist led the way to the door, and out into the open air.

Jostled and pushed by the excited spectators, the hermit slowly followed.

Once outside and the young stranger's second began to measure off the ground for the duel.

As the preliminaries were arranged the duelists took the positions assigned them.

The challenger impatiently waited the slow movements of his foe.

"I call upon you to witness," said the recluse of Lone Cabin, addressing the spectators, "that this is no quarrel of mine. But, that after the treatment I have received from this man, whom I positively say I never saw before, I am driven to this. If I fall, please see that I have proper burial. As a last favor I beg that you will not in any way try to discover my identity. Will you promise that?"

Receiving the hearty assent of the by-standers, the man signified that he was in readiness for action.

Then succeeded the ominous "one, two, three, fire," when the young stranger rapidly discharged his weapon, and with such accuracy that his antagonist reeled forward and fell to the earth, without making a hostile movement.

Smiling grimly, the slayer remained motionless, as the spectators rushed to the side of the fallen man.

"Is he dead?" cried one.

"Dead as a stone!" exclaimed a tall, weather-beaten mountaineer, who was bending over the silent form.

"Then my work is done, and the wrongs my poor sister suffered are avenged!" said the young stranger, as he turned to join his companion.

Meanwhile some of the others began to make preparations for the burial of the unfortunate hermit.

While a couple were in the act of raising the body to bear it away, they were surprised to see the long, flowing beard worn by the unknown persoft fall to the ground, and a face as white and smooth as a maiden's suddenly disclosed to their gaze.

A glance told them that it was false, and that the hermit of Lone Cabin was a woman!

In the height of the excitement following the discovery, the stranger duelist reached the spot, and, as he caught sight of the fair countenance, he cried:

"My God! it is my sister!" and fell senseless.

To cut the story short, by the time the speaker recovered his consciousness after the fearful shock he had received the wounded one began to show signs of returning life.

It was then found that, though the shot had barely escaped being fatal, it was not likely to prove so.

A long sickness followed, however, and it was months before the whole story was known.

"The hermit of Lone Cabin was indeed the sister of him who had nearly become her murderer. Years before, she had met and loved a man by the name of Warren Arnold, but on the day before that fixed for their wedding he had disappeared, and she, nearly broken hearted, was a few days after abducted, and borne away to the mountain retreat of a band of road agents, the leader of whom was none other than her false lover.

More grief-stricken than ever she succeeded in escaping; but, somewhat erazed, instead of returning to her friends she had sought a life of loneliness. Her brother Ralph, who had been away at school for three years, learned of her misfortunes and supposed death, and returned to his home to begin a search for the villain who had been the cause of so much suffering.

Warren Arnold's true name was Loren Gray, and Ralph ever spoke of him by that name, though his sister had never known him by it.

Accompanied by his friend, Norman Arlin, he had sought far and wide for him, but to make at last that well-nigh fatal error in mistaking the "hermit" for his foe.

As his sister had not seen him for eight years, and at a time when there is the most change in one's appearance she had not recognized him.

When she was able, they all returned to their homes a happy company.

Later, Norman Arlin, became her husband, and a new life dawned for her.

The Lone Cabin stands, a memento of the past.

THE MULE AND THE LOCOMOTIVE.

A California community has surpassed the atrocity of Spanish bullfights by a match between a mule and a locomotive. The mule was a large and bony army mule, and the locomotive was one of the celebrated Paterson breed. A circular track was built in a large temporary amphitheater, on which the locomotive was run at full speed, and the mule was let loose into the arena to deal with its antagonists as it saw fit. The mule watched the locomotive for some time, with its ears in a threatening attitude, and when the locomotive had attained a speed of full fifty miles an hour, backed up in front of it and delivered a kick with both feet. The locomotive was brought to an instant stop trembling in every wheel, while a hot prespiration of steam covered its surface. After being carefully sponged off and stimulated with small coals, the miserable locomotive was again set in motion. This time the mule kicked it with such terrific violence as to break its funnel short off, and to smash its head-light. Moaning with pain, the locomotive was once more sponged, and its wounds bound up with sheet-iron. At this point several ladies left the amphitheater, being unable to witness any longer so brutal a spectacle, but the inhuman owner of the locomotive ordered time to be called, and the combat to be renewed. The mule waited till the locomotive was running at an estimated speed of sixty-seven miles an hour, and then delivered his final kick. The hapless locomotive was hurled some thirty feet from the track, and was taken up with its boiler ruptured, its eccentrics dislocated, and its connecting-rods broken. It breathed its last steam in a few moments in great apparant suffering, and the mule was declared the victor.

The use of St. Jacobs Oil is indeed followed by the most wonderful results. More than a dozen cases have come to my knowledge where St. Jacobs Oil effected speedy cures, but I will only mention one instance. A man suffering for twenty-four years from Rheumatism was induced to try the St. Jacobs Oil. He used a few bottles of this truly wonderful remedy, and is now entirely well once more.

W. Reinhart, Elmore, Wis.

A Western man, having lost his wife, was accosted by a sympathizing friend, who remarked upon his woe-begone appearance. "Well, I guess you would look thin too," was the melancholy rejoinder "if you had to get up before daylight, make the fires, draw water, split wood, and feed the cattle, all before breakfast. I just tell you what it is, if I don't get somebody to fill poor, dear, sainted Maria's place, I will be resting by her side before many weeks are past.

It Never Fails. Hill's Compound Extract of Buchu and Cubebs, has never failed in a single instance in making a permanent cure for Kidney Complaints and all diseases of the Urinary Organs, in either sex. Thousands have tried it.

A little girl in Oil City, just recovering from scarlet fever, is greatly petted by her indulgent parents, who buy her any number of toys and nice things. A few days ago she said, "Mamma, I believe I'll ask papa to buy me a baby carriage for my doll." The mother—a precocious youngster of only six years of age—spoke up at once, and said, "I would advise you to strike him for it right away, then; you won't get it when you get well."

As a Cure for Piles, Kidney-Wort acts first by overcoming in the mildest manner all tendency to constipation; then, by its great tonic and invigorating properties, it restores to health the debilitated and weakened parts. We have hundreds of certified cures, where all else have failed. Use it and suffer no longer.

A bad habit is much better broken than kept.

SANITARY SCIENCE.

BED-MAKING.

As I have been asked by members of the Common Council to write an article on Sanitary Science for your excellent paper, I have chosen Bed-making for my theme, out of the numerous topics that present themselves to my mind. It is quite perplexing to choose one, but as all, or nearly all, persons sleep in beds, it may not be unprofitable to look at this somewhat. Tidy housekeepers take a pride in having everything done in good time, and this is truly commendable. So much so has the notion prevailed that many persons think it not good housekeeping to let the beds go unmade a very long time after breakfast, and yet others make them up as soon as they leave them and thus save time and trouble. A great many think it very slack and untidy not to make them up until after dinner. Now the true theory is to leave the beds unmade as long a time as can be, only have them ready when they are to be occupied. Many persons sleep in close and badly ventilated rooms, and if the rooms are open and well ventilated, yet many perspire a good deal when they sleep, and all persons throw off waste matter and insensible perspiration. The entire amount of fluid which is insensibly lost by the cutaneous and pulmonary surfaces is estimated by Leyurn at 18 grains per minute, of which 11 grains pass off by the skin and 7 by the lungs. The maximum loss by exhalation, cutaneous and pulmonary during 24 hours, except under very peculiar circumstances, is 5 lbs.; the minimum 1¾ lbs. Now as we sleep one-third of the time, 18 hours out of 24, and children a much longer time, the bed will become quite contaminated with the waste matter and perspiration, and sometimes quite wet. There is reason to believe that at least 100 grains of ozotized matter are excreted from the skin every day. Now it becomes absolutely necessary to good health to thoroughly air and dry the beds. This can be done by throwing open the windows and doors of the sleeping rooms and open up the beds, and let them thoroughly air and dry. Put the beds out in the sun often and leave them all day. Sheets should be changed at least once a week, and beds occupied by the sick should be changed every day or two, and not left under any circumstances longer than three days; also the quilts and other parts of the bed should be changed often and thoroughly dried. Persons sick may be changed from one bed to another every 12 hours to a good advantage; use one at night and another in the day time. After a death, or recovery from any contagious or infectious disease, the bedding should be burned or exposed to superheated steam, to a degree of dry heat equal to 240°, or be thoroughly boiled, and the bedstead should be thoroughly disinfected before the bed is put up for use. With this care and attention many times, diseases may be prevented from spreading, and those diseases that arise from decaying animal matter may be avoided.

H. PETERS, M. D.

SICKNESS IN THE FARM-HOUSE.

Dr. Goddar, of Massachusetts, was once asked, and answered, the following question:

"Have you seen sickness produced by decaying vegetables in the cellars of farm-houses?"

"Think I have. For instance, the case of a farmer of means, his wife, and five children. Four sickened in September of typhoid fever, and three died. In the celler were found half-decayed cabbages and other vegetables, half a barrel of old fish-brine, and filth generally, so that the smell was noticeable rods from the house when cleared out by the doctor's direction."

Through that cellar typhoid fever sneaked into the house. A writer in the New York Times says: "Miasm is the most subtle foe of the farmer's home. It is generated in his barnyard, cess-pool, cellar; soaks into his well, and appears on his table in the form of limpid water; enters his bedroom by night, and poisons the very air he breathes."

And all this from the want of a little intelligence and a little painstaking.

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly.

The June number of this favorite magazine containg several highly interesting and admirably illustrated articles. "The Ferry Across the Atlantic," by W. H. Rideing, is replete with vivid descriptions of a voyage on an ocean steamer. Captain Payne, U. S. A., in his "Indian Story Land" relates adventures of thrilling interest. "Berlin and the Berlinese," "Revolutionary Reminiscences," "The Alpine Tunnels" are among other prominent features of the number. The Popular Science Monthly for June.

The Popular Science Monthly for June abounds in fresh and instructive articles. Paul R. Shipman opens the ball with a trenchant discussion of the old question of the classics, which must be kept hot until they are got out of the way sufficiently to make more room for scientific studies. Mr. Shipman, under the title of "The Classics that Educate Us," shows up the futility of the latest pretext for holding on to Latin and Greek; and he demonstrates unanswerably that it is high time, and past high time, that the pursuit of these studies under the old conditions were abandoned. The series of papers by Dr. Charles Richet on "Hysteria and Demonism" is continued, and the present one is full of the most important information, given in vivid and graphic terms. Professor de Quatrefages has an able paper on "The Crossing of the Human Races," throwing important light upon questions of profound American interest. The progress of geographical science for the last two years is compactly and attractively presented by Chief Justice Daly, and his paper is followed by an elaborate and invaluable article on "Dress in Relation to Health," by that eminent hygienic authority, Dr. B. W. Richardson. This is one of the papers that for everybody's reading is worth twice the annual subscription of the Monthly. The copious Literary Notices are followed by an unusually full and attractive summary of recent science in the Popular Miscellany. New York: D. Appleton & Company. Fifty cents per number, $5 per year.

IN all towns where a newspaper is published, every business man should advertise in it, even if it is nothing more than a card stating his name and the business he is engaged in. It helps to sustain a paper, and lets the people at a distance know the town is full of business men. The paper finds its way into thousands of places where handbills will never reach. A card is a "traveling sign board," and can be seen by every reader. The HERALD has a large circulation, and with the aid of our business men, for a local advertising medium cannot be excelled. Think of this and let your light shine.

Feels Young Again.

THE facilities enjoyed by the boys learning to smoke are much greater than they used to be. Formerly a boy had to chip in with two or three others and buy a strong three cent cigar and cut it up and the second whiff would make his stomach crawl up his throat, and he wouldn't care whether it did or not, but now he can get a mild cigarette with just enough tobacco to keep his stomach right side up and after he can keep his eyes in their sockets, he goes for a stronger one. The boys of to-day have a soft thing in the great struggle to become smokers.

THE READY FAMILY SOAP MAKER:

LEWIS' LYE

98 PER CENT. PURE. (Patented.)

FINELY POWDERED. HIGHLY PERFUMED.

The strongest and purest Lye made. Will make 12 pounds of the best Perfumed Hard Soap in 20 minutes without boiling. The best water-softener made. The best disinfectant. The following are some of the advantages obtained by using Lewis' 98 Per Cent. Powdered Lye:

First. It is packed in an iron can with a slip or removable lid, easily taken off and leaving the contents exposed, thereby saving the trouble, annoyance, and danger (from flying particles), as with other Lyes, which, being sold in the same, must be broken with a hammer to get the Lye out.

Second. It being a fine powder, you can remove the lid and pour out all the contents, being always ready for use.

Third. A teaspoonful or more can be used, as in water-softening, scrubbing, etc., and the lid returned to the can, and thereby save the balance of contents. With other Lyes all must be dissolved at once and used in a short time, or the strength is gone.

Fourth. Absolute purity. Free from all adulterations.

Fifth. The best Soap can be made in from ten to twenty minutes with this Lye.

Sixth. No failure is possible in making Soap with this Lye when the simple directions given are followed.

Seventh. One can of this Powdered Lye is equal to twenty pounds of Sal Soda or Soda.

Eighth. One can of this Lye will saponify one pound more of grease than any other Concentrated Lye, Ball Potash, or Saponifier.

Ninth. This Lye is 98 per cent. stronger than any other Lye or Potash.

Tenth. One to two teaspoonfuls will soften a tub of the hardest water.

Eleventh. One teaspoonful will thoroughly cleanse Sinks, Drains, or Closets.

Invaluable for killing Roaches, Mice, Rats, etc.

The best article for washing Trees.

TECUMSEH, MICH., MAY 27, 1880.

A NEW VOLUME.

This week's issue of the HERALD is the initial number of the thirty-first volume. For thirty successive years, of fifty-two weeks each, the HERALD has paid its weekly visits to its many patrons, and during that time it has never, that we are aware of, missed a single publication.

When the first number of the paper was printed on the 25th day of May, 1850, Tecumseh was but a small village, compared to its present position. Our population at that time did not exceed one thousand inhabitants. The only brick building upon Chicago st. was "Union Hall" block now owned by P. Bills and Geo. Heesen, and the Patterson block, below the railroad, comprising four stores, now occupied by the Andersons, Tupper, Jones, Eaton and J. W. Patterson. The Central school building had not then been erected, nor the present East branch building. None of the present churches in the village were then standing, except the Episcopal church and that has since been entirely re-modeled.—The finest residences in Tecumseh have all been built since then, and also many of our largest manufacturing establishments. The few industries which were then in their infancy have expanded with the march of time, and become large and flourishing business establishments. Our leading mercantile houses have grown up since 1850, and, in short, Tecumseh during this period has more than doubled in wealth, population and influence.

During all these years of sunshine and shadow, amid the joys of prosperity and the sorrows of adversity, the HERALD has pursued the even tenor of its way, always working for the upbuilding of Tecumseh and having at heart the best interests of this community. And not only the prosperity of Tecumseh but that of the entire Northern portion of Lenawee County, the HERALD has zealously sought to promote. The towns of Northern Lenawee have a reflex influence upon each other. The prosperity of one promotes the prosperity of each and all of the others, and hence when we work for the upbuilding of Tecumseh, we are working for all the towns around us.

Looking within upon our own business, we realize that the HERALD itself has felt the magic wand of improvement. The first issue of our paper sent out into the world was a modest six column folio, just half the size of the present sheet, and the total value of the office did not exceed $600. What a remarkable transformation has taken place since then. Our subscription list has grown from 300 to 1600, while the HERALD's advertising and job printing patronage has probably increased in a still greater proportion. The business of the HERALD reflects the business of Tecumseh in miniature. Nothing so fully reveals the business standing of any community, as the support given to its local newspaper. The home paper is the first to feel the thrill of an increase in business, and it is the first to suffer from a business depression.

Tecumseh now lacks but one thing to make it the leading business center of Southern Michigan, viz: increased railroad facilities. A good competing railroad, added to the advantages we now possess, would start us forward in a new career of prosperity. Tecumseh has been very fortunate hitherto in her business history except in the line of railroading. In that direction she has been not only unfortunate but extremely shortsighted. Let us hope that she may not repeat the mistakes made in the past; let us hope that the efforts now making to give us another competing railroad may be crowned with success.

To our numerous friends in Northern Lenawee we extend our congratulations, and reach out our hand to them for another year. Your sympathy and aid in the past are heartily appreciated, for without the generous assistance of your willing hands and hearts, where would we have been? May Providence reward you for your kindness and grant you many more years of health, enjoyment and increased prosperity.

THE National Republican Convention will take place at Chicago next week. The politicians are already gathering for the fray.

WHO WILL BE THE MAN?

The National Republican Convention will assemble at Chicago on Wednesday next, to select the Presidential candidate to carry the banner of the party through the coming campaign. Who will be the lucky man? This is a question more easily asked than answered.

Gen. Grant is certainly the foremost candidate at the present writing. He is the best known man to-day of any living American, he is the hero of the rebellion, and he has the wisest and shrewdest political managers of the Republican party zealously at work in his interest. These are points in his favor. On the other hand, there is certainly a very strong feeling among intelligent voters against a third term of the Presidency for any man whatever. And although it is generally conceded that Grant was a great military chieftain, his success as a civil ruler is a matter about which there is a radical difference of opinion even among Republicans. It is claimed also that the German defection in Ohio would be sufficient to carry that State against him. He will go into the Chicago convention with a stronger following than any other candidate, but he will probably lack a few votes of a majority.

The second man in importance is Senator Blaine. There is no question but what he has by far the most numerous following among the rank and file of the voters, and his friends are red hot with enthusiasm. But certain railroad scandals are connected with his name which would weaken him as a candidate, and he has the enmity of Senator Conkling, which would certainly deprive him of the State of New York.

Secretary Sherman will have a good following in the convention. He would be strong in Ohio and the Northwest, but it is extremely doubtful whether he could carry New York, and he has no enthusiastic following among the masses of his party.

Washburne and Edmunds will both go into the convention with a few votes, and Senator Windom will secure the vote of his own State—Minnesota. From these six persons the candidate will probably be chosen.

At the present writing Grant seems to have the inside track, and his nomination is claimed as certain, but if any combination can be made to concentrate the opposition upon one man, that man will walk away with the prize. Then who will be the man? We shall not undertake to answer this question until after the Chicago convention.

The Pioneer Society in Trouble.

The Adrian Times and Adrian Press are having a little set-to in regard to the manuscript of the last Pioneer meeting. The Press was awful anxious to publish a full report, and so was the Times, but the Press couldn't publish it for the Times had the manuscript, and the Times couldn't publish it because their compositors couldn't read the manuscript. The Billet Doux would be very glad undoubtedly to publish it if there was room enough in three or four editions of their paper for the manuscript. Perhaps the Monthly Repertory would publish it. This magazine is devoted entirely to choice literary productions, and a peck measure full of Pioneer proceedings would be a God-send to them. Doubtless the Journal would snap at the chance of publishing it. It is splendid "copy" to fill up with, and one single grist would keep the boys out of mischief a good many days. It is really too bad that forty rods of "copy," more or less, should be rambling around among the newspaper offices of the county seat, seeking in vain for publicity. Can it be possible that the Times and Press had a quiet understanding with each other to suppress this manuscript? Such a supposition seems almost incredible, and yet stranger things have happened. We shall watch future developments in this controversy with the keenest interest.

THE Adrian Times of last evening has this item about the T. & M. railroad. This report is confirmed by information which we have lately received from residents of Cambridge:

There would seem to be some substantial foundation for the oft-repeated stories that the projectors of the Toledo & Milwaukee road propose to run thair road to this city, leaving Tecumseh out. Mr. Uri Decker, who lives on section 7, Adrian township, informs us that on Monday the surveyors for the T. & M. line were at his place, headed toward this city. Mr. Decker's farm is some distance south of Tecumseh, and it looks as though that village was to get the go-by.

Hudson Gazette: Moses Sawyer, of this village, was assaulted with deadly intent a few evenings since. He was quietly reposing near the close of the day, in the loft of Van Akin's livery barn, when he was attacked by some unknown person, and knocked senseless. It was an hour or more before he came to. He was considerably injured about the face and head. Mr. S. who is an extensive stock buyer, had only a few hours previous quite a large sum of money with him, which is perhaps a sufficient clue to the motive of his cowardly assailant.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES.

A Public Misfortune.

Philadelphia Times.—It amounts to a public misfortune that Cadet Whittaker is not eligible to the Vice Presidency. That ingenious young man is a whole gang of self-acting bull-dozers, so to say, and would make a campaign about as hot as anything ever heard of, even if he didn't save an army in the struggle.

The Force Policy.

Adrian Times.—The action of the republicans of the state of Illinois, who favor the nomination of Gen. Grant for the presidency, was as outrageous in its contemptuous disregard for the rights of those republicans of the state who favor the nomination of some other men, as was the action of Senator Blaine's friends in the Kansas convention.

Will Be Condemned.

New York Sun.—Ulysses S. Grant is a man driven mad by ambition. He now seeks to grasp the government of the United States—a thing unprecedented—for a third term. To accomplish his purpose he resorts to methods heretofore unpracticed in American politics. Such methods will be condemned by the moral sentiment of the American people.

Coming to their Senses.

Toledo Comercial.—The people of California, without regard to past political affiliations are getting sick of their own constitution. Its operation is preventing the consummation of enterprises, stagnating trade and driving away capital. The workingmen's state convention, one of the objects of which is to suggest amendments to the constitution tending to obviate some of the objectionable features is now in session.

The Scratchers.

Detroit Free Press.—George William Curtis says, on behalf of the "scratchers," that "the man who is proud never to have voted anything but the regular ticket shows the servility of the soul which makes despotism possible;" and that "it is only independence within the party which secures political progress by means of party." But George William is one of them "literary fellers" and will find it hard work to get Republican subscribers to his doctrines.

Logan Takes the Cake.

Detroit Evening News.—Cameron and Conkling had better look to their laurels. Logan can give them several points in the management of a state convention. He saw what was necessary to make assurance doubly sure and he did it by thrusting out of his delegation every man who was doubtful. They weakly depended upon instructions and unit rules, which may fail them in the end. If he is not the most polished senator he is the most courageous triumvir.

A Pertinent Question.

New York Tribune.—Any man can see the folly of nominating at Chicago a candidate who cannot poll the full regular republican vote. The democrats have only to carry New York and Indiana, in addition to the solid south, to succeed this year. Without the full republican vote New York cannot be carried by the republicans. It is useless to disguise that fact. Does anybody pretend that with the third term as the leading issue, as it would be with Grant as the candidate, the full republican vote could be polled? If he does he must be deaf and blind.

The Political Outlook.

The New York Herald revises its table of the Presidential preferences of the delegates already chosen to Chicago, omitting Alabama, Louisiana and Idaho, and foots up as follows:

Grant	303	Washburne	14
Blaine	253	Edmunds	34
Sherman	98	Windom	10

There are 44 delegates not embraced in the foregoing table. It will require 379 to nominate. The Herald also classifies the democratic delegates chosen as follows:

Tilden	139	Seymour	8
Hancock	77	Bayard	5
Thurman	44	Field	5
Randolph	18	English	2

Of the 318 delegates chosen, Tilden is given exactly one-half the number. The whole number of delegates in the Democratic Convention will be 738, as Territories are not allowed votes, and 492 votes will be necessary to a nomination under the two-thirds rule.

A Little Wholesome Truth.

New York Tribune.—There is hardly a Democratic newspaper in the land which is not rejoicing over the result in Illinois and printing figures which prove conclusively that Grant will not be nominated on the first ballot at Chicago. The Deputy Democratic organs are jubilating mildly, and are speculating upon the candidate most likely to be nominated by the Independent Republicans. This is natural but premature. The Republican party is going to do some solid thinking during the next ten days, and it will belie its reputation for sagacity if it comes to the conclusion that the surest road to success is the very one which its enemies are most desirous to have it take.

KING OF THE BLOOD.

The Most Thorough Purifier of the Blood Yet Discovered.

Cures all Humors, from a Common Eruption to the Worst Scrofula.

It purifies the Blood.
It invigorates the Liver.
It regulates the Bowels.
It strengthens the Stomach.
It gives vivacity in place of lassitude, cheerfulness in place of gloom, and robust vigor in place of debility.

Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Disordered Liver, Constipation, Nervous Affections, General Debility, in short all the numerous diseases and discomforts caused by impure blood are speedily conquered by this powerful corrector, the chief and sovereign of all ancient or modern medical discoveries—KING OF THE BLOOD.

ITS NAME IS ITS BEST DESCRIPTION as it is a royal dispenser of the blessings of health and vanquishes the foes that lurk in the blood.

It banishes PIMPLES, SALT RHEUM, SCALY ERUPTIONS, ULCERS, SCALD HEAD, FEVER SORES, and all SCROFULOUS DISORDERS.

It checks CONSUMPTION in its early stages. It has frequently cured it when advanced.

It dispatches TUMORS and CANCERS without the Surgeon's knife.

It cures DROPSY, general or partial.

It cures FEMALE WEAKNESS and DISEASES.

It reduces in a safe and effectual manner all swellings, external or internal.

It eradicates the effects of Venerial Disease and Mineral Poisons, and establishes a sound constitution.

Many certificates, much further information and full directions for using, will be found in the pamphlet, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," in which each bottle is enclosed.

Price $1 per bottle containing 12 ounces, or 40 to 50 doses. Sold by dealers in medicine.

If your druggist does not happen to have it on hand, request him to order a supply of it for you, as it will be cheaper than for you to order direct of us, and less trouble.

MINNESOTA CHIEF

BEST THRESHER ON WHEELS

Is not a Vibrator nor an Apron Machine. Is wonderfully simple and admirably perfect in its threshing and separating qualities. Saves all the grain, and cleans it ready for market. Runs easily, is constructed durably, is finished beautifully, is the most economical, least expensive, and most satisfactory machine in the market. Will handle wet grain as well as dry. Has no equal in threshing flax and timothy, threshing and cleaning both as well and nearly as rapidly as wheat, and requires no change except the sieves. Has more square feet of separating and cleaning surface than any other machine made, and can not be overloaded, is both over- and under-blast. Our CLOVER HULLING ATTACHMENT is new and very desirable. Does the work more rapidly and better than an exclusively Hulling Machine.

SEPARATORS of the various sizes fitted for Steam or Horse Power, as desired.

An Improved Pitts Power, an Improved Woolbury Power, and the Edward Equalizing Power, all mounted on four wheels, are manufactured by us, and are not surpassed by any in the market.

We are also prepared to furnish first-class Portable Engines with our Separators.

How do you like our new style of business cards? In its present attractive style we should get a liberal addition to our business card column.

THE Michigan Central railroad will issue excursion tickets at two cents a mile each way to all who desire to attend the National Republican Convention at Chicago, June 2d, tickets to be good from May 31st to June 5th inclusive.

OUR community was shocked yesterday morning with the report that Mrs. S. C. Boughton had been found dead in her house. It turned out that she had suffered an apoplectic fit. Dr. Catlin was called and he reports that she is in a critical condition. Her recovery is extremely doubtful.

LAST week Dr. E. M. Conklin removed a tape worm from Wolcott Marsh which was over 60 feet in length. This time the job has been well done, for the head of the worm was captured and it will not grow again. The worm was passed in a few hours after administering the medicine, and the very next day Marsh resumed his work.

THE pacing race, at Adrian, will come off on Wednesday next. The four best pacers in the world will take part. They will go from here to Milwaukee, and hence they will appear at no other place in this section during the present season. The four pacers are Mattie Hunter, with a record of 2:14; Rowdy Boy, 2:13¾; Lucy, 2:14; Sleepy Tom, 2:12¼.

Morenci Observer: The Spear disaster. There are no new developments in reference to this unfortunate affair as yet; and although our officials have given the subject much attention, yet no track has been struck that would warrant an arrest. The building was insured in the Farmers' Mutual, of Lenawee county, for $600, and $500 on the contents, so that the loss on the property burned will not be very large.

MET CONKLING is doing a thriving business this spring. He has already sold one car load of the Wood binders, having disposed of seven machines on Saturday last, and he has ordered a new supply. The new twine binder sold by him seems to be taking the lead this year. He also sells the Wood reapers and mowers which are unexcelled in their special field, having sold large numbers of these machines here within the past three years, and they give universal satisfaction.

A Fine Display.

Last Saturday Jehiel Davidson had a fine display of fruits at his store in the HERALD building. The assortment consisted of Florida oranges, luscious lemons, princely pine apples, beautiful bananas, Cincinnati strawberries, and other minor articles in the fruit line. The stock was opened on Saturday morning and before noon his pine apples and strawberries were all sold. He had some of the largest lemons we ever saw, and taken altogether it was probably the best display of foreign fruits ever seen in Tecumseh. His cash sales for fruit alone on Saturday last amounted to over $20.

THE TECUMSEH HERALD.

TECUMSEH, MICH., MAY 27, 1880.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

THE thermometer is putting in some pretty good work this week.

J. P. SLAYTON and wife have gone East for a visit of a few weeks.

MANCHESTER will celebrate Decoration Day this year in fine style.

THERE is talk of instituting a new lodge of Odd Fellows at Riga, in this county.

DR. F. M. OAKLEY, of Mooreville, was in town last Friday on railroad business.

MISS HATTIE LITCHFIELD, of Salamanca, N. Y., is the guest of Mrs. C. M. Burlingame.

CLINTON is preparing for a Fourth of July celebration under the auspices of the Cornet Band.

C. E. WEAVER, of Adrian, was in Tecumseh last Saturday and paid the HERALD his respects.

PAT MURPHY and daughter, of Clinton, were in Tecumseh last week and gave the HERALD a call.

FRANK BAILEY, of Raisin, was taken to the insane asylum last week by order of the Probate Judge.

FRANK BAXTER will commence business on the census enumeration next week, Tuesday, June 1st.

THE Universalist Social will meet at MRS. C. A. McNEIL'S to-morrow, (Friday,) afternoon and evening.

THE name of Wall Street, in Franklin, has been changed. It will be called "Tuppenny" Street hereafter.

ANOTHER new plate glass front.—This time in John Whitenack's hardware store. It beats all how the fever is spreading.

REV. H. SHEPARD, of this village, will preach at the Gurnee school house in the town of Adrian next Sunday at three o'clock, P. M.

GEO. T. KETCHAM sails with the "unterrified" in Kansas. He has been chosen as delegate from Smith county to the Democratic state convention.

THE meeting of the Tecumseh Union School Alumni bids fair to be better than usual this year. The indications are that a full program will be presented.

DECORATION Day will be observed in Adrian on Monday, May 31st. The exercises will be conducted quietly by the soldier companies with no attempt at public display.

MR. E. H. SPAIN, of South Bend, agent of the Birdsell Manufacturing Co., was in town last week on business with the local agent of the company, Mr. E. V. DePuy.

THE fourth annual state band tournament will take place in Flint, Mich. on Wednesday and Thursday, June 9th and 10th, under the auspices of Gardner's Flint City Band.

ERSKINE & ROWLAND have put up in front of their saloon a new awning trimmed with a heavy red border. A certain man observed when he saw it, "I don't think that is very emblatical of a saloon."

MAHLON SHERD leaves this week for his usual summer visit in Minnesota. He will be gone until he gets a good ready to come home again, but he will undoubtedly return in time to vote next fall.

DR. R. B. HOUSE was in attendance upon the State Homoepathic Medical Convention held at Jackson last week. He was re-elected to the position of General Secretary, a chair which he filled with great credit last year.

FRANK SILVERS and Ed. Smith, of Clinton, were in town last Saturday. Frank says that people are awful dry up there now. The drouth is effecting some men so seriously that they are beginning to crack open in the back.

MR. ARTHUR W. BURNETT, a graduate of our High School has been appointed to the chair of English Literature, Mt. Morris College, Mt. Morris, Illinois. Mr. Burnett graduates from the University of Michigan this spring.

CLINTON is getting stirred up on the Fourth of July celebration question. As the Fourth falls on Sunday, they propose to have one "blow out" on Saturday and another one on Monday, taking Sunday to rest. The band will run the former celebration and the burying ground will run the latter.

H. EGABROAD and wife, of the Dundee Reporter, were in town last Monday on a visit to Mrs. Kilburn. The Kilburn's were old friends of theirs in St. Joe. Co., and they come over to Tecumseh occasionally to talk over old times with them. Bro. Egabroad of course dropped in to see us while here.

ST. JULIAN AND HOPEFUL the two fastest trotters in the world, will be matched against each other at the Adrian races. They will appear in the "free for all" race on Friday.—This is the only time these horses have ever been together, and a grand strife between them may be expected. St. Julian's record is 2-12¼; Hopeful's is 2-14.

PROF. SPENCER attended the session of the Michigan Association of School Superintendents, held at Jackson last week.

AMONG the sales at C. W. Wells' auction we noticed that the fine thorough-bred bull "Young Burlington" was purchased by James Cook, of Raisin.

MRS. C. A. WRIGHT died on Tuesday last, having been ill but a few days. The funeral takes place at the house this afternoon at six and one-half o'clock.

SMITH DEWITT has just completed an order for the class rings of this year's graduating class at Tecumseh, and has to-day ordered the class rings for the Raisin Valley Seminary.

OUR friend Chas. Severance has secured the Carpe Diem Parlors to use as an ice cream room during the coming season. It will certainly make a splendid room for this business, and we trust that Charlie will get his share of the patronage. He opens the rooms to-night.

THE following horses are on the ground and will take part in the Adrian races next week:

St. Julian,	record	2:12¼
Hopeful,	"	2:14
Mattie Hunter	"	2:14
Sleepy Tom	"	2:12¼
Charley Ford,	"	2:20¼
Elsie Good,	"	2:22¼
Green Charley,	"	2:26
Business,	"	2:28

ANOTHER Tecumseh boy has been heard from. M. M. Hyde who left here years ago, has sent us a copy of the Virginia, Nev., Enterprise giving a lengthy description of the Virginia & Truckee R. R. shops at Carson. He is foreman of the pattern shop in these works, and occupies a position of much responsibility. We are glad he is doing so well.

THE following pupils in Dist. No. 1, of Raisin, were neither absent nor tardy during the month of April: Hattie Beevers, Cora Dean, Lizzie Beamish, Ada Pocklington, Lulu Brown, Nellie Wilson, Clara Estes, Levina Beevers, Mamie Dubois, Lulu Conkling, Freddie Brown, Verner Dean, Andrew Brown, Artie Pocklington, Wirt Estes, Elyre Wilson.

MRS. JOHN ROSEBROUGH departed this life on Friday last, after a long illness. The funeral services were held at the family residence in this village on Sunday, and they were largely attended. The deceased was an old settler here, having lived in Tecumseh for many years, and she has finally laid down her burden in the evening of a long and useful life.

THE first blow was struck this morning towards building two more new stores here in Tecumseh. Fred Landgraf and Harry Lee will erect a block of two stores on the corner opposite Frank Buman's, on the old Dr. Patterson lot. The stores will be twenty-eight feet front and sixty feet deep, and it is the intention to have them finished in time for occupancy in the fall.

THE ADRIAN RACES.

Everything promises well for the Adrian Races which will comemence on Tuesday next, June 1st, and continue four days. The track is pronounced by John Splan, and other celebrated horsemen to be all that could be desired, and they freely admit that much better time than 2:20 will be made in the races. No pains have been spared by the association to make the races a grand success in every way. Already eighty-five entries have been made, including some of the fastest horses known. St. Julian and Hopeful, the two fastest trotters in the world are among the entries.

Four of the fastest pacers in the country are already on the ground, and will contest for the supremacy of the turf. One of the many attractions of the races will be the opportunity of seeing the celebrated trotting horse, Charley Ford driven by John Splan before he leaves for Chicago, where he will trot in the great race with Bonesetter for $1000 on the 5th day of June.

DECORATION DAY.

Decoration day will be observed in Tecumseh by Co. C., M. S. T. The exercises will be held at 4 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, and will be conducted by the members of the company without any public display. The official notices appended contain all necessary information.

HEADQUARTERS CO. C,
1ST REG'T M. S. T.
TECUMSEH, May 27, 1880.

Members of Company C, 1st Reg't M. S. T., are hereby ordered to appear in full uniform at the Armory, on Sunday, May 30, 1880, at 3 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of participating in the service of decorating the soldiers' graves in the Tecumseh cemetery.

R. B. HOUSE,
Captain Command'g.

All persons who are desirous of contributing flowers to be used for the purpose of decorating the graves of our soldiers, can leave them on Saturday at Strong and McNair's clothing store, or on Sunday morning at the Armory of Co. C. The same will be thankfully received.

CORRESPONDENCE.

MR. EDITOR:

Your excellent paper reaches me regularly, richly laden with specific and general news. I should have supplied you with some items from this city sooner, but amid the anxiety of moving, unpacking and settling, I have been prevented.

MARSHALL

contains a population of from 5000 to 6000 and is the county seat of Calhoun county and no town of its size, with which we are acquainted in the northwest, presents a more healthy or neat appearance. The regularity of its streets, its numerous building sites, its healthy atmosphere, as well as its business industries, national banks, public parks, public buildings, and her professionary gentlemen renders the city a desirable locality for the merchant, mechanic or professional man to settle, who desire to retire from the cares of an active life.

OUR CHURCHES.

We have at least ten church edifices, one Christian, one Presbyterian, one Congregationalist, one Universalist, one Episcopalian, one Baptist, one M. E. church, one African M. E., one Lutheran and one Catholic. Each of these denominations support a resident minister excepting the Baptist and the A. M. E., and retain attentive audiences. In point of quality, these structures compare favorably, if they do not excel, others owned by similar sects in other cities of the same size.

OUR SCHOOLS.

Marshall is highly favored with school buildings, which are ornaments of themselves. These are made of brick, are finely finished and well ventilated. Among the fine features which have been introduced into our public schools, and deserving of more than a casual notice, are the instructions of the Natural Sciences. The general management of the schools of this city we have great reason to speak favorably of. The course of study being comprehensive and well arranged, and among the inducements we can hold out to persons desiring to locate at Marshall, we present our school facilities as among the most important.

THE PRESS.

Always ready to aid in its influence any projected improvement that would add to our prosperity, and prompt to condemn anything detrimental to our interest. The newspapers at Marshall are in the hands of gentlemen who appreciate the dignity of their profession and are faithful sentinels in detecting and discussing every measure affecting the weal or woe of their chosen city.

IMPROVEMENTS.

A new county jail and sheriff's residence is soon to be erected near the Court House, and the new rail road is confidently looked for. Should this last mentioned enterprise become a surity, and run from Grand Haven through Tecumseh, thence onward to Toledo, it would open up a fine revenue to each of the towns it touches, and become an auxillery in establishing manufacturies and various other business industries, as well as to supply a fine facility to our farmers for the shipment of grain and other productions.

OURSELF.

You know, Mr. Editor, that I have not been a resident of this city of evergreens but a short time, and consequently write from personal observation, but stranger as we are, we had no sooner become settled, than our domicile, on the evening of the 18th, became invaded by forty or fifty of the citizens of the place, who formed in line up town, and marched with loaded baskets boldly in and took possession. Tables were spread with cut glass goblets, fine linen, and delicacies in rich profusion. What could I do, single handed as I was? I might have put a half dozen out, (if they had held still,) but when I came to count up the number of the invaders I came to the conclusion to keep still. They remained until about midnight and merrily departed to their homes, where I hope they passed the balance of that night in sweet repose. The surprise brought the writer and his family under many obligations, as it brought us a fine revenue and made us the recipients of many favors.

As soon as I become acquainted I will try and furnish you with more interesting items of this city than is contained above, and occasionally supply you with whatever I find of importance to write about.

Respectfully,
C. C. SINK.

THE Michigan Southern Association of Universalists will meet with the society at Mooreville, Washtenaw County, on the first Wednesday and Thursday in June, the 2d and 3d. The friends at Mooreville hope their hospitality will be taxed. They have just dedicated a beautiful house of worship, and are anxious that the Universalists of the Association meet with them during the session.

THE late rains have brought forward all crops with surprising rapidity during the past few days. From present appearances harvest will come on several days earlier than usual this year.

THE CENSUS.

Hints to Facilitate the Work of the Enumerator.

On Tuesday, June 1st, I shall commence the enumeration of the census for the township and village of Tecumseh. It will greatly facilitate my labors and avoid a great deal of unnecessary delay if the farmers and residents in my district will inform themselves beforehand of facts which will necessarily be called for. All persons will be called upon to answer the following questions:

The name, age and occupation of every member of a household and relationship to the head of the family; whether there are any members who are sick, blind, deaf, dumb, idiotic, insane or crippled; how many attended school during the census year; if there are any over 10 years of age who cannot read or write; the place of birth of each person and the place of birth of his or her father and mother.

Farmers will be prepared to answer in detail the following questions in regard to their farms: 1st. How many acres are improved and how many unimproved? 2d. The value of the farm including land, fences, buildings, farming implements, machinery and live stock. 3d. The cost of building and repairing fences. 4th. The cost of fertilizers. 5th. The amount of farm wages and the number of weeks of hired labor, excluding housework. 6th. The estimated value of farm production and the average of grass lands mown and products harvested in 1879. 7th. The horses, mules and neat cattle and their products on hand June 1, 1880. 8th. The milk disposed of and the butter and cheese made in '79. 9th. The number of sheep and lambs on hand June 1st, and the number born, disposed of, slaughtered or lost from different causes in 1879. 10th. The amount of fleeces clipped. 11th. The number of swine on hand June 1st. 12th. The number of poultry on hand. 13th. The eggs produced in 1879. 14th. A statement of the crops of 1879, of barley, buckwheat, Indian corn, oats, rye, wheat, Canada peas, beans, flax, hemp, sorghum, maple sugar and molasses, broom-corn, hops, Irish potatoes, sweet potatoes, apples and peaches, with the total value of all orchard products; the value of market produce sold; the honey and wax produced; the amount of wood cut in forests and value of all forest products.

I would especially urge that farmers ascertain all these facts beforehand and make up a written statement which can be left with the family, so that in case of the absence of the proprietor it can be used. This they will find to be for their own advantage as well as mine, and I might say that all statements as to value, etc., I am sworn not to reveal, so that they need not fear that it will effect their assessment in any way.

DIED.

PENNINGTON—On Sunday, May 16th, 1880, Mary Annetta, wife of Mr. John Pennington, of the township of Macon.

The deceased was born in Lodi, Seneca Co., New York, on the 16th day of January, 1822, and was accordingly aged fifty-eight years and four months. Her maiden name was Harriott. With her father's family she came to this state in the fall of 1837, and on Dec. 5th 1839, was united in marriage to the husband who survives her. All the early privations and cares connected with a pioneer life they bore cheerfully together. She was a faithful wife, and mother. Of her twelve children, six remain to mourn her departure and to bear witness to her worth. She was characterized by a quiet, patient, christian spirit. Resignedly she bore the reverses which Providence sent. During her last painful illness, which continued during the greater part of the past winter and spring, her afflictions were endured with meekness. Steadily her natural strength abated, until on Sabbath morning, as christians were assembling for public worship "the golden bowl was broken and the silver cord was loosed." Calmly she fell asleep in Jesus. On Tuesday, of last week, the funeral ceremonies were held at the late home of the deceased. They were attended by a large assemblage of friends and neighbors. The sermon was preached from Isa., 25, 8 (1st part) by her pastor, the Rev. John A. De Spelder. The afflicted family have the sympathy of the entire community in their bereavement, and are commended to the love and consolation of the compassionate Redeemer.

THE GREAT BOAT RACE.

Congress Pegging Along—Congressional Library—Landmarks Disappearing.

Washington, May 22, 1880.

The "great boat race" has overshadowed all things else for several days, so far as this locality is concerned. Even the exciting political contests in Illinois and elsewhere were almost lost sight of in the general whirl of interest in a nearer event. But now that is over and muscle has had its day, there is again a chance for the politicians to make a noise loud enough to attract attention. In Congress they are pegging along without getting much notice. The appropriation bills are nearly all passed and the House has agreed to adjournment on the 31st inst. But my say is that the date will be weeks later than that. The President says some provision for counting the electoral vote must be made, and if necessary he will convene an extra session for that purpose. He is certainly right in this. This country wants no more electoral commissions and no more situations as threatening as that succeeding the last presidential election.

Speaking of the boat race, it was just no race at all. Thirty thousand or more strangers were in town, and it is estimated that at least one hundred thousand people gathered on the banks of the Potomac to witness the contest between the two great oarsmen. Gay equipages filled with fair women occupied the heights along the shore; the banks of the river were lined with beauty and fashion of the country elbowing and jostling with whatever riff-raff could raise the needful half-dollar to secure the privileges of the American citizen to share in whatever enjoyment he can pay for. "Encouragement of physical training" served as a well-turned rhetorical excuse for even the clergymen to become lookers-on. It was like a gala day in Vanity Fair, and the city was turned into a huge gambling booth. Hundreds of dollars changed hands.—But there was no contest. Courtney, for whose success all Americans hoped and who was generally backed by Washingtonians in particular, outside of gambling circles, never even rowed over the course. He came to the scratch tardily and rowed listlessly to within about half a mile of the turning stake and there waited Hanlan's return while he bathed his head in cool Potomac water—soaked it, as it were. He said he had a severe headache and was too ill to row, and it may be true. But he was already under a cloud and the plea instead of being accepted was generally disbelieved.

In its impatience and haste it is to be hoped that the House may do some thing with the bill passed by the Senate last week, providing for a commission to report upon better and greatly needed accommodations for the Congressional Library. The library is no longer maintained only for the use of Congressmen; it is the largest collection of books in the United States; and reference to it is indespensable to historians and other writers who would have their works complete and accurate. It has also become, since 1870, a place of record for every publication issued in the United States. It contains thousands of valuable publications not to be found together in any other single place, that are utterly unavailable to congressman or any one else, because there is no place in which to properly dispose of them. These books are piled up and stored away in the place now occupied, an almost uncomatable mass.

One after another of the landmarks of the Capital are disappearing under the march of improvement, the growth of the city and the relentless hand of time. Few of the buildings associated with the early history of the city now remain to call up memories or reminiscences. Opposite the Post Office building, on the south side of E street, a few weeks ago, stood the "Seaton Mansion," a plain, old-fashioned dwelling-house, which bore every mark of having been erected by a former generation of people. More memories of the great men of the city's past clung to its walls than to those of any other private mansion since 1840. Hardly a notable who figured prominently in the political affairs of the nation, prior to 1850, but made his home at some time or other under its portals. Presidents Monroe, Jackson, Van Buren and Harrison, Lafayette, Chief Justices Marshall and Taney, Kossuth, the Hungarian patriot; Clay, Webster, Calhoun, Randolph, and a host of other celebrities were all quartered here. And in this mansion many a political conference has been held, in the still, small hours of the night, which settled the destinies of statesmen and parties. But all these are matters of the past. All have had to give way to the necessities of the present. The Seaton Mansion has disappeared, and on its ruins has arisen a beer garden.

Cathartic Pills

Combine the choicest cathartic principles in medicine, in proportions accurately adjusted to secure activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. They are the result of years of careful study and practical experiment, and are the most effectual remedy yet discovered for diseases caused by derangement of the stomach, liver, and bowels, which require prompt and effectual treatment. AYER'S PILLS are specially applicable to this class of diseases. They act directly on the digestive and assimilative processes, and restore regular healthy action. Their extensive use by physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, is one of the many proofs of their value as a safe, sure, and perfectly reliable purgative medicine. Being compounded of the concentrated virtues of purely vegetable substances, they are positively free from calomel or any injurious properties, and can be administered to children with perfect safety.

AYER'S PILLS are an effectual cure for Constipation or Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Foul Stomach and Breath, Dizziness, Headache, Loss of Memory, Numbness, Biliousness, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Dropsy, Tumors, Worms, Neuralgia, Colic, Gripes, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Gout, Piles, Disorders of the Liver, and all other diseases resulting from a disordered state of the digestive apparatus.

As a Dinner Pill they have no equal.

While gentle in their action, these PILLS are the most thorough and searching cathartic that can be employed, and never give pain, unless the bowels are inflamed, and then their influence is healing. They stimulate the appetite and digestive organs; they operate to purify and enrich the blood, and impart renewed health and vigor to the whole system.

THE FARMERS' PAGE.

NORTHERN LENAWEE FARMERS' CLUB.

This Club will hold its meetings regularly on each alternate Saturday of each month, at the Reform Club Hall in Tecumseh, at 2 o'clock P. M. until further notice. All are heartily welcomed and cordially invited to attend. Communications thankfully received. Correspondence solicited from other clubs, especially where co-operative action can accomplish desirable results. All letters should be addressed to E. L. RUSSELL, Sec., Tecumseh, Mich.)

SATURDAY, May 22, 1880.

The meeting was rather slimly attended. The exercises opened by a piece of music by Miss Minnie Rector, entitled "Furrows."

Miscellaneous Questions and Answers received some attention.

The subject of Gardening was introduced and discussed.

The subject of Flower Gardening was introduced with an ESSAY BY MRS. RUSSELL.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—Why I should have been chosen to write upon the subject of Flower Gardening is truly surprising to myself. What light is it expected that I can impart, whose knowledge of the cultivation of flowers is almost entirely visionary and ideal? I had thought that I would make no response whatever to the call, and should have remained firm to the resolve, only that it would be setting so unhealthy a precedent, which would be detrimental to the growth and interest of the Club.

My object in attending these meetings was to hear and learn of others, and not to be heard. And to come here and rest and not to work. But I very soon find that I am expected to take up my cross with others, for if each one excused themselves, it would be a very dull and unprofitable place to rest and learn, and not very invigorating to mind and body.

It is easier to point out the duties of life than to perform them. But if I was to enumerate the duties of a household, the first would be, "beautify your homes." We often hear the familiar but convenient excuse, "a want of time," when in too many instances it is a want of forethought and calculation. When the plans for a summer's campaign are arranged, all manner of crops have their proper space allowed them, and time for their care and cultivation, while the flower garden is left out of all plans and calculation. Perhaps this is owing to a want of a due appreciation of the importance of flowers as much as to any other cause. Of course a taste and love for flowers is all important to their cultivation, but a love and taste for the beautiful is seldom lacking, especially in our female natures; and if lacking in a portion of the sterner sex, it may be cultivated to a considerable degree, or at least they may be convinced that they are among the necessities of a refined and well organized household as an educator and refiner of our natures. Vick, in his illustrated monthly magazine, says: "man may be happy without a garden; he may have a home without a tree, or shrub, or flower; yet, when the Creator prepared a home for man, made in his own image, He planted a garden, and in this placed the noblest specimen of creative power, to dress and to keep it, and there he remained during his life of innocence and happiness. And in all parts of the civilized world the refinement, and innocence, and happiness of the people may be measured by the flowers they cultivate. The love and care of flowers is one of the few pleasures that improve alike the head and the heart. It is a pleasure that brings no pain, a sweet without a snare."

The different kinds and varieties of flowers, and their plan of arrangement change as the country advances, and improves as all other fashions do. But as my practical knowledge of the cultivation of flowers is extremely limited I will leave this part of the subject for others who have more experience and are more capable of giving instruction, and not occupy more time, as I have already performed the duty assigned me of introducing this subject.

We were then favored with a good

ESSAY BY MRS. RECTOR.

Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen:—

It has been as many as eighteen years since I have written anything except letters, and I find the cobwebs pretty thick; but at the last Farmers' club meeting, when you invited the ladies to take a part and help the good work along, I thought I would not shirk if anything was required of me. Therefore I show my good faith and hope you will not criticise only in a kindly spirit, for I know you will find many imperfections.

At the last meeting I was very much interested in the subject, "How to make farming interesting to our boys and girls that we may keep them on the farm." I can not add to the many good things said, but, I was led to reflect upon the subject of home influences. The influence of parents is above all others. The mother's influence begins with the life of the child. How soon the little one knows mother's voice, and shows by the first dawning of intelligence, love for her. How anxiously she watches for every new development of mind and body. I think parents are not usually aware how soon the child is capable of being taught. As soon as it learns that by crying it can attract attention it is capable of being brought under discipline. Perhaps you may think that a harsh word for an infant. Then is the time to commence teaching obedience. This I consider the hardest lesson we ever have to teach; but, parents do not neglect this important one, teach it to them gently and firmly. Let the child know that you wish obedience for its good, not simply that you will be obeyed; do not break the child's will but guide it.

As your children grow older be children with them, play with them, read with and above all talk with them. Encourage them to come to you with their joys and sorrows, (for they have troubles, to them at least,) and show by your ready sympathy that you have not forgotten you were once a child. Do not put off their eager questions, but answer them truthfully or make them understand they are not old enough to know.

The example of parents often has a greater influence than their teaching. Think you, fathers, it will do much good to tell your sons the saloon is no place for them, and then in a few minutes meet an acquaintance and say. "Let us go in and get a cigar or a glass of beer." That boy will be apt to reason, father says, "tobacco is injurious and the saloon is no place for me, then why does he go there." His curiosity is excited, he determines to taste of tobacco, smoke a cigar, and see the inside of a saloon. The tobacco makes him sick, the saloon is not what his imagination pictured it, but my father does so and I mean to. I think if there were no fathers that used tobacco or intoxicating drinks the drunkards would soon grow less. As a rule, I think fathers are not as careful of their influence upon their children as mothers. I wish fathers would always speak with as much respect of women as they would wish their own wives and daughters spoken of. We would not hear women spoken of so lightly and jeeringly.

Mothers, of what use is it to tell your daughters not to be vain and frivolous, when they see you spend your untiring energies upon the trimmings of a dress to make sure it has one more ruffle or bow than Mrs. L's. Not that I would have you entirely ignore Dame Fashion's demands, but be rational and do not spend all your energy upon the adornment of the body to the utter exclusion of the mind. Do not make your daughters think father is merely a machine to furnish money.

I would speak of companions.

Parents, do we consider as we ought the influence in our homes of our children's companions? Be sure to know whom your children seek.—When they have good ones encourage free intercourse and friendship. Invite them often to your homes, but always to mingle with the family, yourselves included. I do not approve of the custom of permitting our children to spend the night away from home at neighbor's houses. I do not allow my children to invite others to stay with them, and they do not ask me to go.

Our hired help is of great consideration. We farmers are obliged to have our help mingle with our families, and we cannot be too careful who we bring into them. If we find our daughters are preferring the society of the girl, to mother's, it is time the girl was dismissed. Mischief is brewing and it were better to live on bread and milk than have our daughters blackened. If we find the hired man is exerting a bad influence over our boys, discharge him; better lose a crop of wheat than have those boys contaminated.

One more home influence, I would speak of. The literature we put in our children's hands or that finds its way into our homes from other sources. Get them good reading, spend your money freely for it. It is money well invested and will be sure to give you good returns. Why is it that so many young boys only in their teens carry pistols? Is it because they are really in danger of deadly foes seeking their lives, or wild beasts lurking in every fence corner? I think there are, but it needs a pure heart and clean hands to resist them, instead of the pistol or huge bowie knife that the hero of the trashy newspaper or dime novel suggests. O parents beware of the pernicious influence of base literature in your homes. Let us strive to have all our home influences, cheerful, virtuous and pure, then shall we indeed be kings and queens, and our children of royal birth.

The subject for the next meeting is "The best manner of curing hay, and the best substitute for hay." Introduced by Mr. Lowe.

Meeting adjourned for two weeks, or until Saturday, June 5th, at two o'clock P. M.

Don't spoil your Butter. Farmers, do not run the risk of spoiling your butter by using carrots, annatto or other cheap colors, when Wells, Richardson & Co's Perfected Butter Color is so much better. It is harmless as salt, and never gives a dull reddish color, or any taste or smell.

TESTIMONY

Of the Hon. Jos. E. Gray, Judge of the Superior Court, Chicago, Ill.

CHICAGO, Dec. 14, 1878.

DR. S. D. HOWE,

DEAR SIR:—Permit me to add my grateful testimony to the army of witnesses to the virtue of your justly celebrated Arabian remedies. For a long time my wife was seriously afflicted with hacking cough, oppressed breathing, soreness of the chest, and constant acute pain in the lower portion of the right lung and under the shoulder blade. Her sufferings were intense, and she became extremely nervous and prostrated. Her disease was pronounced consumption by the physicians of Chicago and other cities, whose prescriptions had been taken without benefit. When you visited Chicago in June, 1878, we called on you, having very little hope of deriving help from your treatment. We were inspired with hope by the skillful manner in which your thorough examination was conducted, and the satisfactory explanation with which you closed your diagnosis. My wife determined to take your medicines in accordance with your plan and printed directions. She began to use the Arabian Milk Cure and Arabian Tonic; their beneficial effect at once became manifest—the cough loosened and soon ceased, respiration became easy, the soreness of the chest was relieved and all pain removed, she began to gain in flesh and improve in strength and appearance. I fully believe that your medicines and skillful advice have saved the life of my wife. She unites with me in this grateful tribute to the merit of your remedies.

Very respectfully yours,

JOSEPH E. GRAY.

Michigan State Homœpathic Hospital.

We desire to call attention to the object of our association and to its endorsement as contained in the following letter, and to ask the earnest co-operation of all who have at heart the relief of the suffering poor.

MRS. BENJAMIN DAY, Pres.

University of Michigan.
Ann Arbor, April 21, '80.

I am pleased to hear that benevolent women have formed an association to raise funds in the State for defraying the necessary expenses of indigent patients in the Homeopathic Hospital of the University. The Regents of the University, at their meeting on April 14th, adopted a resolution encouraging the bestowal of funds for such a purpose. I hope therefore that this praiseworthy effort of the ladies who have organized the "Michigan State Homeopathic Hospital Aid Association," may be crowned with success. I believe the officers lately chosen will faithfully devote any money sent to them to the humane object for which they solicit contributions.

A Big Auction.

Probably one of the largest auctions ever made in Lenawee county, was that held at Cyrus W. Wells' Springvale Farm, last Thursday. It was advertised to commence at 9 o'clock A.M. sharp, and at that time quite a number of people were present and things commenced moving; still people continued to come until at lunch time, 12 o'clock, every farmer and trading man from all parts of the county seemed to be there. The small articles and household furniture were sold first, then the farming implements, and after the shower they disposed of the stock. Ben Reynolds stuck to it all through. It was nearly 9 o'clock when the last article was disposed of. Everything sold well, and it is safe to say that Mr. Wells got more for his property than he could possibly have made at private sale.

THE Adrian Times of Tuesday says: "About twenty-five horses have already arrived for the races, which commence a week from to-day. John Splan, of Chicago, came this morning, with his stable of six horses. A large number of horses are expected to-day from Detroit, Columbus, Indiana and elsewhere. We shall be able to give further particulars in a day or two, as to the prospects for the races." The outlook for a successful week is at the present writing very favorable.

Morenci Observer: A stench and the discovery of some bones in a cellar in one of the business houses of Fayette, has led to the theory that the remains might possibly be those of the missing man Forney, who was seen on the premises for the last time some eight years ago. The stories have had a wide circulation, but intelligent citizens give but little credit to them.

A POSTAL lately received by us reads as follows: "Bank of Commerce, Georgetown, Texas, May 18, 1880.—One J. Y. Harris, pretending to be Treasurer of the Bank of Commerce, has maliciously misrepresented this Bank. No call is made for assistance. Our county is in a prosperous condition, and prospects for crops never better. James T. Harris, Proprietor."

Hudson Post: The residence of Sylvester Latin, of Adams, was said to be entered Monday night last week by burglars. It is claimed that Mr. Latin was chloroformed and $1,500 was taken from his room. The officers have been busy looking after the burglars, but as yet their tracks are very blind.

WE have generally observed that if a man does some mighty mean thing when he has been drinking, the liquor had a mighty mean man to work on in the first place. Don't lay it all to drink.

THE CIRCUIT COURT

TUESDAY, May 18.—The people vs. Walter Watson; plead guilty to larceny from store in day time; sentenced to reform school at Lansing until 18 years of age. Chauncey Bacon, impleaded with Watson, received a like sentence.

The people vs. George Haddock; information for conspiracy; plea of not guilty withdrawn and plea of guilty entered.

The cases of J. L. Hale vs. M. Adele Hazlett, and of M. Adele Hazlett vs. Jacob C. Sawyer, were continued by consent of parties without costs.

Henry Wilcox vs. W. S. Westerman, as administrator of the estate of A. S. Burlingame, deceased. Judgment, by consent, for plaintiff for $282.91.

Wm. H. Buell, et al, vs. John L. Perkins. Continued.

Addison P. Cook vs. Lydia Jane Johnson. On trial.

WEDNESDAY, May 19.—Charles Newsom vs. Wm. H. Cleveland. On trial.

The jury in the case of Addison P. Cook vs. Lydia Jane Johnson, brought in a verdict of no cause for action.

The attention of the court was absorbed almost entirely in the trial of the case of Charles Newsom against William H. Cleveland. Newsom was injured in January, 1879, by being run over by Cleveland's delivery wagon, the horse being driven by William Wise, an employee at Cleveland's grocery store. Newsom was crossing the street near Vandergrift's cooper shop on North Main street when the accident happened. He was quite severely injured, and was confined to his bed for some weeks. In his charge to the jury the judge said that if they (the jury) found that Wise was acting within the scope of his employment, and the accident was the result of carelessness on Wise's part, then the employer Cleveland was responsible for the acts of his servant, and Newsom would be entitled to recover. If, however, the jury found that the accident was the result of willfulness, that it was brought about purposely by Wise, or that Wise was not acting within the scope of his business and authority, defendant Cleveland would not be responsible for his (Wise's) acts. After being out about two hours the jury returned and rendered a verdict for plaintiff, placing the damages at $30. This judgment carries with it the taxable costs of both justice and circuit courts; the case was an appeal from justice court, where a verdict was rendered in favor of Mr. Cleveland.

THURSDAY May 20.—J. Ried Crowell vs. Edwin P. Andrews. This is an appeal case. The plaintiff is a resident of Brooklyn, and had charge for a time, of the horse Jack Shepard, formerly owned by Dr. Andrews, and the point in dispute is in regard to the contract made as to the care of the horse.

J. Ried Crowell vs. Edwin P. Andrews; verdict for plaintiff for $41.50.

FRIDAY, May 21.—Charles Newsom vs. William H. Cleveland; on motion of attorneys for defendant, the time in which to move for a new trial was extended to Tuesday, May 25.

Sylvester B. Smith and T. J. Toby vs. Erastus Brockway. The jury were unable to agree and were discharged by the court.

SATURDAY, May 22.—Sylvester B. Smith and T. J. Toby vs. George Rohrback. Jury rendered judgement for defendant for costs.

The people vs. Libanus Hoag; convicted of burning wheat stacks. Sentenced to state prison for three years.

The people vs. George Haddock, information for conspiracy, who pleaded guilty, sentenced to Ionia for ninety days.

The people vs. Frank Smith, information for stealing from dwelling house in day-time. Sentence suspended.

Court adjourned until Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

ALL ENDORSE IT.

The Recorder, Americus, Ga., says: "Clerks, Senators, Representatives, Doctors, Lawyers, Citizens, in public or private life, are testifying by the thousands, and over their own signatures, that a remedy has been found for Bright's Disease of the Kidneys and for Diabetes; these are respectively known as Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure and Warner's Safe Diabetes Cure."

UNQUESTIONABLE.

The Herald, Detroit, Mich., says of Warner's Safe Liver and Kidney Cure: "Its efficacy in kidney, liver and urinary diseases is so fully acknowledged that it is not worth the questioning. Bona fide testimonials from well known citizens in public and private life are evidences strong enough to convince the most stubborn doubter."

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

ALL SORES, CUTS, BRUISES, SPRAINS, BURNS, SORE THROAT, LAMENESS, RHEUMATISM, PILES, INFLAMMATION of LUNGS and BOWELS, BRONCHITIS, CROUP, SALT RHEUM, CHILBLAINS, AFFECTIONS of the SPINE, ERYSIPELAS, NERVOUS IRRITATION, and all disorders attendant with INFLAMMATION.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve, and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it copes readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should feel perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

Literary Revolution and Universal Knowledge.

An Encyclopædia in 20 vols., over 16,000 pages; 10 per cent more matter than any Encyclopædia ever before published in this country, and sold, handsomely and well bound, in cloth for $10, in half morocco for $15, and printed on fine heavy paper, wide margins, bound in half Russia, gilt top, for $20—an enterprise so extraordinary that its success, beyond all precedent in book publishing, may be fairly claimed to inaugurate a Literary Revolution.

THE LIBRARY OF UNIVERSAL KNOWLEDGE is a reprint entire of the last (1879) Edinburgh edition of "Chambers's Encyclopædia," with about 40 per cent of new matter added, upon topics of special interest to American readers, thus making it equal in character to any similar work, better than any other suited to the wants of the great majority of those who consult works of reference, and altogether the latest Encyclopædia in the field.

Specimen Volumes in either style will be sent for examination with privilege of return on receipt of proportionate price per volume.

Special Discounts to all early subscribers, and extra discounts to clubs. Full particulars with descriptive catalogue of many other standard works equally low in price, sent free.

Leading principles of the American Book Exchange:

I. Publish only books of real value.
II. Work upon the basis of present cost of making books, about one half what it was a few years ago.
III. Sell to buyers direct, and save them the 50 to 60 per cent commission commonly allowed to dealers.
IV. The cost of books when made 10,000 at a time is but a fraction of the cost when made 500 at a time—adopt the low price and sell the large quantity.
V. Use good type, paper, etc., do careful printing, and strong, neat binding, but avoid all "padding," fat and heavily-leaded type, spongy paper and gaudy binding, which are so commonly resorted to to make books appear large and fine, and which greatly add to their cost, but do not add to their value.
VI. To make $1 and a friend is better than to make $5 and an enemy.

AROUND THE COUNTY.

CLINTON.

Solomon, whose surname is Brown, went forth last Tuesday with a bundle of parchment under his arm to number the king's children, bond and free, halt and blind, throughout the realm of Clinton.

That third market reduced the price of steak quite materially last Saturday.

The coming "citizens' celebration," booked for July 3d, is to be the one great nucleus around which all other attractions will gather on that day.

Sheep shearing has commenced and now the wool buyers can oil up and balance their old rusty scales for the new clip.

J. W. Bradner is the chosen delegate from this township to the State convention which meets at Saginaw, June 8th. A good selection.

The strawberry and ice cream festival at Clark's hall last Saturday night, under the auspices of the Good Templers, was rather a slim affair. The second edition, issued Monday night, was likewise a small fry.

R. D. Terryberry's familiar smile greets the average meat buyer again at the new popular market.

Children's day at the Congregational Church last Sabbath was the main attraction, morning and evening.—The church was very tastefully decorated with plants and flowers, and the exercises, which consisted of select reading by Mrs. Dr. A. W. Alvord, Mrs. S. W. Demuth and Miss Jennie Lancaster, were well received and reflected great credit upon each. The remarks of Dr. A. W. Alvord, in connection with the origin of Sabbath Schools, were very appropriate and instructive to all.

Frank Brown's Champion Reaper and Mower delivery, grand parade, banquet, etc., which takes place on Saturday will be both new and novel for this place. About fifty machines of all kinds are to be delivered on that day.

Peter Jacobs & Co. commenced to deal out 40 rod again last Tuesday in the building formerly occupied for that purpose before the drouth by Frank Miller. The hoops got soaked up on some before night so they could slush a little and not fall to pieces.

Behold a sower went forth to sow, and the seed all fell by the wayside, and the fowls of the air did not devour it, and it did not yield some thirty, some sixty, some an hundred fold.—This sower was a sturdy specimen of the genus homo; he tipped the beam at 240, and he sowed like a stalwart yoeman. But "what shall the harvest be" and who shall gather it in?

I noticed in the last HERALD that D. Woodward talked of moving his foundry to Manchester. There is a tree out in the forest somewhere that will be struck by lightning during the present summer.

G. B. Hause buried a daughter, one year old, on Saturday last.

D. Woodward and G. D. Kies are going into the fruit business on the farm of the latter gentleman. They have already planted 7000 trees, consisting of pear, peach, plum, cherry and some of the quince.

Of late we have an abundance of rain; it is a fine time for that grass crop which the Clinton correspondent has prophesied is to come over the desolation of Main street.

EDITOR OF THE HERALD:

In behalf of the parties injured by the low scandalous article in last week's Clinton News, I would say that it is entirely false, as upon investigation I found that the child did not tell its mother anything of the kind whatever, and that the article was written by a foul-mouthed person well known in this community, and taken to the office and published by a whiskey sympathizer, who are killing themselves by trying to kill others.—It was predicted by this class that the town would die if we did not have a saloon. Now, Mr. Editor, we have lived four weeks without a hell-hole in the place, and our village was never in a more prosperous and flourishing condition than at the present day.

Woolen mills, machine shops, blacksmith shops and foundry are all running on full time. The woolen mills are building an extensive fire proof addition and are crowded to fill orders. Our dry goods firms say they do not complain about trade being dull, as reported. They are all selling their usual amount of goods. Last Friday and Saturday the town was full of teams, and we notice that one firm had two extra "jumpers," and had all they could do all day. The furniture rooms have sold more goods in the past three months than was sold in the year before. The only places that look dead are the four ex-saloons, which might be bought for twenty cents on the dollar with a liberal discount of 50 and 10 off for cash.

CITIZEN.

FRANKLIN.

We were pained to learn yesterday that Mr. Walter Hulett, of Adrian, and father of our groceryman, Budd, had been stricken with a second stroke of paralysis, and was in a critical condition, and strong fears are entertained as to the result. Frank Jackson is in charge of the store.

The teachers of this township will meet at the Paragon School House on Saturday afternoon next. Prof. E. G. Walker, of Adrian College, will be present, and a pleasant and profitable season is anticipated. All teachers and others interested in our schools are cordially invited.

Uncle Joseph Camburn reports a cow in his possession that he has milked over twenty-three years, and challenges comparison as to quantity and quality of milk with cows of modern times. Who can beat that? Uncle Joe himself is remarkably well preserved for a man of 84 years of age, and relates his experiences in former times with a zest characteristic of himself. May he live many years yet, as he bids fair to do.

Mr. Alvinza Whelan is building an immense barn this summer, which when completed will doubtless compare favorably if not excell any in this town, it being 100 feet in length, and is designed to be a model of convenience as well as ornamental, and will reflect credit upon its owner.

We were contemplating the building of an ark a few days since, but have seen the "bow in the heavens" again and concluded to postpone it for the present, and farmers hope for a few days, at least, of dry weather.

Our methodist people celebrated on last Sabbath the centennial of the founding of Sabbath Schools by Mr. Raikes, in England, but the day was very unpropitious and the attendance comparatively small.

Mr. Decker, or rather his son-in-law Mr. Lewis, has taken possession of the new hotel and commenced improvements, having purchased a wind mill of Mr. Waldron, of the Myers' patent, and will soon have it in operation. Mr. D. will divide his time between this and the Sand Lake Hotel till his lease of the latter expires.

RAISIN VALLEY.

Farmers report that they are compelled to "plant in" as a result of the cut worm's work.

The canker worm is making its ravages upon the orchards in this vicinity again this spring. The large Bailey orchard and Mr. Gidley's present the appearance of having been swept by fire. Several other orchards show signs of its destructive work.

Mr. Brown, of Adrian was present at the last week's prayer meeting.

It has been the custom of the school for several years past to spend a half holiday in taking a botanical excursion to the woods; accordingly on last Friday afternoon a very enjoyable time was spent by teachers and pupils in strolling in the shade, in fishing and in gathering and analyzing wild flowers in the woods along the river.

The district school taught by Miss Kinney, of Adrian, closes this week Friday.

The anniversary exercises at the M. E. church last Sabbath afternoon were highly interesting and refreshing to us, and we know every one went away feeling it had been good for them to be there. The room had been beautifully decorated for the occasion with evergreens, and the display of flowers was rich and varied.—The exercises, conducted among the singing of birds, consisted of music, recitations, essays, and addresses by Rev. Mr. Pearce and Prof. Walker, all of which deserve special comment.

BROOKLYN.

The ladies of All Saints held a strawberry festival at the residence of Wm. Culver last Thursday evening, which added fourteen dollars to the church treasury.

The Brooklyn bank is no longer a myth. Colonel King has provided the careless with a place of security, and money is now loaned, exchanged, or deposited beyond the reach of temptation, behind the grates of his new brick structure.

Decoration was rainy, but Colonel Watts of Adrian did not disappoint the immense crowd awaiting him at Napoleon. The storm kept no one at home, babies and all were there, and took refuge in the Baptist church, instead of the grove adjoining the cemetery. The band played Hail Columbia, assisted by all those babies, and after an eloquent prayer by Rev. Mr. Lotten, the choir sang something that possessed the merit of a nice tune, but the words failed to reach my far away corner, and Colonel W. gave a discription of the battles—Wilderness and Spottsylvania. I think most present imagined he was there, and the story referred to the past experience of a number of soldiers present. The address was brief, but a great deal was condensed in it, and among the rest a fair appreciation of an enemy's bravery. The march to the cemetery was through rain, and flowers were wreathed about marble, while the band played a dirge for the sleepers.

PEARLIE.

RIDGEWAY.

Screen-door business boometh.

Clark & Son have a new sidewalk in front of their store.

Rev. A. B. Wood and wife are away visiting friends this week.

The boys are expected out in full force Saturday for ball practice.

Mrs. Edmund Hall is very sick, and Mrs. Benj. Vandeventer is under the doctor's care.

The recent rains have made it impossible to do any work in corn-fields, but the weeds are improving the opportunity. Working corn, haying and harvest will be thrown much together this summer, and in that event the corn is generally neglected.

Quite extended arrangements are being made for the entertainment of those who attend the Sunday School Institute next week. The intention now is to furnish dinner and supper in the basement of the church. A good time is expected.

Those who do not hear Bob Frazer on temperance will miss a great treat. He speaks at Grange Hall Saturday night, Pennington's Corners Sunday at 2:30 P. M., and at Ridgeway Sunday evening. Mr. Frazer is a strong advocate of the proposed constitutional amendment and every person should be enough interested in the matter to come out and hear it discussed.

BANKERS, curbstone brokers, and other dealers, would do well to exercise a wise caution in reference to purchasing patent right, white wire, and other fraudulent notes, which unscrupulous sharpers manage to obtain from over-credulous farmers; as the courts are now very generally deciding that such paper is uncollectable. A case of this kind occured at Adrian a short time since and the jury wisely brought in a verdict of "no cause of action." This is as it should be, as it will greatly check the operations of those fraudulent villians who roam over the country seeking for victims.

IF one can judge from the number of fish-poles, lines and hooks, and minnow pails in the hands of boys, from full size down, to be seen every day wending their way lake and riverward, the finny tribe must have their ranks woefully depleted.

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CONVENTION.

The Democratic County Convention called to select delegates to go to Saginaw, met at Adrian last Saturday forenoon.

The convention was called to order by Edwin Haaf, chairman of the county committee, who nominated Rollin Robinson, of Palmyra, as chairman. Mr. Robinson was duly elected and Willard Stearns was chosen secretary.

On motion, the following committee on credentials was appointed: Seth Bean, Adrian; S. C. Stacy, Tecumseh; G. W. Moore, Medina.

A committee on permanent organization was appointed as follows: I. E. Phelps, Hudson; David Brooks, Clinton; Wm. M. Corbett, Blissfield.

The convention then adjourned till 1½ o'clock P. M.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The convention was called to order promptly at half-past one o'clock by the chairman, Mr. Robinson.

The committee on credentials made their report, showing delegates present from all the towns except Dover, Riga, Seneca and Woodstock.

The committee on permanent organization recommended that the temporary officers be made the permanent officers of the convention.

On motion of Lyman Baker partial delegations were instructed to cast the full vote to which the town is entitled.

R. I. Bonner stated that Mr. Haaf wished to resign as chairman of the county committee, and he suggested that W. S. Gardner, of Adrian, be elected in Mr. Haaf's stead.

On motion, Mr. Gardner was elected to that position by acclamation.

STATE CONVENTION DELEGATES.

The various districts met each by itself, and selected the following delegates to the State Convention, to be held at Saginaw:

First District—C. O. Hoyt, Blissfield; S. C. Stacy, Tecumseh; Horace Holdridge, Raisin; James Bradner, Clinton; B. H. Demming, Palmyra; B. L. Hicks, Ogden.

Second District—E. S. Hagaman, Joseph Baker, G. W. Mirick, W. T. Lawrence, W. Stearns, John H. Livesay.

Third District—L. H. Salsbury, W. T. B. Schermerhorn, Ed. Haaf, H. R. Case, W. B. Town, Alonzo Smith.

THE CIRCUIT COURT.

TUESDAY, May 25.—James Wilcox vs. Isaac Colvin. The writ of attachment heretofore issued in this cause, was ordered quashed, and all the proceedings set aside.

Smith and Tobey vs. George Rhorback. Charles Newson vs. W. H. Cleveland. In each of these causes, the time in which to settle bills of exception was extended until July 15.

Wm. K. Choate vs. Samuel Kilburn. Continued by consent.

Ellen Champenois vs. H. P. Seelye and others. Judgment for plaintiff for $55.

The people vs. Willie Ferguson, information for false pretenses. Nolle prosequied.

August Haas, appellant vs. Herman Knoblough, appellee. Judgment for defendant for costs.

WEDNESDAY, May 26.—The people vs. Lafayette C. Hall, information for false pretenses. Verdict of not guilty by order of the court. The complaining witness, Mr. Snow, of Morenci, who failed to appear in time, was fined $25 by the court.

The panel of jurors were then discharged, except the following gentleman: Harvey Hitchcock, Henry Wilcox, Jerome Reynolds, Benj. Turner, Gilbert Warner, George N. Allen, Wm. Benson.

The court then adjourned till last Tuesday.

Court was called last Tuesday, but as there was no business to transact, an adjournment was taken till Tuesday next, June 8, when some criminal business will be disposed of.

Clinton News: Doc. Burroughs came to the conclusion on Wednesday afternoon that business was getting too dull for any further use of our business streets, and procuring a quantity of Hungarian grass seed, he gravely proceeded to seed 'em down, his feet serving the purpose of a land roller.—Doc. is always in for fun if there is any lying around loose. Wonder if he bought the seed in Manchester or Tecumseh.

THE FAMILY CIRCLE.

THE BACHELOR'S LAST HOURS.

"Not a laugh was heard, nor a joyous note,
As his friend to the orchal we hurried;
Not a sext discharmed his lady sell joke,
As the bachelor went to be married.

We hurried the parsley to save his right
From heads from the sad sight turning;
And we signed as we stood by the lamp's dim light,
To think him not more discerning.

To think that a bachelor, free and bright,
And gay on the sea as we found him,
Should take so sudden, so direct a flight
Beneath the Hymen shackles bound him.

Few and quiet were the words we said,
Though of cake and wine partaking
We turned from home from the scene of dread,
While in tears were awfully shaking.

Slowly and sadly we marched him down
From the top of the lowermost story
And we have never heard from nor seen the poor man
Whom we left alone in his glory.

HOW DAN PLAYED THE FOOL.

By one of Custer's Troopers.

One of the most singular men I ever met with was a private soldier in the Twelfth New York infantry, which regiment was brigaded with the Second and Third Michigan and Second Massachusetts during the first year or so of the war. Seen at one time you would say that Dan Harrison had blue eyes. Five minutes afterward you would make oath that they were black as indeed they were.

Dan also had wonderful control over his voice. He could mimic the voice of any man in the brigade. He could bark like a dog, bray like a mule, whistle like a bird, and was the wonder of the camp. On one occasion our wagon master was asleep in his wagon, with his six mules roped near by. Dan crept behind a bale of hay and brayed loud and long. The wagon master awoke and jumped down and pounded the nearest mule, growling out as he re-entered the wagon:—

"There, blast ye—I guess you'll feel humble for awhile!"

In about two minutes Dan repeated the words. The voice was so exactly the same that a dozen of us, who were hiding near by, thought it was the wagon master again. The latter individual stuck his head out, looked in surprise, and then said:

"Well, it took that echo a long time to get around this wagon!"

There were yet other reasons why Dan was considered greater than a menagerie. He could drop one shoulder three inches lower than the other. He could walk as if one leg was shorter than the other. He could work his ears like a horse. He could cramp his hands until they seemed to have been drawn all out of shape by rheumatism. He could make it appear that he had a squint in either eye, and he could raise his eye-brows clear up into his hair. He was a farmer's son, genial, brave and good-hearted, and he was never tired of doing something to amuse us.

Soon after Heintzleman made his reconnoissance from in front of Alexandria down toward Centerville, he sent for Dan Harrison, and the result of the interview was that Dan was engaged by the government as a spy. His curious physical structure and his natural coolness and bravery fitted him for such dangerous work, and I may say here that for three years he was accounted the most successful and daring spy in the service. Just one more curious trait about him and then I will relate an adventure of his which cost him a bad wound.

A dozen of us would sit in a circle around him, and somebody would ask:

"Dan, what is the name of the colonel of the third Maine?"

He would close his eyes for perhaps three seconds, and then, eight times out of ten, would give the true name. How it came to him he could not explain; but he seemed to divine things intuitively. I have seen him stand in front of the guard just being dismissed, and all strangers to him, and call out the first names of four out of every five. At Fort Michigan, in the winter of 1862, he made a wager of $10 that he could give the christian names of twenty out of twenty-five men in a line before him. A sergeant of my company went over into another regiment and brought the men, and a crowd of more than five hundred gathered to see the wager lost or won.

Dan won it. Passing slowly along the line he called twenty-two of the twenty-five men by their right names.

The three whom he missed were named Hezekiah, Philetus, Joshua, and Dan's excuse for missing them was that he was not fully up on scripture.

One lonely, rainy night in the beginning of 1862, Dan Harrison set out to work his way into the confederate entrenchments around Centerville, charged to see everything that might be turned to value to the confederate cause. Dan had no particular make up except the dress of a Virginia farmer, and no story to tell except that he was (when he got there) within the confederate lines to secure some sort of compensation for three horses seized by a party of confederate raiders. Circumstances might alter his plans and his story, but if so, he would have something else at his tongue's end.

They left the federal outposts and headed directly for Centerville. He met with no adventure that night, lay in the woods all the next day, or advanced under cover of them, and at dark again took the highway. He knew that danger lurked in every fence corner for one who skulked along, and he therefore put a bold face on the marter and walked briskly forward, passing quite a number of negroes and several white men without being disturbed. Just then many slaves were trying to reach the federal lines, and this fact got Dan into trouble.

About nine o'clock as he swept briskly along, a patrol consisting of three men sprang from the bushes and confronted him, supposing him at first to be a negro, when finding he was a white man, the leader of the patrol began asking leading questions and insisting upon prompt replies. For some reason Dan thought it best to change his plans. Dropping his left shoulder and humping up his back, he replied to their questions in a whining, drawling voice, in imitation of a half-wit.

"Laid for a nigger and captured a fool!" growled the leader, as Dan began to ask silly questions and dance around.

"Whar' do you live?" asked one of the others.

"In—ze—moon," drawled Dan, laughing as loud as he could.

"How do you get down here?"

"On—a—string—ha! ha! ha!" And he jumped around and chuckled as if he had got off a good joke.

"Well, I suppose we'd better give him a kick and let him go," remarking the leader.

"He's no nigger, don't know enough to be a soldier, and we'd better hurry him along."

"I don't know about that!" remarked the third man, who had alone been silent. "I don't know of any fools in this neighborhood, and we shouldn't let this chap go until we have a closer look at him. Here you infernal idiot, do you know any one around here?"

"Missus Brown—Missus Brown!" replied Dan, using the first name that came in his way.

"Well its only a step down thar," said the man, "and if she knows him it's all right."

So there was a Mrs. Brown close at hand. No one could be more surprised than the spy, and he feared he had gotten himself into a bad scrape. There was no chance for him but to go along, and go he did, amusing the men for a quarter of a mile with strange antics and silly talk. Mrs. Brown was a widow, living in a comfortable though small farm house, and Dan was marched straight up to her door. She was a woman about fifty years of age, with a kind face and motherly ways.

"Widder Brown," began the leader of the party, as he put his hand on the spy, "we captured this fool down the road thar. He acts and he talks like a fool, but we want to be sure he isn't tricking us. He says he knows you. If you know him that's all we want.

"Missus Brown knows Tommy," chuckled Dan, as he boldly entered the house and sat down, and took the family cat on his knee.

The widow's vanity was a bit flattered in the first place that she had been called upon to identify a stranger, and in the next place she would lose prestige if she failed to do so.

"Mebbe I know him—mebbe I do," she replied as she looked for her spectacles. "Somehow or other I allus know all the fools going, and most of 'em come around for vittles. Now, then I'll look at him."

She put on her spectacles, took the candle in hand, and Dan was scrutinized for a long minute. He looked up into her face and grinned and chuckled, though his heart was in his mouth.

"She don't know him," whispered one of the men.

The widow overheard it and now she was on her mettle. Walking slowly across the room to put down the candle and her spectacles, she turned and said:

"Yes, he's a fool, and you are bigger fools for stopping him!"

"Then you know him?" asked the leader.

"I rather think so! His name is Tommy, and he lives somewhere around Fairfax. He's been here more'n a dozen times."

"Didn't propose matrimony, did he?" asked one of the men.

"No!" she snapped, "but if he had he'd have stood a better chance than white men who hide in fence corners to capture niggers!"

So saying she slammed the door on them and went away. She sat down by the table and looked across at Dan, and presently mused:

"Yes, he's a fool, and those men had no business hauling him around, no matter whether I know him or not. I guess he's hungry and I'll give him something to eat and send him to bed."

Dan "played the fool" to perfection, and when he had eaten, the woman had a real motherly interest in him. She guided him up stairs, showed him the bed he was to occupy, and then went down with the light, saying:

"Fools can see in the dark as well as by daylight, and you might set the house on fire."

The spy was out of the scrape in one sense, and yet he was in trouble. He wanted to reach and pass the confederate outposts before daybreak. If he remained in the house he would encounter people next day who might want him more fully identified. But how was he to leave?

The chamber was a half-story affair, all in one room, and a window at either end. One of these would let the spy out. He crept across the floor and tried the sash of one. It was old and shaky, and yet he worked at it for a long ten minutes and gave up in despair. The sashes were not nailed, but so warped that to get them up or down or out would make noise enough to arouse everybody about the house. The sash in the other window could be raised but Dan's fingers had scarcely touched it when two or three dogs which seemed to be kenneled directly below, commenced a furious barking. Escape by that way was cut off.

After a moment of thought, Dan decided to wait till the house grew quiet and then descend the stairs and get out by the front door. He might have to wait for an hour or more and he therefore threw himself on the bed. He had scarcely got settled when he heard a commotion down stairs and the heavy tread of a man. Creeping out of bed and putting his ear to the floor he soon made out that the woman's son had returned home after a considerable absence within the confederate lines.

Dan listened for a long time, catching words enough to keep the run of the conversation, and when he heard both moving across the floor he slipped into bed again. It was well he did so. The stair door opened, a light appeared, and as mother and son ascended, she said:—

"Of course he's a fool! Do you think I've got so old that I can't tell an idiot when I see him?"

"Well these are suspicious times," muttered the son in reply, and both advanced to the bed.

Dan seemed to be fast asleep. One hand all cramped up was on the quilt in plain sight, and he laid his face screwed up until the lonesome look ought to have melted a heart of stone.

"There! don't he look like a fool?" whispered the mother.

"He may be one, but it don't do any hurt to let the patrol take him into our outposts," answered the son, and both descended the stairs.

Dan must get out of that. Not by way of the window, but down stairs and out of the front door. The patrol could not be far off, and he had no time to spare. Hastily resuming his garments he softly decended the stairs. While waiting at the door he heard the son go out, and after two or three minutes he softly opened the door.

No one was in the room. Tiptoeing across it, he opened the front door and stepping out, but only to stand face to face with the son, a young man of about twenty-five and of good muscular developement. For what seemed a long minute they looked into each others faces. The then confederate said:

"Throw up your hands Mr. Yank—the game is played!"

"I just came in to bid you good-night!" coolly answered Dan, and he gathered and made a rush.

The confederate did not follow, because he realized that Dan was running directly for the approaching patrol. He was under full headway when he met them, or saw that he was going to run into them, and swerved aside.

"Shoot that Yankee!—kill him! kill him!" shouted the confederate at the house, and the patrol opened fire in response.

Dan was not over thirty feet away, and the gloom of the night saved him from being riddled. One bullet struck him in the arm, just above the elbow, inflicting a painful wound, but the others went wild, and he soon distanced pursuit. Dan did not get in to Centerville that time, but he was there a month later.

Henry Lear, Patroit, Ohio, writes: I was taken sick last Wednesday with a very severe Rheumatic pain in my left shoulder; I was so unwell that I could not even turn myself around in bed. Having heard of the curative qualities of St. Jacobs Oil, I concluded to try it. The first application brought relief, and on the subsequent day I was able to go to work. I therefore recommend this excellent remedy to all sufferers with Rheumatism.

High Priced Butter. Buyers pay the highest price for "gilt-edged butter," but want every tub to be of an even, bright, color. They recommend their patrons to use only Wells, Richardson & Co.'s Perfected Butter Color, as it is the most reliable known, and will give a perfect color. It received the only award at the International Dairy Fair for "superior surity, strength, perfection of color and permanence."

If you do not believe that Hill's Compound Extract of Buchu and Cubebs, will do all that is claimed for it try it and you will believe it.

SANITARY SCIENCE.

SLEEP.

Sir Philip Sidney exalted sleep as "The poor man's wealth, the prisoner's release." Wordsworth has called it "The twinkling of oblivion," while Dryden sings

"O'ral the powers the best,
Oil peace of mind, repeter sleepy,
Whose balms restore the limbs to vigorous use the day."

The tendency of modern civilization, as evinced in city as opposed to country, is to deprive human beings of a proper amount of sleep, and to turn night into day and day into night. The British House of Commons does the bulk of its work by gaslight and Congress prolongs its debates to the grey dawn of morning.—As a community becomes settled, evening parties and evening amusements for the young as well as for the old, rob us of sleep. In the farm house at nine o'clock all are fast asleep; even eight and thirty is often a silent witness of the slumbers of the household; while in city and town, the windows are ablaze till eleven or twelve. Matthews says: "Sleep is got through impatiently by us. We snore faster than our fathers snored and we grudge the hours spent in bed as so many hours out out of life."

What is the condition of sleep? All the senses are closed, the most important changes of nutrition are in progress, the body is renovating, the circulation is less active, the inspiration is being reduced in the proportion of to seven. The nerves and mu may be divided into voluntary, se voluntary and involuntary. Du sleep the voluntary muscles and their nerves, relieved of all fatigue are undergoing repair of structure and recruiting their sensibility. We are told in medical works that during wakefulness there is an expenditure of the substance and vital energy of the system beyond which it receives when awake and that it is the special office of sleep to restore what has been lost by exercise. Now, if the amount of sleep be inadequate to restore this waste, the health must suffer, and mental and manual work less efficiently performed. This is especially true in the case of the young. One of the most senseless things of the day is the fashion which calls for children's parties with all their accomplishments.—The fashionable young lady of society, rising late after a party, laments her darkened complexion and her still darker eyes. Abundance of quiet and refreshing sleep is one of the best cosmetics in the world. Young ladies, try it. When about to enter college, my old teacher, as a parting injunction said, "Whatever you do be sure to take plenty of sleep. Lack of sufficient sleep will greatly impede your progress in your studies." I consider it one of the best bits of advice he ever gave me. It was advice easily taken to be sure, for it was in perfect accord with my feelings and settled convictions upon the subject.

"Early to bed" is sound advice; but about "early to rise," I was never very sure. There is no telling how many lives those vicious alarm-clocks are accountable for. But seriously I believe that "early to bed and early to rise" has done evil as well as good. It is excellent advice for the laboring man, but not for the man who works with his brain. The most refreshing hours of sleep for the former are before twelve; for the latter after twelve.

The voluntary muscles and their nerves sleep; the involuntary and semi-voluntary merely rest, they do not sleep. The hurry and bustle and ambition and thirst for gain if the parents are caught up by the children, and this voluntary system is robbed of its rest. Parents suffer, children suffer, the latter more, I believe than is commonly supposed. Let us see to it that this may not be; and, while we would not be as Dr. Reid, the metaphysician, who could sleep and eat enough to last two days, nor as poor De Quincey who cried, "I shall never sleep again," yet the perfect sleep of childhood, that sleep of life which most resembles the sleep of death, may be our ideal.

Z. C. SPENCER.

Dust is one of the annoyances and harmful elements we have to contend with. Various forms of respirators have been devised, which may be worn over the nose or mouth, and which serve to strain out the floating particles. How immense is the quantity in the air of London, one can see under the Houses of Parliament, where great sheets of bagging or canvas are used to strain the air and so become thickly coated with films of dust and blackness. In some trades it is now common for the workmen to protect themselves, although, from the fact that we establish toleration of local irritants, may after a time become careless. The habit of thoroughly washing out the nostrils at noon and night is valuable to workmen thus exposed. The old advice to keep the mouth shut is important in all dusty occupations. The nose is a better chimney or respirator and will detain many of the particles.

Good Company—Number Nine.

Good Company, Number Nine, has its usual full complement of stories, by Miss Sarah O. Jewitt, author of Deephaven, Sydney Hall and others. Lord Beaconsfield's recent defeat at the polls lends special interest to Mr. Geo. M. Towle's graphic sketch of his career, which gives much readable information about the late premier.—"Science in High Latitudes" has also a particular timeliness in connection with the Howgate Arctic expedition, for which preparations are now going forward. It is by S. J. Douglass, author of several previous papers on similar topics in this magazine. "Country Schools and State Needs," by W. M. Bicknell, urges the want of an enlivening and energizing influence from a central state board in country schools.

Feels Young Again.

"My mother was afflicted a long time with Neuralgia and a dull, heavy, inactive condition of the whole system, headache, nervous prostration, and was almost helpless. No physicians or medicines did her any good. Billet Doux: One of the foremost candidates for the nomination to Congress among the Republicans in this district is Hon. J. K. Boies, of Hudson. His name was proposed four years ago, and he received some votes in the convention. Being called on upon that occasion for a speech he said, among other things, "I see that the convention has not deemed it wise to send a Child to represent them in Congress; moreover they think it inexpedient to send one of the Boies there; in fact this convention has seen fit to Willit otherwise.' This happy little speech was applauded to the echo.

The Recorder, Americus, Ga., says: "Clerks, Senators, Representatives, Doctors, Lawyers, Citizens, in public or private life, are testifying by the thousands, and over their own signatures, that a remedy has been found for Bright's Disease of the Kidneys and for Diabetes; these are respectively known as Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure and Warner's Safe Diabetes Cure."

Insect pests which infest apple trees can be largely prevented at this time of year by the following formula: Take one pint of linseed oil and four parts rosin; melt together and apply to brown paper, warm; double the paper and tack it to the tree so that there will be two leaves hanging down the tree; then the moth will be as likely to go under the first leaf as over it.

BEST IS CHEAPEST!

LEWIS' CONDENSED BAKING POWDER

STRICTLY PURE!

We will give $1000.00 for any Alum or other adulteration found in this POWDER.

Indorsed by the Brooklyn Board of Health, and by the best chemists in the United States.

It is STRONGER than any Yeast Powder in the world.

It NEVER FAILS to make light bread when used as directed.

It is COMMENDED by every housekeeper who has given it a fair trial.

It is an entirely NEW INVENTION, without any of the bad qualities of soda or saleratus, yeast or other baking powders.

It has in itself a tendency to sustain and nourish the system.

Good food makes good health, and health is improved or impaired in proportion as the food we eat is nutritious or otherwise.

LEWIS' BAKING POWDER always makes good food.

One can of this is worth two of any other baking compound.

It makes bread whiter and richer.

More than half the complaints of bad flour arise from the use of common baking powders, which often make the best of flour turn out dark bread.

The most delicate persons can eat food prepared with it without injury.

Nearly every other baking powder is adulterated and is absolutely injurious.

This is made from Refined Grape Cream of Tartar, and is PERFECTLY PURE.

It makes the BEST, lightest, and most nutritious

BREAD, BISCUIT, CAKE, CRULLERS, BUCKWHEAT, INDIAN, AND FLANNEL CAKES.

A single trial will prove the superiority of this Powder.

KIDNEY-WORT

PERMANENTLY CURES KIDNEY DISEASES, LIVER COMPLAINTS, Constipation and Piles.

DR. R. H. CLARK, South Hero, Vt., says, "In cases of KIDNEY TROUBLES it has acted like a charm. It has cured many very bad cases of PILES, and has never failed to act efficiently."

NELSON FAIRCHILD, of St. Albans, Vt., says, "It is of priceless value. After sixteen years of great suffering from Piles and Costiveness it completely cured me."

C. S. BOGABON, of Berkshire, says, "one package has done wonders for me in completely curing a severe Liver and Kidney Complaint."

IT HAS WONDERFUL POWER. WHY?

BECAUSE IT ACTS ON THE LIVER, THE BOWELS AND KIDNEYS AT THE SAME TIME.

Because it cleanses the system of the poisonous humors that develope in Kidney and Urinary diseases, Biliousness, Jaundice, Constipation, Piles, or in Rheumatism, Neuralgia and Female disorders.

THE CHICAGO CONVENTION.

The news from Chicago up to yesterday morning showed a very hot and bitter contest between Grant and Blaine as the two leading candidates, with Sherman as a good third. In fact the present indications are that the strife between Grant and Blaine will effectually destroy both of them and that Sherman's chances are the best of the three. From several columns of special dispatches we condense the following points which show pretty clearly the situation.

The movements of the Grant leaders gave rise to much query, and when Cameron, Conkling, Logan and a large part of their following assembled in one room, the curiosity was redoubled and the activity of correspondents was largely increased. From facts which have leaked out it is now known that the Grant managers are much less confident of securing his nomination on the first ballot—in fact, are pretty well convinced that they cannot secure it.

If they should not, and should fail to secure an increased vote on the second ballot, it is stated with much circumstantiality that the Grant leaders have decided to throw the votes which they control, some 300 to 325, for Edmunds. The claim is made that this would nominate Edmunds as against any other candidate or combination.

The meeting to-night is said to have this ultimate object, although the Grant men still keep a strong front, and claim they have about four hundred votes. It is a common expression on the street to-night that the second, third or fourth choice is a much more probable winner than the first choice.

There was a rumor on the street today that Sherman had withdrawn, but when traced up it proved to have no more foundation than a telegram which he is said to have sent a friend saying that the unit rule ought to be broken, and advising that it be done, even if it should sacrifice him.

The anti-Grant men say the unit rule is now beaten, even if the vote is taken by States, for many of the States have decided to-day to vote against that rule, despite the fact that a majority of their number favor Gen. Grant. If the unit rule is abolished, as it will undoubtedly be, the opponents of Grant claim that the individual vote would make a majority against it of over 100.

The Pennsylvania delegation took a vote on chairman and elected Cessna by a vote of 35 to 21 over Beaven. The twenty-one votes were all from Blaine men, and the vote is regarded as a test of the feeling respecting the unit rule.

A paper similar to that signed by the members of the New York delegation was circulated among the Pennsylvania delegation and received 21 signatures.

To offset the breaks in these two States the Grant managers are canvassing among the Southern delegates, and claim gains.

The Grant leaders have made a claim that if the Illinois contestants fail to gain seats that their chances for nominating Grant are assured, and that the danger of defeat will be passed.

The friends of Sherman and Blaine on the other hand express equal confidence that they have made gains other than those of New York and Pennsylvania.

The National Republican Committee which met this afternoon did not decide that Louisiana should be admitted to the temporary organization. That question is undecided. It was not decided that the regular delegation should be admitted as was stated in an earlier dispatch. They also decided to admit the regular delegations from Illinois, Utah, Kansas and West Virginia.

CHICAGO, June 2, 12:30 A. M.—The Grant managers' meeting to-night comprised 327 persons, of whom 316 were delegates to the National Convention. They claim that this does not represent their strength, although they do not claim a nomination on the first ballot.

Nothing was said at the meeting of a compromise, but on the contrary the determination was expressed by the two speakers, Conkling and Logan, to stand by Gen. Grant. They spoke confidently, predicting his nomination.

The Blaine delegates also held a caucus. They set up a claim of 300 on the first ballot, with the probability of subsequent gains.

LATER.

The convention was called to order yesterday shortly after one o'clock P. M., by the chairman of the National Committee, Don Cameron, who nominated Geo. F. Hoar of Massachusetts as temporary chairman.

On taking his seat as chairman of the convention Mr. Hoar said: Gentlemen, accept my thanks for so distinguished a mark of confidence. The framers of the constitution expected the president to be chosen by the electors from the states, and in case of failure the house of representatives to choose him. So far from a direct popular vote did they consequently remove the president. The two great polititical parties choose each a man, to whom the people are practically restricted. The duty of this convention is to choose one of these candidates. If it does wisely it will name the man who will be successful. [Applause.] The duty is confined to the most distinguished citizens of the republic. A stormy convention at Chicago selected the noble Lincoln, who gave the republican party its first success. [Applause.] Lincoln has gone to his rest, but his companion upon that ticket is fresh and vigorous for his age, and is present with us today. [Applause for Hamlin.] Lincoln has gone, with many of his brave generals but the party is the same, unchanged in principal, character and purpose. The democratic party, is ruled now, as then, by the stalwarts of the south and their northern friends. In pursuit of their ends every great public interest was sacrificed or disregarded. They expended little for public improvements yet in 1860 our six per cent. bonds were below par and the treasurey empty, the money scattered over the four quarters; and 400,000 citizens were in bondage. At last as the democratic party let go its hold on power, the national flag seemed about to be folded and laid aside as the emblem of an experiment in politics. The democratic party has been the partisan of fraud in both the northern and south-states. In one of the latter, (Maine) it attempted to steal. He closed as follows: My friends, I thank you again for this distinguished mark of your confidence, which I will endeavor to merit by performing the duties of the chair, during the brief space which I shall fill it, without respect of person or of desire among the delegates of this convention.

Temporary secretaries and clerks were appointed as follows: Jno. H. Roberts, of Illinois and F. McGee, of Pennsylvania; reading clerks, Chas. W. Clisbee, of Michigan, and Jas. Brownell; stenographer, Eugene Davis, of New York.

The roll of States was then called, and the committeemen named on the committees on organization, rules, credentials, and resolutions, also Vice-Presidents from each State. The following are the members thereof from Michigan:

Vice-President—Perry Hannah.
Credentials—O. D. Conger.
Resolutions—G. A. Farr.
Organization—G. C. Watkins.
Rules—J. H. Chandler.
National Com.—J. H. Stone.

The convention then adjourned until 11 o'clock A. M. to-day.

THE BUTLER ROAD.

The Detroit Free Press of last Monday has this to say with reference to the present status of the Butler road.

For some time back effort, in connection with the Butler road, has been confined to securing the right of way. It was hoped that a saving upon the amount required for this purpose could be made from the estimates sufficient to counterbalance the amount which Detroit had fallen short of the $200,000 subscription which the city was so confidently depended upon to raise, but which still lacks nearly $30,000 of completion. The ground has been gone over carefully, and instead of the result which had been anticipated one directly the reverse has appeared. It has been found, beyond peradventure, that the estimates of the cost of obtaining the right of way are under, rather than over the mark, and that no deficiency in Detroit's subscription can be made good in this direction.

Taking the view that an active, determined effort, a charge all along the line, so to speak, may result in the completion of the $200,000 subscription, the committee which has labored so hard and so faithfully propose taking the field anew; and it is certainly hoped that they will meet with such responses as will bring their labors to a speedy and satisfactory termination.

Decoration Day.

The ceremony of decorating the soldiers' graves was properly observed last Sunday by the members of Co. C. Although the weather was quite threatening during the afternoon, still the military boys assembled at the armory at the appointed hour and marched to the cemetery. They then proceeded to hunt up the graves of the deceased soldiers, as well as they could without the aid of the sexton, and "covered them over with beautiful flowers." Although there were no public exercises, still a large number of visitors were present, which shows that our people take a proper interest in this beautiful observance.

Detroit Evening News: The Tecumseh HERALD has stood the wear and tear of 30 years, and is a bright and successful newspaper.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES.

Spontaneous.

New York Tribune.—"Fred" Grant is solid for a third term. That's spontaneous anyway.

An Old Fossil.

New York Tribune.—Thurlow Weed actually thinks it more important to elect than to nominate. What an irredeemable old fossil of a politician he is, to be sure!

Whichever Suits You.

St. Paul Globe.—Tilden is feeble and infirm, says one authority. Tilden was never in the enjoyment of better physical health, says another equally responsible authority. You pays your money and takes your choice.

What Ben Thinks.

Detroit Evening News.—Ben Butler thinks the question will be Grant or Tilden? and that the people will answer in favor of the former. Meanwhile Ben is himself a formidable candidate for the greenback nomination for president.

A Wrong Impression.

Hawkeye.—Dispatches from Chicago state "delegates to the national convention are arriving, and the hotels are rapidly filling up." Oh, the hotels are, are they? Ah, yes, yes. Well, that's all right. We were laboring under an erroneous impression.

More Than Probable.

Toledo Commercial.—General Tom. Ewing was lately interviewed in New York city. He professes not to know much about the political situation, but feels pretty confident that Grant and Tilden will be the nominees of their respective parties, and that it will be a square stand up fight, with the chances in Grant's favor.

Important Intelligence.

Philapelphia Times.—It may be of interest to country readers to know that the man who offered to send a fifteen dollar Bible and a high-toned revolver for the small consideration of one dollar has ceased his missionary labors and will rest for fifteen months in prison. It is not worth while to send him any more dollars.

Duty of the Preachers.

New York Sun.—If Grant should be able to seize the nomination at Chicago, then the preachers who issued the circular for prayer on the Presidential question should redouble the fervency of their petitions for a good nomination at Cincinnati; for the nominee will be pretty sure to be elected if he runs against a third term candidate.

Wheeler's Whereabouts.

New York Sun.—While the Hon. Allen G. Thurman swelters as presiding officer of the sleepy Senate getting red in the face over vexed appeals from decisions, and heated over constructions of the rules, Wm. A. Wheeler puts on fresh bait, and, under refreshing shade, with the cool water of the St. Regis River trickling through his boots tempts the cunning trout.

Put Them To The Test.

New York Sun.—There are many reasons why it is desirable that he should be nominated. It will put the third term and imperialism thoroughly to the test. The defeat of Grant—which we regard as morally certain—will put an end to third-termism for a century to come. Then nominate Grant! Let him be put up and knocked down! The country will breathe more freely after the interesting performance.

Not Probable.

Detroit Free Press.—The statement that Senators Conkling, of New York, and Bruce, of Mississippi, will occupy the same rooms at Chicago lacks the elements of probability. Bruce does not object to Conkling's complexion, though it is a good many shades whiter than his own, but he doesn't like to room with a man who is liable to be pursued with a shot gun, or be mistaken for a music teacher. Almost everybody has his peculiarities and this is one of Bruce's.

The Latest Story on Fred.

Cincinnati Enquirer.—A great many stories are told on Fred Grant. The latest is that he has declared that upon his father's re-election English Court costumes and customs will be adopted, and all the rules of ettiquette enforced. The story-tellers are putting it in little strong; they are exposing their hands. There is evidently organized lying on Frederick. However, it is an older man by the name of Grant who is running for the Republican nomination for President.

Chicago Prognostications.

New York Tribune.—The Vice Presidency will not attract much attention at Chicago until the Presidential nomination is made. Neither of the Southern candidates mentioned is likely to be favorably considered, for the reason that a selection from the South would not strengthen the ticket in any of the close States. If Mr. Blaine heads the ticket the Vice-President will undoubtedly be taken from the West; and will be as likely to be General Harrison, of Indiana, as any other man. In case of Mr. Sherman's nomination, New York or New England will probably furnish the second name. The Grant triumvirate have doubtless a candidate for Vice President selected already, but they have not given the public any information on this point.

The Great Healer of all Inflamed Injuries and Disorders.

It is constantly effecting the most wonderful cures, while the unparalleled demand with which it meets, stamps it at once as the greatest medicine of the age for outward application.

The most incredulous are convinced, and the most skeptical are compelled to believe in the power of this great remedy.

WHAT IT CURES.

ALL SORES, CUTS, BRUISES, SPRAINS, BURNS, SORE THROAT, LAMENESS, RHEUMATISM, PILES; INFLAMMATION of LUNGS and BOWELS, BRONCHITIS, CROUP, SALT RHEUM, CHILBLAINS, AFFECTIONS of the SPINE, ERYSIPELAS, NERVOUS IRRITATION, and all disorders attendant with INFLAMMATION.

It never fails to restore the natural functions of the skin and equalize the circulation of the blood. By this means a controlling power is gained over the most malignant forms of disease. It penetrates to every portion of the human frame; every bone, muscle, vein, nerve, and ligament is searched out and made sensible to its soothing and healing influence. Hence it cures readily with internal as well as external diseases.

Over 40 Years

This Ointment has been used by the people throughout the United States, and our confidence in its qualities is such that as we have no space here to insert any of the numerous certificates of cures which we have from all parts of the country, we simply ask those readers of this notice who have ever used this Ointment, to frankly state their experience with it to inquiring friends. If but one in a hundred would do this we should feel perfectly satisfied with the result. Full directions for use will be found on pamphlet around each bottle.

Price 25 and 40 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

MINNESOTA CHIEF

BEST THRESHER ON WHEELS

Is not a Vibrator nor an Apron Machine. It was designed simple and admirably perfect in its threshing and separating qualities. Saves all the grain, and cleans it ready for market. Runs easily, is constructed durably, is finished beautifully, is the most economical, least expensive, and most satisfactory machine in the market. Will handle wet grain as well as dry. Has no equal in threshing flax and timothy, threshing and cleaning both as well and nearly as rapidly as wheat, and requires no change except the screen. Has more square feet of separating and cleaning surface than any other machine made, and can not be overfanned, in both over- and under-blast. Our CLOVER HULLING ATTACHMENT is new and very desirable. Does the work more rapidly and better than an exclusively Hulling Machine.

SEPARATORS of the various sizes fitted for Steam or Horse Power, as desired.

An Improved Pitts Power, an Improved Woodbury Power, and the Edward Equalizing Power, all mounted on four wheels, are manufactured by us, and are not surpassed by any in the market.

FOUND.

On Saturday, April 17th, came into my enclosure One Sorrel Horse. The owner can recover the same by proving property and paying charges for keeping and advertising. BERT MORLEY.

I have worn this Corset three days, and every bone over the Hips is broken.

I have worn the Flexible Hip Corset three months, and every bone is still perfect.

A. B. COTTON
Is the only agent at Tecumseh for Genuine Warner Corsets.
Made by the Doctor himself. You will know the difference by the fit and wear.

MISS JESSIE RUSSELL of Adrian, is visiting Miss Gussie Burlingame this week.

A BIG day at Sink's Hotel last Monday. Over three pages on the register filled.

THE Reform Club have in preparation an entertainment and strawberry and ice cream festival; look out for the date as it promises to be the first of the season.

H. W. STEVENS will have an adjourned sale of Cincinnati buggies in Tecumseh, Saturday next. All who are in need of buggies will do well to bear this in mind.

DAVE MACHAM has secured the services of Mr. Boots, of Jackson, who uses the third chair in his shop. Mr. B. is a good barber, and now Dave certainly has a shop where a man will not have to wait over fifteen minutes to get shaved.

Charlotte Leader: The coming summer hat for women is to be of straw. It will be knocked in on the front, jammed in on the back, shoved in on each side, and kicked on the top. Then the rim will be jammed up all around to make the effect harmonious.

JEHIEL DAVIDSON has fixed up a nice little glass water tank and fountain in his show window. A connection has been made with the water-pipe in the cellar, which will give him plenty of water. He will put in a few gold fish as soon as he can procure them and then the fountain will make a very handsome ornament.

ON Saturday, May 22d, Edgar Coddington, son of Mr. A. P. Coddington, met with a serious accident. He and another boy were playing upon a scaffold over the barn floor and he fell through to the floor, breaking his right leg between the hip and knee.—The scaffold was fourteen feet above the floor, and it is a wonder that he was not more severely hurt. Drs. North and Peters reduced the fracture and the boy is now doing finely.

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH.

Shall Tecumseh Have a Celebration?

A few of our citizens, having thought it would be a good plan to celebrate the coming Fourth of July, held an informal meeting at the New Armory last evening to talk the matter over.

Dr. R. B. House was called to the chair and Col. W. C. Fitzsimmons was chosen secretary. The object of the meeting was then stated, and remarks were made by several present. The sentiment seemed to be decidedly in favor of a celebration, but as the meeting was not largely attended it was thought best to further canvass the subject before coming to a definite decision. A committee was appointed, consisting of S. C. Stacy, A. B. Cotton and W. H. Sink, to canvass the village and ascertain the sentiment of our business men, take pledges for financial aid and report at an adjourned meeting next Tuesday evening.

The meeting then adjourned until Tuesday evening, June 8, at the New Armory hall. Let there be a good attendance at that time.

THE TECUMSEH HERALD.

TECUMSEH, MICH. JUNE 3, 1880.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

DR. E. HAUSE has gone to Chicago this week.

FINE weather for the Adrian races this week.

THE College commencement season is near at hand.

Go and see the happy minstrels tomorrow evening.

THE census enumerators are abroad in the land this week.

THE Arnold Bro's. new store is rapidly approaching completion.

ISAAC ADAMS, of Chicago, has been spending a few days in Tecumseh.

THERE will be four end men at the minstrel show to-morrow evening.

RALPH JEWELL and Mayor Stacy, of Adrian, were in town last Monday.

FRANK BAXTER has already got a good start on the census in this district.

MOST of the hot weather is concentrating in the latitude of Chicago this week.

MRS. B. S. BARNES, of Adrian, was visiting friends in Tecumseh last week.

THE peach and apple crop in Lenawee county never was more promising than now.

J. ED. HORNING, the local editor of the Clinton News, gave us a friendly call last Saturday.

HON. B. L. BAXTER will address the Reform Club at their hall next Sunday afternoon.

Adrian Times: Can the Clinton folks get up a live Fourth of July celebration, when the proceeds are to be applied to the cemetery fund?

FRANK SNEDICOR has accepted a position in Jas. A. Eaton & Co's dry goods store. Frank is a good boy and we hope and trust he will do well.

LAVERN WHEELER has gone to Chicago this week to see about securing a job on campaign painting. We hope he will be successful in getting a permanent job.

THE commencement at Albion college will take place on Thursday, June 24th, and the exercises of commencement week will begin the Thursday previous, the 17th inst.

WHAT is your name? Age? Birthplace? What are your parents names? Their birth-place? You can learn the rest of the catachism when the census enumerator comes around.

DR. A. F. TUTTLE, of Clinton, paid us his respects last Friday. His health was very much improved by his trip to southern California. He says that it is a magnificent climate.

THE University nine, of Ann Arbor, will play with the Tecumseh club next Saturday afternoon. The game will be called at 2:30 o'clock, and a spirited game is looked for.

A. W. SLAYTON has just taken a contract to deliver 100,000 feet of ash lumber in Chicago. He is also shipping six car loads on the C. S. R. R. this week for the Eastern market.

Detroit Evening News: The fourth estate is well represented in the Lenawee county democratic delegation, three editors having places thereon—Stearns, Schermerhorn and Stacy.

SHAUNESSY, of Detroit, has been engaged by the Tecumseh base ball club, and will remain with us during the summer. He has been the regular pitcher of the Cass club for some time.

THE pioneer "tater-bug" in all his frisky festiveness has come to greet the early solanum tuberosum. He has stationed himself upon the hills and bides his time with fiendish glee, utterly fearless of Paris green, etc.

Adrian Times, May 28: This week's issue of the Tecumseh HERALD is the first number of the thirty-first volume. The HERALD is counted among our best exchanges, and we heartily wish it long life and prosperity.

THE Gardener's Monthly, for June, has arrived earlier than usual. It seems to improve with every succeeding number. It is just the thing for a small fruit farmer or cottage gardener. Sample copies at the HERALD office.

THE Ladies' Mite Society of South Macon will hold their next social at Grange Hall, Wednesday evening, June 9th. Every one who wishes a pleasant time and to partake of strawberries, ice cream and lemonade are cordially invited.

WE have received from B. Guiwitz a copy of the book he is canvassing for entitled the "Traditions, Origin and Early History of Free Masonry." The name sufficiently indicates the character of the work. It is the best book of the kind that has come under our notice, and every Mason should have a copy in his library.

WM. A. WOOD, who formerly resided in Tecumseh, last week made a bargain to work for A. W. Slayton, as foreman of his furniture factory, and will at once move his family back to Tecumseh. His friends here are right glad to have him return, and in securing his services Gus Slayton has got an excellent mechanic and a superior foreman.

THE minstrel show to-morrow evening will be well worth going to see. There will be a bushel of fun, and all for twenty-five cents.

Deerfield Record: During the rain storm on Wednesday afternoon, a whirlwind caught the wheel of the wind-mill on the Fayette Branch of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railroad, about six miles east of this place, and totally demolished it. Pieces of the wheel were scattered in all directions.

Ann Arbor Register: The boom for J. Webster Childs for Congress continues to increase. To Washtenaw the nomination is this year due, and with a solid delegation from this county for Mr. Childs in the Congressional convention, Washtenaw's rights will be respected and Mr. Childs triumphantly nominated.

Adrian Journal: Mr. Thorp, of Deerfield, having published his wife as having "left his bed and board," etc., Mrs. Thorp rejoins by asserting that the bed was her own, and that he never provided a meal of victuals for her; and she furthermore warns him to keep away, as she has bought a rawhide for any person found trespassing.

OUR friends in the country should tell the exact truth to the census man, when he comes around in June, in reference to all matters about which he will enquire, as he is sworn not to reveal any of the facts he may thus obtain to any one except his superior officer. The assessor cannot see his documents to make use of them for the purpose of taxation.

DR. R. B. HOUSE will leave next Monday for a trip of two or three weeks to Minnesota for his health. His professional cares have been so arduous for the past few months as to tell upon him, and he proposes to seek a little needed recuperation. He has engaged Dr. G. E. Gray, a graduate of Ann Arbor, to take charge of his business during his absence.

WE have received intelligence within a day or two that the Wolf Creek neighborhood, in the town of Adrian, are waking up on the railroad question and propose to contest with Franklin for the Toledo and Milwaukee road. They are a live class of men at Wolf Creek, and whatever they undertake they are likely to succeed in. Meanwhile the enterprising (?) citizens of Twopenny Street, in Franklin, are sleeping the sleep of the sluggard.

Detroit Free Press: The Tecumseh HERALD has completed thirty years of continuous publication, and on the 27th of May issued the first number of its thirty-first volume. Growing up with Tecumseh, the HERALD has been an important factor in its prosperity, and its advocacy of all projects tending to promote the material interests of the city has done much toward securing their success. It is needless to compliment the HERALD upon its management or typographical excellence; they are universally acknowledged wherever the paper is known.

Deerfield Record: Blinn & Weidmann have recently made the purchase of the standing timber on a section of 640 acres of land. The timber will be sufficient to keep their hoop and stave mill running for the next four or five years, and besides giving labor for the usual number of mill hands, will give employment to a large force of choppers and teamsters. They have now eight to ten teams engaged in hauling logs, etc., from the tract, which is located about three miles from town. We understand that this firm intends to put in operation soon two more hoop and stave mills near this village.

S. S. SCOVILL is engaged this week canvassing for the T. & M. road in the town of Franklin. Our Franklin friends have one more chance to redeem themselves, and we have much mistaken their metal if they decline now to avail themselves of this chance. The whole town should not wait on three or four wealthy men to do their duty. If a few men who are able to pay can afford to turn the cold shoulder upon this project, that is a matter for them to settle with their own consciences. They may discover that a man never loses anything in the long run by showing a little public spirit and enterprise in matters of local improvement.

Adrian Times: Hon. James F. Joy has returned from Europe, and the indications all point to the fact that the work on the Detroit and Butler road will be pushed with the utmost vigor. Mr. Joy stated to a Post and Tribune man that he was deeply in earnest in regard to building the Butler road, considering that project of the very greatest importance to Detroit. He should omit no effort on his part to push the project to a successful conclusion. He regretted to see that the house committee on commerce had reported against the Detroit bridge bill, but he was not much surprised thereat, in view of the composition of the committee. He hoped the senate committee would report favorably. He had no doubt of the ultimate triumph of the advocates of a bridge, and tho't it was only necessary to continue the agitation of the question.

THE HAPPY MINSTRELS.

First Appearance of the Home Troupe—Opening of the New Armory.

The new armory of Co. C will be formally opened to the public to-morrow evening, at which time they will present an amateur minstrel program. The troupe contains 18 characters and they have been in rehearsal for some time, hence the entertainment will be much superior to the general average of amateur performances. The program will consist of songs, dances, and ethiopian eccentricities, a double clog by the Forrest Bros., a laughable military sketch entitled "Brannigan's Band," banjo solos, choice selected ballads, quartettes, choruses, and an African farce, called the "Black Statue."

CAST OF CHARACTERS.

We append herewith the entire cast of characters, which list contains a large share of the best musical and dramatic talent in the village, among the gentlemen.

L. P. Tribou, Interlocutor.
J. H. Tribou, Tenor.
A. D. Lawrence, Tenor.
Will T. Eccles, Tenor.
Chas. T. Cummins, Baritone.
J. D. McKinney, Baritone.
S. A. James, Bass.
Jas. Stevens, Basso Profundo.
Ned Forrest, Bones.
Chas. Severance, First Violin.
Alf. James, Second Violin.
Geo. N. Stacy, Trombone.
Archie Sherrard, Cornet.
Harry Root, Double Bass.
Ollie Hunt, Piano.
H. U. Mathews, Bones.
W. F. Baxter, Tamborine.
Will Forest, Tamborine.

The admission fee has been placed at the low figure of twenty-five cents to all parts of the house. Reserved seats without extra charge at J. H. Tribou & Co's. Let everybody turn out and give the military boys a good rousing benefit.

BASE BALL.

The Cass club of Detroit arrived in town last Monday on the noon train, and at once repaired to Sink's Hotel for dinner. After having suitably provided for the inner man they proceeded to the ball grounds, and at 2:30 o'clock the game was called. A shower began to come up, and finally at the end of the sixth innings compelled a halt. The Cass club had the start of our boys from the outset, and when the game was called the score stood nine to one in favor of the Cass. The Tecumseh club need more practice and they will now probably put themselves through a proper course of training.

DIED.

WRIGHT—On the 26th ult., Alice, wife of C. A. Wright, aged 33 years.

The deceased was born in Chittenango, N. Y. She removed with the rest of her father's family to Tecumseh in 1865, where she has ever since resided. In 1871 she was married to C. A. Wright. An affectionate and devoted wife and mother, her lost to her family is unspeakable. A communicant of St. Peter's church, she was active in the Sunday School, and in all church work, and will be greatly missed among us. She was laid to rest, in our beautiful cemetery, just as the sun was setting in a flood of golden light, fit emblem of the Heavenly Glory of the Beatific Vision which now her eyes behold.

ROSEBRUGH—At her residence in Tecumseh, May 22, 1880, Mary Goheen, widow of the late John Rosebrugh, Esq., aged 80 years.

Seven children survive Mrs. Rosebrugh, while two and her husband had already entered upon life in the "Christian's home in glory." The family were widely known and much respected in York State half a century ago; and in this community, where the last twenty-nine years of Mrs. Rosebrugh's life has been spent, her name is "like ointment poured forth." To her was given the restfulness of a quiet, happy life in her own home for two and sixty years. Only seldom does the ideal family life be so fully realized. The ingleside ever had a charm—even the death of "father," five years ago, could not altogether change this. It was "home" still; "mother" was there; sitting there—quiet, self-contained, calm; full of kindness and charity, daily mellowing for heaven. Ever glad, like Martha, to serve—like Mary, loving to sit at the Master's feet and learn of him. Very many years ago she chose the "good path." It's here still, and shall be forever. In death she was more than passive—she was confident, and able to say with St. Paul: "I know whom I have believed." The children to whom God gave such a mother, and for so long a time may, and I am sure do, with thankful reverent hearts join William Cowper in saying:

My boast is not, that I deduce my birth
From loins enthroned, and rulers of the earth,
But higher far my proud pretensions rise—
The child of parents pass'd into the skies.

WM. GRANDY, Pastor.

EDWIN J. MILLS.

In a recent issue of the Ypsilanti Commercial we find an extended obituary notice of the late E. J. Mills, formerly of Ypsilanti, but for four years past a resident of Reading, Hillsdale county, where he died on April 27th. Mr. Mills was well known in Tecumseh, and many friends will read with interest the particulars of the calm and peaceful end of a useful and honored life. Mr. Mills was the son of Major Philo Mills, of Franklin, and brother of Philo C. Mills, of Tecumseh, and Eben G. Mills, of Franklin. He died at the age of fifty-three. After referring to his successful business career in Monroe, Brooklyn, Ypsilanti and Reading, and detailing the various enterprises in which he had actively engaged, the Commercial says: In the fall of '76 his health so failed as to compel him to seek rest and medical advice. Careful examination detected hidden and incurable disease. Satisfied that a few months at most, were all that remained to him, he disposed of his business, and devoted his remaining time and strength to arranging his affairs; nor did he begin too soon, for his utmost effort still left some purposes unfulfilled. From 1862 until 1868, he was a useful member of the church session, of the Presbyterian church here, while during all his residence here, he was a faithful and successful Sunday-school worker. Not a few of the young men who sat in his class can testify to his fidelity, and thank God for that persevering zeal which led them to Christ. But though earnest and faithful every where, his especial mission in church work was in the service of song. His natural gifts eminently fitted him for a leader of music. He was never too weary, hardly ever too busy to sing. No pastor made more careful preparation for his pulpit, than he for his choir, or was more uniformly in it. His taste in adapting music was remarkable, and when he selected, no sermon was spoiled by ill suited music. He chose the devotional rather than the showy, aiming to deepen, and not dissipate the impression made by the preaching. Previous to calling a successor to Mr. Foster in 1863, it was proposed to pay off a church debt of $5,000. A committee was appointed to raise the money. Mr. Mills was on that committee, and the laboring oar fell to his lot. He promptly entered upon the work, and with such success as gave promise of an early completion of it. At an early day he reported the debt provided for, and a surplus over. This he proposed to make sufficient for the purchase of an organ. With the approval of the trustees the work went on, and the debt was paid, the organ bought and put in place, with a small balance over. In many ways did he lay the Presbyterian church and people of Ypsilanti under obligation to him, and many a heart was saddened at the report of his death. The most active part of his life was passed in this city, both in business and church affairs; and he t[illegible] larger part of his life work was done. That it was well done, is not too much to say; to say that it was not perfect, is only to affirm that the worker was human. When satisfied that no human aid could arrest his disease, he never expressed a fear, nor for himself a regret. That discipline of affliction through which he passed after leaving Ypsilanti in 1876, had ripened his christian character with marked rapidity. God was preparing him for his own departure. In the winter of '76-7, two daughters passed to the spirit world—and in Jan. 1880, an only son, on whom the invalid father was beginning to lean hard, was suddenly removed by death. How clear the warning, how sharp the chastisement, but grace enabled him to see goodness and wisdom in it all, and though it cost a struggle, yet to say, "It is well!" Calmly, for weeks and months, he waited his own departure, looking death in the face without alarm, careful to the last to so arrange all, that those who remain should be saved from anxiety and care. Naturally ambitious, anxious to live, loving the rush and excitement of active business, earnestly desiring to leave a competence for his family, it needed much grace to hear without a murmur of distrust or impatience the summons to turn away from all these, and "set his house in order" to depart. But the grace was given, the certain end awaited with marked cheerfulness, and in his death a career that was full of example, was rounded and made complete. His wife and three daughters survive him to receive the condolence and sympathy of a community that will long cherish the memory of their husband and father, as one of their ablest and purest citizens.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.

LAST DAYS OF CONGRESS.

Not Much Business—Comparing Notes—The New National Observatory.

Washington, May 29, 1880.

All political eyes are turned towards Chicago now, and while it is certain that Congress will not adjourn on Monday next, as attempted, yet the business of both houses has been shaped so that the last of next week may possibly see the end. The senate has devoted most of its attention to the new joint rule regulating the Electorial Count, and to legislation relative to election Supervisors. The supervisors bill that has been passed was drawn by Senator Bayard and amended somewhat by Senator Thurman. It legislates all the present incumbents of these positions out of office after July 1st, and keeps them out, and provides that future appointments must be confirmed by the Senate. Very likely the President will veto the bill should it pass the House. Senator Conkling, in his speech against the measure, said that it was particularly aimed at Supervisor Davenport, of New York City, and that the purpose of the democrats was an attack upon the safeguards of the ballot-box. He said they were just as bad as they ever were, but had learned wisdom that made them more quiet and adroit than during the extra session of last year. Senator Bayard ably defended his bill and labored to show its perfect fairness.

An unfailing sign of the approaching close of a session of Congress is the comparing of notes as to the "record" of the two parties. Without questioning the justice of what has been said about the Democrats disposition to dodge the discussion of sundry important questions, it must be admitted that neither party can claim much credit on the score of courageous dealing with really vital phases of national politics. The people have not forgotten the ridiculous devices resorted to by the leaders of both sides of the House to stave off a vote of the resolutions introduced by the Greenbackers, nor are they likely to forget the trifling with the Funding bill, the Electorial vote question, and, above all, with the tariff. There has been a tacit agreement between Republicans and Democrats that the last-named subjects should be shelved at any cost, and it has been adhered to with remarkable fidelity. A new Congress and a new Administration may be chosen with special reference to their ability to deal with questions whose discussion is now obstinately repressed, but very few members of the present House will be able to claim re-election on the ground that they have shirked no issue in which the people were vitally interested.

The new National Observatory, which ought to be a monument of scientific skill, promises, before it is even begun, to become a monumental job. The selection of a site and an architect were placed in the hands of Admiral Rodgers, chief of the Observatory; Representative Moore, of Boston, and Senator Whyte, of Maryland. The Admiral of course, desires the site to be the fittest possible from a scientific point of view, and the architect to be a man of established reputation, but the other commissioners appear to care more about favoring somebody in whom they are interested. One wants to name a Baltimore man for architect and the other a Boston man, neither of them being known to fame or familiar with the peculiar needs of this work. Then, too, the selection of a site is a matter of vital importance, for if the Observatory is placed on ground which trembles even from passing trains or vehicles the extreme accuracy needed in astronomical observations becomes impossible. Accordingly the officers of the observatory have been engaged for many months in careful and troublesome observations to test the suitableness in this regard of the various places offered the commission. But it seems that the two commissioners have agreed upon a spot out near the Soldier's Home, which for some reason they are determined to press, though it has been shown to be unsuitable, as it is subject to tremors from passing vehicles.

If the two Congressmen insist on their view there ought to be an enquiry in the House or Senate by some friend of science as to the reasons for such gross misconduct. The new observatory ought to stand for a century or two. It cannot be moved every 1st of May, and Congress intended that it should be placed in the best situation for its purpose and that it should be constructed by architects whose established reputation should be a guarantee of good, proper and lasting work. Both these objects are likely to be defeated.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,
FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

It is a most agreeable dressing, which is at once harmless and effectual, for preserving the hair. It restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray, light, and red hair, to a rich brown, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use thin hair is thickened, and baldness, often though not always cured. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while to brashy, weak, or otherwise diseased hair, it imparts vitality and strength, and renders it pliable.

The Vigor cleanses the scalp, cures and prevents the formation of dandruff; and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and soft, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair
The VIGOR is incomparable. It is colorless, contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil white cambric. Its fragrance is an agreeable and lasting perfume, and as an article for the toilet it is economical and unsurpassed in its excellence.

ENSILAGE

The Michigan Farmer says: "It is about six years since we first became acquainted with what is now known as Ensilage, through the columns of the Journal d'Agriculture Pratique of Paris. The experience and trials of a French agriculturist were recited.—Since that time it has been tried more extensively in that country, and within the past two or three years it has been very fully tried by Mr. John M. Bailey, of Billerica, Massachusetts.

Ensilage consists in growing green corn in the stalk, (and the French use a large variety of Mexican corn for this purpose), till it has reached its full growth as a plant, the grain, or cob, not being desirable. It is then cut and hauled to the place where it is to be stored. These places are called silos. The silo is a long trench built with brick or plank, whichever is most convenient, from five to six feet in depth and about five to six feet wide. The length is made to suit the amount of ensilage to be stored therein. When the green corn is hauled up to the silos, it is cut into short pieces by a cutting machine, just as we cut dried stalks. This green feed is shoveled closely and solidly into the silos until they are perfectly filled, when a covering made to fit into the trench is placed as followers on the top of the cut corn which has been leveled off and trodden, so as to permit the cover to lie close enough on the top of the cut corn, and not permit any access to the air. The doors are made strong, and weights are put on them, and they press so closely on the corn that it does not spoil or ferment. This ensilage keeps perfectly green all winter and into the summer. At one end of the trench is a double door whence it is taken out for feed for live stock. It has been found that this method of preserving green forage for live stock is not only cheap and economical, but that more feed can be got from an acre, and that the cost of keeping a large stock of animals in a healthy condition costs less than by any other method known.

Mr. Bailey, of Billerica, says that he can by the use of ensilage kept in his silos produce milk at a cost of one cent per quart, butter for ten cents a pound, beef for four cents per pound, pork for three cents a pound, and mutton for nothing when wool sells at thirty cents per pound. The cost of the ensilage is $2,00 per ton, and two tons are considered as equal to one ton of the best timothy hay for feeding purposes, and worth as much as four tons of corn fodder fresh from the field.—He sends out the following invitation:

"Since the opening of my silos Dec. 3d, 1879, I have been feeding a large stock of cattle and sheep upon corn fodder ensilaged last Sept. I am now feeding my milch cows, and ewes with lambs upon it exclusively. Its preservation is as perfect as when the silos were first opened. Capacity of silos, 800,000.

You, the progressive farmers, dairymen, and all of your readers who are interested in the preservation of green forage crops for winter feed by the system of ensilage, are cordially invited to visit "Winning Farm" and witness the results of the first thorough trial of this system in America, to inspect the silos, the ensilage, the stock fed upon it, and test the quality of the milk produced by ensilage.

I have ensilage enough left, and shall continue to feed it until the 10th to 15th of May.

Yours Respectfully,
JOHN B. BAILEY.

Billerica, Mass., May 1, 1880.

CONCERNING BEES.

Mr. E. A. Thompson writes to the American Naturalist that certain moths, Plusia precationis, having been caught by their tongues in the pollen pockets of Physianthus albens, an Asclepiad plant, were stung to death and devoured by what were supposed to be ordinary honey bees.—Dr. Hermann Muller considers the fact of the moths being thus entrapped new and interesting; but mentions that his brother, Fritz Muller, in South Brazil, has observed bees eagerly licking the juice dropping from pieces of flesh which had been suspended to dry in the air. Mr. Darwin suggests that the bees may possibly tear open the bodies of the moths in order to get at the nectar contained in their stomachs. Both these distinguished naturalists recommend further observation. It is stated by Prof. A. J. Cook, of the Michigan Agricultural College, that bees kill the drones not by stinging, but by tearing with the mandibles.

The Reason Why. The tonic effect of Kidney-Wort is produced by its cleansing and purifying action on the blood. Where there is a gravelly deposit in the urine, or milky, ropy urine from disordered Kidneys, it cures without fail. Constipation and Piles readily yield to its cathartic and healing power.

The Michigan Central railroad earnings for four months of this year increased $600,000.

SHEEP WASHING.

It is a question in the minds of many wool-growers as to the practical utility of washing the fleece while it is still upon the sheep's back. A deduction—usually one-third—is made by the wool-buyers from the weight of all unwashed wool, and in most cases this is not far from the loss which the fleece would sustain in the process of washing, if it is done with the average thoroughness. Nevertheless, the practice of washing the sheep is very general, and if there is an return in money for the labor of washing, there is the satisfaction of having cleaner wool to work with when shearing.

The common method of washing is to select some favorable place in a brook where the water is about 3 feet deep, the bottom hard and gravelly, and the current moderate, and then build a pen of rails sufficient to hold a large flock, and provided with a narrow opening towards the stream. Into this pen the sheep are driven through an opening, temporarily made for the purpose, at the rear. One man, perhaps aided by a boy, tends the flock and passes the sheep to the washers who are standing in the stream. The sheep should have been previously tagged and freed from all large soiled clots. The washing should not be done until the water has become so warm that the sheep may not be chilled and injured. Special care must be taken with old or sickly sheep, and ewes that are still with lamb. An exposure of the sheep to a warm rain the day previous to the washing is an advantage, as it softens and loosens the dirt and renders the washing easier and more thorough. As the sheep are washed they should pass out upon a clean, grassy slope that rises gradually from the stream, otherwise the water-laden animals may fall and soil their fleeces. After washing, if the weather should suddenly turn cooler, the flock should be provided with shelter, to prevent their taking cold, as they would be very likely to do. From the time of washing to that of shearing, two weeks or so, the sheep should be kept in a pasture that is free from any bare ground, overhanging banks, or steep side-hills, so that the wool may be kept clean.

A second method of washing, which is employed when the stream is small but somewhat rapid, is to arrange a spout for the passage of water, and hold the sheep under the end—the water flowing upon the animal. In this way the washer does not go into the stream, and if provided with rubber boots and apron, may keep himself comparatively dry. The washing by this method is very thorough as there is a stream of clean water constantly flowing into and through the wool, and carrying off the impurities as they are removed from the sheep.—American Agriculturist.

MILK FEVER.

Numbers of good cows die every year of what is called milk fever and it is noticed that such cows are generally in good condition or fat. We have never had a case of this disease in our herd, whether this exemption is due to management or luck we know not. It has been noticed that when cows drop their calves in the summer they almost always do well, their bowels being kept open by succulent food, and they do not get chilled by drinking icy water. We make it a rule to feed a cow a few days before she is expected to come in, with early cut hay and roots; small potatoes are excellent. Some object to the disposition which the cow makes of the after-birth if left to herself, but we have thought that perhaps nature knows more than the average of cow doctors and we let her alone. If the cow shares with the calf the first milk which is drawn from the udder it will have a laxitive effect. We do not give water until the chill is taken from it, or meal for three days after calving. Many cows do well that have no extra care, but an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.—New England Homestead.

Poverty and Suffering.

"I was dragged down with debt, poverty and suffering for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring, which did them no good.—I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I procured Hop Bitters and commenced their use, and in one month we were all well and none of us have seen a sick day since, and I want to say to all poor men, you can keep your families well a year with Hop Bitters for less than one doctor's visit will cost—I know it.

A WORKINGMAN."

UNQUESTIONABLE.

The Herald, Detroit, Mich., says of Warner's Safe Liver and Kidney Cure: "Its efficacy in kidney, liver and urinary diseases is so fully acknowledged that it is not worth the questioning. Bona fide testimonials from well known citizens in public and private life are evidences strong enough to convince the most stubborn doubter."

COUNTY TEMPERANCE ASSOCIATION.

The Lenawee County Temperance Association assembled at the M. E. church in the city of Adrian, last Friday. The meeting was presided over by the President, Mr. J. H. Osborn, of this village. The session of the forenoon was taken up with the report of the committee on credentials and the reports of officers. The afternoon session was taken up with reports from the several organizations which were represented in the convention, and the adoption of resolutions. The attendance was good and the session was a very interesting and profitable one.

Following is the constitution of the association:

1. This society shall be known as "The Lenawee County Temperance Association," and shall be composed of delegates from the various temperance organizations of Lenawee county.

2. The object of this organization shall be to strengthen the temperance cause, to bring the various temperance organizations of the county into closer fraternal relations, and to adopt such a course of action as from time to time may be thought desirable.

3. The organization of this association shall be as follows: A president, vice-president, secretary and a treasurer. The treasurer shall pay out no money except on order of president signed by the secretary.

4. The duties of these officers shall be those pertaining to such positions.

5. An executive committee of three shall be appointed by the chair, whose duty it shall be to have a general supervision of the temperance work throughout the county, call all meetings of the association, recommend all speakers to the societies, and to such other work as may appear to belong to them.

6. With this committee shall act an associate committee of one from each temperance society in the county to be appointed by the various societies.

7. Regular meetings shall be held every year. Special meetings may be held on call of the executive committee.

8. This constitution may be altered or amended at any regular meeting by a vote of two-thirds of the members present.

9. The term of office in this association shall be for one year.

HARDWICK GRANITE CO.

Mr. L. A. Davis of this village has lately placed his Vermont granite quarry into a new business concern and the firm is now know as the "Hardwick Granite Co." By this arrangement he takes in an Eastern partner with plenty of capital which will very largely increase his facilities for doing business. He has just received a car load of granite monuments, and says people can buy monuments of him cheaper than they can steal them. Mr. Davis will act as the western manager of the new firm with office and headquarters at Tecumseh, and he is now prepared to furnish all work in his line of a better quality and at a cheaper figure than ever.

THE ADRIAN RACES.

The races opened last Tuesday according to program and notwithstanding the late heavy rains the track was found to be in excellent condition. The attendance on Tuesday was fair, and yesterday a good deal better. To-day's program will probably be carried out according to arrangements, and the big race will come off to-morrow, in which St. Julian and Hopeful will appear in the "free for all" class. The races thus far have been a perfect success and to-morrow bids fair to be the best day of the meeting. Quite a number of Tecumseh people have been in attendance during the week, and a large delegation will go from here to-morrow.

TO THE ALUMNI

And Other Friends of the University of Michigan.

The officers and undergraduates of the University have for years considered that proper advantages for physical development are not offered to our students. With a view of obtaining the facilities for satisfying this long felt want, an organization known as the "Athletic Association of the University of Michigan," was formed in the fall of 1878, by the undergraduates of the University. Several months after its formation, the Association became incorporated under the laws of the state, and by the articles of incorporation, a trust fund to be known as the "Gymnasium Fund" was established with James B. Angell, Thomas M. Cooley, Moses Coit Tyler, Alonzo B. Palmer, Alpheus Felch, all of Ann Arbor, and John J. Bagley, of Detroit, as Trustees. The fund is also declared by these Articles to be irrevocable and unchangeable, unless the consent of the State Legislature is obtained by special application of the corporation.

While the general aim of this Association, as far as its undergraduate members are concerned, is to foster athletic games and out-door sports of all kinds, the special end in view, the one for which the organization was perfected, is the raising of money for the erection and equipment of a suitable gymnasium. All the students of the University, whether members of the Athletic Association or not, have cheerfully worked to increase the fund which now amounts to $1,028,28 and is in the hands of the Treasurer of the the Board, J. W. Knight, Cashier of the First National Bank of Ann Arbor.

The money has mostly been contributed from the treasuries of organizations entirely controlled by the Students. However, a donation of $250 was received in April from E. C. Hegeler, Esq., of La Salle, Illinois. While the undergraduates are doing what they can to increase this building fund, they trust that the generosity of the Alumni and of the other friends of Michigan University will be stimulated to render substantial aid to the project. Hope of aid from the State Legislature is also entertained.

Contributions can be made payable to the Treasurer, J. W. Knight, or to any one of the undersigned trustees, excepting James B. Angell, or Alonzo B. Palmer, both of whom will be absent for some time from Ann Arbor.

Temperance Meetings.

Arrangements have been made whereby the people of Macon and Ridgeway will have an opportunity to hear the champion advocates of temperance, Robt. E. Frazer and John Schumacher, of Ann Arbor. They will speak at the Grange Hall, in South Macon, on Saturday evening, June 5th; at Pennington's corners on Sunday, June 6th, at 2½ o'clock P. M.; at Ridgeway village on Sunday evening. Good music will be provided at each meeting. Come and hear about the proposed constitutional amendment, and other subjects of vital interest to the temperance cause.

A woman was all ready to drown herself in the Ohio river when she heard of a neighboring scandal, and she went back home and gained five pounds of flesh in a week.

THE KEYSTONE WASHER.

No machine for domestic use is more needed than a really good Washing Machine. The thousands of attempts that have been made to produce such a machine, and the almost as many thousand failures have led many people to believe that a successful machine for this purpose cannot be produced. A few years ago the same belief existed in regard to the family sewing machine and the clothes wringer, and it took years after they were brought to perfection to overcome this prejudice against them.

This machine is warranted, if properly used, to wash clean, without rubbing anything that can be washed by hand. One-half the time required to rub the clothes by hand can be saved by the use of this machine.

THE COMPLETE WRINGER.

Its advantages are, complete and instantaneous control of the pressure on the rolls by the operator by simply changing the position of the foot upon the treadle.

Its unlimited capacity and adaptation to all kinds and sizes of articles, large or small, without any adjustment, always admitting of the required amount of pressure to do the work thoroughly and with ease.

Look at the references in Tecumseh, many of them having other washing machines in their houses:

Literary Revolution and Universal Knowledge.

An Encyclopædia in 20 vols., over 16,000 pages; 10 per cent more matter than any Encyclopædia ever before published in this country, and sold, handsomely and well bound, in cloth for $10, in half morocco for $15, and printed on fine heavy paper, wide margins, bound in half Russia, gilt top, for $20—an enterprise so extraordinary that its success, beyond all precedent in book publishing, may be fairly claimed to inaugurate a Literary Revolution.

THE LIBRARY OF UNIVERSAL KNOWLEDGE is a reprint entire of the last (1879) Edinburgh edition of "Chambers's Encyclopædia," with about 40 per cent of new matter added, upon topics of special interest to American readers, thus making it equal in character to any similar work, better than any other suited to the wants of the great majority of those who consult works of reference, and altogether the latest Encyclopædia in the field.

Specimen Volumes in either style will be sent for examination with privilege of return on receipt of proportionate price per volume.

Special Discounts to all early subscribers, and extra discounts to clubs. Full particulars with descriptive catalogue of many other standard works equally low in price, sent free.

Leading principles of the American Book Exchange:

I. Publish only books of real value.
II. Work upon the basis of present cost of making books, about one half what it was a few years ago.
III. Sell to buyers direct, and save them the 50 to 60 per cent commission commonly allowed to dealers.
IV. The cost of books when made 10,000 at a time is but a fraction of the cost when made 500 at a time—adopt the low price and sell the large quantity.
V. Use good type, paper, etc., do careful printing, and strong, neat binding, but avoid all "padding," fat and heavily-leaded type, spongy paper and gaudy binding, which are so commonly resorted to to make books appear large and fine, and which greatly add to their cost, but do not add to their value.
VI. To make $1 and a friend is better than to make $5 and an enemy.

AROUND THE COUNTY.

CLINTON.

Ed. Rose was in town Tuesday.

Cottrell, the "ivory stump book" left last Saturday on rather short notice and has not been seen since.

A good deal of gas was let off Monday about some old brass horses being stolen, but many are of the opinion that they are only misplaced and will turn up all right soon.

Messrs. Peter Jacob and Frank Miller were escorted to Adrian Tuesday by Deputy Sheriff Peter Miller, to answer to the charge of selling liquor without first having their bonds properly approved by the sachems of our ancient legislation, the Common Council.

Mrs. John P. Silvers afflicted with cancer in the mouth, and who for the past eighteen months has suffered as much perhaps as it is possible for mortal to endure and live, still lies in a very critical condition, being unable to move herself in the least without help, or to take any nourishment whatever, except a little broth or milk, and these only through a silver-tube. The muscles of the mouth and face have become partially paralyzed, and the nauseus exhalations breathed forth from the diseased parts are loathsome in the extreme. Her sufferings, day and night, are beyond the power of pen to describe.

Mr. John M. Davis, for more than forty years a resident of this vicinity, and for many years a well known silver-smith of this village, died at one o'clock, Tuesday afternoon. The funeral takes place this Wednesday afternoon at the house.

Baptist social Tuesday afternoon at J. Watson's.

The census man is abroad in the land compelling certain individuals to reveal their ages.

Tuesday, the 15th, the Baptists had a strawberry festival.

Wednesday evening, of this week, the Congregational people held a strawberry social at D. R. Gibson's.

Next Sabbath, at the Baptist church the time of the morning service will be occupied by Mrs. G. M. Sweet, of Ypsilanti, and Miss Carrie Vaughan, of Natchez, Miss. Subject, "Mission Work."

Al. Rowland has improved his lot very much by grading.

A fire came very near being inaugurated in a part of A. Stewart's house, occupied by a tenant. Some wood had been placed in the stove oven to dry, it took fire, some brands fell on the floor, result a hole burned in the floor, 2½ by 1 foot.

E. R. Smith is putting an addition to his building on Main street, 45 feet, which with the original will make the building 75 feet deep. When completed B. O. Randall will occupy it with his drugs.

Three saloonists have procured bonds and two saloons are already dealing out the article that makes communities prosperous.

The gale Sunday made things lively here. Shade trees were broken or blown down, fruit trees, especially peach, were considerably demoralized, raspberries and grapes were whipped badly. It was a gay old zephyr.

FRANKLIN.

One of the most noteworthy events of the week in this community has been the renovating of our cemetery by Messrs. Wilson & Son, who make a specialty of that kind of work, and certainly deserve much credit for the superior manner in which it was performed; transforming the grounds from an unsightly wilderness of bushes and noxious weeds to "a thing of beauty." The monuments and stones which had become blackened and moss grown by time, were thoroughly cleaned and placed in proper condition where needed, and is now all that could be desired; and we heartily commend the gentlemen to all requiring their services.

We made a flying visit to friends in Woodstock on Saturday last, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wisner and my family, and enjoyed the respite from labor and the visit immensely, and never saw the crops and fruit look more promising, if as well, at this season of the year. We found the people generally wide awake upon the railroad question and confident of obtaining it, although as elsewhere, many men who are abundantly able to do so refuse to aid in securing the road, notwithstanding they are compelled to haul their products 16 or 18 miles to market. Considerable interest is also felt in the matter here. Mr. Schofield having spent several days in our midst obtaining the right of way, with very gratifying result, and it is hoped we may yet secure the road, and if so, within 80 rods of the corners, which we think ought to secure some additional aid.

Our Band now occupy Tuttle's hall and meet twice a week for practice, and we understand have decided to procure uniforms, which is about all they lack of being—well—hard to beat.

Considerable interest has been felt here as to the result of the Chicago convention, and so far as we could learn the feeling among republicans was almost unanimously "anything to beat Grant," and seem satisfied with the result; but the question now is who will the other standard bearer be.

The wind Sunday morning did considerable damage to fruit trees hereabouts, blowing down quite a number, but doing no other damage as far as we have learned.

RIDGEWAY.

Wm. Montgomery and Edith Barrett were married in February. Joke on Jerry somebody. The bride is 14.

His nibs, Ex-Mayor Santus, does not deny that he is fixing things up around home with matrimonial intent.

Oliver Henderson is suffering with a fractured leg, but is able to get about.

A "night-cap social" is announced to come off at Will Britton's on Friday night, and the numerous colors in night-caps will be bewildering.

On Saturday and Sunday evenings next, Prof. Hauxhurst will exhibit his panorama of "Pilgrim's Progress" in the M. E. church. This series of exhibition will undoubtedly be very interesting and instructive. Everybody should attend, particularly the young people and children.

Messrs. Frazer and Schumacher spoke to a full house on last Sunday evening.

Sunday School Institute.

The annual M. E. Sunday School Institute convened on Tuesday, 8th, at 2:30 P. M., and was called to order by the President, Rev. W. H. Shier, P. E. The opening religious services were conducted by Rev. J. H. McElwain. After a few remarks by the President, Rev. W. George, of Dundee, was chosen secretary, and the Institute proceeded to work. The first subject considered was an essay by Rev. J. M. Kerridge, which was followed by remarks upon the same subject by Mrs. Kinsly, who thought that children should be taught the Lord's Prayer, the Apostles Creed, etc., in connection with other home instruction, and others, who demonstrated that religious home instruction was not always an assurance of right lives afterward. Mr. Baxter, of Tecumseh, and others, also made remarks upon this subject.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION,

The next was an interesting paper, entitled "The Lost Link Found, or How to connect the Sunday School with the Church," by Rev. W. George. Rev. J. Alabaster favored the organizing of classes intermediate between the Sunday school and the church; had tried the plan with marked success, and thousands might be brought into the church by this means. Rev. McElwain had tried the plan with considerable success. After which an adjournment was taken until 8 o'clock P. M.

EVENING SESSION.

Religious exercises by Rev. Hudson, after which Rev. J. Alabaster, of Ann Arbor, lectured to a crowded house on "Revelations from Nineveh and Babylon," which was interesting and instructive.

WEDNESDAY, 9TH.

Called at 8 o'clock A. M. Religious services by Rev. Taylor, after which the minutes of yesterdays sessions were read. Rev. W. E. Dunning was then called and presented a paper on SUNDAY SCHOOL LITERATURE.

He favors using our own lesson helps, leaves, quarterlies, hymnals, etc., but would not ignore the publications of other denominations if they possessed superior merit; would not ignore standard works of fiction.—Rev. Mr. Crane found that at the end of all works of fiction found in S. S. libraries, was that they got married and lived happy ever afterward. Rev. Bigelow thinks that if a pastor has a good sized foot and sets it down on "cooked" lesson helps, he can exclude them. Rev. J. Alabaster would rather see a yellow cover in the hands of his children than the tenth-rate Sunday school book, because it would not have the shield of the Sunday school and the sanction of the church, and he could appeal to their shame and so put it out of their hands.

Rev. Mr. Davis was next called upon and read an essay on the "Elements of Success in Sunday School Work."

The Institute was then organized into a Bible class, under the instruction of Rev. J. Alabaster, who for 30 minutes instructed them upon the lesson, Mathew 25: 8-30 inclusive, in a very interesting manner.

Rev. Mr. Pierce was next called upon for the CENTENNIAL ADDRESS,

which was listened to with interest. Among the facts presented was, that there are at present 29,000 M. E. Sunday schools with an attendance of 226,368. Next came the Centennial Hymn, sung by the Misses Hall, which elicited a burst of applause.

Adjourned until 2 P. M. for dinner, which was served in the church and was a jolly feast.

At 2 o'clock the Institute was again opened. Services by Rev. Mr. Crane, after which the minutes of the morning session were read. Matters of business were then taken up, during the disposition of which, Dundee was fixed upon as the place for holding the next Institute. A vote of thanks was tendered the Ridgeway people for the hospitality shown the visitors.

Questions of interest were then asked and answered, and the time was thus taken up until 3 o'clock, the hour set for

CHILDREN'S MEETING.

Mr. Dr. Stocum who was expected to address the children not being present, Mr. Bigelow, Mrs. Kinsley and Rev. J. Alabaster filled up the time in a happy manner.

WEDNESDAY EVENING SESSION

opened by religious services by Rev. Mr. Nichol after which Revs. Davis and Shier addressed a full house on the subject of temperance. This was the closing session of the institute for 1880. The attendance throughout was large and the attention paid to the discussion of the different topics, close. Fully four hundred people attended the last session.

RAISIN VALLEY SEMINARY.

The graduating class of the Raisin Valley Seminary this year consists of Misses Sara B. Stanley, Laura B. Strong, Emma M. Palmer, Lottie L. Simmons, and Messrs. Ralph D. Webb, Thomas S. Boyd, Norris J. Morey, Lynn S. Brown. The class in personnel and attainments would be a credit to any institution. The commencement exercises occur on Friday, June 18, at 10 A. M., and the following is the program:

Prayer.
Music.
Sanitary Science—Ralph D. Webb, Adrian.
Sweet Wine Makes Sharp Vinegar—Lottie L. Simmons, Tipton.

Address to the Class—Prof. O. G. Owen, Lapeer.

THE Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Lenawee County is liable for losses occasioned by the use of steam power for threshing purposes, providing that the engine is, in all respects, in good order; that it has a double screen over the smoke-stack (or an efficient spark arrester); that a competent engineer is employed; that at least a barrel of water, with four buckets, and a ladder of sufficient length to reach the roof of the barn is at all times on hand for use; that the engine is not left without a watcher of good habits, while there is fire in it, and not otherwise.

Z. COOK, Pres't,
J. R. ALLIS, Sec'y.
Directors—A. W. Bradish, G. W. Moore, J. Roberts, E. Smith, J. Lowe.

Charlotte Republican: A newspaper subscriber who refuses to receive from his postmaster a paper on which there remains a portion of the subscription unpaid, renders himself liable to criminal prosecution. It has been decided that such an act on the part of a subscriber is prima facia evidence of intent to defraud the newspaper publisher. It would be well for dishonestly inclined persons to paste this in their hats where they could see it frequently.

A DANGEROUS counterfeit five dollar legal tender note of the series of 1875, has just been put in circulation. It is printed on imitation fibre paper and is three eighths of an inch shorter than the genuine note; lines in engraving blurred; the note has a greasy appearance; signed John Allison, register, and U. A. Wyman, treasurer.

GLEANINGS FROM THE COUNTY PRESS.

Clinton News: The TECUMSEH HERALD has entered upon its thirty-first volume. It is one of the best local papers in Southern Michigan, and, in the language of "Old Rip," "may it live long and prosper."

Morenci Observer: Peleg Lee, the Chesterfieldian cheese man, sends in this report: "Are receiving 15,000 lbs. of milk per day at our two factories, and our daily manufacture is 35 cheese, weighing on an average 43 pounds each when cured. Selling cheese at 9¼c to 10¼c according to quantity."

Hudson Gazette: The various fire insurance companies are paying the Fayette losses promptly and fully. A contractor is on the ground, we learn, offering to put up a block containing nine stores, for $1,200 each, the owners to "finish" them themselves, which would bring the cost complete about $1,500 apiece.

Adrian Times: A five year old adopted daughter of R. F. Stewart, living between Palmyra and Grosvenor, was terribly, if not fatally scalded on Thursday evening, by pulling a pan of boiling water over upon herself and striking her fair in the face. Dr. Reynolds, of Palmyra, has the patient in charge and has hopes of saving its life.

Morenci Observer: The only hotel in Deerfield is closed, and the weary traveler must budge along to the next station. The proprietor says he can't run the house on prohibition patronage, and won't try. The council has the bonds so high he can't reach them. There are those who think the loss of its whisky will kill the place, and therefore the experiment will be watched with great interest.

Adrian Press: The Cass club, of Detrit, came up to Tecumseh Monday and knocked the "stuffin" out of 'em in six innings, the score standing 9 to 1. Tecumseh, we look to you to uphold Lenawee county this season, in the ball business, for Adrian's got no sand. Therefore spunk up, practice, and keep up your pluck and we'll back you.

Adrian Times: Only two male residents still remain in the city of Adrian, that were here in the year 1828, viz: A. and Wm. A. Whitney. The next oldest male residents are Rufus Merrick, who came in 1830; Dr. P. J. Spalding, who came in 1832; George W. Merrick, in 1833: and R. W. Ingals, in the year 1834. The combined residence for the six persons, foots up two hundred and ninety-five years.

Hudson Post: W. W. VanAkin, proprietor of the Hudson House livery was thrown from an embankment on Catholic hill last Saturday, and had his collar bone broken and sustained severe bruises about the breast. He was driving down the hill when the horse shied and all went over the embankment together, Mr. Van Akin falling under the buggy. The horse, which was a valuable one, was instantly killed, its neck being broken in two places.

School District No. 1.

The following pupils in School Dist. Number 1 of Raisin, have not been absent during the month of May—Hattie Beevers, Cora Dean, Lizzie Beamish, Ada Pocklington, Nellie Wilson, Leona Beevers, Mamie Dubois, Lula Conkling, Freddie Brown, Jennie Dean, Andrew Brown, Artie Pocklington, Wirt Estes. The school will hold a basket picnic in Conkling's grove, opposite Elias Brown's, on Thursday, June 17th, commencing at 3 o'clock P. M. Good speakers and the Raisin band will be in attendance. All are cordially invited to attend.

THE lack of advertising is one of the chief causes of business failures. There are business men who don't understand the value of advertising. They do not see the direct connection between advertising and the entrance of a customer, or the demand for any particular article. They also, with a self-importance which is amusing, fancy their business is known to the whole community, changing as that community does to an extent which they have no conception of. The principal upon which business men should act is to advertise, and advertise the truth. If you have a good thing let the people know it. Furthermore, never let an advertisement get stale.

HOT weather is no time to be guzzling fiery liquors, no matter how craftily and temptingly they may be disguised as cooling beverages. But intemperance is also to be avoided in the use of milder potables. Death lurks in the Good Templar's cooler as well as in the drunkard's demijohn.

THE FAMILY CIRCLE.

PAT'S CRITICISM.

There's a story that's old,
But good if twice told,
Of a doctor of humbug skill,
Who cured beast and man
On the "cold water plan,"
Without the small help of a pill.

On his portal of pine
Hung an elegant sign
Depicting a beautiful pill;
And a sign where a sprite,
In apparent delight,
Was sporting in sweet dishabille.

Pat McCarty, one day,
As he sauntered that way,
Stood and gaped at that portal of pine;
When the doctor with pride,
Stepped up to Pat's side,
Saying: "Pat, how is that for a sign?"

"There's wan thing," says Pat,
"Ye've left out o' that,
Which, be jabers, is quite a mistake;
It's trim and it's nate,
But to make it complate
Ye shud have a foine burd on the lake."

"Ah! indeed! pray then tell,
To make it look well,
What bird do you think it may lack?"
Says Pat, "Oi the same.
I've forgotten the name,
But the song that it sings is 'quack! quack!'"

SAVED BY A BARREL.

An old shipmate called to see me a few days ago at my lodgings in—street. He had followed the occupation of a sailor from the time he was thirteen years of age, although the thrilling adventures, hairbreadth escapes and singular vicissitudes of his wandering life might, if written, have filled a dozen foolscap journals, they were all clearly traced upon the tablets of his memory, even to the most minute details.

As we conversed of old times, the hours flew by unheeded. The clock struck eleven—my chum's eyes brightened; he looked at me wistfully. Understanding the mute appeal, I nodded assent, whereupon my shipmate set his "spinning machine" to work, and the following yarn began to unwind.

"Forty years ago, at this hour precisely—I remember the circumstance as well as though it had happened but a few nights since—I stood at the helm of the ship Champion, leaning against the barrel of the wheel, and looking up in a sort of dreamy reverie at the stars, which, it seemed to me were all dancing back and forward like so many little imps peeping over the yards, retreating beneath the sails, or looking slyly down at me from behind the masts, the appearance being caused by the motion of the vessel as she rose and fell upon the long, lazy swell of the equatorial waters. There was not a breath of air stirring, and the sails kept up a loud racket as they flapped heavily against the waving masts, with their broad shadows a waving to and fro upon the moonlit sea.

"It was one of those kind of nights, in fact, which are calculated to create a drowsy feeling throughout the whole of Jack's system—a feeling which, joined to the slow rocking of the vessel, the warmth and softness of the night, and the calm, steady gleaming of the moon, produces an influence that it is almost impossible to resist.

"Every man composing the watch on deck, with the exception of myself, had fallen into a deep sleep; and although I was struggling hard against the inclination to follow their example, my eyes would close every now and then, as though weighted down by some invisible hand.

But from those oblivious relapses I would rouse myself with a powerful effort, and again fix my gaze upon the stars, mentally vowing that the drowsy god should not get the better of me. But nature will assert her rights. I had been up the greater part of the preceding night, watching by the side of a wounded chum—whose leg had been severely hurt a few weeks prior to this time, when the boat to which he belonged was stove by a sperm whale—and on that account needed sleep much more than any of my shipmates.

"Gradually the stars faded from my view; my heavy eyelids closed; and I was about to sink into another doze when a noise, close at my right hand, caused me to awake with a sudden start. Upon looking in the direction of the sound, I perceived that it had been caused by the 3d mate, who, while blundering along, half asleep in the direction of the binnacle, probably with the intention of looking at the compass, had stumbled over an empty barrel that obstructed his way.

"With a fierce oath uttered in an angry voice, he lifted the unconcious object of his wrath from the deck and hurled it over the rail into the sea. It was well for me that he did so."

"How? What connection had you with that empty barrel?" I interrupted.

"Be patient and you shall hear," responded my chum; "but I again repeat, it was well for me that he hove that barrel overboard. I have since thought the act must have been performed through the instrumentality of some good spirit who watched over my welfare. But to proceed with my story.

"Having thus vented his indignation, the third mate gave a glance at the compass, and then returned to his comfortable quarters near the steerage hatch, where, stretching himself out upon the deck, and resting his head upon his pillow—a bag of potatoes—he was soon snoring away in a lusty manner.

"A few minutes afterwards my eyes closed again, the noise from the officer's respiratory organs died upon my ears, and I found myself once more in the land of dreams.

"I seemed to be standing near the verge of a precipice. The sky was clear—it was night—and the moon was sailing majestically along the heavens. Suddenly I beheld a dark cloud swiftly advancing from the west. Nearer and nearer it seemed to approach every moment, and I could perceive that it was followed by a number of black-looking objects, which, upon a closer inspection I distinguished to be locusts. The loud, humming noise emitted by these insects fell with a strange, weird sound upon my ear.

"At length the cloud passed over the moon. The wind rose; the lightning flashed; the thunder rolled. The force of the gale seemed to be carrying me to the verge of the precipice. In vain I resisted; nearer and nearer toward the frightful spot was I borne. Another step and I would be precipitated from the dizzy height. My brain reeled as I gazed below. A broad expanse of water rolled thundering, hissing and foaming at the foot of the height.

"At that instant a loud crash of thunder greeted my ears, and I awoke. Half bewildered, I rubbed my eyes, and looked, or rather strove to look, about me. But an impenetrable gloom had settled around the ship, and I now comprehended that during my sleep a tempest had been gathering. I leaned forward to look at the compass. At that moment there was a loud, rushing sound, and the storm burst howling and shrieking upon the vessel. The ship went down on her beam ends before the fury of the blast; there was a crash of snapping spars up aloft, a wild slatting of sheets rent asunder, mingled with the thunder-like report of the topsails as they were split open by the gale.

"The next moment the wheel gave a sudden, violent jerk; one of the revolving spokes caught in the button-hole of my jacket, and I was sent like a shot to leeward over the ship's rail into the boiling, foaming waters of the wild sea. When I rose to the surface, I caught a last glimpse of the vessel as she receded from my view amid the deep gloom.

"I was an excellent swimmer, but hope faded from my heart with the vanishing form of that ship, and I felt that I was doomed to perish.

"Alone upon the ocean, cast amid the merciless waves, with the wild spray dashing over me, and the storm and wind howling in my ears, what could I look forward to but death?

"Still I clung to life with the energy of despair, cleaving the raging waters with my arms as though some friendly shore near by was cheering my vision. Suddenly my hand struck against a hollow wooden substance, and an involuntary cry of joy escaped my lips, as I perceived that this object was the empty barrel which the third mate of the Champion had thrown overboard about half an hour previously. As I continued to feel it, I noticed that one of the iron hoops had become considerably loosened. Unfastening my belt from my waiste, and also the silk handercheif from my neck, I tied them securely together and then lashed myself to the friendly barrel.

"Minutes and hours went by, but the storm continued as terrific as ever. Buoyed up by my life-preserver, I was tossed hither and thither upon the mighty waves. My head swam, and darkness seemed to revolve about me, and every bone in my body ached.
